(a) STUDY.—The Secretary of Defense shall provide for a study of the cost effectiveness of the ship construction program of the Navy. The study shall be conducted by a group of industrial experts independent of the Department of Defense. The study shall examine both—

(1) a variety of approaches by which the Navy ship construction program could be made more efficient in the near term; and

(2) a variety of approaches by which, with a nationally integrated effort over the next decade, the United States shipbuilding industry might enhance its health and viability.

(b) NEAR-TERM IMPROVEMENTS IN EFFICIENCY.—With respect to the examination under subsection (a)(1) of approaches by which the Navy ship construction program could be made more efficient in the near term, the Secretary shall provide for the persons conducting the study to—

(1) determine the potential cost savings on an annual basis, with an estimate of return on investment, from implementation of each approach examined; and

(2) establish priorities for potential implementation of the approaches examined.

(c) UNITED STATES SHIPBUILDING INFRASTRUCTURE MODERNIZATION PLAN.—With respect to the examination under subsection (a)(2) of approaches by which the United States shipbuilding industry might enhance its health and viability through a nationally integrated effort over the next decade, the Secretary shall provide for the persons conducting the study to—

(1) propose a plan incorporating a variety of approaches that would modernize the United States shipbuilding infrastructure within the next decade, resulting in a healthier and more viable shipbuilding industrial base;

(2) establish priorities for potential implementation of the approaches examined; and

(3) estimate the resources required to implement each of the approaches examined.

(d) REPORT.—Not later than October 1, 2005, the Secretary of Defense shall submit a report to the congressional defense committees providing the results of the study under subsection (a). The report shall include the matters specified in subsections (b) and (c).

SEC. 1015. LIMITATION ON DISPOSAL OF OBSOLETE NAVAL VESSEL.

The Secretary of the Navy may not dispose of the decommissioned destroyer ex-Edson (DD-946) before October 1, 2007, to an entity that is not a nonprofit organization unless the Secretary first determines that there is no nonprofit organization that meets the criteria for donation of that vessel under section 7306(a)(3) of title 10, United States Code.

Subtitle C—Counterdrug Matters

SEC. 1021. USE OF FUNDS FOR UNIFIED COUNTERDRUG AND COUNTERTERRORISM CAMPAIGN IN COLOMBIA.

(a) AUTHORITY.—(1) In fiscal years 2005 and 2006, funds available to the Department of Defense to provide assistance to the Government of Colombia may be used by the Secretary of Defense to support a unified campaign by the Government of Colombia against narcotics trafficking and against activities by organizations designated as terrorist organizations, such as the Revolutionary Armed Forces of Colombia (FARC), the National Liberation Army (ELN), and the United Self-Defense Forces of Colombia (AUC).

(2) The authority to provide assistance for a campaign under this subsection includes authority to take actions to protect human health and welfare in emergency circumstances, including the undertaking of rescue operations.

(b) APPLICABILITY OF CERTAIN LAWS AND LIMITATIONS.—The use of funds pursuant to the authority in subsection (a) shall be subject to the following:

(1) Sections 556, 567, and 568 of the Foreign Operations, Export Financing, and Related Programs Appropriations Act, 2002 (Public Law 107–115; 115 Stat. 2160, 2165, and 2166).

(2) Section 8076 of the Department of Defense Appropriations Act, 2005 (Public Law 108–287; 118 Stat. 988).

(c) NUMERICAL LIMITATION ON ASSIGNMENT OF UNITED STATES PERSONNEL.—Notwithstanding section 3204(b) of the Emergency Supplemental Act, 2000 (Division B of Public Law 106–246; 114 Stat. 575), as amended by the Foreign Operations, Export Financing, and Related Programs Appropriations Act, 2002 (Public Law 107–115; 115 Stat. 2131), the number of United States personnel assigned to conduct activities in Colombia in connection with support of Plan Colombia under subsection (a) in fiscal years 2005 and 2006 shall be subject to the following limitations:

(1) The number of United States military personnel assigned for temporary or permanent duty in Colombia in connection with support of Plan Colombia may not exceed 800.

(2) The number of United States individual citizens retained as contractors in Colombia in connection with support of Plan Colombia who are funded by Federal funds may not exceed 600.

(d) LIMITATION ON PARTICIPATION OF UNITED STATES PERSONNEL.—No United States Armed Forces personnel, United States civilian employees, or United States civilian contractor personnel employed by the United States may participate in any combat operation in connection with assistance using funds pursuant to the authority in subsection (a), except for the purpose of acting in self defense or of rescuing any United States citizen, including any United States Armed Forces personnel, United States civilian employee, or civilian contractor employed by the United States.

(e) RELATION TO OTHER AUTHORITY.—The authority provided by subsection (a) is in addition to any other authority in law to provide assistance to the Government of Colombia.

(f) REPORT ON RELATIONSHIPS BETWEEN TERRORIST ORGANIZATIONS IN COLOMBIA AND FOREIGN GOVERNMENTS AND ORGANIZATIONS.—(1) Not later than 60 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of State, in consultation with the Secretary of Defense and the Director of Central Intelligence, shall submit to the congressional defense committees and the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate and the Committee on International Relations of the House of Representatives a report that describes—

(A) any relationships between foreign governments or organizations and organizations based in Colombia that have been designated as foreign terrorist organizations under United States law, including the provision of any direct or indirect assistance to such organizations; and

(B) United States policies that are designed to address such relationships.

(2) The report under paragraph (1) shall be submitted in unclassified form, but may include a classified annex.

SEC. 1022. SENSE OF CONGRESS AND REPORT REGARDING COUNTER-DRUG EFFORTS IN AFGHANISTAN.

(a) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Congress that—

(1) the President should make the substantial reduction of illegal drug trafficking in Afghanistan a priority in the Global War on Terrorism;

(2) the Secretary of Defense, in coordination with the Secretary of State and the heads of other appropriate Federal agencies, should expand cooperation with the Government of Afghanistan and international organizations involved in counter-drug activities to assist in providing a secure environment for counter-drug personnel in Afghanistan; and

(3) the United States, in conjunction with the Government of Afghanistan and coalition partners, should undertake additional efforts to reduce illegal drug trafficking and related activities that provide financial support for terrorist organizations in Afghanistan and neighboring countries.

(b) REPORT REQUIRED.—(1) The Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of State shall jointly prepare a report that describes—

(A) the progress made towards substantially reducing poppy cultivation and heroin production capabilities in Afghanistan; and

(B) the extent to which profits from illegal drug activity in Afghanistan are used to financially support terrorist organizations and groups seeking to undermine the Government of Afghanistan.

(2) The report required by this subsection shall be submitted to Congress not later than 120 days after the date of the enactment of this Act.

Subtitle D—Matters Relating to Museums and Commemorations

SEC. 1031. RECOGNITION OF THE LIBERTY MEMORIAL MUSEUM, KANSAS CITY, MISSOURI, AS AMERICA'S NATIONAL WORLD WAR I MUSEUM.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress makes the following findings:

(1) The Liberty Memorial Museum in Kansas City, Missouri, was built in honor of those individuals who served in World War I in defense of liberty and the United States.

(2) The Liberty Memorial Association, the nonprofit organization that originally built the Liberty Memorial Museum, is responsible for the finances, operations, and collections management of the Liberty Memorial Museum.

(3) The Liberty Memorial Museum is the only public museum in the United States that exists for the exclusive purpose of interpreting the experiences of the United States and its allies in the World War I years (1914–1918), both on the battlefield and on the home front.

(4) The Liberty Memorial Museum project began after the 1918 Armistice through the efforts of a large-scale, grass-roots civic and fundraising effort by the citizens of the Kansas City metropolitan area, including veterans of World War I. After the conclusion of a national architectural design competition, ground was broken in 1921, construction began in 1923, and the Liberty Memorial Museum was opened to the public in 1926.

(5) In 1994, the Liberty Memorial Museum closed for a massive restoration and expansion project. The restored museum reopened to the public on Memorial Day in 2002 during a gala rededication ceremony.

(6) Exhibits prepared for the original museum buildings presaged the dramatic, underground expansion of core exhibition gallery space, with over 30,000 square feet of new interpretive and educational exhibits currently in development. The new exhibits, along with an expanded research library and archives, will more fully utilize the many thousands of historical objects, books, maps, posters, photographs, diaries, letters, and reminiscences of World War I participants that are preserved for posterity in the collections of the Liberty Memorial Museum. The new core exhibition is scheduled to open on Veterans Day in 2006.

(7) The City of Kansas City, the State of Missouri, and thousands of private donors and philanthropic foundations have contributed millions of dollars to first build and later restore the Liberty Memorial Museum. The Liberty Memorial Museum continues to receive the strong support of residents from the States of Missouri and Kansas and across the United States.

(8) Since its restoration and rededication in 2002, the Liberty Memorial Museum has attracted thousands of visitors from across the United States and many foreign countries.

(9) There remains a need to preserve in a museum setting evidence of the honor, courage, patriotism, and sacrifice of those Americans who offered their services and who gave their lives in defense of liberty during World War I, evidence of the roles of women and African Americans during World War I, and evidence of other relevant subjects.

(10) The Liberty Memorial Museum seeks to educate a diverse group of audiences through its comprehensive collection of historical materials, emphasizing eyewitness accounts of the participants on the battlefield and the home front and the impact of World War I on individuals, then and now. The Liberty Memorial Museum continues to actively acquire and preserve such materials.

(11) A great opportunity exists to use the invaluable resources of the Liberty Memorial Museum to teach the "Lessons of Liberty" to schoolchildren in the United States through onsite visits, classroom curriculum development, distance-learning activities, and other educational initiatives.

(12) The Liberty Memorial Museum should remain the foremost museum in the United States regarding the national experience in the World War I years, which people can visit to learn about World War I and where the history of this monumental struggle will be preserved so that current and future generations may understand the role played by the United States in the preservation and advancement of democracy, freedom, and liberty in the early 20th century.

(13) The work of the Liberty Memorial Museum to recognize and preserve the history of the Nation's sacrifices in World War I will take on added significance as the centennial observance of the war approaches.

(14) It is fitting and proper to refer to the Liberty Memorial Museum as "America's National World War I Museum".

(b) CONGRESSIONAL RECOGNITION.—Congress—

(1) recognizes the Liberty Memorial Museum in Kansas City, Missouri, including the museum's future and expanded exhibits, collections, library, archives, and educational programs, as "America's National World War I Museum";

(2) recognizes that the continuing collection, preservation, and interpretation of the historical objects and other historical materials held by the Liberty Memorial Museum will enhance the knowledge and understanding of the experiences of the United States and its allies in the World War I years (1914–1918), both on the battlefield and on the home front;

(3) commends the ongoing development and visibility of the "Lessons of Liberty" educational outreach programs prepared by the Liberty Memorial Museum for teachers and students throughout the United States; and

(4) encourages present generations of Americans to understand the magnitude of World War I, how it shaped the United States, other countries, and later world events, and how the sacrifices made by Americans then helped preserve liberty, democracy, and other founding principles of the United States for generations to come.

SEC. 1032. PROGRAM TO COMMEMORATE 60TH ANNIVERSARY OF WORLD WAR II.

(a) IN GENERAL.—For fiscal year 2005, the Secretary of Defense may conduct a program—

(1) to commemorate the 60th anniversary of World War II; and

(2) to coordinate, support, and facilitate other such commemoration programs and activities of the Federal Government, State and local governments, and other persons.

(b) PROGRAM ACTIVITIES.—The program referred to in subsection (a) may include activities and ceremonies—

(1) to provide the people of the United States with a clear understanding and appreciation of the lessons and history of World War II;

(2) to thank and honor veterans of World War II and their families;

(3) to pay tribute to the sacrifices and contributions made on the home front by the people of the United States;

(4) to foster an awareness in the people of the United States that World War II was the central event of the 20th century that defined the postwar world;

(5) to highlight advances in technology, science, and medicine related to military research conducted during World War II;

(6) to inform wartime and postwar generations of the contributions of the Armed Forces of the United States to the United States;

(7) to recognize the contributions and sacrifices made by World War II allies of the United States; and

(8) to highlight the role of the Armed Forces of the United States, then and now, in maintaining world peace through strength.

(c) ESTABLISHMENT OF ACCOUNT.—(1) There is established in the Treasury of the United States an account to be known as the "Department of Defense 60th Anniversary of World War II Commemoration Account" which shall be administered by the Secretary as a single account.

(2) There shall be deposited in the account, from amounts appropriated to the Department of Defense for operation and maintenance of Defense Agencies, such amounts as the Secretary considers appropriate to conduct the program referred to in subsection (a).

(3) The Secretary may use the funds in the account established in paragraph (1) only for the purpose of conducting the program referred to in subsection (a).

(4) Not later than 60 days after the termination of the authority of the Secretary to conduct the program referred to in subsection (a), the Secretary shall transmit to the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate and the Committee on Armed Services of the House of Representatives a report containing an accounting of all the funds deposited into and expended from the account or otherwise expended under this section, and of any amount remaining in the account. Unobligated funds which remain in the account after termination of the authority of the Secretary under this section shall be held in the account until transferred by law after the Committees receive the report.

(d) ACCEPTANCE OF VOLUNTARY SERVICES.—(1) Notwithstanding section 1342 of title 31, United States Code, the Secretary may accept from any person voluntary services to be provided in furtherance of the program referred to in subsection (a).

(2) A person providing voluntary services under this subsection shall be considered to be an employee for the purposes of chapter 81 of title 5, United States Code, relating to compensation for work-related injuries. Such a person who is not otherwise employed by the Federal Government shall not be considered to be a Federal employee for any other purposes by reason of the provision of such service.

(3) The Secretary may reimburse a person providing voluntary services under this subsection for incidental expenses incurred by such person in providing such services. The Secretary shall determine which expenses are eligible for reimbursement under this paragraph.

SEC. 1033. ANNUAL REPORT ON DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE OPERATION AND FINANCIAL SUPPORT FOR MILITARY MUSEUMS.

(a) REPORT REQUIRED.—Chapter 23 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

"§ 489. Annual report on Department of Defense operation and financial support for military museums

"(a) REPORT REQUIRED.—As part of the budget materials submitted to Congress in connection with the submission of the budget for a fiscal year pursuant to section 1105 of title 31, but in no case later than March 15 of each year, the Secretary of Defense shall submit a report identifying all military museums that, during the most recently completed fiscal year—

"(1) were operated by the Secretary of Defense or the Secretary of a military department;

"(2) were otherwise supported using funds appropriated to the Department of Defense; or

"(3) were located on property under the jurisdiction of the Department of Defense, although neither operated by the Department of Defense nor supported using funds appropriated to the Department of Defense.

"(b) INFORMATION ON INDIVIDUAL MUSEUMS.—For each museum identified in a report under this section, the Secretary of Defense shall include in the report the following:

"(1) The purpose and functions of the museum and the justification for the museum.

"(2) A description of the facilities dedicated to the museum, including the location, size, and type of facilities and whether the facilities are included or eligible for inclusion on the National Register of Historic Places.

"(3) An itemized listing of the funds appropriated to the Department of Defense that were obligated to support the museum during the fiscal year covered by the report and a description of the process used to determine the annual allocation of Department of Defense funds for the museum.

"(4) An itemized listing of any other Federal funds, funds from a nonappropriated fund instrumentality account of the Department of Defense, and non-Federal funds obligated to support the museum.

"(5) The management structure of the museum, including identification of the persons responsible for preparing the budget for the museum and for making acquisition and management decisions for the museum.

"(6) The number of civilian employees of the Department of Defense and members of the armed forces who served full-time or part-time at the museum and their role in the management structure of the museum.

"(c) INFORMATION ON SUPPORT PRIORITIES.—Each report under this section shall also include a separate description of the procedures used by the Secretary of Defense, in the case of museums identified in the report that are operated or supported by the Secretary of Defense, and the Secretary of a military department, in the case of museums identified in the report that are operated or supported by that Secretary, to prioritize funding and personnel support to the museums. The Secretary of Defense shall include a description of any such procedures applicable to the entire Department of Defense.".

(b) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of sections at the beginning of such chapter is amended by adding at the end the following new item:

"489. Annual report on Department of Defense operation and financial support for military museums.".

Subtitle E—Reports

SEC. 1041. QUARTERLY DETAILED ACCOUNTING FOR OPERATIONS CONDUCTED AS PART OF THE GLOBAL WAR ON TERRORISM.

(a) QUARTERLY ACCOUNTING.—Not later than 45 days after the end of each quarter of a year, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the congressional defense committees, for each operation specified in subsection (b)—

(1) a full accounting of all costs incurred for such operation during such quarter and all amounts expended during such quarter for such operation; and

(2) a description of the purposes for which those costs were incurred and those amounts were expended.

(b) OPERATIONS COVERED.—The operations referred to in subsection (a) are the following:

(1) Operation Iraqi Freedom.

(2) Operation Enduring Freedom.

(3) Operation Noble Eagle.

(4) Any other operation that the President designates as being an operation of the Global War on Terrorism.

(c) REQUIREMENT FOR COMPREHENSIVENESS.—For the purpose of providing a full and complete accounting of the costs and expenditures under subsection (a) for an operation specified in subsection (b), the Secretary shall account in the quarterly submission under subsection (a) for all costs and expenditures that are reasonably attributable to that operation, including personnel costs.

SEC. 1042. REPORT ON POST-MAJOR COMBAT OPERATIONS PHASE OF OPERATION IRAQI FREEDOM.

(a) REPORT REQUIRED.—(1) Not later than June 1, 2005, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report on the conduct of military operations during the post-major combat operations phase of Operation Iraqi Freedom.

(2) The report shall be prepared in consultation with the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the commander of the United States Central Command, and such other officials as the Secretary considers appropriate.

(b) CONTENT.—(1) The report shall include a discussion of the matters described in paragraph (2), with a particular emphasis on accomplishments and shortcomings and on near-term and long-term corrective actions to address such shortcomings.

(2) The matters to be discussed in the report are as follows:

(A) The military and political objectives of the international coalition conducting the post-major combat operations phase of Operation Iraqi Freedom, and the military strategy selected to achieve such objectives, together with an assessment of the execution of the military strategy.

(B) The mobilization process for the reserve components of the Armed Forces, including the timeliness of notification, training and certification, and subsequent demobilization.

(C) The use and performance of major items of United States military equipment, weapon systems, and munitions (including non-lethal weapons and munitions, items classified under special access procedures, and items drawn from prepositioned stocks) and any expected effects of the experience with the use and performance of such items on the doctrinal and tactical employment of such items and on plans for continuing the acquisition of such items.

(D) Any additional requirements for military equipment, weapon systems, munitions, force structure, or other capability identified during the post-major combat operations phase of Operation Iraqi Freedom, including changes in type or quantity for future operations.

(E) The effectiveness of joint air operations, together with an assessment of the effectiveness of—

(i) the employment of close air support; and

(ii) attack helicopter operations.

(F) The use of special operations forces, including operational and intelligence uses.

(G) The scope of logistics support, including support to and from other nations and from international organizations and organizations and individuals from the private sector in Iraq.

(H) The incidents of accidental fratricide, including a discussion of the effectiveness of the tracking of friendly forces and the use of the combat identification systems in mitigating friendly fire incidents.

(I) The adequacy of spectrum and bandwidth to transmit information to operational forces and assets, including unmanned aerial vehicles, ground vehicles, and individual soldiers.

(J) The effectiveness of strategic, operational, and tactical information operations, including psychological operations and assets, organization, and doctrine related to civil affairs, in achieving established objectives, together with a description of technological and other restrictions on the use of information operations capabilities.

(K) The readiness of the reserve component forces used in the post-major combat operations phase of Operation Iraqi Freedom, including an assessment of the success of the reserve component forces in accomplishing their missions.

(L) The adequacy of intelligence support during the post-major combat operations phase of Operation Iraqi Freedom, including the adequacy of such support in searches for weapons of mass destruction.

(M) The rapid insertion and integration, if any, of developmental but mission-essential equipment, organizations, or procedures during the post-major combat operations phase of Operation Iraqi Freedom.

(N) A description of the coordination, communication, and unity of effort between the Armed Forces, the Coalition Provisional Authority, other United States government agencies and organizations, nongovernmental organizations, and political, security, and nongovernmental organizations of Iraq, including an assessment of the effectiveness of such efforts.

(O) The adequacy of training for military units once deployed to the area of operations of the United States Central Command, including training for changes in unit mission and continuation training for high-intensity conflict missions.

(P) An estimate of the funding required to return or replace equipment used through the period covered by the report in Operation Iraqi Freedom, including equipment in prepositioned stocks, to mission-ready condition.

(Q) A description of military civil affairs and reconstruction efforts, including efforts through the Commanders Emergency Response Program, and an assessment of the effectiveness of such efforts and programs.

(R) The adequacy of the requirements determination and acquisition processes, acquisition, and distribution of force protection equipment, including personal gear, vehicles, helicopters, and defense devices.

(S) The most critical lessons learned that could lead to long-term doctrinal, organizational, and technological changes, and the probable effects that an implementation of those changes would have on current visions, goals, and plans for transformation of the Armed Forces or the Department of Defense.

(T) The planning for and implementation of morale, welfare, and recreation programs for deployed forces and support to dependents, including rest and recuperation programs and personal communication benefits such as telephone, mail, and email services, including an assessment of the effectiveness of such programs.

(U) An analysis of force rotation plans, including individual personnel and unit rotations, differing deployment lengths, and in-theater equipment repair and leave behinds.

(V) The organization of United States Central Command to conduct post-conflict operations and lessons for other combatant commands to conduct other such operations in the future.

(c) FORM OF REPORT.—The report shall be submitted in unclassified form, but may include a classified annex.

(d) POST-MAJOR COMBAT OPERATIONS PHASE OF OPERATION IRAQI FREEDOM DEFINED.—In this section, the term "post-major combat operations phase of Operation Iraqi Freedom" means the period of Operation Iraqi Freedom beginning on May 2, 2003, and ending on December 31, 2004.

SEC. 1043. REPORT ON TRAINING PROVIDED TO MEMBERS OF THE ARMED FORCES TO PREPARE FOR POST-CONFLICT OPERATIONS.

(a) STUDY ON TRAINING.—The Secretary of Defense shall conduct a study to determine the extent to which members of the Armed Forces assigned to duty in support of contingency operations receive training in preparation for post-conflict operations and to evaluate the quality of such training.

(b) MATTERS TO BE INCLUDED IN STUDY.—As part of the study under subsection (a), the Secretary shall specifically evaluate the following:

(1) The doctrine, training, and leader-development system necessary to enable members of the Armed Forces to successfully operate in post-conflict operations.

(2) The adequacy of the curricula at military educational facilities to ensure that the Armed Forces has a cadre of members skilled in post-conflict duties, including a familiarity with applicable foreign languages and foreign cultures.

(3) The training time and resources available to members and units of the Armed Forces to develop awareness about ethnic backgrounds, religious beliefs, and political structures of the people living in areas in which the Armed Forces operate and areas in which post-conflict operations are likely to occur.

(4) The adequacy of training transformation to emphasize post-conflict operations, including interagency coordination in support of commanders of combatant commands.

(c) REPORT ON STUDY.—Not later than May 1, 2005, the Secretary shall submit to the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate and the Committee on Armed Services of the House of Representatives a report on the result of the study conducted under this section.

SEC. 1044. REPORT ON ESTABLISHING NATIONAL CENTERS OF EXCELLENCE FOR UNMANNED AERIAL AND GROUND VEHICLES.

(a) REPORT REQUIRED.—Not later than 120 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report on the need for one or more national centers of excellence for unmanned aerial and ground vehicles.

(b) GOAL OF CENTERS.—The goal of the centers covered by the report is to promote interservice cooperation and coordination in the following areas:

(1) Development of joint doctrine for the organization, training, and use of unmanned aerial and ground vehicles.

(2) Joint research, development, test, and evaluation, and joint procurement of unmanned aerial and ground vehicles.

(3) Identification and coordination, in conjunction with the private sector and academia, of the future development of unmanned aerial and ground vehicles.

(4) Monitoring of the development and utilization of unmanned aerial and ground vehicles in other nations for both military and non-military purposes.

(5) The providing of joint training and professional development opportunities in the use and operation of unmanned aerial and ground vehicles to military personnel of all ranks and levels of responsibility.

(c) REPORT REQUIREMENTS.—The report shall include, at a minimum, the following:

(1) A list of facilities at which the Department of Defense currently conducts or plans to conduct research, development, and testing activities on unmanned aerial and ground vehicles.

(2) A list of facilities at which the Department of Defense currently deploys or has committed to deploying unmanned aerial or ground vehicles.

(3) The extent to which existing facilities described in paragraphs (1) and (2) have sufficient unused capacity and expertise to research, develop, test, and deploy the current and next generations of unmanned aerial and ground vehicles and to provide for the development of doctrine on the use and training of operators of such vehicles.

(4) The extent to which efficiencies with respect to research, development, testing, and deployment of existing or future unmanned aerial and ground vehicles can be achieved through consolidation at one or more national centers of excellence for unmanned aerial and ground vehicles.

(5) A list of potential locations for the national centers of excellence under this section.

(d) CONSIDERATIONS.—In determining the potential locations for the national centers of excellence under this section, the Secretary of Defense shall take into consideration existing military facilities that have—

(1) a workforce of skilled personnel;

(2) existing capacity of runways and other facilities to accommodate the research, development, testing, and deployment of current and future unmanned aerial vehicles; and

(3) minimal restrictions on the research, development, testing, and deployment of unmanned aerial vehicles resulting from proximity to large population centers or airspace heavily utilized by commercial flights.

SEC. 1045. STUDY OF CONTINUED REQUIREMENT FOR TWO-CREW MANNING FOR BALLISTIC MISSILE SUBMARINES.

(a) STUDY AND DETERMINATION.—The Secretary of Defense shall conduct a study of whether the practice of using two alternating crews (referred to as the "Gold Crew" and the "Blue Crew") for manning of ballistic missile submarines (SSBNs) continues to be justified under the changed circumstances since the end of the Cold War and, based on that study, shall make a determination of whether that two-crew manning practice should be continued or should be modified or terminated.

(b) REPORT.—Not later than six months after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall submit to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and House of Representatives a report providing notice of the Secretary's determination under subsection (a) and the reasons for that determination.

SEC. 1046. REPORT ON DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE PROGRAMS FOR PREPOSITIONING OF MATERIEL AND EQUIPMENT.

(a) SECRETARY OF DEFENSE ASSESSMENT AND REPORT.—(1) The Secretary of Defense shall conduct an assessment of the programs of the Armed Forces for the prepositioning of materiel and equipment. Such assessment shall focus on how those programs will support the goal of the Secretary to have the capability, from the onset of a contingency situation, to—

(A) deploy forces to a distant theater within 10 days;

(B) defeat an enemy within 30 days; and

(C) be ready for an additional conflict within another 30 days.

(2) The Secretary shall submit to Congress a report on such assessment not later than October 1, 2005.

(b) MATTERS TO BE INCLUDED.—The assessment under subsection (a) shall include the following:

(1) A review of the prepositioning of materiel and equipment used in Operation Iraqi Freedom and Operation Enduring Freedom, including identification of challenges and potential solutions.

(2) A description of changes to doctrine, strategy, and transportation plans that could be necessary to support the goal of the Secretary described in subsection (a).

(3) A description of modifications to prepositioning programs that could be required in order to incorporate modularity concepts, future force structure changes, and sea-basing concepts.

(4) A discussion of joint operations and training that support force projection requirements, including—

(A) theater opening requirements at potential aerial and sea ports of debarkation;

(B) joint force reception capabilities;

(C) joint theater distribution operations; and

(D) use of joint prepositioned stocks, materiel, and systems.

SEC. 1047 REPORT ON AL QAEDA AND ASSOCIATED GROUPS IN LATIN AMERICA AND THE CARIBBEAN.

(a) REPORT.—Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Defense shall, in consultation with the Secretary of State, submit to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and House of Representatives a report on the activities of al Qaeda and associated groups in Latin America and the Caribbean, including—

(1) an assessment of the extent to which such groups have established a presence in the area;

(2) a description of the activities of such groups in the area, including fundraising, money laundering, narcotrafficking, and associations with criminal groups;

(3) an assessment of the threat posed by such groups to the peace and stability of the nations in the area and to United States interests; and

(4) a description of United States policies intended to deal with such a threat.

(b) FORM OF REPORT.—The report shall be submitted in unclassified form, but may include a classified annex.

Subtitle F—Defense Against Terrorism and Other Domestic Security Matters

SEC. 1051. ACCEPTANCE OF COMMUNICATIONS EQUIPMENT PROVIDED BY LOCAL PUBLIC SAFETY AGENCIES.

(a) AUTHORITY.—Chapter 155 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

"§2613. Emergency communications equipment: acceptance from local public safety agencies for temporary use related to disasters

"(a) AUTHORITY TO ACCEPT EQUIPMENT.—(1) Subject to subsection (c), the Secretary concerned—

"(1) may accept communications equipment for use in coordinating joint response and recovery operations with public safety agencies in the event of a disaster; and

"(2) may accept services related to the operation and maintenance of such equipment.

"(b) REGULATIONS.—The authority under subsection (a) shall be exercised under regulations prescribed by the Secretary of Defense.

"(c) LIMITATIONS.—(1) Equipment may be accepted under subsection (a)(1) only to the extent that communications equipment under the control of the Secretary concerned at the potential disaster response site is inadequate to meet military requirements for communicating with public safety agencies during the period of response to the disaster.

"(2) Services may be accepted under subsection (a)(2) related to the operation and maintenance of communications equipment only to the extent that the necessary capabilities are not available to the military commander having custody of the equipment.

"(c) LIABILITY.—A person providing services accepted under this section may not be considered, by reason of the provision of such services, to be an officer, employee, or agent of the United States for any purpose.".

(b) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of sections at the beginning of such chapter is amended by adding at the end the following new item:

"2613. Emergency communications equipment: acceptance from local public safety agencies for temporary use related to disasters.".

SEC. 1052. DETERMINATION AND REPORT ON FULL-TIME AIRLIFT SUPPORT FOR HOMELAND DEFENSE OPERATIONS.

(a) DETERMINATION REQUIRED.—(1) The Secretary of Defense shall determine the feasibility and advisability of dedicating an airlift capability of the Armed Forces to the support of homeland defense operations, including operations in support of contingent requirements for transportation of any of the following in response to a disaster:

(A) Weapons of Mass Destruction Civil Support Teams.

(B) National Guard Chemical, Biological, Radiological, Nuclear, High Explosive Enhanced Response Force Packages.

(C) Air Force expeditionary medical teams.

(D) Department of Energy emergency response teams.

(2) In making the determination under paragraph (1), the Secretary shall take into consideration the results of the study required under subsection (b).

(b) REQUIREMENT FOR STUDY AND PLAN.—(1) The Secretary of Defense shall conduct a study of the plans and capabilities of the Department of Defense for meeting contingent requirements for transporting teams and packages specified in subsection (a)(1) in response to disasters.

(2) The Secretary shall prepare a plan for resolving any deficiencies in the plans and capabilities for meeting the transportation requirements described in paragraph (1).

(3) The Secretary of Defense shall require the commander of the United States Northern Command and the commander of the United States Transportation Command to carry out jointly the study required under paragraph (1) and to prepare jointly the plan required under paragraph (2).

(c) REPORT.—Not later than April 1, 2005, the Secretary shall submit to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives a report on the results of the study under subsection (b). The report shall include the following matters:

Section 1588(d)(1)(B) of title 10, United States Code, is amended by inserting before the period at the end the following: "and the Act of March 9, 1920, commonly known as the 'Suits in Admiralty Act' (41 Stat. 525; 46 U.S.C. App. 741 et seq.) and the Act of March 3, 1925, commonly known as the 'Public Vessels Act' (43 Stat. 1112; 46 U.S.C. App. 781 et seq.) (relating to claims for damages or loss on navigable waters)".

SEC. 1082. SENSE OF CONGRESS CONCERNING MEDIA COVERAGE OF THE RETURN TO THE UNITED STATES OF THE REMAINS OF DECEASED MEMBERS OF THE ARMED FORCES FROM OVERSEAS.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress makes the following findings:

(1) The Department of Defense, since 1991, has relied on a policy of no media coverage of the transfers of the remains of deceased members of the Armed Forces—

(A) at Ramstein Air Force Base, Germany;

(B) at Dover Air Force Base, Delaware, and the Port Mortuary Facility at Dover Air Force Base; and

(C) at interim stops en route to the point of final destination in the transfer of the remains.

(2) The principal focus and purpose of the policy is to protect the wishes and the privacy of families of deceased members of the Armed Forces during their time of great loss and grief and to give families and friends of the dead the privilege to decide whether to allow media coverage at the member's duty or home station, at the interment site, or at or in connection with funeral and memorial services.

(3) In a 1991 legal challenge to the Department of Defense policy, as applied during Operation Desert Storm, the policy was upheld by the United States District Court for the District of Columbia, and on appeal, by the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia in the case of JB Pictures, Inc. v. Department of Defense and Donald B. Rice, Secretary of the Air Force on the basis that denying the media the right to view the return of remains at Dover Air Force Base does not violate the first amendment guarantees of freedom of speech and of the press.

(4) The United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia in that case cited the following two key Government interests that are served by the Department of Defense policy:

(A) Reducing the hardship on the families and friends of the war dead, who may feel obligated to travel great distances to attend arrival ceremonies at Dover Air Force Base if such ceremonies were held.

(B) Protecting the privacy of families and friends of the dead, who may not want media coverage of the unloading of caskets at Dover Air Force Base.

(5) The Court also noted, in that case, that the bereaved may be upset at the public display of the caskets of their loved ones and that the policy gives the family the right to grant or deny access to the media at memorial or funeral services at the home base and that the policy is consistent in its concern for families.

(b) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Congress that the Department of Defense policy regarding no media coverage of the transfer of the remains of deceased members of the Armed Forces—

(1) appropriately protects the privacy of the families and friends of the deceased; and

(2) is consistent with United States constitutional guarantees of freedom of speech and freedom of the press.

SEC. 1083. TRANSFER OF HISTORIC F3A-1 BREWSTER CORSAIR AIRCRAFT.

(a) AUTHORITY TO CONVEY.—The Secretary of the Navy may convey, without consideration, to Lex Cralley of Princeton Minnesota (in this section referred to as "transferee"), all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to a F3A-1 Brewster Corsair aircraft (Bureau Number 04634). The conveyance shall be made by means of a deed of gift.

(b) CONDITION OF AIRCRAFT.—The aircraft shall be conveyed under subsection (a) in its current unflyable, "as is" condition. The Secretary is not required to repair or alter the condition of the aircraft before conveying ownership of the aircraft.

(c) CONVEYANCE AT NO COST TO THE UNITED STATES.—The conveyance of the aircraft under subsection (a) shall be made at no cost to the United States. Any costs associated with the conveyance and costs of operation and maintenance of the aircraft conveyed shall be borne by the transferee.

(d) ADDITIONAL TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—The Secretary may require such additional terms and conditions in connection with a conveyance under this section as the Secretary considers appropriate to protect the interests of the United States.

SEC. 1085. PRESERVATION OF SEARCH AND RESCUE CAPABILITIES OF THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT.

The Secretary of Defense may not reduce or eliminate search and rescue capabilities at any military installation in the United States unless the Secretary first certifies to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives that equivalent search and rescue capabilities will be provided, without interruption and consistent with the policies and objectives set forth in the United States National Search and Rescue Plan entered into force on January 1, 1999, by—

(1) the Department of Interior, the Department of Commerce, the Department of Homeland Security, the Department of Transportation, the Federal Communications Commission, or the National Aeronautics and Space Administration; or

(2) the Department of Defense, either directly or through a Department of Defense contract with an emergency medical service provider or other private entity to provide such capabilities.

SEC. 1086. ACQUISITION OF AERIAL FIREFIGHTING EQUIPMENT FOR NATIONAL INTERAGENCY FIRE CENTER.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress makes the following findings:

(1) The National Interagency Fire Center does not possess an adequate number of aircraft for use in aerial firefighting, and personnel at the Center rely on military aircraft to provide such firefighting services.

(2) It is in the national security interest of the United States for the National Interagency Fire Center to acquire aircraft for use in aerial firefighting so that the military aircraft made available for aerial firefighting will instead be available for use by the Armed Forces.

(b) AUTHORITY TO PURCHASE AERIAL FIREFIGHTING EQUIPMENT.—(1) The Secretary of Agriculture is authorized to purchase 10 aircraft, as described in paragraph (2), for the National Interagency Fire Center for use in aerial firefighting.

(2) The aircraft referred to in paragraph (1) shall be aircraft that are—

(A) specifically designed and built for aerial firefighting;

(B) certified by the Chief of the Forest Service as suited for conditions commonly experienced in aerial firefighting operations carried out in the United States, including Alaska; and

(C) manufactured in a manner that is consistent with the recommendations for aircraft used in aerial firefighting contained in—

(i) the Blue Ribbon Panel Report to the Chief of the Forest Service and the Director of the Bureau of Land Management dated December 2002; and

(ii) the Safety Recommendation of the Chairman of the National Transportation Safety Board related to aircraft used in aerial firefighting dated April 23, 2004.

(c) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There is authorized to be appropriated to the Secretary of Agriculture for fiscal year 2005 such funds as may be necessary to purchase the 10 aircraft described in subsection (b).

SEC. 1087. REVISION TO REQUIREMENTS FOR RECOGNITION OF INSTITUTIONS OF HIGHER EDUCATION AS HISPANIC-SERVING INSTITUTIONS FOR PURPOSES OF CERTAIN GRANTS AND CONTRACTS.

Section 502(a)(5)(C) of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1101a(a)(5)(C)) is amended by inserting before the period the following: ", which assurances—

"(i) may employ statistical extrapolation using appropriate data from the Bureau of the Census or other appropriate Federal or State sources; and

"(ii) the Secretary shall consider as meeting the requirements of this subparagraph, unless the Secretary determines, based on a preponderance of the evidence, that the assurances do not meet the requirements".

"(A) employed as—

"(i) a civilian employee of—

"(I) the Department of Defense (including a nonappropriated fund instrumentality of the Department); or

"(II) any other Federal agency, or any provisional authority, to the extent such employment relates to supporting the mission of the Department of Defense overseas;

"(ii) a contractor (including a subcontractor at any tier) of—

"(I) the Department of Defense (including a nonappropriated fund instrumentality of the Department); or

"(II) any other Federal agency, or any provisional authority, to the extent such employment relates to supporting the mission of the Department of Defense overseas; or

"(iii) an employee of a contractor (or subcontractor at any tier) of—

"(I) the Department of Defense (including a nonappropriated fund instrumentality of the Department); or

"(II) any other Federal agency, or any provisional authority, to the extent such employment relates to supporting the mission of the Department of Defense overseas;".

SEC. 1089. DEFINITION OF UNITED STATES FOR PURPOSES OF FEDERAL CRIME OF TORTURE.

Section 2340(3) of title 18, United States Code, is amended to read as follows:

"(3) 'United States' means the several States of the United States, the District of Columbia, and the commonwealths, territories, and possessions of the United States.".

SEC..1090. ENERGY SAVINGS PERFORMANCE CONTRACTS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 801(c) of the National Energy Conservation Policy Act (42 U.S.C. 8287(c)) is amended by striking "2003" and inserting "2006".

(b) PAYMENT OF COSTS.—Section 802 of the National Energy Conservation Policy Act (42 U.S.C. 8287a) is amended by inserting ", water, or wastewater treatment" after "payment of energy".

(c) ENERGY SAVINGS.—Section 804(2) of the National Energy Conservation Policy Act (42 U.S.C. 8287c(2)) is amended to read as follows:

"(2) The term 'energy savings' means a reduction in the cost of energy, water, or wastewater treatment, from a base cost established through a methodology set forth in the contract, used in an existing federally owned building or buildings or other federally owned facilities as a result of—

"(A) the lease or purchase of operating equipment, improvements, altered operation and maintenance, or technical services;

"(B) the increased efficient use of existing energy sources by cogeneration or heat recovery, excluding any cogeneration process for other than a federally owned building or buildings or other federally owned facilities; or

"(C) the increased efficient use of existing water sources in either interior or exterior applications.".

(d) ENERGY SAVINGS CONTRACT.—Section 804(3) of the National Energy Conservation Policy Act (42 U.S.C. 8287c(3)) is amended to read as follows:

"(3) The terms 'energy savings contract' and 'energy savings performance contract' mean a contract that provides for the performance of services for the design, acquisition, installation, testing, and, where appropriate, operation, maintenance, and repair, of an identified energy or water conservation measure or series of measures at 1 or more locations. Such contracts shall, with respect to an agency facility that is a public building (as such term is defined in section 3301 of title 40, United States Code), be in compliance with the prospectus requirements and procedures of section 3307 of title 40, United States Code.".

(e) ENERGY OR WATER CONSERVATION MEASURE.—Section 804(4) of the National Energy Conservation Policy Act (42 U.S.C. 8287c(4)) is amended to read as follows:

"(4) The term 'energy or water conservation measure' means—

"(A) an energy conservation measure, as defined in section 551; or

"(B) a water conservation measure that improves the efficiency of water use, is life-cycle cost-effective, and involves water conservation, water recycling or reuse, more efficient treatment of wastewater or stormwater, improvements in operation or maintenance efficiencies, retrofit activities, or other related activities, not at a Federal hydroelectric facility.".

(f) REVIEW.—Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Energy shall complete a review of the Energy Savings Performance Contract program to identify statutory, regulatory, and administrative obstacles that prevent Federal agencies from fully utilizing the program. In addition, this review shall identify all areas for increasing program flexibility and effectiveness, including audit and measurement verification requirements, accounting for energy use in determining savings, contracting requirements, including the identification of additional qualified contractors, and energy efficiency services covered. The Secretary shall report these findings to Congress and shall implement identified administrative and regulatory changes to increase program flexibility and effectiveness to the extent that such changes are consistent with statutory authority.

(g) EXTENSION OF AUTHORITY.—Any energy savings performance contract entered into under section 801 of the National Energy Conservation Policy Act (42 U.S.C. 8287) after October 1, 2003, and before the date of enactment of this Act, shall be deemed to have been entered into pursuant to such section 801 as amended by subsection (a) of this section.

SEC. 1091. SENSE OF CONGRESS AND POLICY CONCERNING PERSONS DETAINED BY THE UNITED STATES.

(a) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Congress that —

(1) the abuses inflicted upon detainees at the Abu Ghraib prison in Baghdad, Iraq, are inconsistent with the professionalism, dedication, standards, and training required of individuals who serve in the United States Armed Forces;

(2) the vast majority of members of the Armed Forces have upheld the highest possible standards of professionalism and morality in the face of illegal tactics and terrorist attacks and attempts on their lives;

(3) the abuse of persons in United States custody in Iraq is appropriately condemned and deplored by the American people;

(4) the Armed Forces are moving swiftly and decisively to identify, try, and, if found guilty, punish persons who perpetrated such abuse;

(5) the Department of Defense and appropriate military authorities must continue to undertake corrective action, as appropriate, to address chain-of-command deficiencies and the systemic deficiencies identified in the incidents in question;

(6) the Constitution, laws, and treaties of the United States and the applicable guidance and regulations of the United States Government prohibit the torture or cruel, inhuman, or degrading treatment of foreign prisoners held in custody by the United States;

(7) the alleged crimes of a handful of individuals should not detract from the commendable sacrifices of over 300,000 members of the Armed Forces who have served, or who are serving, in Operation Iraqi Freedom; and

(8) no detainee shall be subject to torture or cruel, inhuman, or degrading treatment or punishment that is prohibited by the Constitution, laws, or treaties of United States.

(b) POLICY.—It is the policy of the United States to—

(1) ensure that no detainee shall be subject to torture or cruel, inhuman, or degrading treatment or punishment that is prohibited by the Constitution, laws, or treaties of the United States;

(2) investigate and prosecute, as appropriate, all alleged instances of unlawful treatment of detainees in a manner consistent with the international obligations, laws, or policies of the United States;

(3) ensure that all personnel of the United States Government understand their obligations in both wartime and peacetime to comply with the legal prohibitions against torture, cruel, inhuman, or degrading treatment of detainees in the custody of the United States;

(4) ensure that, in a case in which there is doubt as to whether a detainee is entitled to prisoner of war status under the Geneva Conventions, such detainee receives the protections accorded to prisoners of war until the detainee's status is determined by a competent tribunal; and

(5) expeditiously process and, if appropriate, prosecute detainees in the custody of the United States, including those in the custody of the United States Armed Forces at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

(c) DETAINEES.—For purposes of this section, the term "detainee" means a person in the custody or under the physical control of the United States as a result of armed conflict.

SEC. 1092. ACTIONS TO PREVENT THE ABUSE OF DETAINEES.

(a) POLICIES REQUIRED.—The Secretary of Defense shall ensure that policies are prescribed not later than 150 days after the date of the enactment of this Act regarding procedures for Department of Defense personnel and contractor personnel of the Department of Defense intended to ensure that members of the Armed Forces, and all persons acting on behalf of the Armed Forces or within facilities of the Armed Forces, treat persons detained by the United States Government in a humane manner consistent with the international obligations and laws of the United States and the policies set forth in section 1091(b).

(b) MATTERS TO BE INCLUDED.—In order to achieve the objective stated in subsection (a), the policies under that subsection shall specify, at a minimum, procedures for the following:

(1) Ensuring that each commander of a Department of Defense detention facility or interrogation facility—

(A) provides all assigned personnel with training, and documented acknowledgment of receiving training, regarding the law of war, including the Geneva Conventions; and

(B) establishes standard operating procedures for the treatment of detainees.

(2) Ensuring that each Department of Defense contract in which contract personnel in the course of their duties interact with individuals detained by the Department of Defense on behalf of the United States Government include a requirement that such contract personnel have received training, and documented acknowledgment of receiving training, regarding the international obligations and laws of the United States applicable to the detention of personnel.

(3) Providing all detainees with information, in their own language, of the applicable protections afforded under the Geneva Conventions.

(4) Conducting periodic unannounced and announced inspections of detention facilities in order to provide continued oversight of interrogation and detention operations.

(5) Ensuring that, to the maximum extent practicable, detainees and detention facility personnel of a different gender are not alone together.

(c) SECRETARY OF DEFENSE CERTIFICATION.—The Secretary of Defense shall certify that all Federal employees and civilian contractors engaged in the handling or interrogation of individuals detained by the Department of Defense on behalf of the United States Government have fulfilled an annual training requirement on the law of war, the Geneva Conventions, and the obligations of the United States under international law.

SEC. 1093. REPORTING REQUIREMENTS.

(a) TRANSMISSION OF REGULATIONS, ETC.—Not later than 30 days after the date on which regulations, policies, and orders are first prescribed under section 1092(a), the Secretary of Defense shall transmit to the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate and the Committee on Armed Services of the House of Representatives copies of such regulations, policies, or orders, together with a report on steps taken to the date of the report to implement section 1092.

(b) ONE-YEAR IMPLEMENTATION REPORT.—Not later than one year after the date on which regulations, policies, and orders are first prescribed under section 1092(a), the Secretary shall submit to such committees a report on further steps taken to implement section 1092 to the date of such report.

(c) ANNUAL REPORT.—Nine months after the date of the enactment of this Act and annually thereafter, the Secretary shall submit to the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate and the Committee on Armed Services of the House of Representatives a report for the preceding 12-months containing the following:

(1) Notice of any investigation into any violation of international obligations or laws of the United States regarding the treatment of individuals detained by the United States Armed Forces or by a person providing services to the Department of Defense on a contractual basis, if the notice will not compromise any ongoing criminal or administrative investigation or prosecution.

(2) General information on the foreign national detainees in the custody of the Department of Defense during the 12-month period covered by the report, including the following:

(A) The best estimate of the Secretary of Defense of the total number of detainees in the custody of the Department as of the date of the report.

(B) The best estimate of the Secretary of Defense of the total number of detainees released from the custody of the Department during the period covered by the report.

(C) An aggregate summary of the number of persons detained as enemy prisoners of war, civilian internees, and unlawful combatants, including information regarding the average length of detention for persons in each category.

(D) An aggregate summary of the nationality of persons detained.

(E) Aggregate information as to the transfer of detainees to the jurisdiction of other countries, and the countries to which transferred.

(d) CLASSIFICATION OF REPORTS.—Reports submitted under this section shall be submitted, to the extent practicable, in unclassified form, but may include a classified annex as necessary to protect the national security of the United States.

(e) TERMINATION.—The requirements of this section shall cease to be in effect on December 31, 2007.

SEC. 1094. FINDINGS AND SENSE OF CONGRESS CONCERNING ARMY SPECIALIST JOSEPH DARBY.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress makes the following findings:

(1) The need to act in accord with one's conscience, risking one's career and even the esteem of one's colleagues by pursuing what is right is especially important today.

(2) While the Department of Defense investigates the horrific abuses in American detention facilities in Iraq, the Nation should bear in mind that the abuses were only brought to light because of the courage of an American soldier.

(3) By alerting his superiors to abuses at Abu Ghraib prison in Iraq, Army Specialist Joseph Darby demonstrated the courage to speak out and do what is right for his country.

(4) Such an action is especially important in light of the many challenges facing the country.

(5) Specialist Darby deserves the Nation's thanks for speaking up and for standing up for what is right.

(b) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Congress that—

(1) the Secretary of Defense should make every protection available to Army Specialist Joseph Darby and others who demonstrate such courage; and

(2) Specialist Darby should be commended appropriately by the Secretary of the Army.

TITLE XI—CIVILIAN PERSONNEL MATTERS

Sec. 1101. Payment of Federal employee health benefit premiums for mobilized Federal employees.

(a) ELIGIBILITY FOR SERVICE NOT RELATED TO CONTINGENCY OPERATIONS.—Section 1596a(a)(2) of title 10, United States Code, is amended by striking "during a contingency operation supported by the armed forces".

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendment by this section shall take effect on the first day of the first month that begins after the date of the enactment of this Act.

SEC. 1103. PAY AND PERFORMANCE APPRAISAL PARITY FOR CIVILIAN INTELLIGENCE PERSONNEL.

(a) PAY RATES.—Section 1602 of title 10, United States Code, is amended—

(1) in subsection (a), by striking "in relation to the rates of pay provided in subpart D of part III of title 5 for positions subject to that subpart which have corresponding levels of duties and responsibilities" and inserting "in relation to the rates of pay provided for comparable positions in the Department of Defense and subject to the same limitations on maximum rates of pay established for employees of the Department of Defense by law or regulation";

(2) by striking subsection (b); and

(3) by redesignating subsection (c) as subsection (b).

(b) PERFORMANCE APPRAISAL SYSTEM.—Section 1606 of such title is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

"(d) PERFORMANCE APPRAISALS.—(1) The Defense Intelligence Senior Executive Service shall be subject to a performance appraisal system which, as designed and applied, is certified by the Secretary of Defense under section 5307 of title 5 as making meaningful distinctions based on relative performance.

"(2) The performance appraisal system applicable to the Defense Intelligence Senior Executive Service under paragraph (1) may be the same performance appraisal system that is established and implemented within the Department of Defense for members of the Senior Executive Service.".

SEC. 1104. PAY PARITY FOR SENIOR EXECUTIVES IN DEFENSE NONAPPROPRIATED FUND INSTRUMENTALITIES.

(a) AUTHORITY.—Chapter 81 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by inserting after section 1587 the following new section:

"§ 1587a. Employees of nonappropriated fund instrumentalities: senior executive pay levels

"(a) AUTHORITY.—To achieve the objective stated in subsection (b), the Secretary of Defense may regulate the amount of total compensation that is provided for senior executives of nonappropriated fund instrumentalities who, for the fixing of pay by administrative action, are under the jurisdiction of the Secretary of Defense or the Secretary of a military department.

"(b) PAY PARITY.—The objective of an action taken with respect to the compensation of senior executives under subsection (a) is to provide for parity between the total compensation provided for such senior executives and total compensation that is provided for Department of Defense employees in Senior Executive Service positions or other senior executive positions.

"(c) STANDARDS OF COMPARABILITY.—Subject to subsection (d), the Secretary of Defense shall prescribe the standards of comparison that are to apply in the making of the determinations necessary to achieve the objective stated in subsection (b).

"(d) ESTABLISHMENT OF PAY RATES.—The Secretary of Defense shall apply subsections (a) and (b) of section 5382 of title 5 in the regulation of compensation under this section.

"(e) RELATIONSHIP TO PAY LIMITATION.—The Secretary of Defense may exercise the authority provided in subsection (a) without regard to section 5373 of title 5.

"(f) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

"(1) The term 'compensation' includes rate of basic pay.

"(2) The term 'Senior Executive Service position' has the meaning given such term in section 3132 of title 5.".

(b) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of sections at the beginning of such chapter is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 1587 the following new item:

"1587a. Employees of nonappropriated fund instrumentalities: senior executive pay levels.".

SEC. 1105. SCIENCE, MATHEMATICS, AND RESEARCH FOR TRANSFORMATION (SMART) DEFENSE SCHOLARSHIP PILOT PROGRAM.

(a) REQUIREMENT FOR PROGRAM.—(1) The Secretary of Defense shall carry out a pilot program to provide financial assistance for education in science, mathematics, engineering, and technology skills and disciplines that, as determined by the Secretary, are critical to the national security functions of the Department of Defense and are needed in the Department of Defense workforce.

(2) The pilot program under this section shall be carried out for three years beginning on the date of the enactment of this Act.

(b) SCHOLARSHIPS.—(1) Under the pilot program, the Secretary of Defense may award a scholarship in accordance with this section to a person who—

(A) is a citizen of the United States;

(B) is pursuing an undergraduate or advanced degree in a critical skill or discipline described in subsection (a) at an institution of higher education; and

(C) enters into a service agreement with the Secretary of Defense as described in subsection (c).

(2) The amount of the financial assistance provided under a scholarship awarded to a person under this subsection shall be the amount determined by the Secretary of Defense as being necessary to pay all educational expenses incurred by that person, including tuition, fees, cost of books, laboratory expenses, and expenses of room and board. The expenses paid, however, shall be limited to those educational expenses normally incurred by students at the institution of higher education involved.

(c) SERVICE AGREEMENT FOR RECIPIENTS OF ASSISTANCE.—(1) To receive financial assistance under this section—

(A) in the case of an employee of the Department of Defense, the employee shall enter into a written agreement to continue in the employment of the department for the period of obligated service determined under paragraph (2); and

(B) in the case of a person not an employee of the Department of Defense, the person shall enter into a written agreement to accept and continue employment in the Department of Defense for the period of obligated service determined under paragraph (2).

(2) For the purposes of this subsection, the period of obligated service for a recipient of a scholarship under this section shall be the period determined by the Secretary of Defense as being appropriate to obtain adequate service in exchange for the financial assistance provided under the scholarship. In no event may the period of service required of a recipient be less than the total period of pursuit of a degree that is covered by the scholarship. The period of obligated service is in addition to any other period for which the recipient is obligated to serve in the civil service of the United States.

(3) An agreement entered into under this subsection by a person pursuing an academic degree shall include any terms and conditions that the Secretary of Defense determines necessary to protect the interests of the United States or otherwise appropriate for carrying out this section.

(d) REFUND FOR PERIOD OF UNSERVED OBLIGATED SERVICE.—(1) A person who voluntarily terminates service before the end of the period of obligated service required under an agreement entered into under subsection (c) shall refund to the United States an amount determined by the Secretary of Defense as being appropriate to obtain adequate service in exchange for financial assistance.

(2) An obligation to reimburse the United States imposed under paragraph (1) is for all purposes a debt owed to the United States.

(3) The Secretary of Defense may waive, in whole or in part, a refund required under paragraph (1) if the Secretary determines that recovery would be against equity and good conscience or would be contrary to the best interests of the United States.

(4) A discharge in bankruptcy under title 11, United States Code, that is entered less than five years after the termination of an agreement under this section does not discharge the person signing such agreement from a debt arising under such agreement or under this subsection.

(e) RELATIONSHIP TO OTHER PROGRAMS.—The pilot program under this section is in addition to the authorities provided in chapter 111 of title 10, United States Code. The Secretary of Defense shall coordinate the provision of financial assistance under the authority of this section with the provision of financial assistance under the authorities provided in such chapter in order to maximize the benefits derived by the Department of Defense from the exercise of all such authorities.

(f) RECOMMENDATION ON PILOT PROGRAM.—Not later than February 1, 2007, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives, the Committee on Governmental Affairs of the Senate, and the Committee on Government Reform of the House of Representatives a plan for expanding and improving the national defense science and engineering workforce educational assistance pilot program carried out under this section as appropriate to improve recruitment and retention to meet the requirements of the Department of Defense for its science and engineering workforce on a short-term basis and on a long-term basis.

(g) CRITICAL HIRING NEED.—Section 3304(a)(3) of title 5, United States Code, is amended by striking subparagraph (B) and inserting the following:

"(B)(i) the Office of Personnel Management has determined that there exists a severe shortage of candidates or there is a critical hiring need; or

"(ii) the candidate is a participant in the Science, Mathematics, and Research for Transformation (SMART) Defense Scholarship Pilot Program under section 1105 of the Ronald W. Reagan National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2005.".

(h) INSTITUTION OF HIGHER EDUCATION DEFINED.—In this section, the term "institution of higher education" has the meaning given such term in section 101 of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (21 U.S.C. 1001).

SEC. 1106. REPORT ON HOW TO RECRUIT AND RETAIN INDIVIDUALS WITH FOREIGN LANGUAGE SKILLS.

Not later than March 31, 2005, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives and the Select Committee on Intelligence of the Senate and the Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence of the House of Representatives, a plan for expanding and improving the national security foreign language workforce of the Department of Defense as appropriate to improve recruitment and retention to meet the requirements of the Department for its foreign language workforce on a short-term basis and on a long-term basis.

SEC. 1107. PLAN ON IMPLEMENTATION AND UTILIZATION OF FLEXIBLE PERSONNEL MANAGEMENT AUTHORITIES IN DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE LABORATORIES.

(a) PLAN REQUIRED.—The Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics and the Under Secretary of Defense for Personnel and Readiness shall jointly develop a plan for the effective utilization of the personnel management authorities referred to in subsection (b) in order to increase the mission responsiveness, efficiency, and effectiveness of Department of Defense laboratories.

(b) COVERED AUTHORITIES.—The personnel management authorities referred to in this subsection are the personnel management authorities granted to the Secretary of Defense by the provisions of law as follows:

(1) Section 342(b) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1995 (Public Law 103–337; 108 Stat. 2721), as amended by section 1114 of the Floyd D. Spence National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2001 (as enacted into law by Public Law 106–398 (114 Stat. 1654A–315)).

(2) Section 1101 of the Strom Thurmond National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1999 (Public Law 105–261; 5 U.S.C. 3104 note).

(3) Section 9902(c) of title 5, United States Code.

(4) Such other provisions of law as the Under Secretaries jointly consider appropriate for purposes of this section.

(c) PLAN ELEMENTS.—The plan under subsection (a) shall—

(1) include such elements as the Under Secretaries jointly consider appropriate to provide for the effective utilization of the personnel management authorities referred to in subsection (b) as described in subsection (a), including the recommendations of the Under Secretaries for such additional authorities, including authorities for demonstration programs or projects, as are necessary to achieve the effective utilization of such personnel management authorities; and

(2) include procedures, including a schedule for review and decisions, on proposals to modify

current demonstration programs or projects, or to initiate new demonstration programs or projects, on flexible personnel management at Department laboratories

(d) SUBMITTAL TO CONGRESS.—The Under Secretaries shall jointly submit to the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate and the Committee on Armed Services of the House of Representatives the plan under subsection (a) not later than December 1, 2005.

Subtitle A—Matters Relating to Iraq, Afghanistan, and Global War on Terrorism

SEC. 1201. COMMANDERS' EMERGENCY RESPONSE PROGRAM.

(a) FISCAL YEAR 2005 AUTHORITY.—During fiscal year 2005, from funds made available to the Department of Defense for operation and maintenance pursuant to title XV, not to exceed $300,000,000 may be used to provide funds—

(1) for the Commanders' Emergency Response Program, established by the Administrator of the Coalition Provisional Authority for the purpose of enabling United States military commanders in Iraq to respond to urgent humanitarian relief and reconstruction requirements within their areas of responsibility by carrying out programs that will immediately assist the Iraqi people; and

(2) for a similar program to assist the people of Afghanistan.

(b) QUARTERLY REPORTS.—Not later than 15 days after the end of each fiscal-year quarter (beginning with the first quarter of fiscal year 2005), the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report regarding the source of funds and the allocation and use of funds during that quarter that were made available pursuant to the authority provided in this section or under any other provision of law for the purposes stated in subsection (a).

(c) WAIVER AUTHORITY.—For purposes of the exercise of the authority provided by this section or any other provision of law making funding available for the Commanders' Emergency Response Program referred to in subsection (a) (including a program referred to in paragraph (2) of that subsection), the Secretary may waive any provision of law not contained in this section that would (but for the waiver) prohibit, restrict, limit, or otherwise constrain the exercise of that authority.

(d) REVIEW OF LAWS.—Not later than 120 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall submit to the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate and the Committee on Armed Services of the House of Representatives a report identifying all provisions of law that (if not waived) would prohibit, restrict, limit, or otherwise constrain the exercise of the authority provided in this section or any other provision of law using funds available for the purposes stated in subsection (a).

SEC. 1202. ASSISTANCE TO IRAQ AND AFGHANISTAN MILITARY AND SECURITY FORCES.

(a) AUTHORITY.—The Secretary of Defense may provide assistance under this section to Iraq and Afghanistan military and security forces. Such assistance shall be provided, subject to the provisions of this section, solely to enhance the ability of such forces to combat terrorism and support United States or coalition military operations in Iraq and Afghanistan, respectively.

(b) TYPE OF ASSISTANCE.—Assistance provided under subsection (a) may include equipment, supplies, services, and training.

(c) LIMITATIONS.—Assistance under this section or under any other provision of law for the purpose described in subsection (a) may be provided only from funds available to the Department of Defense for fiscal year 2005 for operation and maintenance under title XV. The total amount of such assistance may not exceed $500,000,000.

(d) CONGRESSIONAL NOTIFICATION.—Before any provision of assistance under this section or any other provision of law for the purpose described in subsection (a), the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the congressional defense committees a notification of the assistance proposed to be provided. Any such notification shall be submitted not less than 15 days before the provision of such assistance.

SEC. 1204. PRESIDENTIAL REPORT ON STRATEGY FOR STABILIZATION OF IRAQ.

(a) STAEILIZATION STRATEGY.—Not later than 120 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the President shall submit to Congress an unclassified report (with classified annex, if necessary) on the strategy of the United States and coalition forces for stabilizing Iraq. The report shall contain a detailed explanation of the strategy, together with the following:

(1) A description of the efforts of the President to work with the United Nations to provide support for, and assistance to, the transitional government in Iraq and, in particular, the efforts of the President to negotiate and secure adoption by the United Nations Security Council of Resolution 1546.

(2) A description of the efforts of the President to continue to work with North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) member states and non-NATO member states to provide support for and augment coalition forces, including—

(A) the current military forces of coalition countries deployed to Iraq;

(B) the current police forces of coalition countries deployed to Iraq;

(C) the current financial resources of coalition countries pledged and provided for the stabilization and reconstruction of Iraq; and

(D) a list of countries that have pledged to deploy military or police forces, including the schedule and level of such deployments.

(3) The strategic plan referred to in subsection (b) relating to Iraqi security forces.

(4) A description of the efforts of the United States and coalition forces to assist in the reconstruction of essential infrastructure of Iraq, including the oil industry, electricity generation, roads, schools, and hospitals.

(5) A description of the efforts of the United States, coalition partners, and relevant international agencies to assist in the development of political institutions and prepare for democratic elections in Iraq.

(6) A description of the obstacles, including financial, technical, logistic, personnel, political, and other obstacles, faced by NATO in generating and deploying military forces out of theater to locations such as Iraq.

(b) IRAQI SECURITY FORCES.—The President shall include in the report under subsection (a) a strategic plan setting forth the manner in which the coaltion will achieve the goal of establishing viable and professional Iraqi security forces able to provide for the long-term security of the Iraqi people. That strategic plan shall include at least the following:

(1) Recruiting and retention goals, shown for each service of the Iraqi security forces.

(2) Training plans for each service of the Iraqi security forces.

(3) A description of metrics by which progress toward the goal of Iraqi provision for its own security can be measured.

(4) A description of equipment needs, shown for each service of the Iraqi security forces.

(5) A resourcing plan for achieving the goals of the strategic plan.

(6) Personnel plans in terms of United States military and contractor personnel to be used in training each such service.

(7) A description of challenges faced and opportunities presented in particular regions of Iraq and a plan for addressing those challenges.

(8) A discussion of training and deployment successes and failures to the date of the report and how lessons from those successes and failures will be incorporated into the strategic plan.

(c) QUARTERLY REPORTS.—Not later than 30 days after the end of each quarter of calendar year 2005, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the Congress a report on the actions taken under the strategic plan set forth pursuant to subsection (b) since the date of the enactment of this Act. Each such report shall be prepared in conjunction with the Secretary of State.

SEC. 1205. GUIDANCE ON CONTRACTORS SUPPORTING DEPLOYED FORCES IN IRAQ.

(a) GUIDANCE.—Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Defense shall issue guidance on how the Department of Defense shall manage contractor personnel who support deployed forces and shall direct the Secretaries of the military departments to develop procedures to ensure implementation of that guidance. The guidance shall—

(1) establish policies for the use of contractors to support deployed forces;

(2) delineate the roles and responsibilities of commanders regarding the management and oversight of contractor personnel who support deployed forces; and

(3) integrate into a single document other guidance and doctrine that may affect Department of Defense responsibilities to contractors in locations where members of the Armed Forces are deployed.

(b) ISSUES TO BE ADDRESSED.—The guidance issued under subsection (a) shall address at least the following matters:

(1) Warning contractor security personnel of potentially hazardous situations.

(2) Coordinating the movement of contractor security personnel, especially through areas of increased risk or planned or ongoing military operations.

(3) Rapidly identifying contractor security personnel by members of the Armed Forces.

(4) Sharing relevant threat information with contractor security personnel and receiving information gathered by contractor security personnel for use by United States and coalition forces.

(5) Providing appropriate assistance to contractor personnel who become engaged in hostile situations.

(6) Providing medical assistance for, and evacuation of, contractor personnel who become casualties as a result of enemy actions.

(7) Investigating background and qualifications of contractor security personnel and organizations.

(8) Establishing rules of engagement for armed contractor security personnel, and ensuring proper training and compliance with the rules of engagement.

(9) Establishing categories of security, intelligence, law enforcement, and criminal justice functions that are—

(A) inherently governmental functions under Subpart 7.5 of the Federal Acquisition Regulation; or

(B) although not inherently governmental functions, should not ordinarily be performed by contractors in areas of operations.

(10) Establishing procedures for making and documenting determinations about which security, intelligence, law enforcement, and criminal justice functions will be performed by military personnel and which will be performed by private companies.

(c) REPORT.—Not later than 30 days after issuing the guidance required under subsection (a), the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and House of Representatives a report on the guidance issued under subsection (a).

SEC. 1206. REPORT ON CONTRACTORS SUPPORTING DEPLOYED FORCES AND RECONSTRUCTION EFFORTS IN IRAQ.

(a) REPORT REQUIRED.—Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate and the Committee on Armed Services of the House of Representatives a report on contractors supporting deployed forces and reconstruction efforts in Iraq.

(b) MATTERS TO BE INCLUDED.—The report required by subsection (a) shall include, at a minimum, the following matters with respect to contractors, and employees of contractors, described in subsection (a):

(1) A description of the overall chain of command and oversight mechanisms that are in place to ensure adequate command and supervision of such contractor employees in critical security roles.

(2) A description of sanctions that are available to be imposed on such a contractor employee who—

(A) fails to comply with a requirement of law or regulation that applies to such employee; or

(B) engages in other misconduct.

(3) A description of disciplinary and criminal actions brought against contractor employees during the period beginning on May 1, 2003, and ending on the date of the enactment of this Act.

(4) An explanation of the legal status of contractor employees engaged in the performance of security functions in Iraq after the transfer of sovereign power to Iraq on June 28, 2004.

(5) A specification of casualty and fatality figures for contractor employees supporting deployed forces and reconstruction efforts in Iraq, shown, to the extent practicable, in the following categories:

(A) Total casualties and total fatalities.

(B) Casualties and fatalities among—

(i) nationals of the United States;

(ii) nationals of Iraq; and

(iii) nationals of states other than the United States and Iraq.

(6) A description, to the maximum extent practicable, of incidents in which contractor employees supporting deployed forces and reconstruction efforts in Iraq have been engaged in hostile fire or other incidents of note during the period beginning on May 1, 2003, and ending on the date of the enactment of this Act.

(c) PLANS.—The Secretary shall include with the report under subsection (a) the following plans:

(1) A plan for establishing and implementing a process for collecting data on individual contractors, the value of the contracts, the number of casualties incurred, and the number of personnel in Iraq performing the following services for the Department of Defense and other Federal agencies:

(A) Personal security details.

(B) Nonmilitary site security.

(C) Nonmilitary convoy security.

(D) Interrogation services at interrogation centers operated by the Department of Defense.

(2) A plan for ensuring that military commanders in the theater of operations have accurate information on the number, types, and sources of weapons and other critical equipment (such as body armor, armored vehicles, secure communications and friend-foe identification) that contractor personnel performing services specified in paragraph (1) are authorized to possess.

(d) COORDINATION.—In the preparation of the report under this section (including the plans under subsection (c)), the Secretary of Defense shall coordinate, as appropriate, with the head of any Federal agency that is involved in the procurement of services from contractors supporting deployed forces and reconstruction efforts in Iraq. The head of any such agency shall provide to the Secretary of Defense such information as the Secretary may require about such contractors to complete the report.

SEC. 1207. UNITED NATIONS OIL-FOR-FOOD PROGRAM.

(a) ACCESS TO DOCUMENTS.—It is the sense of Congress that the Secretary of State should seek to conclude a memorandum of understanding with the Interim Government of Iraq to ensure that the United States will have access to all documents in the possession of that Government related to the United Nations Oil-for-Food Program.

(b) INFORMATION FROM THE UNITED NATIONS.—(1) The Secretary of State shall use the voice and vote of the United States in the United Nations to urge the Secretary General of the United Nations to provide to the United States copies of all audits and core documents related to the United Nations Oil-for-Food Program, including all audits, examinations, studies, reviews, or similar documents prepared by the United Nations Office of Internal Oversight Services and all responses to such documents.

(2) It is the sense of Congress that, pursuant to section 941(b)(6) of the United Nations Reform Act of 1999 (title IX of division A of H.R. 3427 of the 106th Congress, as enacted into law by section 1000(a)(7) of Public Law 106–113; 113 Stat. 1501A–483), the Comptroller General should have full and complete access to financial information relating to the United Nations, including information related to the financial transactions, organization, and activities of the United Nations Oil-for-Food Program.

(3) The Secretary of State shall facilitate access by the Comptroller General to the financial information described in paragraph (2).

(c) COOPERATION IN INVESTIGATIONS.—The head of any Executive agency (including the Secretary of State, the Secretary of Defense, the Secretary of the Treasury, and the Director of the Central Intelligence Agency) shall, upon a request in connection with an investigation of the United Nations Oil-for-Food Program made by a committee of jurisdiction of the Senate or House of Representatives, promptly provide to the chairman of that committee—

(1) access to any information or document described in subsection (a) or (b) that is under the control of such agency and responsive to the request; and

(2) cooperation in gaining access to information and documents described in subsections (a) and (b) that are not under the control of such agency, as appropriate.

(d) REVIEW OF OIL-FOR-FOOD PROGRAM BY COMPTROLLER GENERAL.—(1) The Comptroller General shall conduct a review of the United Nations Oil-for-Food Program, including the role of the United States in that program. The review—

(A) in accordance with generally accepted government auditing standards, should not interfere with any ongoing criminal investigation or inquiry related to that program; and

(B) may take into account the results of any investigation or inquiry related to that program.

(2) The head of each Executive agency shall fully cooperate with the review of the Comptroller General under paragraph (1).

(e) EXECUTIVE AGENCY DEFINED.—In this section, the term "Executive agency" has the meaning given that term in section 105 of title 5, United States Code.

SEC. 1208. SUPPORT OF MILITARY OPERATIONS TO COMBAT TERRORISM.

(a) AUTHORITY.—The Secretary of Defense may expend up to $25,000,000 during any fiscal year during which this subsection is in effect to provide support to foreign forces, irregular forces, groups, or individuals engaged in supporting or facilitating ongoing military operations by United States special operations forces to combat terrorism.

(b) PROCEDURES.—The Secretary of Defense shall establish procedures for the exercise of the authority under subsection (a). The Secretary shall notify the congressional defense committees of those procedures before any exercise of that authority.

(c) NOTIFICATION.—Upon using the authority provided in subsection (a) to make funds available for support of an approved military operation, the Secretary of Defense shall notify the congressional defense committees expeditiously, and in any event in not less than 48 hours, of the use of such authority with respect to that operation. Such a notification need be provided only once with respect to any such operation. Any such notification shall be in writing.

(d) LIMITATION ON DELEGATION.—The authority of the Secretary of Defense to make funds available under subsection (a) for support of a military operation may not be delegated.

(e) INTELLIGENCE ACTIVITIES.—This section does not constitute authority to conduct a covert action, as such term is defined in section 503(e) of the National Security Act of 1947 (50 U.S.C. 413b(e)).

(f) ANNUAL REPORT.—Not later than 30 days after the close of each fiscal year during which subsection (a) is in effect, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report on support provided under that subsection during that fiscal year. Each such report shall describe the support provided, including a statement of the recipient of the support and the amount obligated to provide the support.

(g) FISCAL YEAR 2005 LIMITATION.—Support may be provided under subsection (a) during fiscal year 2005 only from funds made available for operations and maintenance pursuant to title XV of this Act.

(h) PERIOD OF AUTHORITY.—The authority under subsection (a) is in effect during each of fiscal years 2005 through 2007.

Subtitle B—Counterproliferation Matters

SEC. 1211. DEFENSE INTERNATIONAL COUNTERPROLIFERATION PROGRAMS.

(a) INTERNATIONAL SECURITY PROGRAM TO PREVENT UNAUTHORIZED TRANSFER AND TRANSPORTATION OF WMDS.—Subsection (b) of section 1424 of the Defense Against Weapons of Mass Destruction Act of 1996 (50 U.S.C. 2333) is amended to read as follows:

"(b) OTHER COUNTRIES.—The Secretary of Defense may carry out programs under subsection (a) in a country other than a country specified in that subsection if the Secretary determines that there exists in that country a significant threat of the unauthorized transfer and transportation of nuclear, biological, or chemical weapons or related materials.".

(b) INTERNATIONAL TRAINING PROGRAM TO DETER WMD PROLIFERATION.—Section 1504(e)(3)(A) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1995 (Public Law 103–337; 108 Stat. 2918) is amended—

(1) by striking "The training program referred to in paragraph (1)(B) is a" and inserting "The Secretary of Defense may participate in a";

(2) by inserting "of" after "acquisition";

(3) by striking "and" after "countries,"; and

(4) by inserting before the period at the end the following: ", and in other countries in which, as determined by the Secretary of Defense, there exists a significant threat of such proliferation and acquisition".

SEC. 1212. POLICY AND SENSE OF CONGRESS ON NONPROLIFERATION OF BALLISTIC MISSILES.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress makes the following findings:

(1) Certain countries are seeking to acquire ballistic missiles and related technologies that could be used to attack the United States or place at risk United States interests, deployed members of the Armed Forces, and allies of the United States and other friendly foreign countries.

(2) Certain countries continue to actively transfer or sell ballistic missile technologies in contravention of standards of behavior established by the United States and allies of the United States and other friendly foreign countries.

(3) The spread of ballistic missiles and related technologies worldwide has been slowed by a combination of national and international export controls, forward-looking diplomacy, and multilateral interdiction activities to restrict the development and transfer of such missiles and technologies.

(b) POLICY.—It is the policy of the United States to develop, support, and strengthen international accords and other cooperative efforts to curtail the proliferation of ballistic missiles and related technologies which could threaten the territory of the United States, allies of the United States and other friendly foreign countries, and deployed members of the Armed Forces of the United States with weapons of mass destruction.

(c) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Congress that—

(1) the United States should vigorously pursue foreign policy initiatives aimed at eliminating, reducing, or retarding the proliferation of ballistic missiles and related technologies; and

(2) the United States and the international community should continue to support and strengthen established international accords and other cooperative efforts, including United Nations Security Council Resolution 1540 (April 28, 2004) and the Missile Technology Control Regime, that are designed to eliminate, reduce, or retard the proliferation of ballistic missiles and related technologies.

SEC. 1213. SENSE OF CONGRESS ON THE GLOBAL PARTNERSHIP AGAINST THE SPREAD OF WEAPONS OF MASS DESTRUCTION.

(a) COMMENDATION OF PRESIDENT.—Congress commends the President for the steps taken at the G-8 summit at Sea Island, Georgia, on June 8–10, 2004—

(1) to demonstrate continued support for the Global Partnership against the Spread of Nuclear Weapons and Materials of Mass Destruction; and

(2) to expand the Partnership (A) by welcoming new members, and (B) by using the Partnership to coordinate nonproliferation projects in Libya, Iraq, and other countries.

(b) FUTURE ACTIONS.—It is the sense of Congress that the President should seek to—

(1) expand the membership of donor nations to the Global Partnership against the Spread of Nuclear Weapons and Materials of Mass Destruction;

(2) ensure that the Russian Federation remains the primary focus of the Partnership, but also seek to fund, through the Partnership, efforts in other countries that need assistance to secure or dismantle their own potentially vulnerable weapons or materials;

(3) develop for the Partnership clear program goals;

(4) develop for the Partnership transparent project prioritization and planning;

(5) develop for the Partnership project implementation milestones under periodic review;

(6) develop under the Partnership agreements between partners for project implementation; and

(7) give high priority and senior-level attention to resolving disagreements on site access and worker liability under the Partnership.

SEC. 1214. REPORT ON COLLABORATIVE MEASURES TO REDUCE THE RISKS OF A LAUNCH OF RUSSIAN NUCLEAR WEAPONS.

Not later than November 1, 2005, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to Congress a report on collaborative measures between the United States and the Russian Federation to reduce the risks of a launch of a nuclear-armed ballistic missile as a result of accident, misinformation, miscalculation, or unauthorized use. The report shall provide—

(1) a description and assessment of the collaborative measures that are currently in effect;

(2) a description and assessment of other collaborative measures that could be pursued in the future;

(3) an assessment of the potential contributions of such collaborative measures to the national security of the United States;

(4) an assessment of the effect of such collaborative measures on relations between the United States and the Russian Federation;

(5) a description of the obstacles and opportunities associated with pursuing such collaborative measures; and

(6) an assessment of the future of the Joint Data Exchange Center.

Subtitle C—Other Matters

SEC. 1221. AUTHORITY FOR HUMANITARIAN ASSISTANCE FOR THE DETECTION AND CLEARANCE OF LANDMINES EXTENDED TO INCLUDE OTHER EXPLOSIVE REMNANTS OF WAR.

(a) EXTENSION OF AUTHORITY.—Subsection (e)(5) of section 401 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by inserting "and other explosive remnants of war" after "landmines" both places it appears.

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—Such section is further amended—

(1) in subsection (a)(4)(A), by inserting "or other explosive remnants of war" after "landmines"; and

(2) in subsection (c)(2)(B), by striking "landmine clearing equipment or supplies" and inserting "equipment or supplies for clearing landmines or other explosive remnants of war".

SEC. 1222. EXPANSION OF ENTITIES OF THE PEOPLE'S REPUBLIC OF CHINA SUBJECT TO CERTAIN PRESIDENTIAL AUTHORITIES WHEN OPERATING IN THE UNITED STATES.

Section 1237(b)(4)(B)(i) of the Strom Thurmond National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1999 (50 U.S.C. 1701 note) is amended—

(1) by inserting ", or affiliated with," after "or controlled by"; and

(2) by inserting after "the People's Liberation Army" the following: "or a ministry of the government of the People's Republic of China or that is owned or controlled by an entity affiliated with the defense industrial base of the People's Republic of China".

SEC. 1223. ASSIGNMENT OF NATO NAVAL PERSONNEL TO SUBMARINE SAFETY PROGRAMS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 631 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

"§ 7234. Submarine safety programs: participation of NATO naval personnel

"(a) ACCEPTANCE OF ASSIGNMENT OF FOREIGN NAVAL PERSONNEL.—In order to facilitate the development, standardization, and interoperability of submarine vessel safety and rescue systems and procedures, the Secretary of the Navy may conduct a program under which members of the naval service of any of the member nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization may be assigned to United States commands to work on such systems and procedures.

"(b) RECIPROCITY NOT REQUIRED.—The authority under subsection (a) is not an exchange program. Reciprocal assignments of members of the Navy to the naval service of a foreign country is not a condition for the exercise of such authority.

"(c) COSTS FOR FOREIGN PERSONNEL.—(1) The United States may not pay the following costs for a member of a foreign naval service sent to the United States under the program authorized by this section:

"(A) Salary.

"(B) Per diem.

"(C) Cost of living.

"(D) Travel costs.

"(E) Cost of language or other training.

"(F) Other costs.

"(2) Paragraph (1) does not apply to the following costs, which may be paid by the United States:

"(A) The cost of temporary duty directed by the Secretary of the Navy or an officer of the Navy authorized to do so.

"(B) The cost of training programs conducted to familiarize, orient, or certify members of foreign naval services regarding unique aspects of their assignments.

"(C) Costs incident to the use of the facilities of the Navy in the performance of assigned duties.

"(d) RELATIONSHIP TO OTHER AUTHORITY.—The provisions of this section shall apply in the exercise of any authority of the Secretary of the Navy to enter into an agreement with the government of a foreign country, subject to the concurrence of the Secretary of State, to provide for the assignment of members of the naval service of the foreign country to a Navy submarine safety program. The Secretary of the Navy may prescribe regulations for the application of this section in the exercise of such authority.

"(e) TERMINATION OF AUTHORITY.—The Secretary of the Navy may not accept the assignment of a member of the naval service of a foreign country under this section after September 30, 2008.".

(b) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of sections at the beginning of such chapter is amended by adding at the end the following new item:

"7234. Submarine safety programs: participation of NATO naval personnel.".

SEC. 1224. AVAILABILITY OF WARSAW INITIATIVE FUNDS FOR NEW NATO MEMBERS.

(a) AVAILABILITY OF FUNDS.—Of the amount authorized to be appropriated by section 301(5) for operation and maintenance, defense-wide activities, and available for the Defense Security Cooperation Agency for the Warsaw Initiative Funds (WIF), $4,000,000 may be available only in fiscal year 2005 for the participation of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) members set forth in subsection (b) in the exercises and programs of the Partnership for Peace program of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

(3) Latvia.

(4) Lithuania.

(5) Romania.

(6) Slovakia.

(7) Slovenia.

SEC. 1225. BILATERAL EXCHANGES AND TRADE IN DEFENSE ARTICLES AND DEFENSE SERVICES BETWEEN THE UNITED STATES AND THE UNITED KINGDOM AND AUSTRALIA.

(a) POLICY.—It is the policy of Congress that bilateral exchanges and trade in defense articles and defense services between the United States and the United Kingdom and Australia are in the national security interest of the United States and that such exchanges and trade should be subjected to accelerated review and processing consistent with national security and the requirements of the Arms Export Control Act (22 U.S.C. 2751 et seq.).

(b) REQUIREMENT.—The Secretary of State shall ensure that any license application submitted for the export of defense articles or defense services to Australia or the United Kingdom is expeditiously processed by the Department of State, in consultation with the Department of Defense, without referral to any other Federal department or agency, except where the item is classified or exceptional circumstances apply.

(c) REGULATIONS.—The President shall ensure that regulations are prescribed to implement this section.

SEC. 1226. STUDY ON MISSILE DEFENSE COOPERATION.

(a) REQUIREMENT FOR STUDY.—The Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Secretary of State, shall carry out a study to determine the advisability of authorizing or requiring—

(1) the Secretary of State to establish procedures for considering technical assistance agreements and related amendments and munitions license applications for the export of defense items related to missile defense not later than 30 days after receiving such agreements, amendments, and munitions license applications, except in cases in which the Secretary of State determines that additional time is required to complete a review of a technical assistance agreement or related amendment or a munitions license application for foreign policy or national security reasons, including concerns regarding the proliferation of ballistic missile technology; and

(2) the Secretary of Defense to establish procedures to increase the efficiency and transparency of the practices used by the Department of Defense to review technical assistance agreements and related amendments and munitions license applications related to international cooperation on missile defense that are referred to the Department.

(b) FEASIBILITY OF REQUIRING COMPREHENSIVE AUTHORIZATIONS FOR MISSILE DEFENSE.—In carrying out the study under subsection (a), the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Secretary of State, shall examine the feasibility of providing major project authorizations for programs related to missile defense similar to the comprehensive export authorization specified in section 126.14 of the International Traffic in Arms Regulations (section 126.14 of title 22, Code of Federal Regulations).

(c) REPORT.—Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Defense shall, in consultation with the Secretary of State, submit to the Committee on Armed Services and the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate and the Committee on Armed Services and the Committee on International Relations of the House of Representatives a report on the results of the study under subsection (a). The report shall include—

(1) the determinations resulting from the study, including a determination on the feasibility of providing the major project authorization for projects related to missile defense described in subsection (b); and

(2) a discussion of the justification for each such determination.

(d) DEFINITION OF DEFENSE ITEMS.—In this section, the term "defense items" has the meaning given that term in section 38(j)(4)(A) of the Arms Export Control Act (22 U.S.C. 2778(j)(4)(A)).

TITLE XIII—COOPERATIVE THREAT REDUCTION WITH STATES OF THE FORMER SOVIET UNION

Sec. 1301. Specification of Cooperative Threat Reduction programs and funds.
Sec. 1302. Funding allocations.
Sec. 1303. Temporary authority to waive limitation on funding for chemical weapons destruction facility in Russia.
Sec. 1304. Inclusion of descriptive summaries in annual Cooperative Threat Reduction reports and budget justification materials.

SEC. 1301. SPECIFICATION OF COOPERATIVE THREAT REDUCTION PROGRAMS AND FUNDS.

(a) SPECIFICATION OF CTR PROGRAMS.—For purposes of section 301 and other provisions of this Act, Cooperative Threat Reduction programs are the programs specified in section 1501(b) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1997 (Public Law 104–201; 110 Stat. 2731; 50 U.S.C. 2362 note).

(b) FISCAL YEAR 2005 COOPERATIVE THREAT REDUCTION FUNDS DEFINED.—As used in this title, the term "fiscal year 2005 Cooperative Threat Reduction funds" means the funds appropriated pursuant to the authorization of appropriations in section 301 for Cooperative Threat Reduction programs.

(c) AVAILABILITY OF FUNDS.—Funds appropriated pursuant to the authorization of appropriations in section 301 for Cooperative Threat Reduction programs shall be available for obligation for three fiscal years.

SEC. 1302. FUNDING ALLOCATIONS.

(a) FUNDING FOR SPECIFIC PURPOSES.—Of the $409,200,000 authorized to be appropriated to the Department of Defense for fiscal year 2005 in section 301(19) for Cooperative Threat Reduction programs, the following amounts may be obligated for the purposes specified:

(1) For strategic offensive arms elimination in Russia, $58,522,000.

(2) For nuclear weapons storage security in Russia, $48,672,000.

(3) For nuclear weapons transportation security in Russia, $26,300,000.

(4) For weapons of mass destruction proliferation prevention in the states of the former Soviet Union, $40,030,000.

(5) For chemical weapons destruction in Russia, $158,400,000.

(6) For biological weapons proliferation prevention in the former Soviet Union, $54,959,000.

(7) For defense and military contacts, $8,000,000.

(8) For activities designated as Other Assessments/Administrative Support, $14,317,000.

(b) REPORT ON OBLIGATION OR EXPENDITURE OF FUNDS FOR OTHER PURPOSES.—No fiscal year 2005 Cooperative Threat Reduction funds may be obligated or expended for a purpose other than a purpose listed in paragraphs (1) through (8) of subsection (a) until 30 days after the date that the Secretary of Defense submits to Congress a report on the purpose for which the funds will be obligated or expended and the amount of funds to be obligated or expended. Nothing in the preceding sentence shall be construed as authorizing the obligation or expenditure of fiscal year 2005 Cooperative Threat Reduction funds for a purpose for which the obligation or expenditure of such funds is specifically prohibited under this title or any other provision of law.

(c) LIMITED AUTHORITY TO VARY INDIVIDUAL AMOUNTS.—(1) Subject to paragraphs (2) and (3), in any case in which the Secretary of Defense determines that it is necessary to do so in the national interest, the Secretary may obligate amounts appropriated for fiscal year 2005 for a purpose listed in any of the paragraphs in subsection (a) in excess of the specific amount authorized for that purpose.

(2) An obligation of funds for a purpose stated in any of the paragraphs in subsection (a) in excess of the specific amount authorized for such purpose may be made using the authority provided in paragraph (1) only after—

(A) the Secretary submits to Congress notification of the intent to do so together with a complete discussion of the justification for doing so; and

(B) 15 days have elapsed following the date of the notification.

(3) The Secretary may not, under the authority provided in paragraph (1), obligate amounts for a purpose stated in any of paragraphs (5) through (8) of subsection (a) in excess of 125 percent of the specific amount authorized for such purpose.

SEC. 1303. TEMPORARY AUTHORITY TO WAIVE LIMITATION ON FUNDING FOR CHEMICAL WEAPONS DESTRUCTION FACILITY IN RUSSIA.

(a) TEMPORARY AUTHORITY.—Section 1305 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2000 (Public Law 106–65; 22 U.S.C. 5952 note) shall not apply for a calendar year for which the President submits to Congress a written certification that includes—

(1) a statement as to why a waiver of the conditions described in such section 1305 is important to the national security interests of the United States;

(2) a full and complete justification for the waiver of the conditions; and

(3) a plan to promote a full and accurate disclosure by Russia regarding the size, content, status, and location of its chemical weapons stockpile.

(b) EXPIRATION.—The authority in subsection (a) shall expire on December 31, 2006, and no waiver shall remain in effect after that date.

SEC. 1304. INCLUSION OF DESCRIPTIVE SUMMARIES IN ANNUAL COOPERATIVE THREAT REDUCTION REPORTS AND BUDGET JUSTIFICATION MATERIALS.

Section 1307 of the Strom Thurmond National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1999 (Public Law 105–261; 112 Stat. 2165; 22 U.S.C. 5952 note) is amended—

(1) in subsection (a), by striking "as part of the Secretary's annual budget request to Congress" in the matter preceding paragraph (1) and inserting "in the materials and manner specified in subsection (c)"; and

(2) by adding at the end the following new subsection:

"(c) INCLUSION IN CERTAIN MATERIALS SUBMITTED TO CONGRESS.—The summary required to be submitted to Congress in a fiscal year under subsection (a) shall be set forth by project category, and by amounts specified in paragraphs (1) and (2) of that subsection in connection with such project category, in each of the following:

"(1) The annual report on activities and assistance under Cooperative Threat Reduction programs required in such fiscal year under section 1308 of the Floyd D. Spence National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2001 (as enacted into law by Public Law 106–398).

"(2) The budget justification materials submitted to Congress in support of the Department of Defense budget for the fiscal year succeeding such fiscal year (as submitted with the budget of the President under section 1105(a) of title 31, United States Code).".

TITLE XIV—SUNKEN MILITARY CRAFT

Sec. 1401. Preservation of title to sunken military craft and associated contents.
Sec. 1402. Prohibitions.
Sec. 1403. Permits.
Sec. 1404. Penalties.
Sec. 1405. Liability for damages.
Sec. 1406. Relationship to other laws.
Sec. 1407. Encouragement of agreements with foreign countries.
Sec. 1408. Definitions.

SEC. 1401. PRESERVATION OF TITLE TO SUNKEN MILITARY CRAFT AND ASSOCIATED CONTENTS.

Right, title, and interest of the United States in and to any United States sunken military craft—

(1) shall not be extinguished except by an express divestiture of title by the United States; and

(2) shall not be extinguished by the passage of time, regardless of when the sunken military craft sank.

SEC. 1402. PROHIBITIONS.

(a) UNAUTHORIZED ACTIVITIES DIRECTED AT SUNKEN MILITARY CRAFT.—No person shall engage in or attempt to engage in any activity directed at a sunken military craft that disturbs, removes, or injures any sunken military craft, except—

(1) as authorized by a permit under this title;

(2) as authorized by regulations issued under this title; or

(3) as otherwise authorized by law.

(b) POSSESSION OF SUNKEN MILITARY CRAFT.—No person may possess, disturb, remove, or injure any sunken military craft in violation of—

(1) this section; or

(2) any prohibition, rule, regulation, ordinance, or permit that applies under any other applicable law.

(c) LIMITATIONS ON APPLICATION.—

(1) ACTIONS BY UNITED STATES.—This section shall not apply to actions taken by, or at the direction of, the United States.

(2) FOREIGN PERSONS.—This section shall not apply to any action by a person who is not a citizen, national, or resident alien of the United States, except in accordance with—

(A) generally recognized principles of international law;

(B) an agreement between the United States and the foreign country of which the person is a citizen; or

(C) in the case of an individual who is a crew member or other individual on a foreign vessel or foreign aircraft, an agreement between the United States and the flag State of the foreign vessel or aircraft that applies to the individual.

(3) LOAN OF SUNKEN MILITARY CRAFT.—This section does not prohibit the loan of United States sunken military craft in accordance with regulations issued by the Secretary concerned.

SEC. 1403. PERMITS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary concerned may issue a permit authorizing a person to engage in an activity otherwise prohibited by section 1402 with respect to a United States sunken military craft, for archaeological, historical, or educational purposes, in accordance with regulations issued by such Secretary that implement this section.

(b) CONSISTENCY WITH OTHER LAWS.—The Secretary concerned shall require that any activity carried out under a permit issued by such Secretary under this section must be consistent with all requirements and restrictions that apply under any other provision of Federal law.

(c) CONSULTATION.—In carrying out this section (including the issuance after the date of the enactment of this Act of regulations implementing this section), the Secretary concerned shall consult with the head of each Federal agency having authority under Federal law with respect to activities directed at sunken military craft or the locations of such craft.

(d) APPLICATION TO FOREIGN CRAFT.—At the request of any foreign State, the Secretary of the Navy, in consultation with the Secretary of State, may carry out this section (including regulations promulgated pursuant to this section) with respect to any foreign sunken military craft of that foreign State located in United States waters.

SEC. 1404. PENALTIES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Any person who violates this title, or any regulation or permit issued under this title, shall be liable to the United States for a civil penalty under this section.

(b) ASSESSMENT AND AMOUNT.—The Secretary concerned may assess a civil penalty under this section, after notice and an opportunity for a hearing, of not more than $100,000 for each violation.

(c) CONTINUING VIOLATIONS.—Each day of a continued violation of this title or a regulation or permit issued under this title shall constitute a separate violation for purposes of this section.

(d) IN REM LIABILITY.—A vessel used to violate this title shall be liable in rem for a penalty under this section for such violation.

(e) OTHER RELIEF.—If the Secretary concerned determines that there is an imminent risk of disturbance of, removal of, or injury to any sunken military craft, or that there has been actual disturbance of, removal of, or injury to a sunken military craft, the Attorney General, upon request of the Secretary concerned, may seek such relief as may be necessary to abate such risk or actual disturbance, removal, or injury and to return or restore the sunken military craft. The district courts of the United States shall have jurisdiction in such a case to order such relief as the public interest and the equities of the case may require.

(f) LIMITATIONS.—An action to enforce a violation of section 1402 or any regulation or permit issued under this title may not be brought more than 8 years after the date on which—

(1) all facts material to the right of action are known or should have been known by the Secretary concerned; and

(2) the defendant is subject to the jurisdiction of the appropriate district court of the United States or administrative forum.

SEC. 1405. LIABILITY FOR DAMAGES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Any person who engages in an activity in violation of section 1402 or any regulation or permit issued under this title that disturbs, removes, or injures any United States sunken military craft shall pay the United States enforcement costs and damages resulting from such disturbance, removal, or injury.

(b) INCLUDED DAMAGES.—Damages referred to in subsection (a) may include—

(1) the reasonable costs incurred in storage, restoration, care, maintenance, conservation, and curation of any sunken military craft that is disturbed, removed, or injured in violation of section 1402 or any regulation or permit issued under this title; and

(2) the cost of retrieving, from the site where the sunken military craft was disturbed, removed, or injured, any information of an archaeological, historical, or cultural nature.

SEC. 1406. RELATIONSHIP TO OTHER LAWS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Except to the extent that an activity is undertaken as a subterfuge for activities prohibited by this title, nothing in this title is intended to affect—

(1) any activity that is not directed at a sunken military craft; or

(2) the traditional high seas freedoms of navigation, including—

(A) the laying of submarine cables and pipelines;

(B) operation of vessels;

(C) fishing; or

(D) other internationally lawful uses of the sea related to such freedoms.

(b) INTERNATIONAL LAW.—This title and any regulations implementing this title shall be applied in accordance with generally recognized principles of international law and in accordance with the treaties, conventions, and other agreements to which the United States is a party.

(c) LAW OF FINDS.—The law of finds shall not apply to—

(1) any United States sunken military craft, wherever located; or

(2) any foreign sunken military craft located in United States waters.

(d) LAW OF SALVAGE.—No salvage rights or awards shall be granted with respect to—

(1) any United States sunken military craft without the express permission of the United States; or

(2) any foreign sunken military craft located in United States waters without the express permission of the relevant foreign state.

(e) LAW OF CAPTURE OR PRIZE.—Nothing in this title is intended to alter the international law of capture or prize with respect to sunken military craft.

(f) LIMITATION OF LIABILITY.—Nothing in sections 4281 through 4287 and 4289 of the Revised Statutes (46 U.S.C. App. 181 et seq.) or section 3 of the Act of February 13, 1893 (chapter 105; 27 Stat. 445; 46 U.S.C. App. 192), shall limit the liability of any person under this section.

(g) AUTHORITIES OF THE COMMANDANT OF THE COAST GUARD.—Nothing in this title is intended to preclude or limit the application of any other law enforcement authorities of the Commandant of the Coast Guard.

(h) PRIOR DELEGATIONS, AUTHORIZATIONS, AND RELATED REGULATIONS.—Nothing in this title shall invalidate any prior delegation, authorization, or related regulation that is consistent with this title.

(i) CRIMINAL LAW.—Nothing in this title is intended to prevent the United States from pursuing criminal sanctions for plundering of wrecks, larceny of Government property, or violation of any applicable criminal law.

SEC. 1407. ENCOURAGEMENT OF AGREEMENTS WITH FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

The Secretary of State, in consultation with the Secretary of Defense, is encouraged to negotiate and conclude bilateral and multilateral agreements with foreign countries with regard to sunken military craft consistent with this title.

SEC. 1408. DEFINITIONS.

In this title:

(1) ASSOCIATED CONTENTS.—The term "associated contents" means—

(A) the equipment, cargo, and contents of a sunken military craft that are within its debris field; and

(B) the remains and personal effects of the crew and passengers of a sunken military craft that are within its debris field.

(2) SECRETARY CONCERNED.—The term "Secretary concerned" means—

(A) subject to subparagraph (B), the Secretary of a military department; and

(B) in the case of a Coast Guard vessel, the Secretary of the Department in which the Coast Guard is operating.

(3) SUNKEN MILITARY CRAFT.—The term "sunken military craft" means all or any portion of—

(A) any sunken warship, naval auxiliary, or other vessel that was owned or operated by a government on military noncommercial service when it sank;

(B) any sunken military aircraft or military spacecraft that was owned or operated by a government when it sank; and

(C) the associated contents of a craft referred to in subparagraph (A) or (B), if title thereto has not been abandoned or transferred by the government concerned.

(4) UNITED STATES CONTIGUOUS ZONE.—The term "United States contiguous zone" means the contiguous zone of the United States under Presidential Proclamation 7219, dated September 2, 1999.

(5) UNITED STATES INTERNAL WATERS.—The term "United States internal waters" means all waters of the United States on the landward side of the baseline from which the breadth of the United States territorial sea is measured.

(6) UNITED STATES TERRITORIAL SEA.—The term "United States territorial sea" means the waters of the United States territorial sea under Presidential Proclamation 5928, dated December 27, 1988.

(7) UNITED STATES WATERS.—The term "United States waters" means United States internal waters, the United States territorial sea, and the United States contiguous zone.

Subtitle A—Military Construction Program and Military Family Housing Changes

SEC. 2801. MODIFICATION OF APPROVAL AND NOTICE REQUIREMENTS FOR FACILITY REPAIR PROJECTS.

(a) INCREASE IN THRESHOLD FOR APPROVAL REQUIREMENT.—Subsection (b) of section 2811 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by striking "$5,000,000" and inserting "$7,500,000".

(b) DECREASE IN THRESHOLD FOR CONGRESSIONAL NOTIFICATION.—Subsection (d) of such section is amended by striking "$10,000,000" and inserting "$7,500,000".

(c) INFORMATION REQUIRED IN COST ESTIMATE FOR MULTI-YEAR PROJECTS.—Subsection (d)(1) of such section is amended by inserting before the semicolon the following: ", including, in the case of a multi-year repair project to a single facility, the total cost of all phases of the project".

SEC. 2802. REPORTING REQUIREMENTS REGARDING MILITARY FAMILY HOUSING REQUIREMENTS FOR GENERAL OFFICERS AND FLAG OFFICERS.

(a) REPORTS ON COST OF GENERAL AND FLAG OFFICERS QUARTERS.—Section 2831 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

"(e) REPORTS ON COST OF GENERAL OFFICERS AND FLAG OFFICERS QUARTERS.—(1) As part of the budget materials submitted to Congress in connection with the submission of the budget for a fiscal year pursuant to section 1105 of title 31, the Secretary of Defense shall submit a report—

"(A) identifying each family housing unit used, or intended for use, as quarters for a general officer or flag officer for which the total operation, maintenance, and repair costs for the unit are anticipated to exceed $35,000 in the next fiscal year; and

"(B) for each family housing unit so identified, specifying the total of such anticipated operation, maintenance, and repair costs for the unit.

"(2) Not later than 120 days after the end of each fiscal year, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report specifying, for each family housing unit used as quarters for a general officer or flag officer at any time during that fiscal year, the total expenditures for operation and maintenance, utilities, lease, and repairs of the unit during that fiscal year.".

(b) NOTICE AND WAIT REQUIREMENT.—Such section is further amended by inserting after subsection (e), as added by subsection (a), the following new subsection:

"(f) NOTICE AND WAIT REQUIREMENT.—(1) Except as provided in paragraphs (2) and (3), the Secretary concerned may not carry out a maintenance or repair project for a family housing unit used, or intended for use, as quarters for a general officer or flag officer if the project will or may result in the total operation, maintenance, and repair costs for the unit for the fiscal year to exceed $35,000, until—

"(A) the Secretary concerned submits to the congressional defense committees, in writing, a justification of the need for the maintenance or repair project and an estimate of the cost of the project; and

"(B) a period of 21 days has expired following the date on which the justification and estimate are received by the committees or, if over sooner, a period of 14 days has expired following the date on which a copy of the justification and estimate are provided in an electronic medium pursuant to section 480 of this title.

"(2) The project justification and cost estimate required by paragraph (1)(A) may be submitted after the commencement of a maintenance or repair project for a family housing unit used, or intended for use, as quarters for a general officer or flag officer if the project is a necessary enviromental remediation project for the unit or is necessary for occupant safety or security, and the need for the project arose after the submission of the most recent report under subsection (e).

"(3) Paragraph (1) shall not apply in the case of a family housing unit used, or intended for use, as quarters for a general officer or flag officer if the unit was identified in the most recent report submitted under subsection (e) and the cost of the maintenance or repair project was included in the total of anticipated operation, maintenance, and repair costs for the unit specified in the report.".

(c) REPORT ON NEED FOR GENERAL AND FLAG OFFICERS QUARTERS IN NATIONAL CAPITAL REGION.—Not later than March 30, 2005, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report containing an analysis of anticipated needs in the National Capital Region for family housing units for general officers and flag officers. In conducting the analysis, the Secretary shall consider the extent of available housing in the National Capital Region and the necessity of providing housing for general officers and flag officers in secure locations.

(d) REPORT ON CURRENT WORLD-WIDE INVENTORY OF GENERAL AND FLAG OFFICERS QUARTERS.—Not later than March 30, 2005, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report—

(1) containing a worldwide inventory of family housing units used, or intended for use, for general officers and flag officers; and

(2) identifying annual expenditures for fiscal years 2002, 2003, and 2004 for operation and maintenance, utilities, leases, and repairs of each unit.

(e) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

(1) The terms "general officer" and "flag officer" have the meanings given such terms in section 101(b) of title 10, United States Code.

(2) The term "National Capital Region" has the meaning given such term in section 2674(f) of such title.

SEC. 2803. CONGRESSIONAL NOTIFICATION OF DEVIATIONS FROM AUTHORIZED COST VARIATIONS FOR MILITARY CONSTRUCTION PROJECTS AND MILITARY FAMILY HOUSING PROJECTS.

SEC. 2804. ASSESSMENT OF VULNERABILITY OF MILITARY INSTALLATIONS TO TERRORIST ATTACK AND ANNUAL REPORT ON MILITARY CONSTRUCTION REQUIREMENTS RELATED TO ANTITERRORISM AND FORCE PROTECTION.

(a) ANNUAL ASSESSMENT AND REPORT.—(1) Chapter 169 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by inserting after section 2858 the following new section:

"§ 2859. Construction requirements related to antiterrorism and force protection

"(a) ANTITERRORISM AND FORCE PROTECTION GUIDANCE AND CRITERIA.—The Secretary of Defense shall develop common guidance and criteria to be used by each Secretary concerned—

"(1) to assess the vulnerability of military installations located inside and outside of the United States to terrorist attack;

"(2) to develop construction standards designed to reduce the vulnerability of structures to terrorist attack and improve the security of the occupants of such structures;

"(3) to prepare and carry out military construction projects, such as gate and fenceline construction, to improve the physical security of military installations; and

"(4) to assist in prioritizing such projects within the military construction budget of each of the armed forces.

"(b) VULNERABILITY ASSESSMENTS.—The Secretary of Defense shall require vulnerability assessments of military installations to be conducted, at regular intervals, using the criteria developed under subsection (a).

"(c) MILITARY CONSTRUCTION REQUIREMENTS.—As part of the budget materials submitted to Congress in connection with the submission of the budget for a fiscal year pursuant to section 1105 of title 31, but in no case later than March 15 of each year, the Secretary of Defense shall submit a report, in both classified and unclassified form, describing—

"(1) the location and results of the vulnerability assessments conducted under subsection (b) during the most recently completed fiscal year;

"(2) the military construction requirements anticipated to be necessary during the period covered by the then-current future-years defense plan under section 221 of this title to improve the physical security of military installations; and

"(3) the extent to which funds to meet those requirements are not requested in the Department of Defense budget for the fiscal year for which the budget is submitted.".

(2) The table of sections at the beginning of subchapter III of chapter 169 of such title is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 2858 the following new item:

"2859. Construction requirements related to antiterrorism and force protection.".

(b) SPECIAL REQUIREMENT FOR 2006 REPORT.—In the case of the report required to be submitted in 2006 under section 2859(c) of title 10, United States Code, as added by subsection (a), the Secretary of Defense shall include a certification by the Secretary that since September 11, 2001, assessments regarding the vulnerability of military installations to terrorist attack have been undertaken for all major military installations. The Secretary shall indicate the basis by which the Secretary differentiated between major and nonmajor military installations for purposes of making the certification.

SEC. 2805. REPEAL OF LIMITATIONS ON USE OF ALTERNATIVE AUTHORITY FOR ACQUISITION AND IMPROVEMENT OF MILITARY HOUSING.

(a) REPEAL OF BUDGET AUTHORITY LIMITATION ON USE OF AUTHORITY.—Section 2883 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by striking subsection (g).

(b) REPEAL OF TERMINATION DATE ON USE OF AUTHORITY.—(1) Section 2885 of such title is repealed.

(2) The table of sections at the beginning of subchapter IV of chapter 169 of such title is amended by striking the item relating to section 2885.

SEC. 2806. ADDITIONAL REPORTING REQUIREMENTS RELATING TO ALTERNATIVE AUTHORITY FOR ACQUISITION AND IMPROVEMENT OF MILITARY HOUSING.

(a) PROJECT REPORTS.—Paragraph (2) of subsection (a) of section 2884 of title 10, United States Code, is amended to read as follows:

"(2) For each proposed contract, conveyance, or lease described in paragraph (1), the report required by such paragraph shall include the following:

"(A) A description of the contract, conveyance, or lease, including a summary of the terms of the contract, conveyance, or lease.

"(B) A description of the authorities to be utilized in entering into the contract, conveyance, or lease and the intended method of participation of the United States in the contract, conveyance, or lease, including a justification of the intended method of participation.

"(C) A statement of the scored cost of the contract, conveyance, or lease, as determined by the Office of Management and Budget.

"(D) A statement of the United States funds required for the contract, conveyance, or lease and a description of the source of such funds.

"(E) An economic assessment of the life cycle costs of the contract, conveyance, or lease, including an estimate of the amount of United States funds that would be paid over the life of the contract, conveyance, or lease from amounts derived from payments of government allowances, including the basic allowance for housing under section 403 of title 37, if the housing affected by the project were fully occupied by military personnel over the life of the contract, conveyance, or lease.".

(b) ANNUAL REPORTS.—Subsection (b) of such section is amended—

(1) by redesignating paragraph (5) as paragraph (6); and

(2) by inserting after paragraph (4) the following new paragraph (5):

"(5) A report setting forth, by armed force—

"(A) an estimate of the amounts of basic allowance for housing under section 403 of title 37 that will be paid, during the current fiscal year and the fiscal year for which the budget is submitted, to members of the armed forces living in housing provided under the authorities in this subchapter; and

"(B) the number of units of military family housing and military unaccompanied housing upon which the estimate under subparagraph (A) for the current fiscal year and the next fiscal year is based.''.

SEC. 2807. TEMPORARY AUTHORITY TO ACCELERATE DESIGN EFFORTS FOR MILITARY CONSTRUCTION PROJECTS CARRIED OUT USING DESIGN-BUILD SELECTION PROCEDURES.

Section 2305a of title 10, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

''(j) SPECIAL AUTHORITY FOR MILITARY CONSTRUCTION PROJECTS.—(1) The Secretary of a military department may use funds available to the Secretary under section 2807(a) or 18233(e) of this title to accelerate the design effort in connection with a military construction project for which the two-phase selection procedures described in subsection (c) are used to select the contractor for both the design and construction portion of the project before the project is specifically authorized by law and before funds are appropriated for the construction portion of the project. Notwithstanding the limitations contained in such sections, use of such funds for the design portion of a military construction project may continue despite the subsequent authorization of the project. The advance notice requirement of section 2807(b) of this title shall continue to apply whenever the estimated cost of the design portion of the project exceeds the amount specified in such section.

''(2) Any military construction contract that provides for an accelerated design effort, as authorized by paragraph (1), shall include as a condition of the contract that the liability of the United States in a termination for convenience may not exceed the actual costs incurred as of the termination date.

''(3) For each fiscal year during which the authority provided by this subsection is in effect, the Secretary of a military department may select not more than two military construction projects to include the accelerated design effort authorized by paragraph (1) for each armed force under the jurisdiction of the Secretary. To be eligible for selection under this subsection, a request for the authorization of the project, and for the authorization of appropriations for the project, must have been included in the annual budget of the President for a fiscal year submitted to Congress under section 1105(a) of title 31.

''(4) Not later than March 1, 2007, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report evaluating the usefulness of the authority provided by this subsection in expediting the design and construction of military construction projects. The authority provided by this subsection expires September 30, 2007, except that, if the report required by this paragraph is not submitted by March 1, 2007, the authority shall expire on that date.''.

SEC. 2808. NOTIFICATION THRESHOLDS AND REQUIREMENTS FOR EXPENDITURES OR CONTRIBUTIONS FOR ACQUISITION OF FACILITIES FOR RESERVE COMPONENTS.

(a) AUTHORITY TO CARRY OUT SMALL PROJECTS.—Section 18233a of title 10, United States Code, is amended to read as follows:

''§ 18233a. Notice and wait requirements for certain projects

''(a) CONGRESSIONAL NOTIFICATION.—Except as provided in subsection (b), an expenditure or contribution in an amount in excess of $750,000 may not be made under section 18233 of this title for any facility until—

''(1) the Secretary of Defense has notified the congressional defense committees of the location, nature, and estimated cost of the facility; and

''(2) a period of 21 days has elapsed after the notification has been received by those committees or, if over sooner, a period of 14 days has elapsed after the date on which a copy of the notification is provided in an electronic medium pursuant to section 480 of this title.

''(b) CERTAIN EXPENDITURES OR CONTRIBUTIONS EXEMPTED.—Subsection (a) does not apply to expenditures or contributions for the following:

''(1) Facilities acquired by lease.

''(2) A project for a facility that has been authorized by Congress, if the location and purpose of the facility are the same as when authorized and if, based upon bids received—

''(A) the scope of work of the project, as approved by Congress, is not proposed to be reduced by more than 25 percent; and

''(B) the current working estimate of the cost of the project does not exceed the amount approved for the project by more than the lesser of the following:

''(i) 25 percent.

''(ii) 200 percent of the amount specified by section 2805(a)(2) of this title as the maximum amount for a minor military construction project.

''(3) A repair project (as that term is defined in section 2811(e) of this title) that costs less than $7,500,000.''.

(b) RECODIFICATION OF LIMITED AUTHORITY TO USE OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE FUNDS.—Chapter 1803 of such title is amended by inserting after section 18233a the following new section:

''§ 18233b. Authority to carry out small projects with operation and maintenance funds

''Under such regulations as the Secretary of Defense may prescribe, the Secretary may expend, from appropriations available for operation and maintenance, amounts necessary to carry out any project authorized under section 18233(a) of this title that costs not more than—

''(1) the amount specified in section 2805(c)(1)(A) of this title, in the case of a project intended solely to correct a deficiency that is life-threatening, health-threatening, or safety-threatening; or

''(2) the amount specified in section 2805(c)(1)(B) of this title, in the case of any other project.''.

(c) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of sections at the beginning of chapter 1803 of such title is amended by striking the item relating to section 18233a and inserting the following new items:

''18233a. Notice and wait requirements for certain projects.

''18233b. Authority to carry out small projects with operation and maintenance funds.''.

SEC. 2809. AUTHORITY TO EXCHANGE RESERVE COMPONENT FACILITIES TO ACQUIRE REPLACEMENT FACILITIES.

(a) EXCHANGE AUTHORITY.—(1) Chapter 1803 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

''§ 18240. Acquisition of facilities by exchange

''(a) EXCHANGE AUTHORITY.—In addition to the acquisition authority provided by section 18233 of this title, the Secretary of Defense may authorize the Secretary of a military department to acquire a facility, or addition to an existing facility, needed to satisfy military requirements for a reserve component by carrying out an exchange of an existing facility under the control of that Secretary through an agreement with a State, local government, local authority, or private entity.

''(b) FACILITIES ELIGIBLE FOR EXCHANGE.—Only a facility of a reserve component that is not excess property (as defined in section 102(3) of title 40) may be exchanged using the authority provided by this section.

''(c) EQUAL VALUE EXCHANGE.—In any exchange carried out using the authority provided by this section, the value of the replacement facility, or addition to an existing facility, acquired by the United States shall be at least equal to the fair market value of the facility conveyed by the United States under the agreement. If the values are unequal, the values may not be equalized by any payment of cash consideration by either party to the agreement.

''(d) REQUIREMENTS FOR REPLACEMENT FACILITIES.—The Secretary of a military department may not accept a replacement facility, or addition to an existing facility, to be acquired by the United States in an exchange carried out using the authority provided by this section until that Secretary determines that the facility or addition—

''(1) is complete and usable, fully functional, and ready for occupancy;

''(2) satisfies all operational requirements; and

''(3) meets all applicable Federal, State, and local requirements relating to health, safety, fire, and the environment.

''(e) CONSULTATION REQUIREMENTS.—The Secretary of a military department authorized to enter into an agreement under subsection (a) to convey an existing facility under the control of that Secretary by exchange shall consult with representatives of other reserve components to evaluate—

''(1) the value of using the facility to meet the military requirements of another reserve component, instead of conveying the facility under this section; and

''(2) the feasibility of using the conveyance of the facility to acquire a facility, or an addition to an existing facility, that would be jointly used by more than one reserve component or unit.

''(f) ADVANCE NOTICE OF PROPOSED EXCHANGE.—(1) When a decision is made to enter into an agreement under subsection (a) to exchange a facility using the authority provided by this section, the Secretary of the military department authorized to enter into the agreement shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report on the proposed agreement. The report shall include the following:

''(A) A description of the agreement, including the terms and conditions of the agreement, the parties to be involved in the agreement, the origin of the proposal that lead to the agreement, the intended use of the facility to be conveyed by the United States under the agreement, and any costs to be incurred by the United States to make the exchange under the agreement.

''(B) A description of the facility to be conveyed by the United States under the agreement, including the current condition and fair market value of the facility, and a description of the method by which the fair market value of the facility was determined.

''(C) Information on the facility, or addition to an existing facility, to be acquired by the United States under the agreement and the intended use of the facility or addition, which shall meet requirements for information provided to Congress for military construction projects to obtain a similar facility or addition to an existing facility.

''(D) A certification that the Secretary complied with the consultation requirements under subsection (e).

''(E) A certification that the conveyance of the facility under the agreement is in the best interests of the United States and that the Secretary used competitive procedures to the maximum extent practicable to protect the interests of the United States.

''(2) The agreement described in a report prepared under paragraph (1) may be entered into, and the exchange covered by the agreement made, only after the end of the 30-day period beginning on the date the report is received by the congressional defense committees or, if earlier, the end of the 21-day period beginning on the date on which a copy of the report is provided in an electronic medium pursuant to section 480 of this title.

"(3) Section 2662 of this title shall not apply to an exchange carried out using the authority provided by this section.

"(g) RELATION TO OTHER MILITARY CONSTRUCTION REQUIREMENTS.—The acquisition of a facility, or an addition to an existing facility, using the authority provided by this section shall not be treated as a military construction project for which an authorization is required by section 2802 of this title.".

(2) The table of sections at the beginning of such chapter is amended by adding at the end the following new item:

"18240. Acquisition of facilities by exchange.".

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Section 18233(f)(2) of such title is amended by striking "gift, exchange of Government-owned land, or otherwise" and inserting "or gift".

(c) TEMPORARY AUTHORITY TO INCLUDE CASH EQUALIZATION PAYMENTS IN EXCHANGE.—(1) Notwithstanding subsection (c) of section 18240 of title 10, United States Code, as added by subsection (a), the Secretary of Defense may authorize the Secretary of a military department, as part of an exchange agreement under such section, to make or accept a cash equalization payment if the value of the facility, or addition to an existing facility, to be acquired by the United States under the agreement is not equal to the fair market value of the facility to be conveyed by the United States under the agreement. All other requirements of such section shall continue to apply to the exchange.

(2) Cash equalization payments received by the Secretary of a military department under this subsection shall be deposited in a separate account in the Treasury. Amounts in the account shall be available to the Secretary of Defense, without further appropriation and until expended, for transfer to the Secretary of a military department—

(A) to make any cash equalization payments required to be made by the United States in connection with an exchange agreement covered by this subsection, and the account shall be the only source for such payments; and

(B) to cover costs associated with the maintenance, protection, alteration, repair, improvement, or restoration (including environmental restoration) of facilities, and additions to existing facilities, acquired using an exchange agreement covered by this subsection.

(3) Not more than 15 exchange agreements under section 18240 of title 10, United States Code, may include the exception for cash equalization payments authorized by this subsection. Of those 15 exchange agreements, not more than eight may be for the same reserve component.

(4) In this section the term "facility" has the meaning given that term in section 18232(2) of title 10, United States Code.

(5) No cash equalization payment may be made or accepted under the authority of this subsection after September 30, 2007. Except as otherwise specifically authorized by law, the authority provided by this subsection to make or accept cash equalization payments in connection with the acquisition or disposal of facilities of the reserve components is the sole authority available in law to the Secretary of Defense or the Secretary of a military department for that purpose.

(6) Not later than March 1, 2008, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report on the exercise of the authority provided by this subsection. The report shall include the following:

(A) A description of the exchange agreements under section 18240 of title 10, United States Code, that included the authority to make or accept cash equalization payments.

(B) A description of the analysis and criteria used to select such agreements for inclusion of the authority to make or accept cash equalization payments.

(C) An assessment of the utility to the Department of Defense of the authority, including recommendations for modifications of such authority in order to enhance the utility of such authority for the Department.

(D) An assessment of interest in the future use of the authority, in the event the authority is extended.

(E) An assessment of the advisability of making the authority, including any modifications of the authority recommended under subparagraph (C), permanent.

SEC. 2810. ONE-YEAR EXTENSION OF TEMPORARY, LIMITED AUTHORITY TO USE OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE FUNDS FOR CONSTRUCTION PROJECTS OUTSIDE THE UNITED STATES.

Section 2808 of the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004 (division B of Public Law 108–136; 117 Stat. 1723) is amended—

(1) in subsection (a), by inserting "and, subject to subsection (d)(2), fiscal year 2005" after "During fiscal year 2004";

(2) in subsection (c)(1), by striking "in fiscal year 2004" and inserting "in a fiscal year"; and

(3) in subsection (d)—

(A) by inserting "(1)" before "Not later than";

(B) by striking "fiscal year 2004," and inserting "fiscal years 2004 and 2005,"; and

(C) by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

"(2) The ability to use this section as authority during fiscal year 2005 to obligate appropriated funds available for operation and maintenance to carry out construction projects outside the United States shall commence only after the date on which the Secretary of Defense submits to the congressional committees specified in subsection (f) all of the quarterly reports that were required under paragraph (1) for fiscal year 2004.".

SEC. 2811. CONSIDERATION OF COMBINATION OF MILITARY MEDICAL TREATMENT FACILITIES AND HEALTH CARE FACILITIES OF DEPARTMENT OF VETERANS AFFAIRS.

(a) DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE CONSIDERATION OF JOINT CONSTRUCTION.—When considering any military construction project for the construction of a new military medical treatment facility in the United States or a territory or possession of the United States, the Secretary of Defense shall consult with the Secretary of Veterans Affairs regarding the feasibility of carrying out a joint project to construct a medical facility that—

(1) could serve as a facility for health-resources sharing between the Department of Defense and the Department of Veterans Affairs; and

(2) would be no more costly to each Department to construct and operate than separate facilities for each Department.

(b) DEPARTMENT OF VETERANS AFFAIRS CONSIDERATION OF JOINT CONSTRUCTION.—When considering the construction of a new or replacement medical facility for the Department of Veterans Affairs, the Secretary of Veterans Affairs shall consult with the Secretary of Defense regarding the feasibility of carrying out a joint project to construct a medical facility that—

(1) could serve as a facility for health-resources sharing between the Department of Veterans Affairs and the Department of Defense; and

(2) would be no more costly to each Department to construct and operate than separate facilities for each Department.

Subtitle B—Real Property and Facilities Administration

SEC. 2821. REORGANIZATION OF EXISTING ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS RELATING TO REAL PROPERTY TRANSACTIONS.

(a) LIMITATION ON COMMISSIONS.—(1) Section 2661 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

"(c) COMMISSIONS ON LAND PURCHASE CONTRACTS.—The maximum amount payable as a commission on a contract for the purchase of land from funds appropriated for the Department of Defense is two percent of the purchase price.".

(2) Section 2666 of such title is repealed.

(b) REPEAL OF OBSOLETE AUTHORITY TO ACQUIRE LAND FOR TIMBER PRODUCTION.—Section 2664 of such title is repealed.

(c) CONSOLIDATION OF CERTAIN PROVISIONS ON USE OF FACILITIES.—(1) Section 2670 of such title is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

"(c) USE OF SPACE AND EQUIPMENT BY VETERANS SERVICE ORGANIZATIONS.—(1) Upon certification to the Secretary concerned by the Secretary of Veterans Affairs, the Secretary concerned shall allow accredited, paid, full-time representatives of the organizations named in section 5902 of title 38, or of other organizations recognized by the Secretary of Veterans Affairs, to function on military installations under the jurisdiction of the Secretary concerned that are on land and from which persons are discharged or released from active duty.

"(2) The commanding officer of a military installation allowing representatives to function on the installation under paragraph (1) shall allow the representatives to use available space and equipment at the installation.

"(3) This subsection does not authorize the violation of measures of military security.".

(2) Section 2679 of such title is repealed.

(3) The regulations prescribed to carry out section 2679 of title 10, United States Code, as in effect on the day before the date of the enactment of this Act, shall remain in effect with regard to section 2670(c) of such title, as added by paragraph (1), until changed by joint action of the Secretary concerned (as defined in section 101(9) of such title) and the Secretary of Veterans Affairs.

(d) AVAILABILITY OF FUNDS FOR ACQUISITION OF CERTAIN INTERESTS IN REAL PROPERTY.—(1) Section 2672 of such title is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

"(d) AVAILABILITY OF FUNDS.—Appropriations available to the Department of Defense for operation and maintenance or construction may be used for the acquisition of land or interests in land under this section.".

(2) Section 2673 of such title is repealed.

(3) Section 2675 of such title is amended—

(A) by inserting "(a) LEASE AUTHORITY; DURATION.—" before "The Secretary"; and

(B) by adding at the end the following new subsection:

"(b) AVAILABILITY OF FUNDS.—Appropriations available to the Department of Defense for operation and maintenance or construction may be used for the acquisition of interests in land under this section.".

(e) STYLISTIC AND CLERICAL AMENDMENTS.—(1) Section 2661 of such title is further amended—

(A) in subsection (a), by inserting "AVAILABILITY OF OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE FUNDS.—" after "(a)"; and

(B) in subsection (b), by inserting "LEASING AND ROAD MAINTENANCE AUTHORITY.—" after "(b)".

(2) The heading of section 2670 of such title is amended to read as follows:

"§2670. Use of facilities by private organizations; use as polling places".

(3) The table of sections at the beginning of chapter 159 of such title is amended—

(A) by striking the items relating to sections 2664, 2666, 2673, and 2679; and

(B) by striking the item relating to section 2670 and inserting the following new item:

"2670. Use of facilities by private organizations; use as polling places.".

SEC. 2822. DEVELOPMENT OF HERITAGE CENTER FOR THE NATIONAL MUSEUM OF THE UNITED STATES ARMY.

(a) AUTHORITY TO ENTER INTO AGREEMENT FOR DEVELOPMENT OF CENTER.—Chapter 449 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by inserting after section 4771 the following new section:

"§4772. Heritage Center for the National Museum of the United States Army: development and operation

"(a) AGREEMENT FOR DEVELOPMENT OF CENTER.—The Secretary of the Army may enter into an agreement with the Army Historical Foundation, a nonprofit organization, for the design, construction, and operation of a facility or group of facilities at Fort Belvoir, Virginia, for the National Museum of the United States Army. The facility or group of facilities constructed pursuant to the agreement shall be known as the Heritage Center for the National Museum of the United States Army (in this section referred to as the 'Center').

"(b) PURPOSE OF CENTER.—The Center shall be used for the identification, curation, storage, and public viewing of artifacts and artwork of significance to the United States Army, as agreed to by the Secretary of the Army. The Center may also be used to support such education, training, research, and associated purposes as the Secretary considers appropriate.

"(c) DESIGN AND CONSTRUCTION.—(1) The design of the Center shall be subject to the approval of the Secretary of the Army.

"(2) For each phase of the development of the Center, the Secretary may—

"(A) accept funds from the Army Historical Foundation for the design and construction of such phase of the Center; or

"(B) permit the Army Historical Foundation to contract for the design and construction of such phase of the Center.

"(d) ACCEPTANCE BY SECRETARY.—Upon the satisfactory completion, as determined by the Secretary of the Army, of any phase of the Center, and upon the satisfaction of any financial obligations incident to such phase of the Center by the Army Historical Foundation, the Secretary shall accept such phase of the Center from the Army Historical Foundation, and all right, title, and interest in and to such phase of the Center shall vest in the United States. Upon becoming the property of the United States, the Secretary shall assume administrative jurisdiction over the Center.

"(e) USE OF CERTAIN GIFTS.—(1) Under regulations prescribed by the Secretary of the Army, the Commander of the United States Army Center of Military History may, without regard to section 2601 of this title, accept, hold, administer, invest, and spend any gift, devise, or bequest of personal property of a value of $250,000 or less made to the United States if such gift, devise, or bequest is for the benefit of the National Museum of the United States Army or the Center.

"(2) The Secretary may pay or authorize the payment of any reasonable and necessary expense in connection with the conveyance or transfer of a gift, devise, or bequest under this subsection.

"(f) LEASE OF FACILITY.—(1) Under such terms and conditions as the Secretary of the Army considers appropriate, the Secretary may lease portions of the Center to the Army Historical Foundation to be used by the Foundation, consistent with the purpose of the Center, for—

"(A) generating revenue for activities of the Center through rental use by the public, commercial and nonprofit entities, State and local governments, and other Federal agencies; and

"(B) such administrative purposes as may be necessary for the support of the Center.

"(2) The annual amount of consideration paid to the Secretary by the Army Historical Foundation for a lease under paragraph (1) may not exceed an amount equal to the actual cost, as determined by the Secretary, of the annual operations and maintenance of the Center.

"(3) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Secretary shall use amounts paid under paragraph (2) to cover the costs of operation of the Center.

"(g) ADDITIONAL TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—The Secretary of the Army may require such additional terms and conditions in connection with the agreement authorized by subsection (a) as the Secretary considers appropriate to protect the interests of the United States.".

(b) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of sections at the beginning of such chapter is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 4771 the following new item:

"4772. Heritage Center for the National Museum of the United States Army: development and operation.".

SEC. 2823. ELIMINATION OF REVERSIONARY INTERESTS CLOUDING UNITED STATES TITLE TO PROPERTY USED AS NAVY HOMEPORTS.

(a) AUTHORITY TO ACQUIRE COMPLETE TITLE.—If real property owned by the United States and used as a Navy homeport is subject to a reversionary interest of any kind, the Secretary of the Navy may enter into an agreement with the holder of the reversionary interest to acquire the reversionary interest and thereby secure for the United States all right, title, and interest in and to the property.

(b) AUTHORIZED CONSIDERATION.—(1) As consideration for the acquisition of a reversionary interest under subsection (a), the Secretary shall provide the holder of the reversionary interest with in-kind consideration, to be determined pursuant to negotiations between the Secretary and the holder of the reversionary interest.

(2) In determining the type and value of any in-kind consideration to be provided for the acquisition of a reversionary interest under subsection (a), the Secretary shall take into account the nature of the reversionary interest, including whether it would require the holder of the reversionary interest to pay for any improvements acquired by the holder as part of the reversion of the real property, and the long-term use and ultimate disposition of the real property if the United States were to acquire all right, title, and interest in and to the real property subject to the reversionary interest.

(c) PROHIBITED CONSIDERATION.—Cash payments are not authorized to be made as consideration for the acquisition of a reversionary interest under subsection (a).

Subtitle C—Base Closure and Realignment

SEC. 2831. ESTABLISHMENT OF SPECIFIC DEADLINE FOR SUBMISSION OF REVISIONS TO FORCE-STRUCTURE PLAN AND INFRASTRUCTURE INVENTORY.

Section 2912(a)(4) of the Defense Base Closure and Realignment Act of 1990 (part A of title XXIX of Public Law 101–510; 10 U.S.C. 2687 note) is amended by striking "as part of the budget justification documents submitted to Congress for fiscal year 2006." and inserting the following: "not later than March 15, 2005. For purposes of selecting military installations for closure or realignment under this part in 2005, no revision of the force-structure plan or infrastructure inventory is authorized after that date.".

SEC. 2832. SPECIFICATION OF FINAL SELECTION CRITERIA FOR 2005 BASE CLOSURE ROUND.

"SEC. 2913. FINAL SELECTION CRITERIA FOR ADDITIONAL ROUND OF BASE CLOSURES AND REALIGNMENTS.

"(a) FINAL SELECTION CRITERIA.—The final criteria to be used by the Secretary in making recommendations for the closure or realignment of military installations inside the United States under this part in 2005 shall be the military value and other criteria specified in subsections (b) and (c).

"(b) MILITARY VALUE CRITERIA.—The military value criteria are as follows:

"(1) The current and future mission capabilities and the impact on operational readiness of the total force of the Department of Defense, including the impact on joint warfighting, training, and readiness.

"(2) The availability and condition of land, facilities, and associated airspace (including training areas suitable for maneuver by ground, naval, or air forces throughout a diversity of climate and terrain areas and staging areas for the use of the Armed Forces in homeland defense missions) at both existing and potential receiving locations.

"(3) The ability to accommodate contingency, mobilization, surge, and future total force requirements at both existing and potential receiving locations to support operations and training.

"(4) The cost of operations and the manpower implications.

"(c) OTHER CRITERIA.—The other criteria that the Secretary shall use in making recommendations for the closure or realignment of military installations inside the United States under this part in 2005 are as follows:

"(1) The extent and timing of potential costs and savings, including the number of years, beginning with the date of completion of the closure or realignment, for the savings to exceed the costs.

"(2) The economic impact on existing communities in the vicinity of military installations.

"(3) The ability of the infrastructure of both the existing and potential receiving communities to support forces, missions, and personnel.

"(4) The environmental impact, including the impact of costs related to potential environmental restoration, waste management, and environmental compliance activities.

"(d) PRIORITY GIVEN TO MILITARY VALUE.—The Secretary shall give priority consideration to the military value criteria specified in subsection (b) in the making of recommendations for the closure or realignment of military installations.

"(e) EFFECT ON DEPARTMENT AND OTHER AGENCY COSTS.—The selection criteria relating to the cost savings or return on investment from the proposed closure or realignment of military installations shall take into account the effect of the proposed closure or realignment on the costs of any other activity of the Department of Defense or any other Federal agency that may be required to assume responsibility for activities at the military installations.

"(f) RELATION TO OTHER MATERIALS.—The final selection criteria specified in this section shall be the only criteria to be used, along with the force-structure plan and infrastructure inventory referred to in section 2912, in making recommendations for the closure or realignment of military installations inside the United States under this part in 2005.

"(g) RELATION TO CRITERIA FOR EARLIER ROUNDS.—Section 2903(b), and the selection criteria prepared under such section, shall not apply with respect to the process of making recommendations for the closure or realignment of military installations in 2005.".

(c) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—The Defense Base Closure and Realignment Act of 1990 is amended—

(1) in section 2912(c)(1)(A), by striking "criteria prepared under section 2913" and inserting "criteria specified in section 2913"; and

(2) in section 2914(a), by striking "criteria prepared by the Secretary under section 2913" and inserting "criteria specified in section 2913".

SEC. 2833. REPEAL OF AUTHORITY OF SECRETARY OF DEFENSE TO RECOMMEND THAT INSTALLATIONS BE PLACED IN INACTIVE STATUS.

Section 2914 of the Defense Base Closure and Realignment Act of 1990 (part A of title XXIX of Public Law 101–510; 10 U.S.C. 2687 note) is amended by striking subsection (c).

SEC. 2834. VOTING REQUIREMENTS FOR DEFENSE BASE CLOSURE AND REALIGNMENT COMMISSION TO ADD TO OR OTHERWISE EXPAND CLOSURE AND REALIGNMENT RECOMMENDATIONS MADE BY SECRETARY OF DEFENSE.

Subsection (d) of section 2914 of the Defense Base Closure and Realignment Act of 1990 (part A of title XXIX of Public Law 101–510; 10 U.S.C. 2687 note), as added by section 3003 of the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2002 (division B of Public Law 107–107; 115 Stat. 1346) and amended by section 2854 of the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2003 (division B of Public Law 107–314; 116 Stat. 2728), is amended—

(1) in paragraph (3), by striking "TO ADD" and inserting "TO CONSIDER ADDITIONS"; and

(2) by striking paragraph (5) and inserting the following new paragraph:

"(5) REQUIREMENTS TO EXPAND CLOSURE OR REALIGNMENT RECOMMENDATIONS.—In the report required under section 2903(d)(2)(A) that is to be transmitted under paragraph (1), the Commission may not make a change in the recommendations of the Secretary that would close a military installation not recommended for closure by the Secretary, would realign a military installation not recommended for closure or realignment by the Secretary, or would expand the extent of the realignment of a military installation recommended for realignment by the Secretary unless—

"(A) at least two members of the Commission visit the military installation before the date of the transmittal of the report; and

"(B) the decision of the Commission to make the change to recommend the closure of the military installation, the realignment of the installation, or the expanded realignment of the installation is supported by at least seven members of the Commission.".

Subtitle D—Land Conveyances

PART I—ARMY CONVEYANCES

SEC. 2841. LAND CONVEYANCE, SUNFLOWER ARMY AMMUNITION PLANT, KANSAS.

(a) CONVEYANCE AUTHORIZED.—The Secretary of the Army, in consultation with the Administrator of General Services, may convey to an entity selected by the Board of Commissioners of Johnson County, Kansas (in this section referred to as the "entity" and the "Board", respectively), all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to a parcel of real property, including any improvements thereon, consisting of approximately 9,065 acres and containing the Sunflower Army Ammunition Plant. The purpose of the conveyance is to facilitate the re-use of the property for economic development and revitalization.

(b) CONSIDERATION.—(1) As consideration for the conveyance under subsection (a), the entity shall provide the United States, whether by cash payment, in-kind consideration, or a combination thereof, an amount that is not less than the fair market value of the conveyed property, as determined by an appraisal of the property acceptable to the Administrator and the Secretary. As a form of in-kind consideration for the conveyance of the property, the Secretary may authorize the entity to carry out environmental remediation activities for the conveyed property.

(2) Cash consideration received under paragraph (1) shall be deposited in the special account in the Treasury established under subsection (b) of section 572 of title 40, United States Code, and shall be available in accordance with paragraph (5)(B)(i) of such subsection.

(c) CONSTRUCTION WITH PREVIOUS LAND CONVEYANCE AUTHORITY.—The conveyance authority provided by subsection (a) is in addition to the conveyance authority provided by section 2823 of the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2003 (division B of Public Law 107–314; 116 Stat. 2712) to convey a portion of the Sunflower Army Ammunition Plant to the Johnson County Park and Recreation District.

(d) AGREEMENTS CONCERNING ENVIRONMENTAL REMEDIATION AND EXPLOSIVES CLEANUP.—(1) The Secretary, in consultation with the Administrator, may enter into a multi-year cooperative agreement or contract with the entity for the environmental remediation and explosives cleanup of the conveyed property, and may utilize amounts authorized to be appropriated to the Secretary for purposes of environmental remediation and explosives cleanup under the agreement or contract.

(2) The cooperative agreement or contract may provide for advance payments on an annual basis or for payments on a performance basis. Payments may be made over a period of time agreed to by the Secretary and the entity or for such time as may be necessary to perform the environmental remediation and explosives cleanup of the property, including any long-term operation and maintenance requirements.

(e) PAYMENT OF COSTS OF CONVEYANCE.—(1) The Secretary may require the entity to cover costs to be incurred by the Secretary, or to reimburse the Secretary for costs incurred by the Secretary, to carry out the conveyance under subsection (a), including survey costs, costs related to environmental documentation, and other administrative costs related to the conveyance. If amounts are collected from the entity in advance of the Secretary incurring the actual costs, and the amount collected exceeds the costs actually incurred by the Secretary to carry out the conveyance, the Secretary shall refund the excess amount to the entity.

(2) Amounts received as reimbursement under paragraph (1) shall be credited to the fund or account that was used to cover the costs incurred by the Secretary in carrying out the conveyance. Amounts so credited shall be merged with amounts in such fund or account, and shall be available for the same purposes, and subject to the same conditions and limitations, as amounts in such fund or account.

(f) DESCRIPTION OF PROPERTY.—The exact acreage and legal description of the real property to be conveyed under subsection (a) shall be determined by a survey satisfactory to the Secretary and the Administrator.

(g) ADDITIONAL TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—The Secretary and the Administrator may require such additional terms and conditions in connection with the conveyance of real property under subsection (a), and the environmental remediation and explosives cleanup under subsection (d), as the Secretary and the Administrator jointly consider appropriate to protect the interests of the United States.

SEC. 2842. LAND EXCHANGE, FORT CAMPBELL, KENTUCKY AND TENNESSEE.

(a) LAND EXCHANGE AUTHORIZED.—In exchange for the real property described in subsection (b), the Secretary of the Army may convey to Bi-County Solid Waste Management System, a local government agency (in this section referred to as "Bi-County"), all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to a parcel of real property, including any improvements thereon, consisting of approximately 358 acres located at Fort Campbell in Montgomery County, Tennessee, for the purpose of permitting Bi-County to expand a landfill facility.

(b) CONSIDERATION.—As consideration for the conveyance under subsection (a), Bi-County shall convey to the United States all right, title, and interest of Bi-County in and to a parcel of real property consisting of approximately 670 acres located adjacent to Fort Campbell in Trigg County, Kentucky, and Stewart County, Tennessee. The Secretary shall have jurisdiction over the real property received under this subsection.

(c) CONDITION OF CONVEYANCE.—The conveyance under subsection (a) shall be subject to the condition that Bi-County construct a fence, acceptable to the Secretary, consisting of at least six-foot high, nine-gauge chain-link and three-strand barbed wire along the boundary between Fort Campbell and the real property conveyed under subsection (a).

(d) PAYMENT OF COSTS OF CONVEYANCE.—(1) The Secretary may require Bi-County to cover costs to be incurred by the Secretary, or to reimburse the Secretary for costs incurred by the Secretary, to carry out the conveyances under this section, including survey costs, costs related to environmental documentation, and other administrative costs related to the conveyances. If amounts are collected from Bi-County in advance of the Secretary incurring the actual costs, and the amount collected exceeds the costs actually incurred by the Secretary to carry out the conveyance, the Secretary shall refund the excess amount to Bi-County.

(2) Amounts received as reimbursement under paragraph (1) shall be credited to the fund or account that was used to cover the costs incurred by the Secretary in carrying out the conveyances. Amounts so credited shall be merged with amounts in such fund or account, and shall be available for the same purposes, and subject to the same conditions and limitations, as amounts in such fund or account.

(e) DESCRIPTION OF PROPERTY.—The exact acreage and legal description of the property to be conveyed under this section shall be determined by surveys satisfactory to the Secretary and Bi-County.

(f) ADDITIONAL TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—The Secretary may require such additional terms and conditions in connection with the conveyances under this section as the Secretary considers appropriate to protect the interests of the United States.

SEC. 2843. LAND CONVEYANCE, LOUISIANA ARMY AMMUNITION PLANT, DOYLINE, LOUISIANA.

(a) CONVEYANCE AUTHORIZED.—The Secretary of the Army may convey, without consideration, to the State of Louisiana (in this section referred to as the "State") all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to a parcel of real property, including any improvements thereon, consisting of approximately 14,949 acres located at the Louisiana Army Ammunition Plant, Doyline, Louisiana.

(b) CONDITIONS OF CONVEYANCE.—The conveyance under subsection (a) shall be subject to the following conditions:

(1) That at least 13,500 acres of the real property conveyed under such subsection is maintained by the State for the purpose of military training, unless the Secretary determines that fewer acres are required for such purpose.

(2) That the State ensure that any other uses made of the conveyed property do not adversely impact such military training.

(3) That the State accommodate the use of the conveyed property, at no cost or fee, for meeting the present and future training needs of units of the Armed Forces, including units of the Louisiana National Guard and the other active and reserve components of the Armed Forces.

(4) That the State assume the rights and responsibilities of the Department of the Army under the armaments retooling manufacturing support agreement between the Department of the Army and the facility use contractor with respect to the Louisiana Army Ammunition Plant, in accordance with the terms of such agreement in effect at the time of the conveyance.

(c) PAYMENT OF COSTS OF CONVEYANCE.—(1) The Secretary may require the State to cover costs to be incurred by the Secretary, or to reimburse the Secretary for costs incurred by the Secretary, to carry out the conveyance under subsection (a), including survey costs, costs related to environmental documentation, and other administrative costs related to the conveyance. If amounts are collected from the State in advance of the Secretary incurring the actual costs, and the amount collected exceeds the costs actually incurred by the Secretary to carry out the conveyance, the Secretary shall refund the excess amount to the State.

(2) Amounts received as reimbursement under paragraph (1) shall be credited to the fund or account that was used to cover the costs incurred by the Secretary in carrying out the conveyance. Amounts so credited shall be merged with amounts in such fund or account, and shall be available for the same purposes, and subject to the same conditions and limitations, as amounts in such fund or account.

(d) DESCRIPTION OF PROPERTY.—The exact acreage and legal description of the real property to be conveyed under subsection (a) shall be determined by a survey satisfactory to the Secretary. The cost of the survey shall be borne by the State.

(e) ADDITIONAL TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—The Secretary may require such additional terms and conditions in connection with the conveyance under subsection (a) as the Secretary considers appropriate to protect the interests of the United States.

SEC. 2844. LAND CONVEYANCE, FORT LEONARD WOOD, MISSOURI.

(a) CONVEYANCE AUTHORIZED.—The Secretary of the Army may convey, without consideration, to the State of Missouri (in this section referred to as the "State") all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to a parcel of real property, including improvements thereon, consisting of approximately 227.7 acres at Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri, for the purpose of permitting the State to establish on the property a State-operated cemetery for veterans of the Armed Forces.

(b) REVERSIONARY INTEREST.—If the Secretary determines at any time that the real property conveyed under subsection (a) is not being used in accordance with the purpose of the conveyance specified in such subsection, all right, title, and interest in and to the property shall revert, at the option of the Secretary, to the United States, and the United States shall have the right of immediate entry onto the property. Any determination of the Secretary under this subsection shall be made on the record after an opportunity for a hearing.

(c) PAYMENT OF COSTS OF CONVEYANCE.—(1) The Secretary may require the State to cover costs to be incurred by the Secretary, or to reimburse the Secretary for costs incurred by the Secretary, to carry out the conveyance under subsection (a), including survey costs, costs related to environmental documentation, and other administrative costs related to the conveyance. If amounts are collected from the State in advance of the Secretary incurring the actual costs, and the amount collected exceeds the costs actually incurred by the State to carry out the conveyance, the Secretary shall refund the excess amount to the State. The authority of the Secretary to require the State to cover administrative costs related to the conveyance does not include costs related to any environmental remediation required for the property.

(2) Amounts received as reimbursement under paragraph (1) shall be credited to the fund or account that was used to cover the costs incurred by the Secretary in carrying out the conveyance. Amounts so credited shall be merged with amounts in such fund or account, and shall be available for the same purposes, and subject to the same conditions and limitations, as amounts in such fund or account.

(d) DESCRIPTION OF PROPERTY.—The exact acreage and legal description of the real property to be conveyed under subsection (a) shall be determined by a survey satisfactory to the Secretary.

(e) ADDITIONAL TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—The Secretary may require such additional terms and conditions in connection with the conveyance under subsection (a) as the Secretary considers appropriate to protect the interests of the United States.

SEC. 2845. TRANSFER OF ADMINISTRATIVE JURISDICTION, DEFENSE SUPPLY CENTER, COLUMBUS, OHIO.

(a) TRANSFER AUTHORIZED.—The Secretary of the Army may transfer, without reimbursement, to the administrative jurisdiction of the Secretary of Veterans Affairs a parcel of real property consisting of approximately 20 acres and comprising a portion of the Defense Supply Center in Columbus, Ohio.

(b) USE OF PROPERTY.—The Secretary of Veterans Affairs may only use the property transferred under subsection (a) as the site for the construction of a new outpatient clinic for the provision of medical services to veterans.

(c) COSTS.—Any administrative costs in connection with the transfer of property under subsection (a), including the costs of the survey required by subsection (e), shall be borne by the Secretary of Veterans Affairs.

(d) RETURN OF JURISDICTION TO ARMY.—If construction of the outpatient clinic described in subsection (b) has not commenced on the property transferred under subsection (a) by the end of the three-year period beginning on the date on which the property is transferred, the Secretary of Veterans Affairs shall return, at the request of the Secretary of the Army, administrative jurisdiction over the property to the Secretary of the Army.

(e) DESCRIPTION OF PROPERTY.—The exact acreage and legal description of the real property to be transferred under subsection (a) shall be determined by a survey satisfactory to the Secretary of the Army.

SEC. 2846. JURISDICTION AND UTILIZATION OF FORMER PUBLIC DOMAIN LANDS, UMATILLA CHEMICAL DEPOT, OREGON.

(a) RETENTION OF JURISDICTION.—The various parcels of real property consisting of approximately 8,300 acres within the boundaries of Umatilla Chemical Depot, Oregon, that were previously withdrawn from the public domain are no longer suitable for return to the public domain and shall remain under the administrative jurisdiction of the Secretary of the Army.

(b) UTILIZATION.—The Secretary shall combine the real property described in subsection (a) with other real property comprising the Umatilla Chemical Depot for purposes of their management and disposal pursuant to title II of the Defense Authorization Amendments and Base Closure and Realignment Act of 1988 (Public Law 100–526; 10 U.S.C. 2687 note) and other applicable law.

SEC. 2847. MODIFICATION OF AUTHORITY FOR LAND CONVEYANCE, EQUIPMENT AND STORAGE YARD, CHARLESTON, SOUTH CAROLINA.

Subsection (h) of section 563 of the Water Resources Development Act of 1999 (Public Law 106–53; 113 Stat. 360) is amended to read as follows:

"(h) CHARLESTON, SOUTH CAROLINA.—

"(1) CONVEYANCE AUTHORIZED.—The Secretary may convey to the City of Charleston, South Carolina (in this subsection referred to as the 'City'), all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to a parcel of real property of the Corps of Engineers, including any improvements thereon, that is known as the Equipment and Storage Yard and consists of approximately 1.06 acres located on Meeting Street in Charleston, South Carolina. The property shall be conveyed in as-is condition.

"(2) CONSIDERATION.—As consideration for the conveyance under this subsection, the City shall provide the United States, whether by cash payment, in-kind consideration, or a combination thereof, an amount that is not less than the fair market value of the property conveyed, as determined by the Secretary.

"(3) USE OF PROCEEDS.—(A) Notwithstanding any requirements associated with the Plant Replacement and Improvement Program, amounts received as consideration under paragraph (2) may be used by the Corps of Engineers, Charleston District—

"(i) to lease, purchase, or construct an office facility within the boundaries of Charleston, Berkeley, or Dorchester County, South Carolina;

"(ii) to cover costs associated with the design and furnishing of such facility; and

"(iii) to satisfy any Plant Replacement and Improvement Program balances.

"(B) Any amounts received as consideration under paragraph (2) that are in excess of the fair market value of the real property conveyed under this subsection may be used for any authorized activities of the Corps of Engineers, Charleston District.

"(4) DESCRIPTION OF PROPERTY.—The exact acreage and legal description of the real property to be conveyed under this subsection and any property transferred to the United States as consideration under paragraph (2) shall be determined by surveys satisfactory to the Secretary.

"(5) ADDITIONAL TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—The Secretary may require such additional terms and conditions in connection with the conveyance under this subsection as the Secretary considers appropriate to protect the interests of the United States.".

SEC. 2848. LAND CONVEYANCE, FORT HOOD, TEXAS.

(a) CONVEYANCE AUTHORIZED.—The Secretary of the Army may convey to the Texas A&M University System of the State of Texas (in this section referred to as the "University System") all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to a parcel of real property, including improvements thereon, consisting of approximately 662 acres at Fort Hood, Texas, for the sole purpose of permitting the University System to establish on the property an upper level (junior, senior, and graduate) university that will be State-supported, separate from other universities of the University System, and designated as Texas A&M University, Central Texas.

(b) CONSIDERATION.—(1) As consideration for the conveyance under subsection (a), the University System shall pay to the United States an amount equal to the fair market value of the conveyed property, as determined pursuant to an appraisal acceptable to the Secretary.

(2) In lieu of all or a portion of the cash consideration required by paragraph (1), the Secretary may accept in-kind consideration, including the conveyance by the University System of real property acceptable to the Secretary.

(c) Condition of Conveyance.—The conveyance under subsection (a) shall be subject to the condition that the Secretary determine that the conveyance of the property and the establishment of a university on the property will not adversely impact the operation of Robert Grey Army Airfield, which is located on Fort Hood approximately one mile from the property authorized for conveyance.

(d) Description of Property.—The exact acreage and legal description of the real property to be conveyed under subsection (a) shall be determined by a survey satisfactory to the Secretary. The cost of the survey shall be borne by the University System.

(e) Additional Terms and Conditions.—The Secretary may require such additional terms and conditions in connection with the conveyance under subsection (a) as the Secretary considers appropriate to protect the interests of the United States.

SEC. 2849. LAND CONVEYANCE, LOCAL TRAINING AREA FOR BROWNING ARMY RESERVE CENTER, UTAH.

(a) Conveyance Authorized.—The Secretary of the Army may convey, without consideration, to the State of Utah (in this section referred to as the "State") all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to a parcel of unimproved real property consisting of approximately 10 acres of the Local Training Area for the Browning Army Reserve Center, Utah, for the purpose of facilitating the construction and operation of a nursing-care facility for veterans. The parcel to be conveyed under this subsection shall be selected by the Secretary in consultation with the State.

(b) Reversionary Interest.—If the Secretary determines at any time that the real property conveyed under subsection (a) is not being used in accordance with the purpose of the conveyance specified in such subsection, all right, title, and interest in and to the property shall revert, at the option of the Secretary, to the United States, and the United States shall have the right of immediate entry onto the property. Any determination of the Secretary under this subsection shall be made on the record after an opportunity for a hearing.

(c) Payment of Costs of Conveyance.—(1) The Secretary may require the State to cover costs to be incurred by the Secretary, or to reimburse the Secretary for costs incurred by the Secretary, to carry out the conveyance under subsection (a), including survey costs, costs related to environmental documentation, and other administrative costs related to the conveyance. If amounts paid to the Secretary in advance exceed the costs actually incurred by the Secretary to carry out the conveyance, the Secretary shall refund the excess amount to the State.

(2) Amounts received as reimbursement under paragraph (1) shall be credited to the fund or account that was used to cover the costs incurred by the Secretary. Amounts so credited shall be merged with amounts in such fund or account, and shall be available for the same purposes, and subject to the same conditions and limitations, as amounts in such fund or account.

(d) Description of Property.—The exact acreage and legal description of the real property to be conveyed under subsection (a) shall be determined by a survey satisfactory to the Secretary.

(e) Additional Terms and Conditions.—The Secretary may require such additional terms and conditions in connection with the conveyance under subsection (a) as the Secretary considers appropriate to protect the interests of the United States.

PART II—NAVY CONVEYANCES

SEC. 2861. LAND EXCHANGE, FORMER RICHMOND NAVAL AIR STATION, FLORIDA.

(a) CONVEYANCE AUTHORIZED.—The Secretary of the Army may convey to the University of Miami, Miami, Florida (in this section referred to as the "University"), all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to certain parcels of real property, together with any improvements thereon, consisting of approximately 11 acres and located in the vicinity of the former Richmond Naval Air Station, Florida, in order to facilitate force protection and security needs of Department of Defense facilities located on the former Richmond Naval Air Station.

(b) RELEASE OF EASEMENTS.—As part of the conveyance of property authorized by subsection (a), the Secretary may also—

(1) release and extinguish any interest of the United States in a clearance easement on the western portion of the property of the University; and

(2) release and extinguish any interest of the United States in a certain easement for ingress and egress extending southwest and south from Southwest 127th Street along the western property line of a certain portion of United States property referred to as "IE2" in the Agreement in Principle referred to in subsection (e)(2).

(c) CONSIDERATION.—As consideration for the conveyance of property authorized by subsection (a) and the release and extinguishment of interests authorized by subsection (b), the University shall—

(1) convey to the United States all right, title, and interest of the University in and to certain parcels of real property, together with any improvements thereon, consisting of approximately 12 acres;

(2) grant to the United States such easement over a parcel of real property located along the western boundary of the property of the University as the Secretary considers appropriate to permit the United States to exercise dominion and control over the portion of the western boundary of the property of the University that has been, or may be, designated as Natural Forest Community habitat;

(3) construct and install a berm and fence security system along the entirety of the new property line between the United States and the University;

(4) relocate the existing security gate and guard building, or establish a new security gate and guard building similar in design and size to the existing security gate and guard building, at a point where the property of the United States and the University intersect on the existing ingress-egress road; and

(5) construct a new two-lane access road from Southwest 152nd Street at the western boundary of the property of the University to a point that connects with the existing road on the property of the United States (commonly referred to as the "FAA Road").

(d) CONSTRUCTION WITH PREVIOUS CONVEYANCE.—Any restrictions on the use as an animal research facility of a certain parcel of real property, consisting of approximately 30 acres, conveyed by the Secretary of Health and Human Services to the University pursuant to section 617 of the Omnibus Consolidated Appropriations Act, 1997 (Public Law 104–208; 110 Stat. 3009–366) shall terminate upon the execution of the agreement of exchange required by subsection (e).

(e) TERMS OF EXCHANGE.—(1) The Secretary and the University shall carry out the conveyances and releases of interest authorized by this section pursuant to an agreement of exchange (to be known as the "Exchange Agreement") between the Secretary and the University.

(2) The agreement of exchange shall conform to, and develop with more particularity, the Agreement in Principle executed by the United States and the University on July 13 through 15, 2001.

(f) PAYMENT OF COSTS.—(1) The Secretary may require the University to cover costs to be incurred by the Secretary, or to reimburse the Secretary for costs incurred by the Secretary, to carry out the conveyances under this section and the release and grants of interests under this section, including survey costs, costs related to environmental documentation, and other administrative costs related to such activities. If amounts paid to the Secretary in advance exceed the costs actually incurred by the Secretary to carry out such activities, the Secretary shall refund the excess amount to the University.

(2) Amounts received as reimbursement under paragraph (1) shall be credited to the fund or account that was used to cover the costs incurred by the Secretary. Amounts so credited shall be merged with amounts in such fund or account, and shall be available for the same purposes, and subject to the same conditions and limitations, as amounts in such fund or account.

(g) DESCRIPTION OF PROPERTY.—The exact acreage and legal description of the property to be conveyed under this section, and of the interests to be released or granted under this section, shall be determined by surveys satisfactory to the Secretary.

(h) ADDITIONAL TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—The Secretary may require such additional terms and conditions in connection with the conveyances under this section, and the release and grants of interests under this section, as the Secretary considers appropriate to protect the interests of the United States.

SEC. 2862. LAND CONVEYANCE, HONOLULU, HAWAII.

(a) CONVEYANCE AUTHORIZED.—The Secretary of the Navy may convey, without consideration but subject to the conditions specified in subsection (b), to the City and County of Honolulu, Hawaii, all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to a parcel of real property, including improvements thereon, consisting of approximately 5.46 acres located at 890 Valkenberg Avenue, Honolulu, Hawaii, and currently used by the City and County of Honolulu as the site of a fire station and firefighting training facility. The purpose of the conveyance is to enhance the capability of the City and County of Honolulu to provide fire protection and firefighting services to the civilian and military properties in the area and to provide a location for firefighting training for civilian and military personnel.

(b) CONDITIONS OF CONVEYANCE.—The conveyance under subsection (a) shall be subject to the following conditions:

(1) That the City and County of Honolulu accept the real property in its condition at the time of the conveyance, commonly known as conveyance "as is".

(2) That the City and County of Honolulu make the firefighting training facility available to the fire protection and firefighting units of the military departments for training not less than two days per week on terms satisfactory to the Secretary.

(c) PAYMENT OF COSTS OF CONVEYANCE.—(1) The Secretary shall require the City and County of Honolulu to cover costs to be incurred by the Secretary, or to reimburse the Secretary for costs incurred by the Secretary, to carry out the conveyance under subsection (a), including survey costs, costs related to environmental documentation, and other administrative costs related to the conveyance. If amounts are collected from the City and County of Honolulu in advance of the Secretary incurring the actual costs, and the amount collected exceeds the costs actually incurred by the Secretary to carry out the conveyance, the Secretary shall refund the excess amount, without interest, to the City and County of Honolulu.

(2) Amounts received as reimbursement under paragraph (1) shall be credited to the fund or account that was used to cover the costs incurred by the Secretary in carrying out the conveyance. Amounts so credited shall be merged with amounts in such fund or account, and shall be available for the same purposes, and subject to the same conditions and limitations, as amounts in such fund or account.

(d) DESCRIPTION OF PROPERTY.—The exact acreage and legal description of the property to be conveyed under subsection (a) shall be determined by a survey satisfactory to the Secretary.

(e) ADDITIONAL TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—The Secretary may require such additional terms and conditions in connection with the conveyance under subsection (a) as the Secretary considers appropriate to protect the interests of the United States.

SEC. 2863. LAND CONVEYANCE, NAVY PROPERTY, FORMER FORT SHERIDAN, ILLINOIS.

(a) CONVEYANCE AUTHORIZED.—The Secretary of the Navy may convey, without consideration, to the State of Illinois, a political subdivision of the State, or a nonprofit land conservation organization (in this section referred to as the "grantee") all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to certain parcels of real property consisting of a total of approximately 25 acres of environmentally sensitive land at the former Fort Sheridan, Illinois, for the purpose of ensuring the permanent protection of the land.

(b) REVERSIONARY INTEREST.—If the Secretary determines at any time that the real property conveyed under subsection (a) is not being used or maintained in accordance with the purpose of the conveyance specified in such subsection, all right, title, and interest in and to the property shall revert, at the option of the Secretary, to the United States, and the United States shall have the right of immediate entry onto the property. Any determination of the Secretary under this subsection shall be made on the record after an opportunity for a hearing.

(c) RECONVEYANCE AUTHORIZED.—The Secretary may permit the grantee to convey the real property conveyed under subsection (a) to another eligible entity described in such subsection, subject to the same covenants and terms and conditions as provided in the deed from the United States.

(d) PAYMENT OF COSTS OF CONVEYANCE.—(1) The Secretary shall require the grantee to cover costs to be incurred by the Secretary, or to reimburse the Secretary for costs incurred by the Secretary, to carry out the conveyance under subsection (a), including survey costs, costs related to environmental documentation, and other administrative costs related to the conveyance. If amounts are collected from the grantee in advance of the Secretary incurring the actual costs, and the amount collected exceeds the costs actually incurred by the Secretary to carry out the conveyance, the Secretary shall refund the excess amount to the grantee.

(2) Amounts received as reimbursement under paragraph (1) shall be credited to the fund or account that was used to cover the costs incurred by the Secretary in carrying out the conveyance. Amounts so credited shall be merged with amounts in such fund or account, and shall be available for the same purposes, and subject to the same conditions and limitations, as amounts in such fund or account.

(e) DESCRIPTION OF PROPERTY.—The exact acreage and legal description of the real property to be conveyed under subsection (a) shall be determined by a survey satisfactory to the Secretary.

(f) ADDITIONAL TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—The Secretary may require such additional terms and conditions in connection with the conveyance under subsection (a) as the Secretary considers appropriate to protect the interests of the United States.

(g) USE OF ALTERNATE CONVEYANCE AUTHORITY.—In lieu of using the authority provided by this section to convey the real property described in subsection (a), the Secretary may elect to include the property in a conveyance authorized by section 2878 of title 10, United States Code, subject to such terms, reservations, restrictions, and conditions as may be necessary to ensure the permanent protection of the property, if the Secretary determines that a conveyance under such section is advantageous to the interests of the United States.

SEC. 2864. LAND EXCHANGE, NAVAL AIR STATION, PATUXENT RIVER, MARYLAND.

(a) CONVEYANCE AUTHORIZED.—The Secretary of the Navy may convey to the State of Maryland (in this section referred to as "State") all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to a parcel of real property, including improvements thereon, consisting of approximately five acres at Naval Air Station, Patuxent River, Maryland, and containing the Point Lookout Lighthouse, other structures related to the lighthouse, and an archaeological site pertaining to the military hospital that was located on the property during the Civil War. The conveyance shall include artifacts pertaining to the military hospital recovered by the Navy and held at the installation.

(b) PROPERTY RECEIVED IN EXCHANGE.—As consideration for the conveyance of the real property under subsection (a), the State shall convey to the United States a parcel of real property at Point Lookout State Park, Maryland, consisting of approximately five acres, or a smaller parcel that the Secretary considers sufficient and such related property interests as the Secretary and the State may agree to.

(c) PAYMENT OF COSTS OF CONVEYANCE.—(1) The Secretary may require the State to cover costs to be incurred by the Secretary, or to reimburse the Secretary for costs incurred by the Secretary, to carry out the conveyance under subsection (a), including survey costs, costs related to environmental documentation, relocation expenses incurred in connection with the acquisition of real property under subsection (b), and other administrative costs related to the conveyance. If amounts are collected from the State in advance of the Secretary incurring the actual costs, and the amount collected exceeds the costs actually incurred by the Secretary to carry out the conveyance, the Secretary shall refund the excess amount to State.

(2) Amounts received as reimbursement under paragraph (1) shall be credited to the fund or account that was used to cover the costs incurred by the Secretary in carrying out the conveyance. Amounts so credited shall be merged with amounts in such fund or account, and shall be available for the same purposes, and subject to the same conditions and limitations, as amounts in such fund or account.

(d) DESCRIPTION OF PROPERTY.—The exact acreage and legal description of the properties to be conveyed under this section shall be determined by surveys satisfactory to the Secretary.

(e) ADDITIONAL TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—The Secretary may require such additional terms and conditions in connection with the conveyances under this section as the Secretary considers appropriate to protect the interests of the United States.

SEC. 2865. MODIFICATION OF LAND ACQUISITION AUTHORITY, PERQUIMANS COUNTY, NORTH CAROLINA.

Section 2846 of the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2002 (division B of Public Law 107–107; 115 Stat. 1320) is amended by striking "240 acres" and insert "840 acres".

SEC. 2866. LAND CONVEYANCE, NAVAL WEAPONS STATION, CHARLESTON, SOUTH CAROLINA.

(a) CONVEYANCE AUTHORIZED.—The Secretary of the Navy may convey to the Berkeley County Sanitation Authority, South Carolina (in this section referred to as the "Authority"), all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to a parcel of real property, including any improvements thereon, consisting of not more than 38 acres and comprising a portion of the Naval Weapons Station, Charleston, South Carolina, for the purpose of allowing the Authority to expand an existing sewage treatment plant.

(b) CONSIDERATION.—(1) As consideration for the conveyance of the real property under subsection (a), the Authority shall provide the United States, whether by cash payment, in-kind services, or a combination thereof, an amount that is not less than the fair market value of the conveyed property.

(2) The fair market value of the real property conveyed under subsection (a) shall be determined by an appraisal acceptable to the Secretary.

(c) PAYMENT OF COSTS OF CONVEYANCE.—(1) The Secretary may require the Authority to cover costs incurred by the Secretary, or to reimburse the Secretary for costs incurred by the Secretary, to carry out the conveyance under subsection (a), including survey costs, costs related to environmental documentation, and other administrative costs related to the conveyance. If amounts are collected from the Authority in advance of the Secretary incurring the actual costs, and the amount collected exceeds the costs actually incurred by the Secretary to carry out the conveyance, the Secretary shall refund the excess amount to the Authority.

(2) Amounts received as reimbursement under paragraph (1) shall be credited to the fund or account that was used to cover the costs incurred by the Secretary in carrying out the conveyance. Amounts so credited shall be merged with amounts in such fund or account, and shall be made available for the same purposes, and subject to the same conditions and limitations, as amounts in such fund or account.

(d) DESCRIPTION OF PROPERTY.—The exact acreage and legal description of the real property to be conveyed under subsection (a) shall be determined by a survey satisfactory to the Secretary.

(e) ADDITIONAL TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—The Secretary may require such additional terms and conditions in connection with the conveyance under subsection (a) as the Secretary considers appropriate to protect the interests of the United States.

SEC. 2867. LAND CONVEYANCE, NAVY YMCA BUILDING, PORTSMOUTH, VIRGINIA.

(a) CONVEYANCE AUTHORIZED.—The Secretary of the Navy may convey to the City of Portsmouth, Virginia (in this section referred to as the "City"), all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to a parcel of real property, including any improvements thereon, consisting of approximately 0.49 acres located at 517 King Street in Portsmouth, Virginia, and known as the "Navy YMCA Building", for the purpose of permitting the City to use the property for economic revitalization purposes.

(b) CONSIDERATION.—As consideration for the conveyance under subsection (a), the City shall provide the United States, whether by cash payment, in-kind consideration, or a combination thereof, an amount equal to the costs related to the environmental remediation of the real property to be conveyed.

(c) PAYMENT OF OTHER COSTS OF CONVEYANCE.—(1) The Secretary may require the City to cover costs to be incurred by the Secretary, or to reimburse the Secretary for costs incurred by the Secretary, to carry out the conveyance under subsection (a), including survey costs, costs related to environmental documentation, and other administrative costs related to the conveyance. If amounts paid to the Secretary in advance exceed the costs actually incurred by the Secretary to carry out the conveyance, the Secretary shall refund the excess amount to the City.

(2) Amounts received as reimbursement under paragraph (1) shall be credited to the fund or account that was used to cover the costs incurred by the Secretary. Amounts so credited shall be merged with amounts in such fund or account, and shall be available for the same purposes, and subject to the same conditions and limitations, as amounts in such fund or account.

(d) DESCRIPTION OF PROPERTY.—The exact acreage and legal description of the property to be conveyed under subsection (a) shall be determined by a survey satisfactory to the Secretary.

(e) ADDITIONAL TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—The Secretary may require such additional terms and conditions in connection with the conveyance under subsection (a) as the Secretary considers appropriate to protect the interests of the United States.

PART III—AIR FORCE CONVEYANCES

SEC. 2871. LAND EXCHANGE, MAXWELL AIR FORCE BASE, ALABAMA.

(a) CONVEYANCE AUTHORIZED.—The Secretary of the Air Force may convey to the City of Montgomery, Alabama (in this section referred to as the "City"), all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to a parcel of real property, including improvements thereon, consisting of approximately 28 acres and containing the Maxwell Heights Housing site at Maxwell Air Force Base, Alabama.

(b) CONSIDERATION.—(1) As consideration for the conveyance of the real property under subsection (a), the City shall convey to the United States a parcel of real property, including any improvements thereon, located contiguous to Maxwell Air Force Base, consisting of approximately 35 acres, and designated as project AL 6–1, for the purpose of allowing the Secretary to incorporate the parcel into a project for the acquisition or improvement of military housing. The military housing project may consist of or include a project conducted under the authority of subchapter IV of chapter 169 of title 10, United States Code. The Secretary shall have jurisdiction over the real property received under this paragraph.

(2) If the fair market value of the real property received under paragraph (1) is less than the fair market value of the real property conveyed under subsection (a), the Secretary may require the City to make up the difference through the payment of cash, the provision of in-kind consideration, or a combination thereof, to be determined pursuant to negotiations between the Secretary and the City.

(3) The fair market values of the real property to be exchanged under this section shall be determined by appraisals acceptable to the Secretary and the City.

(c) PAYMENT OF COSTS OF CONVEYANCE.—(1) The Secretary may require the City to cover costs to be incurred by the Secretary, or to reimburse the Secretary for costs incurred by the Secretary, to carry out the conveyances under subsections (a) and (b), including survey costs, costs related to environmental documentation, and other administrative costs related to the conveyances. If amounts are collected from the City in advance of the Secretary incurring the actual costs, and the amount collected exceeds the costs actually incurred by the Secretary to carry out the conveyances, the Secretary shall refund the excess amount to the City.

(2) Amounts received as reimbursement under paragraph (1) shall be credited to the fund or account that was used to cover the costs incurred by the Secretary in carrying out the conveyances. Amounts so credited shall be merged with amounts in such fund or account, and shall be available for the same purposes, and subject to the same conditions and limitations, as amounts in such fund or account.

(d) DESCRIPTION OF PROPERTY.—The exact acreage and legal description of the properties to be conveyed under this section shall be determined by surveys satisfactory to the Secretary.

(e) ADDITIONAL TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—The Secretary may require such additional terms and conditions in connection with the conveyances under this section as the Secretary considers appropriate to protect the interests of the United States.

SEC. 2872. LAND CONVEYANCE, MARCH AIR FORCE BASE, CALIFORNIA.

(a) CONVEYANCE AUTHORIZED.—The Secretary of the Air Force may convey to the March Joint Powers Authority (in this section referred to as the "Authority") all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to a parcel of real property, including any improvements thereon, consisting of approximately 15 acres located in Riverside County, California, and containing the former Defense Reutilization and Marketing Office facility for March Air Force Base, which is also known as Parcel A–6, for the purpose of permitting the Authority to use the property for economic development and revitalization.

(b) CONSIDERATION.—As consideration for the conveyance of the real property under subsection (a), the Authority shall pay the United States an amount equal to the fair market value of the conveyed property, as determined by the Secretary. The payment shall be deposited in the special account in the Treasury referred to in paragraph (5) of section 572(b) of title 40, United States Code, and shall be available as provided in subparagraph (B)(ii) of such paragraph.

(c) DESCRIPTION OF PROPERTY.—The exact acreage and legal description of the real property to be conveyed under subsection (a) shall be determined by a survey satisfactory to the Secretary. The cost of the survey shall be borne by the Authority.

(d) ADDITIONAL TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—The Secretary may require such additional terms and conditions in connection with the conveyance under subsection (a) as the Secretary considers appropriate to protect the interests of the United States.

SEC. 2873. LAND CONVEYANCE, FORMER GRIFFISS AIR FORCE BASE, NEW YORK.

(a) CONVEYANCE AUTHORIZED.—(1) The Secretary of the Air Force may convey to the Oneida County Industrial Development Agency, New York, the local reuse authority for the former Griffiss Air Force Base (in this section referred to as the "Authority"), all right, title and interest of the United States in and to two parcels of real property consisting of 7.897 acres and 1.742 acres and containing the four buildings specified in paragraph (2), which were vacated by the Air Force in conjunction with its relocation to the Consolidated Intelligence and Reconnaissance Laboratory at Air Force Research Laboratory—Rome Research Site, Rome, New York.

(2) The buildings referred to in paragraph (1) are the following:

(A) Building 240 (117,323 square feet).

(B) Building 247 (13,199 square feet).

(C) Building 248 (4,000 square feet).

(D) Building 302 (20,577 square feet).

(3) The purpose of the conveyance under this subsection is to permit the Authority to develop the parcels and buildings for economic purposes in a manner consistent with section 2905 of the Defense Base Closure and Realignment Act of 1990 (part A of title XXIX of Public Law 101–510; 10 U.S.C. 2687 note).

(b) CONDITION OF CONVEYANCE.—The conveyance under subsection (a) shall be subject to the condition that the Authority accept the real property in its condition at the time of the conveyance, commonly known as conveyance "as is".

(c) CONSIDERATION.—As consideration for the conveyance under subsection (a), the Authority shall provide the United States, whether by cash payment, in-kind contribution, or a combination thereof, an amount equal to the fair market of value of the conveyed real property, as determined by the Secretary.

(d) DESCRIPTION OF PROPERTY.—The exact acreage and legal description of the real property to be conveyed under subsection (a) shall be determined by a survey satisfactory to the Secretary. The cost of the survey shall be borne by the Authority.

(e) ADDITIONAL TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—The Secretary may require such additional terms and conditions in connection with the conveyance under subsection (a) as the Secretary considers appropriate to protect the interests of the United States.

PART IV—OTHER CONVEYANCES

SEC. 2881. LAND EXCHANGE, ARLINGTON COUNTY, VIRGINIA.

(a) EXCHANGE AUTHORIZED.—The Secretary of Defense may convey to Arlington County, Virginia (in this section referred to as the "County"), all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to a parcel of real property, together with any improvements thereon, that consists of not more than 4.5 acres and is located north of Columbia Pike on the Navy Annex property in Arlington County, Virginia, for the purpose of the construction of a freedmen heritage museum and an Arlington history museum.

(b) CONSIDERATION.—As consideration for the conveyance of the real property under subsection (a), the County shall convey to the United States all right, title, and interest of the County in and to a parcel of real property, together with any improvements thereon, that is of a size equivalent to the total acreage of the real property conveyed by the Secretary under subsection (a) and is located in the area known as the Southgate Road right-of-way between Arlington National Cemetery, Virginia, and the Navy Annex property.

(c) SELECTION OF PROPERTY FOR CONVEYANCE.—The Secretary, in consultation with the County, shall determine the acreage of the parcels of real property to be exchanged under this section, and such determination shall be final. In selecting the real property for conveyance to the County under subsection (a), the Secretary shall seek—

(1) to provide the County with sufficient property for museum construction that is compatible with, and honors, the history of the freedmen's village that was located in the area and the heritage of the County;

(2) to preserve the appropriate traditions of Arlington National Cemetery; and

(3) to maintain the amount of acreage currently available for potential grave sites at Arlington National Cemetery.

(d) PAYMENT OF COSTS OF CONVEYANCES.—(1) The Secretary may require the County to cover costs to be incurred by the Secretary, or to reimburse the Secretary for costs incurred by the Secretary, to carry out the conveyances under subsections (a) and (b), including survey costs, costs related to environmental documentation, and other administrative costs related to the conveyances. If amounts are collected from the County in advance of the Secretary incurring the actual costs, and the amount collected exceeds the costs actually incurred by the Secretary to carry out the conveyance, the Secretary shall refund the excess amount to the County.

(2) Amounts received as reimbursement under paragraph (1) shall be credited to the fund or account that was used to cover the costs incurred by the Secretary in carrying out the conveyances. Amounts so credited shall be merged with amounts in such fund or account, and shall be available for the same purposes, and subject to the same conditions and limitations, as amounts in such fund or account.

(e) DESCRIPTION OF PROPERTY.—The exact acreage and legal description of the real property to be conveyed under this section shall be determined by surveys satisfactory to the Secretary.

(f) REVERSIONARY INTEREST.—(1) If at any time the Secretary determines that the property conveyed to the County under subsection (a) is not being used for the purposes stated in that subsection, then, at the option of the Secretary, all right, title, and interest in and to the property, including any improvements thereon, shall revert to the United States, and the United States shall have the right of immediate entry onto the property.

(2) If the Secretary exercises the reversionary interest provided for in paragraph (1), the Secretary shall pay the County, from amounts available to the Secretary for military construction for the Defense Agencies, an amount equal to the fair market value of the property that reverts to the United States, as determined by the Secretary.

(g) INCLUSION OF SOUTHGATE ROAD RIGHT-OF-WAY PROPERTY IN TRANSFER OF NAVY ANNEX PROPERTY FOR ARLINGTON NATIONAL CEMETERY.—Subsection (a) of section 2881 of the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2000 (division B of Public Law 106–65; 113 Stat. 879) is amended by striking "three parcels of real property consisting of approximately 36 acres" and inserting "four parcels of real property consisting of approximately 40 acres".

(h) TERMINATION OF RESERVATION OF CERTAIN NAVY ANNEX PROPERTY FOR MEMORIALS OR MUSEUMS.—(1) Subsection (b) of such section, as amended by section 2863(f) of the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2002 (division B of Public Law 107–107; 115 Stat. 1332) and section 2851(a)(1) of the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2003 (division B of Public Law 107–314; 116 Stat. 2726), is further amended—

(A) by striking "(1) Subject to paragraph (2), the Secretary" and inserting "The Secretary"; and

(B) by striking paragraph (2).

(2) Subsection (d)(2) of such section, as amended by section 2851(a)(2) of the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2003 (division B of Public Law 107–314; 116 Stat. 2726), is further amended—

(A) by striking "(A)"; and

(B) by striking ", and (B)" and all that follows through "Museum." and inserting a period.

(2) Subsection (f) of such section is amended by striking "reserved under subsection (b)(2) and of the portion".

(i) ADDITIONAL TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—The Secretary may require such additional terms and conditions in connection with the conveyances under this section as the Secretary considers appropriate to protect the interests of the United States.

Subtitle E—Other Matters

SEC. 2891. ONE-YEAR RESUMPTION OF DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE LABORATORY REVITALIZATION DEMONSTRATION PROGRAM.

Section 2892(g) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1996 (Public Law 104–106; 10 U.S.C. 2805 note) is amended by striking "September 30, 2003" and inserting "September 30, 2005".

SEC. 2892. DESIGNATION OF AIRMEN LEADERSHIP SCHOOL AT LUKE AIR FORCE BASE, ARIZONA, IN HONOR OF JOHN J. RHODES, A FORMER MINORITY LEADER OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The Airmen Leadership School at Luke Air Force Base, Arizona, building 156, shall be known and designated as the "John J. Rhodes Airmen Leadership School". Any reference to such facility in any law, regulation, map, document, record, or other paper of the United States shall be considered to be a reference to the John J. Rhodes Airmen Leadership School.

SEC. 2893. SETTLEMENT OF CLAIM OF OAKLAND BASE REUSE AUTHORITY AND REDEVELOPMENT AGENCY.

(a) AUTHORITY TO SETTLE CLAIM.—The Secretary of the Navy may make a payment in the amount of $2,100,000 to the Oakland Base Reuse Authority and Redevelopment Agency of the City of Oakland, California, in settlement of Oakland Base Reuse Authority and Redevelopment Agency of the City of Oakland v. the United States, Case No. C02–4652 MHP, United States District Court, Northern District of California, including any appeal.

(b) RELEASE OF CLAIM.—The payment made under subsection (a) shall be in full satisfaction of all claims of the Oakland Base Reuse Authority and Redevelopment Agency against the United States related to the case referred to in subsection (a), and the Oakland Base Reuse Authority and Redevelopment Agency shall give to the Secretary a release of all claims to 18 officer housing units and related real property located at the former Naval Medical Center Oakland, California. The release shall be in a form that is satisfactory to the Secretary.

(c) SOURCE OF FUNDS FOR SETTLEMENT.—To make the payment authorized by subsection (a), the Secretary may use—

(1) funds in the Department of Defense Base Closure Account 1990; or

(2) the proceeds from the sale of the housing units and property described in subsection (b).

SEC. 2894. REPORT ON ESTABLISHMENT OF MOBILIZATION STATION AT CAMP RIPLEY NATIONAL GUARD TRAINING CENTER, LITTLE FALLS, MINNESOTA.

Not later than 120 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to Congress a report regarding the feasibility of using Camp Ripley National Guard Training Center in Little Falls, Minnesota, as a mobilization station for members of a reserve component ordered to active duty under any provision of law specified in section 101(a)(13)(B) of title 10, United States Code. The report shall include a discussion of the actions necessary to establish the center as a mobilization station.

SEC. 2895. REPORT ON FEASIBILITY OF ESTABLISHMENT OF VETERANS MEMORIAL AT MARINE CORPS AIR STATION, EL TORO, CALIFORNIA.

Not later than 30 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of the Navy shall submit to Congress a report on whether the anticipated future uses of the former Marine Corps Air Station, El Toro, California, by the City of Irvine, California, would permit the establishment and maintenance, at no cost to the United States, of a veterans memorial at the former installation.

SEC. 2896. SENSE OF CONGRESS REGARDING EFFECT OF MILITARY HOUSING POLICIES AND FORCE STRUCTURE AND BASING CHANGES ON LOCAL EDUCATIONAL AGENCIES.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds the following:

(1) There are approximately 750,000 school-aged children of members of the active duty Armed Forces in the United States.

(2) Approximately 650,000 of those students are currently attending public elementary or secondary schools in the United States.

(3) Changes to the military family housing policies of the military departments affect both military housing requirements and the number of dependent children living on military installations in the United States.

(4) Proposed restationing of units of the Armed Forces worldwide, including the return of a significant number of members of the Armed Forces stationed overseas to the United States and the Army proposal to modify its force structure to establish so-called units of action, will increase military housing requirements at military installations in the United States and may result in the need for additional educational facilities at such installations and in the adjacent communities.

(5) To help provide sufficient housing for members of the Armed Forces and their families, the Secretaries of the military departments intend to continue to use the authorities provided in subchapter IV of chapter 169 of title 10, United States Code, to carry out privatization initiatives that will improve or replace an additional 120,000 military family housing units in the United States.

(6) The Secretaries of the military departments may include the construction of school facilities as one of the ancillary supporting facilities authorized as part of a privatization initiative carried out under such subchapter.

(b) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Congress that the Department of Defense should—

(1) consider the effects that changes in force structure and overseas stationing arrangements will have on—

(A) military housing requirements at specific military installations in the United States;

(B) the number of school-aged military dependents at those installations; and

(C) the need for additional educational facilities to serve such dependents; and

(2) consult with local communities and local educational agencies about the best ways to address such changing housing requirements and satisfy the need for additional educational facilities, including using the authority of subchapter IV of chapter 169 of title 10, United States Code, to include the construction of educational facilities as one of the ancillary supporting facilities authorized as part of military privatization housing initiatives.

SEC. 2897. SENSE OF CONGRESS AND STUDY REGARDING MEMORIAL HONORING NON-UNITED STATES CITIZENS KILLED IN THE LINE OF DUTY WHILE SERVING IN THE UNITED STATES ARMED FORCES.

(a) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Congress that a memorial marker or monument should be designed and placed in an appropriate location to honor the service and sacrifice of individuals who, although not United States citizens, served in the United States Armed Forces and were killed in the line of duty.

(b) STUDY.—The Secretary of the Army, in consultation with the Secretary of Veterans Affairs and the American Battle Monuments Commission, shall conduct a study examining the feasibility of placing in Arlington National Cemetery, or some other appropriate location, a memorial marker honoring the service and sacrifice of non-United States citizens killed in the line of duty while serving in the Armed Forces.

(c) CONTENT OF STUDY.—The study required by subsection (b) shall include the following:

(1) A discussion of the historical development of Arlington National Cemetery.

(2) Comprehensive information on the memorial markers presently located in Arlington National Cemetery.

(3) A description of any limitations affecting the ability to establish new monuments, markers, tributes, or plaques in Arlington National Cemetery.

(4) A discussion of alternative locations outside of Arlington National Cemetery that have been used for comparable memorial markers.

(5) Recommendations for appropriate locations for a memorial marker that may be considered.

(d) REPORT AND RECOMMENDATIONS.—Not later than April 1, 2005, the Secretary of the Army shall submit to the Committee on Armed Services and the Committee on Veterans' Affairs of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Armed Services and the Committee on Veterans' Affairs of the Senate a report containing the results of the study required by subsection (b), together with any recommendations for an appropriate plan to honor the service of non-United States citizens killed in the line of duty while serving in the Armed Forces.

(c) FORM OF REPORT.—The report under subsection (a) shall be submitted in unclassified form and shall include a classified annex.

SEC. 3112. TWO-YEAR EXTENSION OF AUTHORITY FOR APPOINTMENT OF CERTAIN SCIENTIFIC, ENGINEERING, AND TECHNICAL PERSONNEL.

Section 4601(c)(1) of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2701(c)(1)) is amended by striking "September 30, 2004" and inserting "September 30, 2006".

SEC. 3113. LIMITED AUTHORITY TO CARRY OUT NEW PROJECTS UNDER FACILITIES AND INFRASTRUCTURE RECAPITALIZATION PROGRAM AFTER PROJECT SELECTION DEADLINE.

(a) LIMITED AUTHORITY TO CARRY OUT NEW PROJECTS.—Section 3114(a) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004 (Public Law 108–136; 117 Stat. 1744; 50 U.S.C. 2453 note) is amended—

(1) in the subsection caption, by striking "DEADLINE FOR";

(2) in paragraph (2), by striking "No project" and inserting "Except as provided in paragraph (3), no project"; and

(3) by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

"(3)(A) Subject to the provisions of this paragraph, a project described in subparagraph (B) may be carried out under the Facilities and Infrastructure Recapitalization Program after December 31, 2004, if the Administrator approves the project. The Administrator may not delegate the authority to approve projects under the preceding sentence.

"(B) A project described in this subparagraph is a project that consists of a specific building, facility, or other improvement (including fences, roads, or similar improvements).

"(C) Funds may not be obligated or expended for a project under this paragraph until 60 days after the date on which the Administrator submits to the congressional defense committees a notice on the project, including a description of the project and the nature of the project, a statement explaining why the project was not included in the Facilities and Infrastructure Recapitalization Program under paragraph (1), and a statement explaining why the project was not included in any other program under the jurisdiction of the Administrator.

"(D) The total number of projects that may be carried out under this paragraph in any fiscal year may not exceed five projects.

"(E) The Administrator may not utilize the authority in this paragraph until 60 days after the later of—

"(i) the date of the submittal to the congressional defense committees of a list of the projects selected for inclusion in the Facilities and Infrastructure Recapitalization Program under paragraph (1); or

"(ii) the date of the submittal to the congressional defense committees of the report required by subsection (c).

"(F) A project may not be carried out under this paragraph unless the project will be completed by September 30, 2011.".

(b) CONSTRUCTION OF AUTHORITY.—The amendments made by subsection (a) may not be construed to authorize any delay in either of the following:

(1) The selection of projects for inclusion in the Facilities and Infrastructure Recapitalization Program under subsection (a) of section 3114 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004.

(2) The submittal of the report required by subsection (c) of such section.

SEC. 3114. MODIFICATION OF MILESTONE AND REPORT REQUIREMENTS FOR NATIONAL IGNITION FACILITY.

(a) NOTIFICATION ON MILESTONES TO ACHIEVE IGNITION.—Subsection (a) of section 3137 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2002 (Public Law 107–107; 115 Stat. 1369) is amended by striking "each Level I milestone and Level II milestone for the National Ignition Facility." and inserting the following: "each milestone for the National Ignition Facility as follows:

"(1) Each Level I milestone.

"(2) Each Level II milestone.

"(3) Each milestone to achieve ignition.".

(b) REPORT ON FAILURE OF TIMELY ACHIEVEMENT OF MILESTONES.—Subsection (b) of such section is amended by striking "a Level I milestone or Level II milestone for the National Ignition Facility" and inserting "a milestone for the National Ignition Facility referred to in subsection (a)".

(c) MILESTONES TO ACHIEVE IGNITION.—Subsection (c) of such section is amended to read as follows:

"(c) MILESTONES.—For purposes of this section:

"(1) The Level I milestones and Level II milestones for the National Ignition Facility are as established in the August 2000 revised National Ignition Facility baseline document.

"(2) The milestones for the National Ignition Facility to achieve ignition are such milestones (other than the milestones referred to in paragraph (1)) as the Administrator shall establish on any activities at the National Ignition Facility that are required to enable the National Ignition Facility to achieve ignition and be a fully functioning user facility by December 31, 2011.".

(d) SUBMITTAL TO CONGRESS OF MILESTONES TO ACHIEVE IGNITION.—Not later than January 31, 2005, the Administrator for Nuclear Security shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report setting forth the milestones of the National Ignition Facility to achieve ignition as established by the Administration under subsection (c)(2) of section 3137 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2002, as amended by subsection (c) of this section. The report shall include—

(1) a description of each milestone established; and

(2) a proposal for the funding to be required to meet each such milestone.

(e) EXTENSION OF SUNSET.—Subsection (d) of section 3137 of such Act is amended by striking "September 30, 2004" and inserting "December 31, 2011".

SEC. 3115. MODIFICATION OF SUBMITTAL DATE OF ANNUAL PLAN FOR STEWARDSHIP, MANAGEMENT, AND CERTIFICATION OF WARHEADS IN THE NUCLEAR WEAPONS STOCKPILE.

Section 4203(c) of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2523(c)) is amended by striking "March 15 of each year thereafter" and inserting "May 1 of each year thereafter".

SEC. 3116. DEFENSE SITE ACCELERATION COMPLETION.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding the provisions of the Nuclear Waste Policy Act of 1982, the requirements of section 202 of the Energy Reorganization Act of 1974, and other laws that define classes of radioactive waste, with respect to material stored at a Department of Energy site at which activities are regulated by a covered State pursuant to approved closure plans or permits issued by the State, the term "high-level radioactive waste" does not include radioactive waste resulting from the reprocessing of spent nuclear fuel that the Secretary of Energy (in this section referred to as the "Secretary"), in consultation with the Nuclear Regulatory Commission (in this section referred to as the "Commission"), determines—

(1) does not require permanent isolation in a deep geologic repository for spent fuel or high-level radioactive waste;

(2) has had highly radioactive radionuclides removed to the maximum extent practical; and

(3)(A) does not exceed concentration limits for Class C low-level waste as set out in section 61.55 of title 10, Code of Federal Regulations, and will be disposed of—

(i) in compliance with the performance objectives set out in subpart C of part 61 of title 10, Code of Federal Regulations; and

(ii) pursuant to a State-approved closure plan or State-issued permit, authority for the approval or issuance of which is conferred on the State outside of this section; or

(B) exceeds concentration limits for Class C low-level waste as set out in section 61.55 of title 10, Code of Federal Regulations, but will be disposed of—

(i) in compliance with the performance objectives set out in subpart C of part 61 of title 10, Code of Federal Regulations;

(ii) pursuant to a State-approved closure plan or State-issued permit, authority for the approval or issuance of which is conferred on the State outside of this section; and

(iii) pursuant to plans developed by the Secretary in consultation with the Commission.

(b) MONITORING BY NUCLEAR REGULATORY COMMISSION.—(1) The Commission shall, in coordination with the covered State, monitor disposal actions taken by the Department of Energy pursuant to subparagraphs (A) and (B) of subsection (a)(3) for the purpose of assessing compliance with the performance objectives set out in subpart C of part 61 of title 10, Code of Federal Regulations.

(2) If the Commission considers any disposal actions taken by the Department of Energy pursuant to those subparagraphs to be not in compliance with those performance objectives, the Commission shall, as soon as practicable after discovery of the noncompliant conditions, inform the Department of Energy, the covered State, and the following congressional committees:

(A) The Committee on Armed Services, the Committee on Energy and Commerce, and the Committee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives.

(B) The Committee on Armed Services, the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources, the Committee on Environment and Public Works, and the Committee on Appropriations of the Senate.

(3) For fiscal year 2005, the Secretary shall, from amounts available for defense site acceleration completion, reimburse the Commission for all expenses, including salaries, that the Commission incurs as a result of performance under subsection (a) and this subsection for fiscal year 2005. The Department of Energy and the Commission may enter into an interagency agreement that specifies the method of reimbursement. Amounts received by the Commission for performance under subsection (a) and this subsection may be retained and used for salaries and expenses associated with those activities, notwithstanding section 3302 of title 31, United States Code, and shall remain available until expended.

(4) For fiscal years after 2005, the Commission shall include in the budget justification materials submitted to Congress in support of the Commission budget for that fiscal year (as submitted with the budget of the President under section 1105(a) of title 31, United States Code) the amounts required, not offset by revenues, for performance under subsection (a) and this subsection.

(c) INAPPLICABILITY TO CERTAIN MATERIALS.—Subsection (a) shall not apply to any material otherwise covered by that subsection that is transported from the covered State.

(d) COVERED STATES.—For purposes of this section, the following States are covered States:

(1) The State of South Carolina.

(2) The State of Idaho.

(e) CONSTRUCTION.—(1) Nothing in this section shall impair, alter, or modify the full implementation of any Federal Facility Agreement and Consent Order or other applicable consent decree for a Department of Energy site.

(2) Nothing in this section establishes any precedent or is binding on the State of Washington, the State of Oregon, or any other State not covered by subsection (d) for the management, storage, treatment, and disposition of radioactive and hazardous materials.

(3) Nothing in this section amends the definition of "transuranic waste" or regulations for repository disposal of transuranic waste pursuant to the Waste Isolation Pilot Plant Land Withdrawal Act or part 191 of title 40, Code of Federal Regulations.

(4) Nothing in this section shall be construed to affect in any way the obligations of the Department of Energy to comply with section 4306A of the Atomic Energy Defense Act (50 U.S.C. 2567).

(5) Nothing in this section amends the West Valley Demonstration Act (42 U.S.C. 2121a note).

(f) JUDICIAL REVIEW.—Judicial review shall be available in accordance with chapter 7 of title 5, United States Code, for the following:

(1) Any determination made by the Secretary or any other agency action taken by the Secretary pursuant to this section.

(2) Any failure of the Commission to carry out its responsibilities under subsection (b).

SEC. 3117. TREATMENT OF WASTE MATERIAL.

Of the amounts made available pursuant to the authorization of appropriations in section 3102(1) for environmental management for defense site acceleration completion for the High-Level Waste Proposal, $350,000,000 shall be available at specified sites for any defense site acceleration completion activities at those sites, as follows:

(1) The Idaho National Engineering and Environmental Laboratory, Idaho, $97,300,000.

(2) The Savannah River Site, Aiken, South Carolina, $188,600,000.

(3) The Hanford Site, Richland, Washington, $61,100,000.

SEC. 3118. LOCAL STAKEHOLDER ORGANIZATIONS FOR 2006 CLOSURE SITES.

(a) ESTABLISHMENT.—(1) The Secretary of Energy shall establish for each Department of Energy 2006 closure site a local stakeholder organization having the responsibilities set forth in subsection (c).

(2) The local stakeholder organization shall be established in consultation with interested elected officials of local governments in the vicinity of the closure site concerned.

(b) COMPOSITION.—A local stakeholder organization for a Department of Energy 2006 closure site under subsection (a) shall be composed of such elected officials of local governments in the vicinity of the closure site concerned as the Secretary considers appropriate to carry out the responsibilities set forth in subsection (c) who agree to serve on the organization, or the designees of such officials.

(c) RESPONSIBILITIES.—A local stakeholder organization for a Department of Energy 2006 closure site under subsection (a) shall—

(1) solicit and encourage public participation in appropriate activities relating to the closure and post-closure operations of the site;

(2) disseminate information on the closure and post-closure operations of the site to the State government of the State in which the site is located, local and tribal governments in the vicinity of the site, and persons and entities having a stake in the closure or post-closure operations of the site;

(3) transmit to appropriate officers and employees of the Department of Energy questions and concerns of governments, persons, and entities referred to paragraph (2) on the closure and post-closure operations of the site; and

(4) perform such other duties as the Secretary and the local stakeholder organization jointly determine appropriate to assist the Secretary in meeting post-closure obligations of the Department at the site.

(d) DEADLINE FOR ESTABLISHMENT.—The local stakeholder organization for a Department of Energy 2006 closure site shall be established not later than six months before the closure of the site.

(e) DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY 2006 CLOSURE SITE DEFINED.—In this section, the term "Department of Energy 2006 closure site" means the following:

(1) The Rocky Flats Environmental Technology Site, Colorado.

(2) The Fernald Plant, Ohio.

(3) The Mound Plant, Ohio.

SEC. 3119. REPORT TO CONGRESS ON ADVANCED NUCLEAR WEAPONS CONCEPTS INITIATIVE.

(a) REPORT REQUIRED.—Not later than March 1, 2005, the Administrator for Nuclear Security shall submit to the congressional defense committees a detailed report on the planned activities for studies under the Advanced Nuclear Weapons Concepts Initiative for fiscal year 2005.

(b) FORM OF REPORT.—The report under subsection (a) shall be submitted in unclassified form, but may include a classified annex.

Subtitle C—Proliferation Matters

SEC. 3131. MODIFICATION OF AUTHORITY TO USE INTERNATIONAL NUCLEAR MATERIALS PROTECTION AND COOPERATION PROGRAM FUNDS OUTSIDE THE FORMER SOVIET UNION.

(a) APPLICABILITY OF AUTHORITY LIMITED TO PROJECTS NOT PREVIOUSLY AUTHORIZED.—Subsection (a) of section 3124 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004 (Public Law 108–136; 117 Stat. 1747) is amended by inserting "that has not previously been authorized by Congress" after "states of the former Soviet Union".

(b) REPEAL OF LIMITATION ON TOTAL AMOUNT OF OBLIGATION.—Such section is further amended—

(1) by striking subsection (c); and

(2) by redesignating subsections (d), (e), and (f) as subsections (c), (d), and (e), respectively.

(c) APPLICABILITY BEYOND FISCAL YEAR 2004.—Subsection (e) of such section (as redesignated by subsection (b)) is amended by striking "the funds appropriated pursuant to the authorization of appropriations in section 3101(a)(2) for such program" and inserting "the funds appropriated pursuant to an authorization of appropriations for the International Nuclear Materials Protection and Cooperation Program".

SEC. 3132. ACCELERATION OF REMOVAL OR SECURITY OF FISSILE MATERIALS, RADIOLOGICAL MATERIALS, AND RELATED EQUIPMENT AT VULNERABLE SITES WORLDWIDE.

(a) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—(1) It is the sense of Congress that the security, including the rapid removal or secure storage, of high-risk, proliferation-attractive fissile materials, radiological materials, and related equipment at vulnerable sites worldwide should be a top priority among the activities to achieve the national security of the United States.

(2) It is the sense of Congress that the President may establish in the Department of Energy a task force to be known as the Task Force on Nuclear Materials to carry out the program authorized by subsection (b).

(b) PROGRAM AUTHORIZED.—The Secretary of Energy may carry out a program to undertake an accelerated, comprehensive worldwide effort to mitigate the threats posed by high-risk, proliferation-attractive fissile materials, radiological materials, and related equipment located at sites potentially vulnerable to theft or diversion.

(c) PROGRAM ELEMENTS.—(1) Activities under the program under subsection (b) may include the following:

(A) Accelerated efforts to secure, remove, or eliminate proliferation-attractive fissile materials or radiological materials in research reactors, other reactors, and other facilities worldwide.

(B) Arrangements for the secure shipment of proliferation-attractive fissile materials, radiological materials, and related equipment to other countries willing to accept such materials and equipment, or to the United States if such countries cannot be identified, and the provision of secure storage or disposition of such materials and equipment following shipment.

(C) The transportation of proliferation-attractive fissile materials, radiological materials, and related equipment from sites identified as proliferation risks to secure facilities in other countries or in the United States.

(D) The processing and packaging of proliferation-attractive fissile materials, radiological materials, and related equipment in accordance with required standards for transport, storage, and disposition.

(E) The provision of interim security upgrades for vulnerable, proliferation-attractive fissile materials, radiological materials, and related equipment pending their removal from their current sites.

(F) The utilization of funds to upgrade security and accounting at sites where proliferation-attractive fissile materials or radiological materials will remain for an extended period of time in order to ensure that such materials are secure against plausible potential threats and will remain so in the future.

(G) The management of proliferation-attractive fissile materials, radiological materials, and related equipment at secure facilities.

(H) Actions to ensure that security, including security upgrades at sites and facilities for the storage or disposition of proliferation-attractive fissile materials, radiological materials, and related equipment, continues to function as intended.

(I) The provision of technical support to the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA), other countries, and other entities to facilitate removal of, and security upgrades to facilities that contain, proliferation-attractive fissile materials, radiological materials, and related equipment worldwide.

(J) The development of alternative fuels and irradiation targets based on low-enriched uranium to convert research or other reactors fueled by highly-enriched uranium to such alternative fuels, as well as the conversion of reactors and irradiation targets employing highly-enriched uranium to employment of such alternative fuels and targets.

(K) Accelerated actions for the blend down of highly-enriched uranium to low-enriched uranium.

(L) The provision of assistance in the closure and decommissioning of sites identified as presenting risks of proliferation of proliferation-attractive fissile materials, radiological materials, and related equipment.

(M) Programs to—

(i) assist in the placement of employees displaced as a result of actions pursuant to the program in enterprises not representing a proliferation threat; and

(ii) convert sites identified as presenting risks of proliferation regarding proliferation-attractive fissile materials, radiological materials, and related equipment to purposes not representing a proliferation threat to the extent necessary to eliminate the proliferation threat.

(2) The Secretary of Energy shall, in coordination with the Secretary of State, carry out the program in consultation with, and with the assistance of, appropriate departments, agencies, and other entities of the United States Government.

(3) The Secretary of Energy shall, with the concurrence of the Secretary of State, carry out activities under the program in collaboration with such foreign governments, non-governmental organizations, and other international entities as the Secretary of Energy considers appropriate for the program.

(d) REPORTS.—(1) Not later than March 15, 2005, the Secretary of Energy shall submit to Congress a classified interim report on the program under subsection (b).

(2) Not later than January 1, 2006, the Secretary shall submit to Congress a classified final report on the program under subsection (b) that includes the following:

(A) A survey by the Secretary of the facilities and sites worldwide that contain proliferation-attractive fissile materials, radiological materials, or related equipment.

(B) A list of sites determined by the Secretary to be of the highest priority, taking into account risk of theft from such sites, for removal or security of proliferation-attractive fissile materials, radiological materials, or related equipment, organized by level of priority.

(C) A plan, including activities under the program under this section, for the removal, security, or both of proliferation-attractive fissile materials, radiological materials, or related equipment at vulnerable facilities and sites worldwide, including measurable milestones, metrics, and estimated costs for the implementation of the plan.

(3) A summary of each report under this subsection shall also be submitted to Congress in unclassified form.

(e) FUNDING.—Amounts authorized to be appropriated to the Secretary of Energy for defense nuclear nonproliferation activities shall be available for purposes of the program under this section.

(f) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

(1) The term "fissile materials" means plutonium, highly-enriched uranium, or other material capable of sustaining an explosive nuclear chain reaction, including irradiated items containing such materials if the radiation field from such items is not sufficient to prevent the theft or misuse of such items.

(2) The term "radiological materials" includes Americium-241, Californium-252, Cesium-137, Cobalt-60, Iridium-192, Plutonium-238, Radium-226, Strontium-90, Curium-244, and irradiated items containing such materials, or other materials designated by the Secretary of Energy for purposes of this paragraph.

(3) The term "related equipment" includes equipment useful for enrichment of uranium in the isotope 235 and for extraction of fissile materials from irradiated fuel rods and other equipment designated by the Secretary of Energy for purposes of this section.

(4) The term "highly-enriched uranium" means uranium enriched to or above 20 percent in the isotope 235.

(5) The term "low-enriched uranium" means uranium enriched below 20 percent in the isotope 235.

(6) The term "proliferation-attractive", in the case of fissile materials and radiological materials, means quantities and types of such materials that are determined by the Secretary of Energy to present a significant risk to the national security of the United States if diverted to a use relating to proliferation.

SEC. 3133. SILK ROAD INITIATIVE.

(a) PROGRAM AUTHORIZED.—(1) The Secretary of Energy may carry out a program, to be known as the Silk Road Initiative, to promote non-weapons-related employment opportunities for scientists, engineers, and technicians formerly engaged in activities to develop and produce weapons of mass destruction in Silk Road nations. The program should—

(A) incorporate best practices under the Initiatives for Proliferation Prevention program; and

(B) facilitate commercial partnerships between private entities in the United States and scientists, engineers, and technicians in the Silk Road nations.

(2) Before implementing the program with respect to multiple Silk Road nations, the Secretary of Energy shall carry out a pilot program with respect to one Silk Road nation selected by the Secretary. It is the sense of Congress that the Secretary should select the Republic of Georgia.

(b) SILK ROAD NATIONS DEFINED.—In this section, the Silk Road nations are Armenia, Azerbaijan, the Republic of Georgia, Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Tajikistan, Turkmenistan, and Uzbekistan.

(c) FUNDING.—Of the funds authorized to be appropriated to the Department of Energy for nonproliferation and international security for fiscal year 2005, up to $10,000,000 may be used to carry out this section.

SEC. 3134. NUCLEAR NONPROLIFERATION FELLOWSHIPS FOR SCIENTISTS EMPLOYED BY UNITED STATES AND RUSSIAN FEDERATION.

(a) IN GENERAL.—(1) From amounts made available to carry out this section, the Administrator for Nuclear Security may carry out a program under which the Administrator awards, to scientists employed at nonproliferation research laboratories of the Russian Federation and the United States, international exchange fellowships, to be known as Nuclear Nonproliferation Fellowships, in the nuclear nonproliferation sciences.

(2) The purpose of the program shall be to provide opportunities for advancement in the nuclear nonproliferation sciences to scientists who, as demonstrated by their academic or professional achievements, show particular promise of making significant contributions in those sciences.

(3) A fellowship awarded to a scientist under the program shall be for collaborative study and training or advanced research at—

(A) a nonproliferation research laboratory of the Russian Federation, in the case of a scientist employed at a nonproliferation research laboratory of the United States; and

(B) a nonproliferation research laboratory of the United States, in the case of a scientist employed at a nonproliferation research laboratory of the Russian Federation.

(4) The duration of a fellowship under the program may not exceed two years, except that the Administrator may provide for a longer duration in an individual case to the extent warranted by extraordinary circumstances, as determined by the Administrator.

(5) In a calendar year, the Administrator may not award more than—

(A) one fellowship to a scientist employed at a nonproliferation research laboratory of the Russian Federation; and

(B) one fellowship to a scientist employed at a nonproliferation research laboratory of the United States.

(6) A fellowship under the program shall include—

(A) travel expenses; and

(B) any other expenses that the Administrator considers appropriate, such as room and board.

(b) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

(1) The term "nonproliferation research laboratory" means, with respect to a country, a national laboratory of that country at which research in the nuclear nonproliferation sciences is carried out.

(2) The term "nuclear nonproliferation sciences" means bodies of scientific knowledge relevant to developing or advancing the means to prevent or impede the proliferation of nuclear weaponry.

(3) The term "scientist" means an individual who has a degree from an institution of higher education in a science that has practical application in the nuclear nonproliferation sciences.

(c) FUNDING.—Amounts available to the Department of Energy for defense nuclear nonproliferation activities shall be available for the fellowships authorized by subsection (a).

SEC. 3135. UTILIZATION OF INTERNATIONAL CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE ELIMINATION OF WEAPONS GRADE PLUTONIUM PRODUCTION PROGRAM.

Section 3151 of the Bob Stump National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2003 (Public Law 107–314; 116 Stat. 2736; 22 U.S.C. 5952 note) is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

"(e) INTERNATIONAL PARTICIPATION IN PROGRAM.—(1) In order to achieve international participation in the program referred to in subsection (a), the Secretary of Energy may, in consultation with the Secretary of State, enter into one or more agreements with any person, foreign government, or other international organization that the Secretary considers appropriate for the contribution of funds by such person, government, or organization for purposes of the program.

"(2) Notwithstanding section 3302 of title 31, United States Code, and subject to paragraphs (3) and (4), the Secretary may retain and utilize any amounts contributed by a person, government, or organization under an agreement under paragraph (1) for purposes of the program without further appropriation and without fiscal year limitation.

"(3) The Secretary may not utilize under paragraph (2) any amount contributed under an agreement under paragraph (1) until 30 days after the date on which the Secretary notifies the congressional defense committees of the intent to utilize such amount, including the source of such amount and the proposed purpose for which such amount will be utilized.

"(4) If any amount contributed under paragraph (1) has not been utilized within five years of receipt under that paragraph, the Secretary shall return such amount to the person, government, or organization contributing such amount under that paragraph.

"(5) Not later than 30 days after the receipt of any amount contributed under paragraph (1), the Secretary shall submit to the congressional defense committees a notice of the receipt of such amount.

"(6) Not later than October 31 each year, the Secretary shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report on the receipt and utilization of amounts under this subsection during the preceding fiscal year. Each report for a fiscal year shall set forth—

"(A) a statement of any amounts received under this subsection, including the source of each such amount; and

"(B) a statement of any amounts utilized under this subsection, including the purpose for which such amounts were utilized.

"(7) The authority of the Secretary to accept and utilize amounts under this subsection shall expire on December 31, 2011.".

Subtitle D—Other Matters

SEC. 3141. INDEMNIFICATION OF DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY CONTRACTORS.

Section 170 d.(1)(A) of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 (42 U.S.C. 2210(d)(1)(A)) is amended by striking "until December 31, 2004" and inserting "until December 31, 2006".

SEC. 3142. REPORT ON MAINTENANCE OF RETIREMENT BENEFITS FOR CERTAIN WORKERS AT 2006 CLOSURE SITES AFTER CLOSURE OF SITES.

(a) REPORT REQUIRED.—Not later than 60 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Assistant Secretary of Energy for Environmental Management shall submit to the Secretary of Energy a report on the maintenance of retirement benefits for workers at Department of Energy 2006 closure sites after closure of such sites.

(b) ELEMENTS.—The report under subsection (a) shall include the following:

(1) The number of workers at Department of Energy 2006 closure sites who would be eligible for regular or early retirement benefits if such sites close on or after their target completion dates, but who would not be eligible for regular or early retirement benefits if such sites close before their target completion dates (by calendar quarter).

(2) The cost of providing regular or full retirement benefits, after the closure of Department of Energy 2006 closure sites, to workers at such sites who would fail to qualify for regular or early retirement benefits because of the early closure of such sites (by calendar quarter).

(3) The impact on collective-bargaining agreements and any applicable retirement benefit plan documents covering workers at Department of Energy 2006 closure sites of providing regular or early retirement benefits as set forth herein.

(c) TRANSMITTAL TO CONGRESS.—Not later than 30 days after receiving the report under subsection (a), the Secretary shall transmit the report to Congress, together with such recommendations, including recommendations for legislative action, as the Secretary considers appropriate.

(d) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

(1) The term "Department of Energy 2006 closure site" means the following:

(A) The Rocky Flats Environmental Technology Site, Colorado.

(B) The Fernald Plant, Ohio.

(C) The Mound Plant, Ohio.

(2) The term "worker" means any employee who is employed by contract or first or second tier subcontract to perform cleanup, security, or administrative duties or responsibilities at a Department of Energy 2006 closure site.

(3) The term "retirement benefits" means pension, health, and other similar post-retirement benefits.

(4) The term "target completion date", with respect to a Department of Energy 2006 closure site, means the physical completion date specified in the site contracts.

SEC. 3143. REPORT ON EFFORTS OF NATIONAL NUCLEAR SECURITY ADMINISTRATION TO UNDERSTAND PLUTONIUM AGING.

(a) STUDY.—(1) The Administrator for Nuclear Security shall enter into a contract with a Federally Funded Research and Development Center (FFRDC) providing for a study to assess the efforts of the National Nuclear Security Administration to understand the aging of plutonium in nuclear weapons.

(2) The Administrator shall make available to the FFRDC contractor under this subsection all information that is necessary for the contractor to successfully complete a meaningful study on a timely basis.

(b) REPORT REQUIRED.—(1) Not later than two years after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Administrator shall submit to Congress a report on the findings of the study required by subsection (a)(1).

(2) The report shall include the recommendations of the study for improving the knowledge, understanding, and application of the fundamental and applied sciences related to the study of plutonium aging.

(3) The report shall be submitted in unclassified form, but may include a classified annex.

SEC. 3144. SUPPORT FOR PUBLIC EDUCATION IN THE VICINITY OF LOS ALAMOS NATIONAL LABORATORY, NEW MEXICO.

The Secretary of Energy shall require that the primary management and operations contract for Los Alamos National Laboratory, New Mexico, that involves Laboratory operations after September 30, 2005, shall contain terms requiring the contractor under such contract to provide support to the Los Alamos Public School District, New Mexico, for the elementary and secondary education of students in the school district in the amount of $8,000,000 in each fiscal year.

SEC. 3145. REVIEW OF WASTE ISOLATION PILOT PLANT, NEW MEXICO, PURSUANT TO COMPETITIVE CONTRACT.

(a) CONTRACT REQUIREMENT.—The Secretary of Energy shall use competitive procedures to enter into a contract to conduct independent reviews and evaluations of the design, construction, and operations of the Waste Isolation Pilot Plant in New Mexico (in this section referred to as the "WIPP") as they relate to the protection of the public health and safety and the environment. The contract shall be for a period of one year, beginning on October 1, 2004, and shall be renewable for four additional one-year periods with the consent of the contractor and subject to the authorization and appropriation of funds for such purpose.

(b) CONTENT OF CONTRACT.—A contract entered into under subsection (a) shall require the following:

(1) The contractor shall appoint a Director and Deputy Director, who shall be scientists of national eminence in the field of nuclear waste disposal, shall be free from any biases related to the activities of the WIPP, and shall be widely known for their integrity and scientific expertise.

(2) The Director shall appoint staff. The professional staff shall consist of scientists and engineers of recognized integrity and scientific expertise who represent scientific and engineering disciplines needed for a thorough review of the WIPP, including disciplines such as geology, hydrology, health physics, environmental engineering, probability risk analysis, mining engineering, and radiation chemistry. The disciplines represented in the staff shall change as may be necessary to meet changed needs in carrying out the contract for expertise in any certain scientific or engineering discipline. Scientists and engineers employed under the contract shall have qualifications and experience equivalent to the qualifications and experience required for scientists and engineers employed by the Federal Government in grades GS–13 through GS–15.

(3) Scientists and engineers employed under the contract shall have an appropriate support staff.

(4) The Director and Deputy Director shall each be appointed for a term of 5 years, subject to contract renewal, and may be removed only for misconduct or incompetence. The staff shall be appointed for such terms as the Director considers appropriate.

(5) The rates of pay of professional staff and the procedures for increasing the rates of pay of professional staff shall be equivalent to those rates and procedures provided for the General Schedule pay system under chapter 53 of title 5, United States Code.

(6) The results of reviews and evaluations carried out under the contract shall be published.

(c) ADMINISTRATION.—The contractor shall establish general policies and guidelines to be used by the Director in carrying out the work under the contract.

SEC. 3146. NATIONAL ACADEMY OF SCIENCES STUDY ON MANAGEMENT BY DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY OF CERTAIN RADIOACTIVE WASTE STREAMS.

(a) STUDY REQUIRED.—The Secretary of Energy shall, as soon as practicable, enter into an arrangement with the National Research Council of the National Academy of Sciences to carry out a study of the plans of the Department of Energy to manage those waste streams specified in subsection (b) that—

(1) exceed the concentration limits for Class C low-level waste as set out in section 61.55 of title 10, Code of Federal Regulations; and

(2) the Department plans to dispose of on the sites specified in subsection (b)(3) rather than in a repository for spent nuclear fuel and high-level waste.

(b) COVERED WASTE STREAMS.—The waste streams referred to in subsection (a) are the streams of waste, from reprocessed spent nuclear fuel, that—

(1) exceed the concentration limits for Class C low-level waste as set out in section 61.55 of title 10, Code of Federal Regulations;

(2) the Department does not plan for disposal in a repository for spent nuclear fuel and high-level waste; and

(3) are stored in tanks at the following sites:

(A) The Savannah River Site, South Carolina.

(B) The Idaho National Engineering Laboratory, Idaho.

(C) The Hanford Reservation, Washington.

(c) MATTERS INCLUDED.—The study required by subsection (a) shall evaluate—

(1) the state of the Department's understanding of the physical, chemical, and radiological characteristics of the waste referred to in subsection (b), including an assessment of data uncertainties;

(2) any actions additional to those contained in current plans that the Department should consider to ensure that the plans referred to in subsection (a) will comply with the performance objectives of part 61 of title 10, Code of Federal Regulations;

(3) the adequacy of the Department's plans for monitoring disposal sites and the surrounding environment to verify compliance with those performance objectives;

(4) existing technology alternatives to the plans referred to in subsection (a) and, for each such alternative, an assessment of the cost, consequences for worker safety, and long-term consequences for environmental and human health;

(5) any technology gaps that exist to effect improved efficiency in removal and treatment of waste from the tanks referred to in subsection (b)(3); and

(6) any other matters that the National Research Council considers appropriate and directly related to the subject matter of the study.

(d) RECOMMENDATIONS.—In carrying out the study required by subsection (a), the National Research Council may develop recommendations it considers appropriate and directly related to the subject matter of the study. It is the sense of Congress that the National Research Council should develop recommendations on—

(1) improvements to the scientific and technical basis for managing the waste covered by the study, including the identification of technology alternatives and mitigation of technology gaps; and

(2) the best means of monitoring any on-site disposal sites from the waste streams referred to in subsection (b), to include soil, groundwater, and surface water monitoring.

(e) REPORTS.—(1) The National Research Council shall submit to the Secretary of Energy and the congressional committees described in paragraph (2)—

(A) not later than six months after entering into the arrangement required by subsection (a), an interim report on the study that, with respect to the requirements of subsection (c)(2), specifically addresses any additional actions the Department should consider to ensure that the Department's plans for the Savannah River Site, including plans for grouting of tanks, will comply with the performance objectives referred to in that subsection in a more effective manner; and

(B) not later than one year after entering into the arrangement required by subsection (a), a final report on the study that includes all findings, conclusions, and recommendations.

(2) The congressional committees referred to in paragraph (1) are as follows:

(A) The Committee on Appropriations, Committee on Armed Services, and Committee on Energy and Commerce of the House of Representatives.

(B) The Committee on Appropriations, Committee on Armed Services, Committee on Energy and Natural Resources, and Committee on Environment and Public Works of the Senate.

(f) PROVISION OF INFORMATION.—The Secretary of Energy shall, in a timely manner, make available to the National Research Council all information that the National Research Council considers necessary to carry out its responsibilities under this section.

(g) RULE OF CONSTRUCTION.—This section shall not be construed to affect section 3116.

(h) FUNDING.—Of the amounts made available to the Department of Energy pursuant to the authorization of appropriations in section 3102, $1,500,000 shall be available only for carrying out the study required by this section.

SEC. 3147. COMPENSATION OF PAJARITO PLATEAU, NEW MEXICO, HOMESTEADERS FOR ACQUISITION OF LANDS FOR MANHATTAN PROJECT IN WORLD WAR II.

(a) ESTABLISHMENT OF COMPENSATION FUND.—There is established in the Treasury of the United States a fund to be known as the Pajarito Plateau Homesteaders Compensation Fund (in this section referred to as the "Fund"). The Fund shall be dedicated to the settlement of the two lawsuits in the United States District Court for the District of New Mexico consolidated as Civ. No. 00-60.

(b) ELEMENTS OF FUND.—The Fund shall consist of the following:

(1) Amounts available for deposit in the Fund under subsection (j).

(2) Interest earned on amounts in the Fund under subsection (g).

(c) USE OF FUND.—The Fund shall be available for the settlement of the consolidated lawsuits in accordance with the following requirements:

(1) The settlement shall be subject to preliminary and final approval by the Court in accordance with rule 23(e) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

(2) The Court shall appoint a special master in accordance with rule 53 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure to—

(A) identify class members;

(B) receive claims from class members so identified;

(C) determine in accordance with subsection (d) eligible claimants from among class members so identified;

(D) resolve contests, if any, among claimants with respect to a particular eligible tract, regarding the disbursement of monies in the Fund with respect to that eligible tract; and

(E) address such other matters as the Court may order.

(3) Lead counsel for claimants shall provide evidence to the special master to assist the special master in the duties set forth in paragraph (2).

(4) If more than 10 percent of the class members object to the settlement, or the Court fails to approve the settlement—

(A) the Fund shall not serve as the basis for the settlement of the consolidated lawsuits and the provisions of this section shall have no further force or effect; and

(B) amounts in the Fund shall not be disbursed, but shall be retained in the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts.

(5) The Court may award compensation for the special master and attorney fees and expenses from the Fund pursuant to rule 23 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, except that the award of attorney fees may not exceed 20 percent of the Fund and the award of expenses may not exceed 2 percent of the Fund. Any compensation and attorney fees and expenses so paid shall be paid from the Fund by the Court before distribution of the amount in the Fund to eligible claimants entitled thereto.

(6) The Fund shall be available to pay settlement awards in accordance with the following:

(A) The balance of the amount of the Fund that is available for disbursement after any award of attorney fees and expenses under paragraph (5) shall be allocated proportionally by eligible tract according to its acreage as compared with all eligible tracts.

(B) The allocation for each eligible tract shall be allocated pro rata among all eligible claimants having an interest in such eligible tract according to the extent of their interest in such eligible tract, as determined under the laws of the State of New Mexico.

(7) The special master shall disburse the allocated amounts from the Fund after approval by the Court.

(8) Any amounts available for disbursement with respect to an eligible tract that are not awarded to eligible claimants with respect to that tract shall be retained in the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts.

(d) ELIGIBLE CLAIMANTS.—(1) For purposes of this section, an eligible claimant is any class member determined by the Court, by a preponderance of evidence, to be a person or entity who held a fee simple ownership in an eligible tract at the time of its acquisition by the United States during World War II for use in the Manhattan Project, or the heir, successor in interest, assignee, or beneficiary of such a person or entity.

(2) The status of a person or entity as an heir, successor in interest, assignee, or beneficiary for purposes of this subsection shall be determined under the laws of the State of New Mexico, including the descent and distribution law of the State of New Mexico.

(e) FULL RESOLUTION OF CLAIMS AGAINST UNITED STATES.—(1) The acceptance of a disbursement from the Fund by an eligible claimant under this section shall constitute a final and complete release of the defendants in the consolidated lawsuits with respect to such eligible claimant, and shall be in full satisfaction of any and all claims of such eligible claimant against the United States arising out of acts described in the consolidated lawsuits.

(2) Upon the disbursement of the amount in the Fund to eligible claimants entitled thereto under this section, the Court shall, subject to the provisions of rule 23(e) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, enter a final judgment dismissing with prejudice the consolidated lawsuits and all claims and potential claims on matters covered by the consolidated lawsuits.

(f) COMPENSATION LIMITED TO AMOUNTS IN FUND.—(1) An eligible claimant may be paid under this section only from amounts in the Fund.

(2) Nothing in this section shall authorize the payment to a class member by the United States Government of any amount authorized by this section from any source other than the Fund.

(g) INVESTMENT OF FUND.—(1) The Secretary of the Treasury shall, in accordance with the requirements of section 9702 of title 31, United States Code, and the provisions of this subsection, direct the form and manner by which the Fund shall be safeguarded and invested so as to maximize its safety while earning a return comparable to other common funds in which the United States Treasury is the source of payment.

(2) Interest on the amount deposited in the Fund shall accrue from the date of the enactment of the Act appropriating amounts for deposit in the Fund until the date on which the Secretary of the Treasury disburses the amount in the Fund to eligible claimants who are entitled thereto under subsection (c).

(h) PRESERVATION OF RECORDS.—(1) All documents, personal testimony, and other records created or received by the Court in the consolidated lawsuits shall be kept and maintained by the Archivist of the United States, who shall preserve such documents, testimony, and records in the National Archives of the United States.

(2) The Archivist shall make available to the public the materials kept and maintained under paragraph (1).

(i) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

(1) The term "Court" means the United States District Court for the District of New Mexico having jurisdiction over the consolidated lawsuits.

(2) The term "consolidated lawsuits" means the two lawsuits in the United States District Court for the District of New Mexico consolidated as Civ. No. 00-60.

(3)(A) The term "eligible tract" means private real property located on the Pajarito Plateau of what is now Los Alamos County, New Mexico, that was acquired by the United States during World War II for use in the Manhattan Project and which is the subject of the consolidated lawsuits.

(B) The term does not include lands of the Los Alamos Ranch School and of the A.M. Ross Estate (doing business as Anchor Ranch).

(4) The term "class member" means the following:

(A) Any person or entity who claims to have held a fee simple ownership in an eligible tract at the time of its acquisition by the United States during World War II for use in the Manhattan Project.

(B) Any person or entity claiming to be the heir, successor in interest, assignee, or beneficiary of a person or entity who held a fee simple ownership in an eligible tract at the time of its acquisition by the United States during World War II for use in the Manhattan Project.

(j) FUNDING.—Of the amount authorized to be appropriated by section 3101(a)(4) for the National Nuclear Security Administration for the Office of the Administrator for Nuclear Security, $10,000,000 shall be available for deposit in the Fund under subsection (b)(1).

SEC. 3148. MODIFICATION OF REQUIREMENTS RELATING TO CONVEYANCES AND TRANSFER OF CERTAIN LAND AT LOS ALAMOS NATIONAL LABORATORY, NEW MEXICO.

Section 632(a) of Public Law 105–119 (111 Stat. 2523; 42 U.S.C. 2391 note) is amended—

(1) in paragraph (1)—

(A) by inserting "except as provided in paragraph (2)," before "convey"; and

(B) by striking "and" at the end;

(2) by redesignating paragraph (2) as paragraph (3); and

(3) by inserting after paragraph (1) the following new paragraph (2):

"(2) notwithstanding paragraph (1) and the agreement under subsection (e), convey, without consideration, to the Board of Education of the Los Alamos Public Schools, New Mexico, within the County, fee title to the parcels of land identified by the Department of Energy as Parcel A–8 and Parcel A–15–1 that are currently located in Technical Area 21 of Los Alamos National Laboratory upon the entry of Los Alamos Public Schools and the County into an agreement for the use of the parcel of land identified as Parcel A–8; and".

Subtitle E—Energy Employees Occupational Illness Compensation Program

SEC. 3161. CONTRACTOR EMPLOYEE COMPENSATION.

The Energy Employees Occupational Illness Compensation Program Act of 2000 (title XXXVI of the Floyd D. Spence National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2001 (as enacted into law by Public Law 106–398)) is amended by adding after subtitle D (42 U.S.C. 7385o) the following new title:

"Subtitle E—Contractor Employee Compensation

"SEC. 3671. DEFINITIONS.

"In this subtitle:

"(1) The term 'covered DOE contractor employee' means any Department of Energy contractor employee determined under section 3675 to have contracted a covered illness through exposure at a Department of Energy facility.

"(2) The term 'covered illness' means an illness or death resulting from exposure to a toxic substance.

"(3) The term 'Secretary' means the Secretary of Labor.

"SEC. 3672. COMPENSATION TO BE PROVIDED.

"Subject to the other provisions of this subtitle:

"(1) CONTRACTOR EMPLOYEES.—A covered DOE contractor employee shall receive contractor employee compensation under this subtitle in accordance with section 3673.

"(2) SURVIVORS.—After the death of a covered DOE contractor employee, compensation referred to in paragraph (1) shall not be paid. Instead, the survivor of that employee shall receive compensation as follows:

"(A) Except as provided in subparagraph (B), the survivor of that employee shall receive contractor employee compensation under this subtitle in accordance with section 3674.

"(B) In a case in which the employee's death occurred after the employee applied under this subtitle and before compensation was paid under paragraph (1), and the employee's death occurred from a cause other than the covered illness of the employee, the survivor of that employee may elect to receive, in lieu of compensation under subparagraph (A), the amount of contractor employee compensation that the employee would have received in accordance with section 3673 if the employee's death had not occurred before compensation was paid under paragraph (1).

"SEC. 3673. COMPENSATION SCHEDULE FOR CONTRACTOR EMPLOYEES.

"(a) COMPENSATION PROVIDED.—The amount of contractor employee compensation under this subtitle for a covered DOE contractor employee shall be the sum of the amounts determined under paragraphs (1) and (2), as follows:

"(1) IMPAIRMENT.—(A) The Secretary shall determine—

"(i) the minimum impairment rating of that employee, expressed as a number of percentage points; and

"(ii) the number of those points that are the result of any covered illness contracted by that employee through exposure to a toxic substance at a Department of Energy facility.

"(B) The employee shall receive an amount under this paragraph equal to $2,500 multiplied by the number referred to in clause (ii) of subparagraph (A).

"(2) WAGE LOSS.—(A) The Secretary shall determine—

"(i) the calendar month during which the employee first experienced wage loss as the result of any covered illness contracted by that employee through exposure to a toxic substance at a Department of Energy facility;

"(ii) the average annual wage of the employee for the 36-month period immediately preceding the calendar month referred to in clause (i), excluding any portions of that period during which the employee was unemployed; and

"(iii) beginning with the calendar year that includes the calendar month referred to in clause (i), through and including the calendar year during which the employee attained normal retirement age (for purposes of the Social Security Act)—

"(I) the number of calendar years during which, as the result of any covered illness contracted by that employee through exposure to a toxic substance at a Department of Energy facility, the employee's annual wage exceeded 50 percent of the average annual wage determined under clause (ii), but did not exceed 75 percent of the average annual wage determined under clause (ii); and

"(II) the number of calendar years during which, as the result of any covered illness contracted by that employee through exposure to a toxic substance at a Department of Energy facility, the employee's annual wage did not exceed 50 percent of the average annual wage determined under clause (ii).

"(B) The employee shall receive an amount under this paragraph equal to the sum of—

"(i) $10,000 multiplied by the number referred to in clause (iii)(I) of subparagraph (A); and

"(ii) $15,000 multiplied by the number referred to in clause (iii)(II) of subparagraph (A).

"(b) DETERMINATION OF MINIMUM IMPAIRMENT RATING.—For purposes of subsection (a), a minimum impairment rating shall be determined in accordance with the American Medical Association's Guides to the Evaluation of Permanent Impairment.

"SEC. 3674. COMPENSATION SCHEDULE FOR SURVIVORS.

"(a) CATEGORIES OF COMPENSATION.—The amount of contractor employee compensation under this subtitle for the survivor of a covered DOE contractor employee shall be determined as follows:

"(1) CATEGORY ONE.—The survivor shall receive the amount of $125,000, if the Secretary determines that—

"(A) the employee would have been entitled to compensation under section 3675 for a covered illness; and

"(B) it is at least as likely as not that exposure to a toxic substance at a Department of Energy facility was a significant factor in aggravating, contributing to, or causing the death of such employee.

"(2) CATEGORY TWO.—The survivor shall receive the amount of $150,000, if paragraph (1) applies to the employee and the Secretary also determines that there was an aggregate period of not less than 10 years, before the employee attained normal retirement age (for purposes of the Social Security Act), during which, as the result of any covered illness contracted by that employee through exposure to a toxic substance at a Department of Energy facility, the employee's annual wage did not exceed 50 percent of the average annual wage of that employee, as determined under section 3673(a)(2)(A)(ii).

"(3) CATEGORY THREE.—The survivor shall receive the amount of $175,000, if paragraph (1) applies to the employee and the Secretary also determines that there was an aggregate period of not less than 20 years, before the employee attained normal retirement age (for purposes of the Social Security Act), during which, as the result of any covered illness contracted by that employee through exposure to a toxic substance at a Department of Energy facility, the employee's annual wage did not exceed 50 percent of the average annual wage of that employee, as determined under section 3673(a)(2)(A)(ii).

"(b) ONE AMOUNT ONLY.—The survivor of a covered DOE contractor employee to whom more than one amount under subsection (a) applies shall receive only the highest such amount.

"(c) DETERMINATION AND ALLOCATION OF SHARES.—The amount under subsection (a) shall be paid only as follows:

"(1) If a covered spouse is alive at the time of payment, such payment shall be made to such surviving spouse.

"(2) If there is no covered spouse described in paragraph (1), such payment shall be made in equal shares to all covered children who are alive at the time of payment.

"(3) Notwithstanding the other provisions of this subsection, if there is—

"(A) a covered spouse described in paragraph (1); and

"(B) at least one covered child of the employee who is living at the time of payment and who is not a recognized natural child or adopted child of such covered spouse,

"then half of such payment shall be made to such covered spouse, and the other half of such payment shall be made in equal shares to each covered child of the employee who is living at the time of payment.

"(d) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

"(1) The term 'covered spouse' means a spouse of the employee who was married to the employee for at least one year immediately before the employee's death.

"(2) The term 'covered child' means a child of the employee who, as of the employee's death—

"(A) had not attained the age of 18 years;

"(B) had not attained the age of 23 years and was a full-time student who had been continuously enrolled as a full-time student in one or more educational institutions since attaining the age of 18 years; or

"(C) had been incapable of self-support.

"(3) The term 'child' includes a recognized natural child, a stepchild who lived with an individual in a regular parent-child relationship, and an adopted child.

"SEC. 3675. DETERMINATIONS REGARDING CONTRACTION OF COVERED ILLNESSES.

"(a) CASES DETERMINED UNDER SUBTITLE B.—A determination under subtitle B that a Department of Energy contractor employee is entitled to compensation under that subtitle for an occupational illness shall be treated for purposes of this subtitle as a determination that the employee contracted that illness through exposure at a Department of Energy facility.

"(b) CASES DETERMINED UNDER FORMER SUBTITLE D.—In the case of a covered illness of an employee with respect to which a panel has made a positive determination under section 3661(d) and the Secretary of Energy has accepted that determination under section 3661(e)(2), or with respect to which a panel has made a negative determination under section 3661(d) and the Secretary of Energy has found significant evidence to the contrary under section 3661(e)(2), that determination shall be treated for purposes of this subtitle as a determination that the employee contracted the covered illness through exposure at a Department of Energy facility.

"(c) OTHER CASES.—(1) In any other case, a Department of Energy contractor employee shall be determined for purposes of this subtitle to have contracted a covered illness through exposure at a Department of Energy facility if—

"(A) it is at least as likely as not that exposure to a toxic substance at a Department of Energy facility was a significant factor in aggravating, contributing to, or causing the illness; and

"(B) it is at least as likely as not that the exposure to such toxic substance was related to employment at a Department of Energy facility.

"(2) A determination under paragraph (1) shall be made by the Secretary.

"(d) APPLICATIONS BY SPOUSES AND CHILDREN.—If a spouse or child of a Department of Energy contractor employee applies for benefits under this subtitle, the Secretary shall make a determination under this section with respect to that employee without regard to whether the spouse is a 'covered spouse', or the child is a 'covered child', under this subtitle.

"SEC. 3676. APPLICABILITY TO CERTAIN URANIUM EMPLOYEES.

"(a) IN GENERAL.—This subtitle shall apply to—

"(1) a section 5 payment recipient who contracted a section 5 illness through a section 5 exposure at a section 5 facility, or

"(2) a section 5 uranium worker determined under section 3675(c) to have contracted a covered illness through exposure to a toxic substance at a section 5 mine or mill,

"(or to the survivor of that employee, as applicable) on the same basis as it applies to a Department of Energy contractor employee determined under section 3675 to have contracted a covered illness through exposure to a toxic substance at a Department of Energy facility (or to the survivor of that employee, as applicable).

"(b) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

"(1) The term 'section 5 payment recipient' means an individual who receives, or has received, $100,000 under section 5 of the Radiation Exposure Compensation Act (42 U.S.C. 2210 note) for a claim made under that Act.

"(2) The terms 'section 5 exposure', 'section 5 facility', and 'section 5 illness' mean the exposure, facility, and illness, respectively, to which an individual's status as a section 5 payment recipient relates.

"(3) The term 'section 5 uranium worker' means an individual to whom subsection (a)(1)(A)(i) of section 5 of the Radiation Exposure Compensation Act applies (whether directly or by reason of subsection (a)(2)).

"(4) The term 'section 5 mine or mill' means the mine or mill to which an individual's status as a section 5 uranium worker relates.

"SEC. 3677. ADMINISTRATIVE AND JUDICIAL REVIEW.

"(a) JUDICIAL REVIEW.—A person adversely affected or aggrieved by a final decision of the Secretary under this subtitle may review that order in the United States district court in the district in which the injury was sustained, the employee lives, the survivor lives, or the District of Columbia, by filing in such court within 60 days after the date on which that final decision was issued a written petition praying that such decision be modified or set aside. The person shall also provide a copy of the petition to the Secretary. Upon such filing, the court shall have jurisdiction over the proceeding and shall have the power to affirm, modify, or set aside, in whole or in part, such decision. The court may modify or set aside such decision only if the court determines that such decision was arbitrary and capricious.

‘‘(b) ADMINISTRATIVE REVIEW.—The Secretary shall ensure that recommended decisions of the Secretary with respect to a claim under this subtitle are subject to administrative review. The Secretary shall prescribe regulations for carrying out such review or shall apply to this subtitle the regulations applicable to recommended decisions under subtitle B.

‘‘SEC. 3678. PHYSICIANS SERVICES.

‘‘(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary may utilize the services of physicians for purposes of making determinations under this subtitle.

‘‘(b) PHYSICIANS.—Any physicians whose services are utilized under subsection (a) of this section shall possess appropriate expertise and experience in the evaluation and determination of the extent of permanent physical impairments or in the evaluation and diagnosis of illnesses or deaths aggravated, contributed to, or caused by exposure to toxic substances.

‘‘(c) ARRANGEMENT.—The Secretary may secure the services of physicians utilized under subsection (a) of this section through the appointment of physicians or by contract.

‘‘SEC. 3679. MEDICAL BENEFITS.

‘‘A covered DOE contractor employee shall be furnished medical benefits specified in section 3629 for the covered illness to the same extent, and under the same conditions and limitations, as an individual eligible for medical benefits under that section is furnished medical benefits under that section.

‘‘SEC. 3680. ATTORNEY FEES.

‘‘Section 3648 shall apply to a payment under this subtitle to the same extent that it applies to a payment under subtitle B.

‘‘SEC. 3681. ADMINISTRATIVE MATTERS.

‘‘(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall administer this subtitle.

‘‘(b) CONTRACT AUTHORITY.—The Secretary may enter into contracts with appropriate persons and entities to administer this subtitle.

‘‘(c) RECORDS.—(1)(A) The Secretary of Energy shall provide to the Secretary all records, files, and other data, whether paper, electronic, imaged, or otherwise, developed by the Secretary of Energy that are applicable to the administration of this subtitle, including records, files, and data on facility industrial hygiene, employment of individuals or groups, exposure and medical records, and claims applications.

‘‘(B) In providing records, files, and other data under this paragraph, the Secretary of Energy shall preserve the current organization of such records, files, and other data, and shall provide such description and indexing of such records, files, and other data as the Secretary considers appropriate to facilitate their use by the Secretary.

‘‘(2) The Secretary of Energy and the Secretary shall jointly undertake such actions as are appropriate to retrieve records applicable to the claims of Department of Energy contractor employees for contractor employee compensation under this subtitle, including employment records, records of exposure to beryllium, radiation, silica, or other toxic substances, and records regarding medical treatment.

‘‘(d) INFORMATION.—At the request of the Secretary, the Secretary of Energy and any contractor who employed a Department of Energy contractor employee shall, within time periods specified by the Secretary, provide to the Secretary and to the employee information or documents in response to the request.

‘‘(e) REGULATIONS.—The Secretary shall prescribe regulations necessary for the administration of this subtitle. The initial regulations shall be prescribed not later than 210 days after the date of the enactment of this subtitle. The Secretary may prescribe interim final regulations necessary to meet the deadlines specified in this subtitle.

‘‘(f) TRANSITION PROVISIONS.—(1) The Secretary shall commence the administration of the provisions of this subtitle not later than 210 days after the date of the enactment of this subtitle.

‘‘(2) Until the commencement of the administration of this subtitle, the Department of Energy Physicians Panels appointed pursuant to subtitle D shall continue to consider and issue determinations concerning any cases pending before such Panels immediately before the date of the enactment of this subtitle.

‘‘(3) The Secretary shall take such actions as are appropriate to identify other activities under subtitle D that will continue until the commencement of the administration of subtitle E.

‘‘(g) PREVIOUS APPLICATIONS.—Upon the commencement of the administration of this subtitle, any application previously filed with the Secretary of Energy pursuant to subtitle D shall be considered to have been filed with the Secretary as a claim for benefits pursuant to this subtitle.

‘‘SEC. 3682. COORDINATION OF BENEFITS WITH RESPECT TO STATE WORKERS COMPENSATION.

‘‘(a) IN GENERAL.—An individual who has been awarded compensation under this subtitle, and who has also received benefits from a State workers compensation system by reason of the same covered illness, shall receive compensation specified in this subtitle reduced by the amount of any workers compensation benefits, other than medical benefits and benefits for vocational rehabilitation, that the individual has received under the State workers compensation system by reason of the covered illness, after deducting the reasonable costs, as determined by the Secretary, of obtaining those benefits under the State workers compensation system.

‘‘(b) WAIVER.—The Secretary may waive the provisions of subsection (a) if the Secretary determines that the administrative costs and burdens of implementing subsection (a) with respect to a particular case or class of cases justifies such a waiver.

‘‘(c) INFORMATION.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, each State workers compensation authority shall, upon request of the Secretary, provide to the Secretary on a quarterly basis information concerning workers compensation benefits received by any covered DOE contractor employee entitled to compensation or benefits under this subtitle, which shall include the name, Social Security number, and nature and amount of workers compensation benefits for each such employee for which the request was made.

‘‘SEC. 3683. MAXIMUM AGGREGATE COMPENSATION.

‘‘For each individual whose illness or death serves as the basis for compensation or benefits under this subtitle, the total amount of compensation (other than medical benefits) paid under this subtitle, to all persons, in the aggregate, on the basis of that illness or death shall not exceed $250,000.

‘‘SEC. 3684. FUNDING OF ADMINISTRATIVE COSTS.

‘‘There is authorized and hereby appropriated to the Secretary for fiscal year 2005 and thereafter such sums as may be necessary to carry out this subtitle.

‘‘SEC. 3685. PAYMENT OF COMPENSATION AND BENEFITS FROM COMPENSATION FUND.

‘‘The compensation and benefits provided under this title, when authorized or approved by the President, shall be paid from the compensation fund established under section 3612.

‘‘SEC. 3686. OFFICE OF OMBUDSMAN.

‘‘(a) ESTABLISHMENT.—There is established in the Department of Labor an office to be known as the ‘Office of the Ombudsman’ (in this section referred to as the ‘Office’).

‘‘(b) HEAD.—The head of the Office shall be the Ombudsman. The individual serving as Ombudsman shall be either of the following:

‘‘(1) An officer or employee of the Department of Labor designated by the Secretary for purposes of this section from among officers and employees of the Department who have experience and expertise necessary to carry out the duties of the Office specified in subsection (c).

‘‘(2) An individual employed by the Secretary from the private sector from among individuals in the private sector who have experience and expertise necessary to carry out the duties of the Office specified in subsection (c).

‘‘(c) DUTIES.—The duties of the Office shall be as follows:

‘‘(1) To provide information on the benefits available under this subtitle and on the requirements and procedures applicable to the provision of such benefits.

‘‘(2) To make recommendations to the Secretary regarding the location of centers (to be known as ‘resource centers’) for the acceptance and development of claims for benefits under this subtitle.

‘‘(3) To carry out such other duties with respect to this subtitle as the Secretary shall specify for purposes of this section.

‘‘(d) INDEPENDENT OFFICE.—The Secretary shall take appropriate actions to ensure the independence of the Office within the Department of Labor, including independence from other officers and employees of the Department engaged in activities relating to the administration of the provisions of this subtitle.

‘‘(e) ANNUAL REPORT.—(1) Not later than February 15 each year, the Ombudsman shall submit to Congress a report on activities under this subtitle.

‘‘(2) Each report under paragraph (1) shall set forth the following:

‘‘(A) The number and types of complaints, grievances, and requests for assistance received by the Ombudsman under this subtitle during the preceding year.

‘‘(B) An assessment of the most common difficulties encountered by claimants and potential claimants under this subtitle during the preceding year.

‘‘(3) The first report under paragraph (1) shall be the report submitted in 2006.

‘‘(f) OUTREACH.—The Secretary of Labor and the Secretary of Health and Human Services shall each undertake outreach to advise the public of the existence and duties of the Office.

‘‘(g) SUNSET.—Effective on the date that is 3 years after the date of the enactment of this section, this section shall have no further force or effect.’’.

SEC. 3162. CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.

(a) OFFSET FOR CERTAIN PAYMENTS.—Section 3641 of the Energy Employees Occupational Illness Compensation Program Act of 2000 (42 U.S.C. 7385) is amended—

(1) by striking ‘‘subtitle B’’ and inserting ‘‘this title’’; and

(2) by striking ‘‘on account of’’ and all that follows through the period at the end and inserting ‘‘on account of the exposure for which compensation is payable under this title.’’.

(b) SUBROGATION OF THE UNITED STATES.—Section 3642 of such Act (42 U.S.C. 7385a) is amended by striking "subtitle B" and inserting "this title".

(c) PAYMENT IN FULL SETTLEMENT OF CLAIMS.—Section 3643 of such Act (42 U.S.C. 7385b) is amended by striking "The acceptance" and inserting "Except as provided in subtitle E, the acceptance".

(d) EXCLUSIVITY OF REMEDY.—Section 3644 of such Act (42 U.S.C. 7385c(a)) is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

"(d) APPLICABILITY TO SUBTITLE E.—This section applies with respect to subtitle E to the covered medical condition or covered illness or death of a covered DOE contractor employee on the same basis as it applies with respect to subtitle B to the cancer (including a specified cancer), chronic silicosis, covered beryllium illness, or death of a covered employee.".

(e) CERTIFICATION OF TREATMENT OF PAYMENTS UNDER OTHER LAWS.—Section 3646 of such Act (42 U.S.C. 7385e) is amended by striking "subtitle B" and inserting "this title".

(f) CLAIMS NOT ASSIGNABLE OR TRANSFERABLE.—Section 3647(a) of such Act (42 U.S.C. 7385f(a)) is amended by striking "subtitle B" and inserting "this title".

(g) CERTAIN CLAIMS NOT AFFECTED BY AWARDS OF DAMAGES.—Section 3649 of such Act (42 U.S.C. 7385h) is amended by striking "subtitle B" both places such term appears and inserting "this title".

(h) FORFEITURE OF BENEFITS BY CONVICTED FELONS.—Section 3650 of such Act (42 U.S.C. 7385i) is amended by striking "subtitle B" each place such term appears and inserting "this title".

(i) REPEAL OF SUBTITLE D.—Subtitle D of the Energy Employees Occupational Illness Compensation Program Act of 2000 (title XXXVI of the Floyd D. Spence National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2001 (as enacted into law by Public Law 106–398); 42 U.S.C. 7385o) is repealed.

SEC. 3163. TECHNICAL AMENDMENTS.

(a) SUBPOENAS.—Subtitle B of such Act is amended by adding after section 3631 (42 U.S.C. 7384v) the following new section:

"SEC. 3632. SUBPOENAS; OATHS; EXAMINATION OF WITNESSES.

"The Secretary of Labor, with respect to any matter under this subtitle, may—

"(1) issue subpoenas for and compel the attendance of witnesses;

"(2) administer oaths;

"(3) examine witnesses; and

"(4) require the production of books, papers, documents, and other evidence.".

(b) SOCIAL SECURITY EARNINGS INFORMATION.—Subtitle C of such Act is amended by adding after section 3651 (42 U.S.C. 7385j) the following new section:

"SEC. 3652. SOCIAL SECURITY EARNINGS INFORMATION.

"Notwithstanding the provision of section 552a of title 5, United States Code, or any other provision of Federal or State law, the Social Security Administration shall make available to the Secretary of Labor, upon written request, the Social Security earnings information of living or deceased employees who may have sustained an illness that is the subject of a claim under this title, which the Secretary of Labor may require to carry out the provisions of this title.".

(c) RECOVERY OF OVERPAYMENT.—Subtitle C of such Act is further amended by adding after section 3652 (as added by subsection (b)) the following new section:

"SEC. 3653. RECOVERY AND WAIVER OF OVERPAYMENTS.

"(a) IN GENERAL.—When an overpayment has been made to an individual under this title because of an error of fact or law, recovery shall be made under regulations prescribed by the Secretary of Labor by decreasing later payments to which the individual is entitled. If the individual dies before the recovery is completed, recovery shall be made by decreasing later benefits payable under this title with respect to the individual's death.

"(b) WAIVER.—Recovery by the United States under this section may not be made when incorrect payment has been made to an individual who is without fault and when adjustment or recovery would defeat the purpose of this title or would be against equity and good conscience.

"(c) LIABILITY.—A certifying or disbursing official is not liable for an amount certified or paid by him when recovery of the amount is waived under subsection (b) of this section, or when recovery under subsection (a) of this section is not completed before the death of all individuals against whose benefits deductions are authorized.".

SEC. 3164. TRANSFER OF FUNDS FOR FISCAL YEAR 2005.

Of the funds appropriated to the Secretary of Energy for fiscal year 2005 for the Energy Employees Occupational Illness Compensation Program, the Secretary of Energy shall transfer to the Secretary of Labor the amount of funds that the Secretary of Energy, in consultation with the Secretary of Labor, determine will be necessary for fiscal year 2005 to administer the provisions of subtitle E of the Energy Employees Occupational Illness Compensation Program Act of 2000, as added by this Act.

SEC. 3165. USE OF ENERGY EMPLOYEES OCCUPATIONAL ILLNESS COMPENSATION FUND FOR CERTAIN PAYMENTS TO COVERED URANIUM EMPLOYEES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 3630 of the Energy Employees Occupational Illness Compensation Program Act of 2000 (42 U.S.C. 7384u) is amended in subsection (d) by inserting after "The compensation provided under this section" the following: "and the compensation provided under section 5 of the Radiation Exposure Compensation Act".

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Section 6(c)(1) of the Radiation Exposure Compensation Act (42 U.S.C. 2210 note) is amended by inserting after "Fund" the following: "(or, in the case of a payment under section 5, from the Energy Employees Occupational Illness Compensation Fund, pursuant to section 3630(d) of the Energy Employees Occupational Illness Compensation Program Act of 2000)".

SEC. 3166. IMPROVEMENTS TO SUBTITLE B OF ENERGY EMPLOYEES OCCUPATIONAL ILLNESS COMPENSATION PROGRAM ACT OF 2000.

(a) ADVISORY BOARD.—Section 3624 of the Energy Employees Occupational Illness Compensation Program Act of 2000 (42 U.S.C. 7384o) is amended by adding at the end the following new subsections:

"(e) SECURITY CLEARANCES.—(1) The Secretary of Energy shall ensure that the members and staff of the Board, and the contractors performing work in support of the Board, are afforded the opportunity to apply for a security clearance for any matter for which such a clearance is appropriate. The Secretary should, not later than 180 days after receiving a completed application, make a determination whether or not the individual concerned is eligible for the clearance.

"(2) For fiscal year 2007 and each fiscal year thereafter, the Secretary of Energy shall include in the budget justification materials submitted to Congress in support of the Department of Energy budget for that fiscal year (as submitted with the budget of the President under section 1105(a) of title 31, United States Code) a report specifying the number of applications for security clearances under this subsection, the number of such applications granted, and the number of such applications denied.

"(f) INFORMATION.—The Secretary of Energy shall, in accordance with law, provide to the Board and the contractors of the Board access to any information that the Board considers relevant to carry out its responsibilities under this title, including information such as Restricted Data (as defined in section 11 y. of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 (42 U.S.C. 2014(y))) and information covered by the Privacy Act.".

(b) DEADLINES FOR SPECIAL EXPOSURE COHORT ACTIONS.—(1) Section 3626 of the Energy Employees Occupational Illness Compensation Program Act of 2000 (42 U.S.C. 7384q) is amended—

(A) by redesignating subsection (c) as subsection (d); and

(B) by inserting after subsection (b) the following new subsection:

"(c) DEADLINES.—(1) Not later than 180 days after the date on which the President receives a petition for designation as members of the Special Exposure Cohort, the Director of the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health shall submit to the Advisory Board on Radiation and Worker Health a recommendation on that petition, including all supporting documentation.

"(2)(A) Upon receipt by the President of a recommendation of the Advisory Board on Radiation and Worker Health that the President should determine in the affirmative that paragraphs (1) and (2) of subsection (b) apply to a class, the President shall have a period of 30 days in which to determine whether such paragraphs apply to the class and to submit that determination (whether affirmative or negative) to Congress.

"(B) If the determination submitted by the President under subparagraph (A) is in the affirmative, the President shall also submit a report meeting the requirements of section 3621(14)(C)(ii).

"(C) If the President does not submit a determination required by subparagraph (A) within the period required by subparagraph (A), then upon the day following the expiration of that period, it shall be deemed for purposes of section 3621(14)(C)(ii) that the President submitted the report under that provision on that day.".

(2) Section 3621(14)(C)(ii) of that Act (42 U.S.C. 7384l(14)(C)(ii)) is amended by striking "180 days" and inserting "30 days".

(c) SITE PROFILES.—Subtitle B of that Act is amended by adding after section 3632 (as added by section 3163(a)) the following new section:

"SEC. 3633. COMPLETION OF SITE PROFILES.

"(a) IN GENERAL.—To the extent that the Secretary of Labor determines it useful and practicable, the Secretary of Labor shall direct the Director of the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health to prepare site profiles for a Department of Energy facility based on the records, files, and other data provided by the Secretary of Energy and such other information as is available, including information available from the former worker medical screening programs of the Department of Energy.

"(b) INFORMATION.—The Secretary of Energy shall furnish to the Secretary of Labor any information that the Secretary of Labor finds necessary or useful for the production of such site profiles, including records from the Department of Energy former worker medical screening program.

"(c) DEFINITION.—In this section, the term 'site profile' means an exposure assessment of a facility that identifies the toxic substances or processes that were commonly used in each building or process of the facility, and the time frame during which the potential for exposure to toxic substances existed.

"(d) TIME FRAMES.—The Secretary of Health and Human Services shall establish time frames for completing site profiles for those Department of Energy facilities for which a site profile has not been completed. Not later than March 1, 2005, the Secretary of Health and Human Services shall submit to Congress a report setting forth those time frames.".

SEC. 3167. EMERGENCY SPECIAL EXPOSURE COHORT MEETING AND REPORT.

(a) MEETING OF ADVISORY BOARD.—(1) For purposes of carrying out section 3626 of the Energy Employees Occupational Illness Compensation Program Act of 2000 (42 U.S.C. 7384q), the President shall require the Advisory Board on Radiation and Worker Health to convene a meeting of the Board at which the Board considers each petition for designation as members of the Special Exposure Cohort—

(A) that was filed not later than October 1, 2004; and

(B) the evaluation of which (by the Director of the National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health) was completed more than 10 days before a previously scheduled meeting of the Board.

(2) Effective March 1, 2005, this subsection shall have no further force or effect.

(b) REPORT TO CONGRESS.—Not later than March 15, 2005, the President shall submit to Congress a report on the status of the petitions referred to in subsection (a). The report shall include, for each petition, the estimated time to complete the consideration of that petition and any anticipated actions or circumstances that could preclude the Board from acting upon that petition before the end of fiscal year 2005.

SEC. 3168. COVERAGE OF INDIVIDUALS EMPLOYED AT ATOMIC WEAPONS EMPLOYER FACILITIES DURING PERIODS OF RESIDUAL CONTAMINATION.

(a) COVERAGE.—Paragraph (3) of section 3621 of the Energy Employees Occupational Illness Compensation Program Act of 2000 (title XXXVI of the Floyd D. Spence National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2001 (as enacted into law by Public Law 106–398); 42 U.S.C. 7384l) is amended to read as follows:

"(3) The term 'atomic weapons employee' means any of the following:

"(A) An individual employed by an atomic weapons employer during a period when the employer was processing or producing, for the use by the United States, material that emitted radiation and was used in the production of an atomic weapon, excluding uranium mining and milling.

"(B) An individual employed—

"(i) at a facility with respect to which the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health, in its report dated October 2003 and titled 'Report on Residual Radioactive and Beryllium Contamination at Atomic Weapons Employer Facilities and Beryllium Vendor Facilities', or any update to that report, found that there is a potential for significant residual contamination outside of the period in which weapons-related production occurred;

"(ii) by an atomic weapons employer or subsequent owner or operators of a facility described in clause (i); and

"(iii) during a period, as specified in such report or any update to such report, of potential for significant residual radioactive contamination at such facility.".

(b) RADIATION DOSE FOR CERTAIN ATOMIC WEAPONS EMPLOYEES.—Section 3623 of that Act (42 U.S.C. 7384n) is amended by adding at the end of subsection (c) the following new paragraph:

"(4) In the case of an atomic weapons employee described in section 3621(3)(B), the following doses of radiation shall be treated, for purposes of paragraph (3)(A) of this subsection, as part of the radiation dose received by the employee at such facility:

"(A) Any dose of ionizing radiation received by that employee from facilities, materials, devices, or byproducts used or generated in the research, development, production, dismantlement, transportation, or testing of nuclear weapons, or from any activities to research, produce, process, store, remediate, or dispose of radioactive materials by or on behalf of the Department of Energy (except for activities covered by Executive Order No. 12344, dated February 1, 1982 (42 U.S.C. 7158 note) pertaining to the Naval Nuclear Propulsion Program).

"(B) Any dose of ionizing radiation received by that employee from a source not covered by subparagraph (A) that is not distinguishable through reliable documentation from a dose covered by subparagraph (A).".

SEC. 3169. UPDATE OF REPORT ON RESIDUAL CONTAMINATION OF FACILITIES.

(a) UPDATE OF REPORT.—Not later than December 31, 2006, the Director of the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health shall submit to Congress an update to the report required by section 3151(b) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2002 (Public Law 107–107; 42 U.S.C. 7384 note).

(b) ELEMENTS.—The update shall—

(1) for each facility for which such report found that insufficient information was available to determine whether significant residual contamination was present, determine whether significant residual contamination was present;

(2) for each facility for which such report found that significant residual contamination remained present as of the date of the report, determine the date on which such contamination ceased to be present;

(3) for each facility for which such report found that significant residual contamination was present but for which the Director has been unable to determine the extent to which such contamination is attributable to atomic weapons-related activities, identify the specific dates of coverage attributable to such activities and, in so identifying, presume that such contamination is attributable to such activities until there is evidence of decontamination of residual contamination identified with atomic weapons-related activities;

(4) for each facility for which such report found significant residual contamination, determine whether it is at least as likely as not that such contamination could have caused an employee who was employed at such facility only during the residual contamination period to contract a cancer or beryllium illness compensable under subtitle B of the Energy Employees Occupational Illness Compensation Program Act of 2000; and

(5) if new information that pertains to the report has been made available to the Director since that report was submitted, identify and describe such information.

(c) PUBLICATION.—The Director shall ensure that the report referred to in subsection (a) is published in the Federal Register not later than 15 days after being released.

SEC. 3170. SENSE OF CONGRESS ON RESOURCE CENTER FOR ENERGY EMPLOYEES UNDER ENERGY EMPLOYEE OCCUPATIONAL ILLNESS COMPENSATION PROGRAM IN WESTERN NEW YORK AND WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA REGION.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress makes the following findings:

(1) New York has 36 current or former Department of Energy facilities involved in nuclear weapons production-related activities statewide, mostly atomic weapons employer facilities, and 14 such facilities in western New York. Despite having one of the greatest concentrations of such facilities in the United States, western New York, and abutting areas of Pennsylvania, continue to be severely underserved by the Energy Employees Occupational Illness Compensation Program under the Energy Employees Occupational Illness Compensation Program Act of 2000 (title XXXVI of the Floyd D. Spence National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2001 (as enacted into law by Public Law 106–398); 42 U.S.C. 7384 et seq.).

(2) The establishment of a permanent resource center in western New York would represent a substantial step toward improving services under the Energy Employees Occupational Illness Compensation Program for energy employees in this region.

(3) The number of claims submitted to the Department under subtitle B of the Energy Employees Occupational Illness Compensation Program Act of 2000 from the western New York region, including western Pennsylvania, exceeds the number of such claims filed at resource centers in Hanford, Washington, Portsmouth, Ohio, Los Alamos, New Mexico, the Nevada Test Site, Nevada, the Rocky Flats Environmental Technology Site, Colorado, the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory, Idaho, and the Amchitka Test Site, Alaska.

(4) Energy employees in the western New York region, including western Pennsylvania, deserve assistance under subtitle B of the Energy Employees Occupational Illness Compensation Program Act of 2000 commensurate with the assistance provided energy employees at other locations in the United States.

(b) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Congress that the Secretary of Labor should—

(1) review the availability of assistance under subtitle B of the Energy Employees Occupational Illness Compensation Program Act of 2000 for energy employees in the western New York region, including western Pennsylvania; and

(2) recommend a location in that region for a resource center to provide such assistance to such energy employees.

TITLE XXXII—DEFENSE NUCLEAR FACILITIES SAFETY BOARD

Sec. 3201. Authorization.

SEC. 3201. AUTHORIZATION.

There are authorized to be appropriated for fiscal year 2005, $21,268,000 for the operation of the Defense Nuclear Facilities Safety Board under chapter 21 of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 (42 U.S.C. 2286 et seq.).

TITLE XXXIII—NATIONAL DEFENSE STOCKPILE

Sec. 3301. Authorized uses of National Defense Stockpile funds.
Sec. 3302. Revision of earlier authority to dispose of certain materials in National Defense Stockpile.
Sec. 3303. Disposal of ferromanganese.
Sec. 3304. Prohibition on storage of mercury at certain facilities.

SEC. 3301. AUTHORIZED USES OF NATIONAL DEFENSE STOCKPILE FUNDS.

(a) OBLIGATION OF STOCKPILE FUNDS.—During fiscal year 2005, the National Defense Stockpile Manager may obligate up to $59,700,000 of the funds in the National Defense Stockpile Transaction Fund established under subsection (a) of section 9 of the Strategic and Critical Materials Stock Piling Act (50 U.S.C. 98h) for the authorized uses of such funds under subsection (b)(2) of such section, including the disposal of hazardous materials that are environmentally sensitive.

(b) ADDITIONAL OBLIGATIONS.—The National Defense Stockpile Manager may obligate amounts in excess of the amount specified in subsection (a) if the National Defense Stockpile Manager notifies Congress that extraordinary or emergency conditions necessitate the additional obligations. The National Defense Stockpile Manager may make the additional obligations described in the notification after the end of the 15-day period beginning on the date on which Congress receives the notification.

(c) LIMITATIONS.—The authorities provided by this section shall be subject to such limitations as may be provided in appropriations Acts.

SEC. 3302. REVISION OF EARLIER AUTHORITY TO DISPOSE OF CERTAIN MATERIALS IN NATIONAL DEFENSE STOCKPILE.

Section 3303(a) of the Strom Thurmond National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1999 (Public Law 105–261; 50 U.S.C. 98d note) is amended by striking paragraphs (4) and (5) and inserting the following new paragraphs:

"(4) $785,000,000 by the end of fiscal year 2005; and

"(5) $870,000,000 by the end of fiscal year 2009.".

SEC. 3303. DISPOSAL OF FERROMANGANESE.

(a) DISPOSAL AUTHORIZED.—The Secretary of Defense may dispose of up to 50,000 tons of ferromanganese from the National Defense Stockpile during fiscal year 2005.

(b) CONTINGENT AUTHORITY FOR ADDITIONAL DISPOSAL.—(1) If the Secretary of Defense completes the disposal of the total quantity of ferromanganese authorized for disposal by subsection (a) before September 30, 2005, the Secretary of Defense may dispose of up to an additional 25,000 tons of ferromanganese from the National Defense Stockpile before that date.

(2) If the Secretary completes the disposal of the total quantity of additional ferromanganese authorized for disposal by paragraph (1) before September 30, 2005, the Secretary may dispose of up to an additional 25,000 tons of ferromanganese from the National Defense Stockpile before that date.

(c) CERTIFICATION.—The Secretary of Defense may dispose of ferromanganese under the authority of paragraph (1) or (2) of subsection (b) only if the Secretary submits written certification to the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate and the Committee on Armed Services of the House of Representatives, not later than 30 days before the commencement of disposal under the applicable paragraph, that—

(1) the disposal of the additional ferromanganese from the National Defense Stockpile is in the interest of national defense;

(2) the disposal of the additional ferromanganese will not cause undue disruption to the usual markets of producers and processors of ferromanganese in the United States; and

(3) the disposal of the additional ferromanganese is consistent with the requirements and purpose of the National Defense Stockpile.

(d) DELEGATION OF RESPONSIBILITY.—The Secretary of Defense may delegate the responsibility of the Secretary under subsection (c) to an appropriate official within the Department of Defense.

(e) NATIONAL DEFENSE STOCKPILE DEFINED.—In this section, the term "National Defense Stockpile" means the stockpile provided for in section 4 of the Strategic and Critical Materials Stock Piling Act (50 U.S.C. 98c).

SEC. 3304. PROHIBITION ON STORAGE OF MERCURY AT CERTAIN FACILITIES.

(a) PROHIBITION.—During fiscal year 2005, the Secretary of Defense may not store mercury from the National Defense Stockpile at any facility that is not owned or leased by the United States.

(b) NATIONAL DEFENSE STOCKPILE DEFINED.—In this section, the term "National Defense Stockpile" means the stockpile provided for in section 4 of the Strategic and Critical Materials Stock Piling Act (50 U.S.C. 98c).

TITLE XXXIV—NAVAL PETROLEUM RESERVES

Sec. 3401. Authorization of appropriations.

SEC. 3401. AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.

(a) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There are hereby authorized to be appropriated to the Secretary of Energy $20,000,000 for fiscal year 2005 for the purpose of carrying out activities under chapter 641 of title 10, United States Code, relating to the naval petroleum reserves.

(b) PERIOD OF AVAILABILITY.—Funds appropriated pursuant to the authorization of appropriations in subsection (a) shall remain available until expended.

TITLE XXXV—MARITIME ADMINISTRATION

Sec. 3501. Authorization of appropriations for Maritime Administration.
Sec. 3502. Extension of authority to provide war risk insurance for merchant marine vessels.
Sec. 3503. Modification of priority afforded applications for national defense tank vessel construction assistance.

SEC. 3501. AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS FOR MARITIME ADMINISTRATION.

There are authorized to be appropriated to the Secretary of Transportation for the Maritime Administration for fiscal year 2005 (in lieu of amounts authorized for the same purposes by section 3511 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004)—

(1) for expenses necessary for operations and training activities, $109,300,000;

(2) for administrative expenses under the loan guarantee program authorized by title XI of the Merchant Marine Act, 1936 (46 U.S.C. App. 1271 et seq.), $4,764,000; and

(3) for ship disposal, $35,000,000, of which $2,000,000 shall be for decommissioning, removal, and disposal of the nuclear reactor and hazardous materials on board the vessel SAVANNAH.

SEC. 3502. EXTENSION OF AUTHORITY TO PROVIDE WAR RISK INSURANCE FOR MERCHANT MARINE VESSELS.

(a) EXTENSION.—Section 1214 of the Merchant Marine Act, 1936 (46 U.S.C. App. 1294), is amended by striking "June 30, 2005" and inserting "December 31, 2010".

(b) INVESTMENT OF ASSETS IN INSURANCE FUND.—Section 1208(a) of such Act (46 U.S.C. App. 1288), is amended by striking the third sentence and inserting the following: "The Secretary of Transportation may request the Secretary of the Treasury to invest such portion of the Fund as is not, in the judgment of the Secretary of Transportation, required to meet the current needs of the fund. Such investments shall be made by the Secretary of the Treasury in public debt securities of the United States, with maturities suitable to the needs of the fund, and bearing interest rates determined by the Secretary of the Treasury, taking into consideration current market yields on outstanding marketable obligations of the United States of comparable maturity.".

SEC. 3503. MODIFICATION OF PRIORITY AFFORDED APPLICATIONS FOR NATIONAL DEFENSE TANK VESSEL CONSTRUCTION ASSISTANCE.

Section 3542(d)(2) of the Maritime Security Act of 2003 (title XXXV of Public Law 108–136; 117 Stat. 1821; 46 U.S.C. 53101 note) is amended—

(1) in subparagraph (A), by striking "and" at the end;

(2) in subparagraph (B) by striking the period at the end and inserting "; and"; and

(3) by adding at the end the following:

"(C) with respect to any proposal for financial assistance to be provided from amounts appropriated for a fiscal year after fiscal year 2005, acceptance of the vessel to be constructed with the assistance for participation in the Shipboard Technology Evaluation Program as outlined in Navigation and Vessel Inspection Circular 01–04, issued by the Commandant of the United States Coast Guard on January 2, 2004.".

TITLE XXXVI—ASSISTANCE TO FIREFIGHTERS

Sec. 3601. Short title.
Sec. 3602. Amendments to Federal Fire Prevention and Control Act of 1974.
Sec. 3603. Report on assistance to firefighters.

SEC. 3601. SHORT TITLE.

This title may be cited as the "Assistance to Firefighters Grant Program Reauthorization Act of 2004".

SEC. 3602. AMENDMENTS TO FEDERAL FIRE PREVENTION AND CONTROL ACT OF 1974.

Section 33 of the Federal Fire Prevention and Control Act of 1974 (15 U.S.C. 2229) is amended—

(1) in subsection (b)(1)(A)—

(A) by inserting "throughout the Nation" after "personnel"; and

(B) by striking "and" at the end;

(2) in subsection (b)(1)(B)—

(A) by inserting "and firefighter safety research and development" after "fire prevention"; and

(B) by striking the period and inserting "; and";

(3) by adding at the end of subsection (b)(1) the following new subparagraph:

"(C) provide assistance for nonaffiliated EMS organizations for the purpose of paragraph (3)(F).";

(4) in subsection (b)(3)(F), by inserting "and nonaffiliated EMS organizations" after "fire departments";

(5) in subsection (b)(4)—

(A) by inserting "AND FIREFIGHTER SAFETY RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT" after "PREVENTION" in the paragraph heading;

(B) in subparagraph (A)(ii)—

(i) by inserting "that are not fire departments and" after "community organizations";

(ii) by inserting "and firefighter research and development programs," after "fire safety programs and activities,"; and

(iii) by inserting "and research to improve firefighter health and life safety" after "fire prevention programs";

(C) in subparagraph (B), by striking "to children from fire" and inserting "to high risk groups from fire, as well as research programs that demonstrate the potential to improve firefighter safety"; and

(D) by adding at the end the following new subparagraph:

"(C) GRANT LIMITATION.—A grant under this paragraph shall not be greater than $1,000,000 for a fiscal year.";

(6) in subsection (b)(5)(B)—

(A) by redesignating clause (iv) as clause (v); and

(B) by inserting after clause (iii) the following new clause:

"(iv) OTHER FEDERAL SUPPORT.—A list of other sources of Federal funding received by the applicant. The Director, in coordination with the Secretary of Homeland Security, shall use such list to prevent unnecessary duplication of grant funds.".

(7) in subsection (b)(6), by striking subparagraphs (A) and (B) and inserting the following:

"(A) IN GENERAL.—Subject to subparagraphs (B) and (C), the Director may provide assistance under this subsection only if the applicant for such assistance agrees to match 20 percent of such assistance for any fiscal year with an equal amount of non-Federal funds.

"(B) REQUIREMENT FOR SMALL COMMUNITY ORGANIZATIONS.—In the case of an applicant whose personnel—

"(i) serve jurisdictions of 50,000 or fewer residents, the percent applied under the matching requirement of subparagraph (A) shall be 10 percent; and

"(ii) serve jurisdictions of 20,000 or fewer residents, the percent applied under the matching requirement of subparagraph (A) shall be 5 percent.

"(C) FIRE PREVENTION AND FIREFIGHTER SAFETY GRANTS.—There shall be no matching requirement for a grant described in paragraph (4)(A)(ii).";

(8) in subsection (b)(10)—

(A) by amending subparagraph (A) to read as follows:

"(A) RECIPIENT LIMITATIONS.—A grant recipient under subsection (b)(1)(A)—

"(i) that serves a jurisdiction with 500,000 people or less may not receive grants in excess of $1,000,000 for any fiscal year;

"(ii) that serves a jurisdiction with more than 500,000 but not more than 1,000,000 people may not receive grants in excess of $1,750,000 for any fiscal year; and

"(iii) that serves a jurisdiction with more than 1,000,000 people may not receive grants in excess of $2,750,000 for any fiscal year.

The Director may award grants in excess of the limitations provided in clause (i) and (ii) if the Director determines that extraordinary need for assistance by a jurisdiction warrants a waiver.";

(B) by redesignating subparagraph (B) as subparagraph (C);

(C) by inserting after subparagraph (A) the following new subparagraph:

"(B) DISTRIBUTION.—Notwithstanding subparagraph (A), no single recipient may receive more than the lesser of $2,750,000 or one half of one percent of the funds appropriated under this section for a single fiscal year."; and

(D) by adding at the end the following new subparagraphs:

"(D) REQUIREMENTS FOR GRANTS FOR EMERGENCY MEDICAL SERVICES.—Subject to the restrictions in subparagraph (E), not less than 3.5 percent of the funds appropriated under this section for a fiscal year shall be awarded for purposes described in paragraph (3)(F).

"(E) NONAFFILIATED EMS LIMITATION.—Not more than 2 percent of the funds appropriated to provide grants under this section for a fiscal year shall be awarded to nonaffiliated EMS organizations.

"(F) APPLICATION OF SELECTION CRITERIA TO GRANT APPLICATIONS FROM NONAFFILIATED EMS ORGANIZATIONS.—In reviewing applications submitted by nonaffiliated EMS organizations, the Director shall consider the extent to which other sources of Federal funding are available to provide assistance requested in such grant applications.";

(9) in subsection (b), by adding at the end the following new paragraphs:

"(13) ANNUAL MEETING.—The Director shall convene an annual meeting of individuals who are members of national fire service organizations and are recognized for expertise in firefighting or emergency medical services provided by fire services, and who are not employees of the Federal Government, for the purpose of recommending criteria for awarding grants under this section for the next fiscal year and recommending any necessary administrative changes to the grant program.

"(14) GUIDELINES.—(A) Each year, prior to making any grants under this section, the Director shall publish in the Federal Register—

"(i) guidelines that describe the process for applying for grants and the criteria for awarding grants; and

"(ii) an explanation of any differences between the guidelines and the recommendations made pursuant to paragraph (13).

"(B) The criteria for awarding grants under subsection (b)(1)(A) shall include the extent to which the grant would enhance the daily operations of the applicant and the impact of such a grant on the protection of lives and property.

"(15) PEER REVIEW.—The Director shall, after consultation with national fire service organizations, appoint fire service personnel to conduct peer review of applications received under paragraph (5). In making grants under this section, the Director shall consider the results of such peer review evaluations.

"(16) APPLICABILITY OF FEDERAL ADVISORY COMMITTEE ACT.—The Federal Advisory Committee Act (5 U.S.C. App.) shall not apply to activities under paragraphs (13) and (15).

"(17) ACCOUNTING DETERMINATION.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, rule, regulation, or guidance, for purposes of receiving assistance under this section, equipment costs shall include, but not be limited to, all costs attributable to any design, purchase of components, assembly, manufacture, and transportation of equipment not otherwise commercially available.";

(10) by amending subsection (d) to read as follows:

"(d) DEFINITIONS.—In this section—

"(1) the term 'Director' means the Director, acting through the Administrator;

"(2) the term 'nonaffiliated EMS organization' means a public or private nonprofit emergency medical services organization that is not affiliated with a hospital and does not serve a geographic area in which the Director finds that emergency medical services are adequately provided by a fire department; and

"(3) the term 'State' includes the District of Columbia and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico."; and

(11) in subsection (e)(1), by striking the first sentence and inserting "There are authorized to be appropriated for the purposes of this section $900,000,000 for fiscal year 2005, $950,000,000 for fiscal year 2006, and $1,000,000,000 for each of the fiscal years 2007 through 2009.".

SEC. 3603. REPORT ON ASSISTANCE TO FIREFIGHTERS.

(a) STUDY AND REPORT ON ASSISTANCE TO FIREFIGHTERS.—

(1) STUDY.—The Administrator of the United States Fire Administration, in conjunction with the National Fire Protection Association, shall conduct a study to—

(A) define the current roles and activities associated with the fire services on a national, State, regional, and local level;

(B) identify the equipment, staffing, and training required to fulfill the roles and activities defined under subparagraph (A);

(C) conduct an assessment to identify gaps between what fire departments currently possess and what they require to meet the equipment, staffing, and training needs identified under subparagraph (B) on a national and State-by-State basis; and

(D) measure the impact of the Assistance to Firefighters Grant program under section 33 of the Federal Fire Prevention and Control Act of 1974 (15 U.S.C. 2229) in meeting the needs of the fire services identified in the report submitted to Congress under section 1701(b) of the Floyd D. Spence National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2001 and filling the gaps identified under subparagraph (C).

(2) REPORT.—Not later than 18 months after the date of enactment of this Act, the Administrator shall submit to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation of the Senate and the Committee on Science of the House of Representatives a report on the findings of the study described in paragraph (1).

(b) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There are authorized to be appropriated to the United States Fire Administration $300,000 for fiscal year 2005 to carry out the study required by subsection (a).

And the Senate agree to the same.

JOINT EXPLANATORY STATEMENT OF THE COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE

The managers on the part of the House and the Senate at the conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendment of the Senate to the bill (H.R. 4200), to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2005 for military activities of the Department of Defense, for military construction, and for defense activities of the Department of Energy, to prescribe personnel strengths for such fiscal year for the Armed Forces, and for other purposes, submit the following joint statement to the House and the Senate in explanation of the effect of the action agreed upon by the managers and recommended in the accompanying conference report:

The Senate amendment struck all of the House bill after the enacting clause and inserted a substitute text.

The House recedes from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate with an amendment that is a substitute for the House bill and the Senate amendment. The differences between the House bill, the Senate amendment, and the substitute agreed to in conference are noted below, except for clerical corrections, conforming changes made necessary by agreements reached by the conferees, and minor drafting and clarifying changes.

SUMMARY STATEMENT OF CONFERENCE ACTIONS

The Conferees recommend authorization of appropriations for fiscal year 2005 for the Department of Defense for procurement; research and development; test and evaluation; operation and maintenance; working capital funds; military construction and family housing; and for weapons and environmental restoration programs of the Department of Energy; that have a budget authority implication of $445.6 billion for the national defense function.

Summary table of authorizations

The defense authorization act provides authorizations for appropriations but does not generally provide budget authority. Budget authority is provided in the appropriations act.

In order to relate the conference recommendations to the budget resolution, matters in addition to the dollar authorizations contained in this bill must be taken into account. A number of programs in the national defense function are authorized in other legislation.

The following table summarizes authorizations included in the bill for fiscal year 2005 and, in addition, summarizes the implications of the conference action for the budget authority totals for national defense (budget function 050).

F/A-22 aircraft

The budget request included $4.128 billion for the procurement of 24 F/A-22 aircraft.

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The Senate amendment would authorize $3.848 billion for the procurement of 22 F/A-22 aircraft, a reduction of $280.2 million. The Senate amendment also included language that would allow the Air Force to procure more than 22 aircraft with the authorized funds if the Secretary of the Air Force certifies that the contractual delivery schedule is being met and that the program is fully funded.

The conferees agree to authorize $4.098 billion for the procurement of 24 F/A-22 aircraft, a reduction of $30.0 million. The conferees agree that the certification required in the Senate amendment is not required to procure more than 22 aircraft.

Procurement of Ammunition, Air Force Overview

The budget request for fiscal year 2005 included an authorization of $1,396.5 million in Procurement of Ammunition, Air Force for the Department of Defense.

The House bill would authorize $1,396.5 million.

The Senate amendment would authorize $1,396.5 million.

The conferees recommend an authorization of $1,319.0 million. Unless noted explicitly in the statement of managers, all changes are made without prejudice.

Procurement, Defense-Wide Overview

The budget request for fiscal year 2005 included an authorization of $2,883.3 million in Procurement, Defense-wide for the Department of Defense.

The House bill would authorize $2,950.7 million.

The Senate amendment would authorize $2,967.4 million.

The conferees recommend an authorization of $2,846.6 million. Unless noted explicitly in the statement of managers, all changes are made without prejudice.

ITEMS OF SPECIAL INTEREST

Joint surveillance and target attack radar system re-engining

The conference report accompanying the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004 (Public Law 108-136) included a requirement for the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the congressional defense committees by February 13, 2004, that provides an economic analysis of options for maintaining engines for the E-8C joint surveillance and target attack radar system (JSTARS) aircraft. In the Senate report accompanying S. 2400 (S. Rept. 108-260), the committee noted that although the required report had not yet been received from the Department of Defense, the committee encouraged the Air Force to take into account the recommendations of the report when deciding what to do with the JSTARS fleet.

The congressional defense committees received the required report on July 8, 2004. The report states that there are both economic and operational advantages to acquiring new engines for the JSTARS aircraft, but the letter accompanying the report states that the Department's preferred solution is to maintain the current engines while carefully considering the need for JSTARS re-engining in the fiscal year 2006 budget request. Since the current engines have significant operational shortfalls and since maintaining the current engines would be more costly in terms of total life cycle costs than any option that would acquire new engines, the conferees encourage the Secretary to re-evaluate the decision to maintain the current engines in the JSTARS fleet of aircraft.

The conferees are aware that as a result of the global war on terrorism, the Air Force has been required to significantly expand its expeditionary logistics capability. The conferees note Halvorsen 25K loaders play a significant role in material handling and are currently in use around the world, including Iraq and Afghanistan.

The Commander, U.S. Transportation Command (USTRANSCOM) has a stated mobility requirement for 618 Halvorsen 25K loaders, of which 316 have been acquired between the fiscal years 2000-2004. Given the high operational tempo in air mobility missions and heavy use of the Air Force's mobility and material handling equipment (MHE) fleet, the Congress increased funding for this program in fiscal year 2004 and fiscal year 2005 to help meet the requirements for USTRANSCOM.

The conferees encourage the Air Force to continue its effort to modernize its MHE to include planning and funding for the Halvorsen 25K loader program.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Subtitle A—Authorization of Appropriations

Authorization of appropriations (sec. 101-104)

The House bill contained provisions (sec. 101-104) that would authorize the recommended fiscal year 2005 funding levels for procurement Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Air Force, and Defense-wide activities.

The Senate amendment contained similar provisions (secs. 101-104).

The conference agreement includes these provisions.

Subtitle B—Army Programs

Multiyear procurement authority for the lightweight 155-millimeter howitzer program (sec. 111)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 111) that would permit the Secretary of the Army and the Secretary of the Navy to enter into a joint service, multiyear contract for procurement of the lightweight 155 millimeter howitzer.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 122) that would authorize the Secretary of the Navy to enter into a multiyear contract for procurement of the lightweight 155 millimeter howitzer.

The Senate recedes.

Light utility helicopter program (sec. 112)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 111) that would preclude authorization of appropriations for the procurement of light utility helicopters until the Secretary of the Army provides a report to the congressional defense committees. The report will include: (1) The Secretary's certification that all required documentation for the acquisition of light utility helicopters has been completed and approved; (2) an updated Army Aviation modernization plan that contains detailed justification and information which affected the decision to terminate the Comanche helicopter program; and (3) a summary and copy of the results of the analysis of alternatives that the Secretary considered in the determination to procure light utility helicopters, including the analysis of alternatives of using light armed reconnaissance helicopters and UH-60 Black Hawk helicopters instead of light utility helicopters.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Subtitle C—Navy Programs

DDG-51 modernization program (sec. 121)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 112) that would require the Secretary of the Navy to accelerate the modernization program for the DDG-51 Arleigh Burke-class of destroyers. The provision would also require the Secretary to place emphasis in this program on determining a means by which the crew size on this class of ships could be reduced from approximately 300 to about 200. The provision would also require the Secretary to submit a report to the congressional defense committees by March 31, 2005, on the steps taken in this program.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would modify the reporting requirement so that the report would include the elements of the modernization program, and specify those elements of the program that are expected to contribute to the goal of reducing the crew size on this class of ships by one-third and explain the basis for those expectations.

Repeal of authority for pilot program for flexible funding of cruiser conversions and overhauls (sec. 122)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 113) that would repeal section 126 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004 (Public Law 108-136, 117 Stat. 1410, U.S.C. 7291 note).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

LHA(R) amphibious assault ship program (sec. 123)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 121) that would authorize the Secretary of the Navy to procure the first amphibious ship of the LHA(R) class. It would also authorize $150.0 million of shipbuilding and conversion funds, and authorize the Secretary of the Navy to enter into a contract or contracts for the advance procurement and advance construction of components for this ship with these funds.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Subtitle D—Air Force Programs

Prohibition of retirement of KC-135E aircraft (sec. 131)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 131) that would prohibit the Secretary of the Air Force from retiring any KC-135E aerial refueling aircraft in fiscal year 2005.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Prohibition of retirement of F-117 aircraft (sec. 132)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 132) that would prohibit any F-117 aircraft in use by the Air Force in fiscal year 2004 from being retired in fiscal year 2005.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Aerial refueling aircraft acquisition program (sec. 133)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 116) that would authorize the Secretary of the Air Force to enter into a multiyear procurement contract for 80 tanker aerial refueling aircraft beginning in fiscal year 2005, for a period of up to eight years. The provision would also repeal section subsection (b) of 135 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004 (Public Law 108-136). The provision would prohibit this multiyear procurement from being executed under the authority of either section 135 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004 (Public Law 108-36) or section 8159 of the Department of Defense Appropriations Act, 2002 (division A of Public Law 107-117).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would amend section 135 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004 (Public Law 108-136) to: (1) provide that no tanker aircraft can be leased under the multiyear aircraft lease pilot program previously established under section 8159 of the Department of Defense Appropriation Act for Fiscal Year 2002; (2) authorize a multiyear procurement of up to 100 aerial refueling aircraft, for a period not to exceed ten program years; (3) prohibit the use of incremental funding for the multiyear contract; and (4) remove reference to leasing of aircraft throughout the provision.

Subtitle E—Other Matters

Development of deployable systems to include consideration of force protection in asymmetric threat environment (sec. 141)

The House Bill contained a provision (sec. 114) that would require that all manned ground systems, warfighter survivability systems, and certain manned airborne systems be assessed annually for adequacy in survivability and suitability against asymmetrical threats. The provision also requires the secretary of each military department to implement force protection and survivability enhancements for all assessed systems. Finally, the provision requires that the Secretary of Defense ensure that developmental military system designs account for survivability and suitability against asymmetrical threats.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to revise defense regulations, directives, and guidance to account for survivability and suitability against asymmetric threats in developing any manned system and any equipment intended to enhance personnel survivability.

Allocation of equipment authorized by this title to units deployed, or to be deployed to Operation Iraqi Freedom or Operation Enduring Freedom (sec. 142)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 115) that would require the Secretary of Defense to give priority to those operational units that are deployed to, or preparing to deploy to, Operation Iraqi Freedom or Operation Enduring Freedom, regardless of the status of those units as Active, Guard, or Reserve component units, when allocating equipment acquired using funds authorized to be appropriated by the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2005.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary to ensure that the allocation of equipment acquired using funds authorized to be appropriated by this title to operational units deployed, or scheduled to be deployed, to Operation Iraqi Freedom or Operation Enduring Freedom is made without regard to the status of the units as Active, Guard, or Reserve component.

Report on options for acquisition of precision-guided munitions (sec. 143)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 141) that would require the Secretary of Defense to provide a report on options for the acquisition of precision-guided weapons at various production rates, to include the cost for these options.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment that would require the report to identify the required costs for each precision-guided munition at the various production rates for each year in the future-years defense program.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Up-armored high mobility multi-purpose wheeled vehicles or wheeled vehicle ballistic add-on armor protection

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 112) that would authorize an increase of $610.0 million in Other Procurement, Army (OPA), for the procurement of additional up-armored high mobility multi-purpose wheeled vehicles at a rate up to 450 per month or wheeled vehicle ballistic add-on armor protection, the amount of which to be determined and reported by the Secretary of the Army.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $572.0 million in OPA for the procurement of additional up-armored high mobility multi-purpose wheeled vehicles at a rate up to 450 per month, and an increase of $100.0 million for wheeled vehicle ballistic add-on armor protection.

Command and control vehicles or field artillery ammunition support vehicles

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 113) that would authorize an increase of $5.0 million in Weapons and Tracked Combat Vehicles, Army, for the procurement of new production command and control vehicles or field artillery ammunition support vehicles.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Other matters relating to KC-767 tanker aircraft acquisition program

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 117) that would express a Sense of Congress about the criticality of the aerial refueling mission, the need to proceed with a program to replace the current fleet of aerial refueling aircraft, taking advantage of the U.S. commercial aircraft production base, and encouraging the investigation and prosecution of anyone suspected of improper or illegal activities. The provision would also require the Secretary of the Air Force to enter into one or more contracts for the multi-year tanker program no later than March 1, 2005. The provision would also require a review by an outside panel of any proposed contract for the multi-year tanker program, and required a report of this review be provided to the Secretary of the Air Force and the congressional defense committees.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Additional amount for Patriot missile procurement

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 118) that would increase funds available for procurement of Patriot missiles by $90.0 million and offset the increase with reductions to several other accounts.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Transfer of certain Army procurement funds

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 119) that would authorize an increase of $2.0 million for the Aircraft Wireless Intercom System and $2.0 million for bladefold kits for Apache helicopters, in Aircraft Procurement, Army, offset by a commensurate amount from funds for information systems in Other Procurement, Army.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Pilot program for flexible funding of submarine engineered refueling overhaul and conversion

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 123) that would authorize the Secretary of the Navy to carry out a pilot program of flexible funding of engineered refueling overhauls (EROs) and conversions of submarines. The provision would allow the transfer of authorization of appropriations to provide flexibility in the accomplishment of these EROs, and set certain limitations on these transfers.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Senior Scout mission bed-down initiative

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 133) that would authorize an increase of $2.0 million in Aircraft Procurement, Air Force for a bed-down initiative to enable the C-130 aircraft of the Idaho Air National Guard to be the permanent carrier of the Senior Scout mission shelters of the 169th Intelligence Squadron of the Utah Air National Guard.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $1.4 million in Aircraft Procurement, Air Force for the bed-down initiative.

TITLE II—RESEARCH, DEVELOPMENT, TEST, AND EVALUATION

Research, Development, Test and Evaluation Overview

The budget request for fiscal year 2005 included an authorization of $67,772.3 million in Research and Development for the Department of Defense.

The House bill would authorize $68,090.4 million.

The Senate amendment would authorize $68,608.7 million.

The conferees recommend an authorization of $66,497.8 million. Unless noted explicitly in the statement of managers, all changes are made without prejudice.

Advanced battery technology initiative

The budget request included $41.2 million in PE 62705A for applied research in electronics and electronic devices.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $20.0 million in PE 62705A for an advanced battery technology initiative.

The Senate amendment contained no similar authorization.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $15.6 million in PE 62705A for an advanced battery technology initiative, which would fund programs selected on the basis of technical merit, cost effectiveness, and potential to meet service requirements, including the following areas: alkaline cylindrical cells; cylindrical zinc air batteries; high capacity nickel/zinc rechargeable cells; lithium battery technologies; lithium carbon monoflouride cells; and proton exchange membrane fuel cells.

The conferees note that in a recent study, "Meeting the Energy Needs of Future Warriors," the National Research Council highlighted the importance of Army research on soldier power technologies, and indicated that "energy to power soldier systems, . . . must now be viewed on par with the other critical logistics commodities—ammunition, fuel, food, and water."

Medical technology applied research initiative

The budget request included $60.9 million in PE 62787A for medical technology.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $25.0 million in PE 62787A for a medical technology applied research initiative.

The Senate amendment contained no similar authorization.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $7.05 million for an applied initiative in medical technologies of specific military application and value, including: dermal phase meter; gene delivery technology; fibrin bandages from non-mammalian sources; nano-fabricated bioartificial kidney; and rapid bio-pathogen detection technology. Projects are to be selected on the basis of technical merit, cost effectiveness, and potential to meet service requirements.

Lightweight Structures Initiative

The budget request included $203.1 million in PE 63005A for combat vehicle and automotive technology.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $9.0 million in PE 63005A for the Lightweight Structures Initiative.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $7.5 million for components of the Lightweight Structures Initiative including: $3.0 million for advanced titanium armor systems; $1.5 million for Future Combat System common chassis design; and $3.0 million for non-line of sight cannon structure design.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $7.9 million in PE 63005A for the Lightweight Structures Initiative.

Mobile tactical high energy laser

The budget request included $53.5 million in PE 63305A for Army missile defense systems integration, of which $39.0 million was for the mobile tactical high energy laser (MTHEL).

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $15.0 million for MTHEL.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $8.0 million in PE 63305A for MTHEL.

The conferees are aware of successful tests of the Army's heat capacity solid state laser and believe that laser weapons could play an important role in future missile, air, and counter-mortar defenses. The conferees direct that the increase be used to accelerate development of a 100 kilowatt solid state laser and to initiate a system demonstration using a solid state laser.

The conferees note that the Joint Technology Office (JTO) plays a key role in maturing a range of laser technologies. The JTO was established pursuant to subtitle E, title II, of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2001 (Public Law 106-398) with the intent of establishing an office that would accelerate progress in high energy laser technology and provide incentives to services to invest in such technologies. The conferees are concerned that the JTO may not be effective in accomplishing the goals defined in subtitle E or transitioning laser technology to the services. The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to provide a report to the congressional defense committees by January 15, 2005 on the effectiveness of the JTO in achieving the objectives of subtitle E, the impact of shifting funding responsibility for JTO efforts to the Air Force, and the effectiveness of the JTO structure in transitioning laser technologies to the warfighter. The conferees further direct the Comptroller General to review this assessment and to report the results of this review to congressional defense committees no later March 15, 2005.

NAVY

Research, Development, Test and Evaluation, Navy Overview

The budget request for fiscal year 2005 included an authorization of $16,346.4 million in Research, Development, Test and Evaluation, Navy for the Department of Defense.

The House bill would authorize $16,052.8 million.

The Senate amendment would authorize $16,690.4 million.

The conferees recommend an authorization of $16,200.6 million. Unless noted explicitly in the statement of managers, all changes are made without prejudice.

Littoral Combat Ship

The budget request included $352.1 million in PE 63581N for the Littoral Combat Ship (LCS), including $244.4 million for LCS development and $107.7 million for construction.

The House bill would authorize $244.4 million in PE 63581N for LCS development, a decrease of $107.7 million, delaying construction of the first LCS until fiscal year 2006.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize $350.1 million, a decrease of $2.0 million for phase one design of the Flight One LCS design.

The conferees note the concerns expressed in the House report accompanying H.R. 4200 (H. Rept. 108-491) regarding whether the LCS program schedule provides sufficient time and opportunities for experimentation and evaluation of the operational concepts for LCS in Flight Zero before committing to major serial production of the ship with Flight One. The program plan provided with the fiscal year 2005 budget request had construction starting on Flight One ships before delivery and evaluation of Flight Zero ships. This concurrency could require expensive retrofit to Flight One ships after lessons have been learned from operating Flight Zero ships.

The conferees are concerned with a potential industrial impact induced by making fiscal year 2006 a gap year in LCS production, which could lead to increased ship costs or technology insertion challenges. However, the conferees agree with the rationale of section 8092 of the Department of Defense Appropriations Act for Fiscal Year 2005 (section A of Public Law 108-287), which directs that no funds be obligated for construction of a third vessel in the fiscal year 2006 budget request. The conferees expect that the Navy will include a plan that reduces the risk of concurrency in the LCS justification submitted as part of the fiscal year 2006 budget request.

Land attack technology

The budget request included $82.0 million in PE 63795N for land attack technology. This included $28.9 million for the affordable weapons system (AWS) and $11.3 million for the continued development of the extended range guided munition (ERGM).

The House bill would authorize $105.0 million in PE 63795N for land attack technology. This included $51.9 million for AWS, an increase of $23.0 million, and would authorize the budget request for ERGM.

The Senate amendment would authorize $53.1 million in PE 63795N for land attack technology. This would authorize no funding for AWS, and would authorize the budget request for ERGM.

The conferees agree to authorize $95.2 million in PE 63795N for land attack technology. This includes an authorization of $48.9 million for AWS, an increase of $20.0 million. This also includes an authorization of $4.5 million for ERGM, a decrease of $6.8 million.

The conferees are aware of past testing problems in the ERGM program, but have supported fielding of ERGM capability as soon as possible. The conferees are also aware that the Navy has issued a notice to industry stating that it will issue a solicitation for a capability to mirror that of ERGM. While supportive of this risk-reduction strategy, the conferees also expect that funds appropriated for the ERGM program be applied to continued developmental testing of ERGM.

Open architecture

The budget request included $146.5 million in PE 64307N for surface combatant combat system engineering and $48.2 million in PE 64755N for ship self-defense (detect and control).

The House bill would authorize an increase of $21.8 million in PE 64307N for open architecture systems and would also authorize an increase of $21.8 million in PE 64755N for open architecture warfare systems.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $4.3 million in PE 64307N and an increase of $3.4 million in PE 64755N for open architecture warfare systems.

The conferees concur with the Navy's decision to move to open architecture (OA)-based warfare systems, and recognize OA as an enabling step to modernizing warfighting capabilities at an affordable cost. Similarly, given the rapid rate that commercial, off-the-shelf computing equipment and software is becoming obsolescent, delaying the implementation of OA will result in military systems falling further and further behind the commercial sector's capability. While an OA approach to development and fielding requires increased cooperation at all levels, it also creates interdependencies among programs as a result of design and development components that will be used in multiple systems. With this approach, the impact of a delay or funding cut in a program implementing OA could have impact on other programs.

The Navy identified the implementation of OA into Navy surface forces as its highest unfunded priority in fiscal year 2005. Under the Navy's plan, modernization of existing forces (cruiser modernization and DDG modernization) and recapitalization of the surface fleet (DD(X), CVN 21, and the Littoral Combat Ship) are all inextricably linked to the overall execution of the OA initiative. The conferees believe that there could be serious, cascading effects on these programs unless the Navy ensures that the OA initiative is fully funded, and urge the Navy to pursue any shortfalls through supplemental submissions for fiscal year 2005. The conferees also believe the Navy should consider grouping various OA efforts in a separate program element, so that: (1) the Navy can coordinate its efforts more efficiently; and (2) difficulties with individual platform programs do not jeopardize the entire effort.

AIR FORCE

Research, Development, Test and Evaluation, Air Force Overview

The budget request for fiscal year 2005 included an authorization of $21,114.7 million in Research Development, Test and Evaluation, Air Force for the Department of Defense.

The House bill would authorize $21,533.0 million.

The Senate amendment would authorize $21,264.3 million.

The conferees recommend an authorization of $20,432.9 million. Unless noted explicitly in the statement of managers, all changes are made without prejudice.

Transformational satellite communications

The budget request included $674.8 million in PE 63845F for tranformational military satellite communications (TSAT).

The House bill would authorize a decrease of $100.0 million in PE 63845F.

The Senate amendment would authorize a decrease of $100.0 million in PE 63845F.

The conferees agree to authorize $374.8 million in PE 63845F, a decrease of $300.0 million.

The conferees strongly support the objectives of the TSAT program, including much higher communications capacity, assured connectivity for a much larger number of mobile and fixed forces, and the ability to protect these capabilities against emerging threats. The conferees, however, have had continuing concerns related to the risk of the current acquisition approach and potential program delays, which the conferees believe could elevate operational risks resulting from gaps in the military satellite communications (MILSATCOM) architecture.

The conferees are aware of program options that could leverage both current MILSATCOM program investments and TSAT development efforts. The conferees believe that such an approach could accelerate the deployment of advanced communications capabilities, provide the opportunity to incrementally demonstrate advanced satellite communications technology, and provide a lower risk path to meeting TSAT requirements. The conferees believe that such an approach is potentially more consistent with spiral development and capabilities-based acquisition.

The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to evaluate modified TSAT acquisition strategies that streamline the program structure and leverage current MILSATCOM investment, and to provide a report to the congressional defense committees on that evaluation by March 1, 2005.

Space based radar

The budget request included $327.7 million in PE 63858F for space based radar (SBR).

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize $75.0 million in PE 63858F for SBR, a decrease of $252.7 million.

The conferees believe that the United States must continue to improve its space-based and airborne intelligence, reconnaissance, and surveillance (ISR) systems; and believe that persistent surveillance will be critical to future U.S. military and intelligence capabilities. The conferees note that space based radar can make a significant contribution to persistent surveillance and that radars provide the only all weather, day/night ISR capabilities.

While strongly supportive of radar satellites, the conferees are concerned that the Air Force cost estimates for the notional SBR architecture that served as the basis for the fiscal year 2005 budget request were very high. If accurate, these estimates could render the system unaffordable.

The conferees believe that affordability will be critically dependent on the development and deployment of a single radar satellite system to meet both military and intelligence community needs and the thorough integration of space based radar ISR capabilities into a system of systems architecture that includes air assets, other national technical means, responsive space assets, and possibly near-space assets. Such an integration will have direct and significant implications for the capabilities needed in any one element of a system of systems. The conferees believe that an integrated architecture, that leverages and evolves existing architectures as well as innovative technologies, will provide greater capabilities earlier and at a more affordable cost.

Consequently, the conferees believe that the number of satellites and technical capabilities needed in an SBR system, and how an SBR system might evolve over time, is critically dependent on a more complete understanding of an integrated ISR system. The conferees direct that the SBR effort be restructured to focus on continued technology maturation (including satellite integration), architectural analysis, and system evolution. The conferees further direct the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the congressional defense committees no later than March 1, 2005, outlining the key features and programmatic implications of an ISR system of systems architecture that includes national technical means and other space, air, responsive space, near-space and terrestrial systems.

Space based infrared system

The budget request included $508.4 million in PE 64441F for the space based infrared system (SBIRS).

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $35.0 million in PEG 4441F.

The conferees remain concerned with continued SBIRS cost increases, schedule delays, and technical problems. The conferees note that the initial 1996 cost estimate for SBIRS was $3.6 billion; that estimate has increased by nearly $4 billion in the last three years and is now $10.0 billion. While strongly supportive of the development of next generation early warning capabilities, the conferees do not believe that continuation of this program can be justified if such increases continue in the future. The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to provide a report in classified and unclassified form to the congressional defense committees no later than February 1, 2005 on the cause of the most recent SBIRS cost increases, schedule delays, and technical problems; the most recent Defense Support Program gap analysis and any effect that further delays will have on U.S. early warning, technical intelligence, and missile defense capabilities; steps taken to address the most recent SBIRS technical difficulties; any adjustments in management and contract arrangements with the contractor to reflect the most recent program challenges; remaining risk areas; and an assessment of the confidence level in the SBIRS schedule and cost estimates current as of October 1, 2004.

DEFENSE-WIDE

Research, Development, Test and Evaluation, Defense-wide Overview

The budget request for fiscal year 2005 included an authorization of $20,739.8 million in Research, Development, Test and Evaluation, Defense-wide for the Department of Defense.

The House bill would authorize $20,721.3 million.

The Senate amendment would authorize $20,654.4 million.

The conferees recommend an authorization of $20,252.9 million. Unless noted explicitly in the statement of managers, all changes are made without prejudice.

Chemical and biological defense basic research program

The budget request included $36.8 million in PE 61384BP for chemical and biological defense program basic research.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $15.0 million in PE 61384BP for a chemical and biological defense basic research initiative.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $11.0 million in PE 61384BP for a chemical and biological defense basic research initiative. The conferees note that projects and technologies to be considered for funding under the chemical and biological defense basic research initiative should be selected on the basis of technical merit and potential operational utility. The conferees recommend that the projects and technologies to be considered for funding under the chemical and biological defense basic research initiative should include, but not be limited to, the following: engineered pathogen identification and countermeasures, multipurpose biodefense immunoarrays and fluorescence activated sensing technologies.

Chemical and biological defense applied research program

The budget request included $104.4 million in PE 62384BP for chemical and biological defense program applied research.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $25.0 million in PE 62384BP for a chemical and biological defense applied research initiative.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $8.9 million in PE 62384BP, including $3.0 million for mustard gas antidotes; $2.0 million for bioinformatics; $2.0 million for neurotoxin mitigation research; and $2.9 million for chemical agent persistence models.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $33.4 million in PE 62384BP for chemical and biological defense program applied research, including $3.0 million for mustard gas antidote; $2.0 million for bioinformatics; $1.0 million for neurotoxin mitigation research; $2.9 million chemical agent persistence models; and $24.5 million for a chemical and biological applied research initiative.

The conferees note that projects and technologies to be considered for funding under the chemical and biological defense program applied research initiative should be selected on the basis of technical merit and potential operational utility. The conferees recommend that the projects and technologies to be considered for funding under the chemical and biological defense applied research initiative should include, but not be limited to, the following: air contamination monitoring systems; hand-held detectors; heat shock protein vaccine creation processes; low-cost chemical-biological protective shelters; membrane research for next generation chemical-biological protective suits; rapid anti-body based biological countermeasures; and rapid decontamination systems for nerve agents.

Stimulated isomer energy release

The budget request included $339.2 million in PE 62702E for tactical technology applied research, including $4.0 million for the Defense Advanced Research Project Agency's (DARPA) stimulated isomer energy release (SIER) project.

The House bill and the Senate amendment would reduce the budget request for the SIER project by $4.0 million. The House bill also directed the Secretary of Defense to terminate the project.

The conferees agree to authorize no funds for continuation of the DARPA SIER project and direct that the DARPA project be terminated.

Combating terrorism technology support

The budget request included $46.7 million in PE 63122D8Z for combating terrorism technology support programs.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $27.5 million in PE 63122D8Z for combating terrorism technology support programs, including $25.0 million for advanced combating terrorism technology support.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $10.0 million in PE 63122D8Z for blast mitigation research. The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $13.5 million in PE 63122D8Z for combating terrorism technology support, including $7.0 million for blast mitigation; $5.0 million for advanced combating terrorism technology support; and $1.5 million for combating terrorism intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance research.

Chemical and biological defense program advanced technology development

The budget request included $117.3 million in PE 63384BP for the chemical and biological defense program for advanced technology development.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $35.0 million in PE 63384BP for a chemical and biological defense program advanced technology initiative.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $9.5 million for chemical and biological defense program advanced technology development, including $6.0 million for anthrax and plague oral vaccine development; and $3.5 million for water quality sensors.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $38.3 million for chemical and biological defense program for advanced technology development, including $32.9 million for an advanced technology development initiative; $2.8 million for anthrax and plague oral vaccine development; and $2.6 million for water quality sensors.

The conferees note that projects and technologies to be considered for funding under the chemical and biological defense advanced technology development initiative should be selected on the basis of technical merit and potential operational utility. The conferees recommend that the projects and technologies to be considered for funding under the chemical and biological defense basic research initiative should include, but not be limited to, the following: hand-held biological detection systems; immuno biological/chemical threat agent detectors; non-invasive vectored vaccine development; and recombinant protein vaccines.

Airborne laser

The budget request included $474.3 million in PE 63883C for the airborne laser (ABL).

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize the budget request.

The conferees remain convinced of the importance of boost phase intercept in the ballistic missile defense architecture, and note that ABL has potentially revolutionary capabilities. The conferees also note that, in response to consistent cost overruns and schedule delays, the program has been restructured to reflect these difficulties and its developmental nature. The conferees applaud this restructuring and are aware of progress in recent months toward achieving key milestones in the ABL program, particularly first light from conjoined laser modules. The conferees note that demonstrated progress in these areas will be critical to the continuation of the ABL effort.

The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to provide a report to the congressional defense committees by February 15, 2005 that provides the status of ABL laser tests and the beam control/fire control system and recommendations on the future of the ABL program.

Kinetic energy interceptor

The budget request included $511.3 million in PE 63886C for the kinetic energy interceptor (KEI) and associated boost phase intercept efforts.

The House bill authorized a decrease of $75.0 million in PE 63886C.

The Senate amendment authorized a decrease of $200.0 million in PE 63886C.

The conferees agree to authorize $348.3 million in PE 63886C, a decrease of $163.0 million.

The conferees remain convinced that the KEI could be an important aspect of the overall ballistic missile defense architecture, potentially contributing intercept capabilities in boost, midcourse, and terminal phases of the threat missile flight. The conferees are concerned, however, with the lack of progress in defining basing modes. The conferees note that:

(1) Recent justifications for the KEI ground-based variant suggest that it might serve as the basis for midcourse intercept capability in Europe. At the same time, however, the budget request included $35.0 million for additional ground-based interceptors (GBI) for the ground-based midcourse defense element that could be deployed in Europe; and

(2) Consideration of sea-based concepts of operations and platforms do not appear to be progressing.

The conferees direct the Director of the Missile Defense Agency to provide a report to the congressional defense committees by February 1, 2005 that includes planned ground- and sea-basing modes for KEI (including specific sea-based platforms) and the concept of operations for each basing mode; how KEI will enhance ballistic missile defense system capabilities; the role KEI may play in European missile defense and how that role relates to the fielding of additional GBIs; and a comparison of anticipated sea-based KEI capabilities with other sea-based missile defense options.

Operationally responsive space

The budget request included $19.6 million in PE 65799D8Z for the force transformation directorate, but no funds for operationally responsive satellite payloads and busses.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $25.0 million in PE 65799D8Z for operationally responsive satellite payloads.

The Senate amendment would authorize $25.0 million in a new program element for operationally responsive satellite payloads.

The conferees believe that smaller, less expensive satellites may provide a means of achieving more rapid and effective deployment of space-based military capabilities than is now possible. The conferees are encouraged by Air Force efforts to develop small, low-cost space launch vehicles as an essential step for enabling the launch of such satellites, but are concerned that the effort to develop viable payloads for these rockets is not adequately funded. The conferees note that the Office of Transformation is working with the Air Force Research Laboratory to develop lightweight, experimental tactical satellites (TACSATs), but that this effort lacks dedicated funding. The conferees also believe that the development of standards, protocols, and interfaces for common satellite bus components will be key to producing affordable small satellites. The conferees agree to authorize $39.6 million in PE 65799D8Z, an increase of $20.0 million, for further development of TACSATs and common small satellite bus components. The conferees expect, consistent with section 913 of this Act, that future funding requests for operationally responsive payloads will be forwarded in a separate and dedicated program element.

TEST AND EVALUATION

Operational Test and Evaluation, Defense Overview

The budget request for fiscal year 2005 included an authorization of $305.1 million in Operational Test and Evaluation, Defense for the Department of Defense.

The House bill would authorize $305.1 million.

The Senate amendment would authorize $309.1 million.

The conferees recommend an authorization of $304.1 million. Unless noted explicitly in the statement of managers, all changes are made without prejudice.

ITEMS OF SPECIAL INTEREST

Department of Defense—National Aeronautics and Space Administration coordination

The conferees note that in the areas of aeronautics and space research technology development, the Department of Defense and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) must coordinate closely in order to ensure that the nation continues its global leadership in these technologies.

The conferees believe that as NASA evaluates its future plans for aeronautics, it is essential that the Department and NASA provide for the continued availability of unique wind tunnels and other research, test, and evaluation facilities and services critical to the development of military systems. The conferees direct the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology and Logistics to identify and analyze aeronautics facilities currently managed by NASA that are considered by the Department to be critical to the accomplishment of defense missions and to the maintenance of U.S. leadership in aeronautics.

The conferees also endorse the Secretary of Defense's emphasis on transformational technologies. One of the more promising technologies under development is hypersonic propulsion, which when further developed will provide significantly improved operational capabilities for both manned and unmanned flight, missile defense and a single-stage-to-flight capability that could provide rapid access to space. Unfortunately, due to changing priorities within both the Air Force and NASA, funding for such efforts has been reduced to insignificant levels.

The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the congressional defense committees by March 15, 2005, which details the Department's plans to provide the required funding to pursue a development program for transition of hypersonic technologies to an integrated demonstration system that validates their affordability and effectiveness to support prompt global strike and assured space access missions. The report should analyze the results and technological advances enabled by the X-43 series of programs and other efforts to develop a detailed technology roadmap and investment strategy consistent with meeting future military needs in hypersonics. The conferees believe the capabilities to be realized through a successful hypersonic development program justify the sustained and full support of the Department and NASA.

Enterprise Resource Planning for Army Combat Logistics

The Army logistics systems arm, fuel, repair, move, and sustain combat forces. The Army's goals for modernization of its legacy logistics systems include improved sustainment of combat forces using fewer soldiers, increased readiness and operational availability, and significantly lowering cost. The Army plans to modernize its logistics systems using enterprise resource planning systems, which will provide essential information for timely decision making and accurate performance measurement. They use no custom software code and only commercial, off-the-shelf computer technology. They are also web-based with a robust telecommunications infrastructure and have been tested at thousands of sites outside the Army.

The conferees encourage the Army to leverage existing Army information technology assets and expertise to augment funds within the Global Combat Support System account to complete the blueprinting and accelerate fielding of the system, wherever feasible, to replace 20-year-old systems which are unable to fully support combat operations.

Patriot air and missile defense system

The conferees note that the Patriot air and missile defense system destroyed all nine theater ballistic missiles launched at coalition forces during Operation Iraqi Freedom (OIF) for which intercept was attempted. The conferees also note, however, that the Patriot was also involved in three "friendly fire" incidents during that conflict and that electromagnetic interference (EMI) between Patriot and other systems contributed to these incidents. Similar interference problems with the Patriot occurred during the Gulf War in 1991.

The conferees strongly support the Patriot system, note with approval that the Army has reprogrammed funding to fix the known "friendly-fire" problems associated with the Patriot, and are encouraged at the level of attention given to this problem since the OIF incidents. The conferees expect, however, that as more radars, communications systems, and other emitting systems are added to the battlefield in the future, EMI problems will continue to grow in complexity.

The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the congressional defense committees by March 1, 2005 summarizing the tests, exercises, and changes to operational procedures and requirements that are planned or being implemented to prevent or reduce future EMI problems with the Patriot system. The conferees also direct the Director of Operational Test and Evaluation to include an assessment of the Department's plans to reduce EMI problems with the Patriot system in his Annual Report to Congress, required by section 139 of title 10, United States Code.

Russian-American missile defense cooperation

The conferees understand that the Secretary of Defense desires to explore opportunities for missile defense cooperative programs with the Russian Federation that build upon the experience gained in the Russian-American Observation Satellite (RAMOS) program that was terminated earlier this year. The conferees recognize the potential importance of such cooperative efforts, both to the technical success of the U.S. missile defense effort and to the establishment of a cooperative strategic relationship with the Russian Federation.

The conferees urge the Secretary to engage in serious negotiations with the Russian Federation as soon as possible on joint missile defense programs. The conferees believe that previous efforts under the RAMOS program, including Russian Presidential and Government decrees and the U.S.-Russian Federation technical agreement, should be leveraged to help ensure the successful initiation of such efforts.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Subtitle A—Authorization of Appropriations

Authorization of appropriations (sec. 201)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 201) that would authorize the recommended fiscal year 2005 funding levels for the Research, Development, Test and Evaluation accounts for the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Air Force, Defense-wide activities and the Director of Operational Test and Evaluation.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 201).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Amount for defense science and technology (sec. 202)

The budget request included $10,550.3 million for Department of Defense science and technology (S&T) programs.

The House bill would authorize $11,067.7 million for defense S&T programs.

The Senate amendment would authorize $11,012.4 million for defense S&T programs.

The conferees agree to authorize $11,191.6 million for S&T programs, an increase of $641.3 million over the request. The increase provided by the conferees brings the Department closer to 3 percent of total spending, the goal stated by the Department and outside experts as the desired investment for these programs. In recognition of the key role played by S&T in maintaining the best equipped, best protected fighting force in the world, the conferees have targeted increases to project areas which improve current capabilities, while focusing on basic research and long-term projects that ensure future innovation.

The conferees note that current operations in Iraq, Afghanistan, and elsewhere continue to demonstrate how technologies transitioned from the Department's S&T programs are enhancing the combat effectiveness of warfighters, reducing casualties, and improving the efficiency and flexibility of our military forces. The conferees commend the Department for mobilizing its technical capabilities in the science and technology community to support these current global operations.

The conferees expect to see an increased commitment by the Department to robustly fund S&T in the fiscal year 2006 budget, along with an appropriate balance within the accounts that acknowledges the importance of long-term research in an era of immediate and pressing needs.

Conferees also urge continued attention to a key component of ensuring the U.S. military's technological edge—development, recruitment and retention of skilled scientists and engineers.

Subtitle B—Program Requirements, Restrictions, and Limitations

Future Combat Systems program strategy (sec. 211)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 211) that would direct the Secretary of the Army to establish and implement a program strategy for the Future Combat Systems (FCS) acquisition program. The provision limits authorization of appropriations for FCS in fiscal year 2005 to $2.2 billion until the Secretary of the Army certifies that elements of the program strategy includes certain technical and performance criteria before production facilitization and long lead items are placed on contract. The provision also requires the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology and Logistics (USD(AT&L)) to submit to the Congress: (1) an independent program cost estimate; (2) a report, prepared by an independent panel, on the maturity levels of critical technologies; (3) a report on the status of the network and command, control, communications, computers, intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance components; and (4) key performance parameters, prior to the Milestone B update required by the FCS acquisition decision memorandum.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that limits the authorization of appropriations for FCS in fiscal year 2005 to $2.2 billion until the Secretary of the Army certifies that elements of the program strategy includes certain technical and performance criteria before production facilitization and long lead items are placed on contract. The amendment requires the USD(AT&L) to submit to Congress: (1) a program cost estimate; (2) a report, prepared by an independent panel, on the maturity levels of critical technologies; (3) a report on the status of the network and command, control, communications, computers, intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance components; and (4) key performance parameters, prior to the Milestone B update required by the FCS acquisition decision memorandum. The amendment also requires the USD (AT&L) submit to Congress an independent cost estimate of the FCS program not later than March 1, 2005.

The conferees continue to support FCS and believe that the Army has made a sound decision to restructure the FCS program. With this restructure, the Army will reduce FCS program risk while providing increased capabilities for the current force.

Collaborative program for research and development of vacuum electronics technologies (sec. 212)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 212) that would require the Secretary of Defense to establish a program for research and development in advanced vacuum electronics technology to meet Department of Defense requirements.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Director, Defense Research and Engineering to submit a report on establishment of a collaborative vacuum electronics research and development program that: identifies a department lead to carry out the effort; assesses the role of investing in vacuum electronics technologies as part of the overall strategy of the Department's investments to meet electronic technology needs; provides a management plan and schedule for the program; identifies required funding and a list of program capability goals and objectives; outlines the role of basic and applied research in support of the program; and assesses global capabilities in the technology area.

The conferees note that vacuum electronics are utilized in a variety of the Department's systems, particularly many legacy systems. While there is a trend toward solid state electronics in most defense systems, the Department must ensure that systems which depend on the use of vacuum electronics will have access to the most advanced technologies available.

Annual Comptroller General report on Joint Strike Fighter program (sec. 213)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 213) that would require the Comptroller General to conduct an annual review of the Joint Strike Fighter (JSF) aircraft program, and submit a report of that review to Congress by March 15 of each year from fiscal year 2005 through fiscal year 2009.

Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the annual report to be submitted to the congressional defense committees.

The conferees are aware of the recently conducted study by a senior independent review team on the JSF program, and believe that the first report submitted by March 15, 2005 should place emphasis on the degree to which the program office and contractor have incorporated the recommendations of that team.

Amounts for U.S. Joint Forces Command to be derived only from Defense-wide accounts (sec. 214)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 214) that would transfer funding for the joint warfare experimentation programs of U.S. Joint Forces Command (JFCOM) from Research, Development, Test and Evaluation (RDT&E), Navy accounts to an RDT&E, Defense-wide account.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 216).

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require, beginning in fiscal year 2007, all RDT&E funds for JFCOM be derived from Defense-wide RDT&E funds, and that this be clearly reflected in the budget request.

The conferees note that this provision does not take effect until fiscal year 2007. The conferees direct, however, that the amounts requested for JFCOM joint warfare experimentation programs be separately identified in the fiscal year 2006 budget request, and distinguished within any executive agent account in which they are included. The conferees also note that JFCOM is responsible for a number of critical efforts directly related to increasing the joint warfighting capability of the military services, and that funding those efforts through executive agents does not provide Congress with clear visibility into the amounts dedicated to those key joint initiatives. The practice of requesting funding through executive agents also distorts the amount of funding for military service activities that carry funding for joint initiatives. The conferees have strong interest not only in joint experimentation, which is addressed by this provision, but in JFCOM joint training initiatives as well. Therefore the conferees direct the Department of Defense, when submitting its fiscal year 2006 budget request, to clearly identify funding for joint training activities in Defense-wide and executive agent accounts to enhance congressional visibility into funding dedicated to joint training in future budgets.

The conferees further note the unique, important role that JFCOM plays in developing doctrine and capabilities for other combatant commanders, and in developing and monitoring joint training standards for elements of the Armed Forces and coalition partners. The conferees believe that the Department should consider the establishment of a major force program or similar consolidation of related budget activities for joint experimentation, procurement, and training activities.

Global Positioning System III satellite (sec. 215)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 212) that would prohibit the obligation or expenditure of any more than 80 percent of the funds authorized to be appropriated for the Global Positioning System III (GPS) until the Secretary of Defense completes an analysis of alternatives and submits a report on that analysis to the congressional defense committees.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees expect the analysis of alternatives to include an assessment of architectures that take advantage of smaller, lighter weight, and potentially less expensive GPS satellites.

Initiation of concept demonstration of Global Hawk high altitude endurance unmanned aerial vehicle (sec. 216)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 213) that would amend section 221(c) of the Floyd D. Spence National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2001 (Public Law 106-398) by changing the date by which the Secretary of Defense is to initiate the demonstration of the Global Hawk high altitude endurance unmanned aerial vehicle from March 1, 2001 to March 1, 2005.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Joint unmanned combat air systems program (sec. 217)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 214) that would require the Secretary of Defense to establish an executive committee, which would provide guidance and recommendations for the management of the joint unmanned combat air systems program to the Director of the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency (DARPA) for as long as the program is managed by DARPA.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Subtitle C—Missile Defense Programs

Fielding of ballistic missile defense capabilities (sec. 231)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 221) that would authorize the Department of Defense to use Research, Development, Test and Evaluation funds appropriated in fiscal years 2005 and 2006 for the Missile Defense Agency to develop and field ballistic missile defense capabilities.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 231) that would authorize the use of Research, Development, Test and Evaluation funds appropriated in fiscal year 2005 for the development and fielding of an initial set of missile defense capabilities.

The Senate recedes.

Integration of Patriot Advanced Capability-3 and Medium Extended Air Defense System into ballistic missile defense system (sec. 232)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 232) that would require the Secretary of the Army to obtain approval of the Director of the Missile Defense Agency (MDA) prior to making changes to system level specifications or establishing new system level specifications for the combined Patriot Advanced Capability-3 (PAC-3) and Medium Extended Air Defense System (MEADS) program. It would also require such approval prior to making any significant change in procurement quantities or the baseline schedule for the PAC-3/MEADS combined program.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would define the PAC-3/MEADS air and missile defense program as part of the integrated ballistic missile defense system (BMDS), and require that the Director of MDA, in consultation with the Secretary of the Army (acting through the Assistant Secretary of the Army for Acquisition, Logistics and Technology), ensure that any configuration change to the PAC-3/MEADS program is subject to MDA's configuration control processes. The amendment would also require that the Secretary of the Army (acting through the Assistant Secretary of the Army for Acquisition, Logistics and Technology) make significant changes to the baseline technical specifications and schedule for the PAC-3/MEADS program only with the concurrence of the Director of the Missile Defense Agency. The amendment would further require the Secretary of Defense to establish procedures to determine the effect of significant changes proposed by the Secretary of the Army to planned PAC 3/MEADS procurement quantities on BMDS capabilities; to provide for reviews of the proposed procurement changes by all relevant Department of Defense commands and agencies; to obtain the concurrence or nonconcurrence of those commands and agencies with the proposed procurement changes; and to submit a report to the congressional defense committees on the procedures the Secretary of Defense establishes.

Comptroller General assessments of ballistic missile defense programs (sec. 233)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 233) that would require assessments by the Comptroller General of the extent to which missile defense programs met their cost, schedule, test, and performance goals for the years 2004 through 2009. The provision also requires the Comptroller General to submit reports on those assessments to the congressional defense committees.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require assessments by the Comptroller General of the extent to which missile defense programs met their cost, schedule, test, and performance goals for the years 2004 through 2006.

Baselines and operational test and evaluation for ballistic missile defense system (sec. 234)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 234) that would require: 1) the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Director of Operational Test and Evaluation (DOT&E), to prepare appropriate criteria for operationally realistic testing of the ballistic missile defense system (BMDS); 2) the conduct of a test consistent with those criteria not later than October 1, 2005; 3) the conduct of tests consistent with those criteria for each block configuration of the BMDS; 4) evaluation of those tests by the DOT&E; 4) the establishment of baselines for each block configuration of the BMDS; and 5) the Director of the Missile Defense Agency to report variances in program performance from those baselines to Congress and the reasons for any changes made to the baselines.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Subtitle D—Other Matters

Annual report on submarine technology insertion (sec. 241)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 241) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit an annual report on available or potentially available technologies for insertion into submarines for each of fiscal years 2006, 2007, 2008, and 2009.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Sense of the Congress regarding funding of the Advanced Shipbuilding Enterprise under the National Shipbuilding Research Program of the Navy (sec. 212)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 242) that would express the sense of the Senate in support of continued funding for the Advanced Shipbuilding Enterprise under the National Shipbuilding Research Program of the Navy, citing it as a method for exploring and collaborating on innovation in shipbuilding and ship repair that collectively benefits all components of the industry.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would change the provision to a sense of the Congress.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Program increases

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 203) that would authorize an increase of $5.0 million in PE 25633N for Research, Development, Test and Evaluation, Navy, for nano composite hard-coat for aircraft canopies, and an increase of $5.0 million in PE 27443F for Research, Development, Test and Evaluation, Air Force, for command and control service-level management.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $2.3 million in PE 25633N for nano composite hard-coat for aircraft canopies, and an increase of $3.8 million in PE 27443F for command and control service-level management. DD(X)-class destroyer program.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 211) that would authorize the Secretary of the Navy to fund the second destroyer of the DD(X)-class with Research, Development, Test and Evaluation, Navy funds, and would direct that $99.4 million be authorized for detail design of the second ship.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees agree to authorize a total of $1,471.5 million in PE 64300N for the DD(X) destroyer, including $84.4 million to begin detail design of the second ship of the class.

The conferees have strongly supported both the DD(X) program and the Navy's acquisition strategy, which uses the construction and test of engineering development models (EDMs) to mitigate technical risk.

The conferees are aware of the assessment by the Government Accountability Office (GAO) of the maturity of 12 technologies critical to DD(X), as the program entered the system development and demonstration (SDD) phase, and the GAO's further assessment that DD(X) technology maturity and design stability will not be demonstrated before the Milestone B decision scheduled for March 2005. Many of the tests to demonstrate technical maturity will occur around the time of the critical design review (CDR) late in fiscal year 2005. Program officials acknowledge the risks associated with the advanced technologies, but the conferees believe that taking such risks is warranted to ensure that the DD(X) technologies are not obsolete, and that the Navy has taken adequate steps to mitigate the risks before ship construction begins. These steps include the identification of fall back options if new technologies are not available.

In particular, the conferees note the concerns expressed in the House report (H. Rept. 108-491) regarding the schedule for land-based testing of the integrated power system and advanced gun system EDMs. These two system EDMs are not scheduled to complete land-based testing until late in fiscal year 2005, coincident with the DD(X) CDR.

The conferees agree that the integrated power system and advanced gun system are key elements which drive much of the DD(X) design, and that land-based testing of these systems should be essentially complete prior to the DD(X) CDR. The conferees direct the Secretary of the Navy, in coordination with the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology and Logistics, to report to the congressional defense committees following completion of the DD(X) CDR. That report should include the results of the CDR and an assessment of the readiness of the program to proceed beyond the SDD phase of the program.

The conferees share the concerns raised in the Senate Report (S. Rept. 108-260) regarding maintaining the viability of a competitive industrial base for the design and construction of Navy surface combatants. As noted in that report, the Navy had originally planned to compete the construction phase of the DD(X), but made a decision to award that contract on a sole-source basis to the shipyard with lead design responsibility. The conferees expect the Navy to take all actions necessary to ensure the viability of the second shipyard in order to maintain a healthy and competitive industrial base for surface combatants.

Joint Strike Fighter aircraft program

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 215) that would require the Secretary of Defense to have the Defense Science Board (DSB) conduct a study of the Joint Strike Fighter (JSF) aircraft program, which would be delivered to the congressional defense committees with the budget request for fiscal year 2006. This study would focus primarily on the issue of excess weight in the aircraft, the potential performance penalties that would be incurred, and the technical approaches to solve these issues.

The House bill amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees have been made aware of the results of a recently completed study by a senior-level independent review team which reviewed almost identical areas of the JSF program, and believe another study by the DSB would be redundant at this time.

Space based radar

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 215) that would prohibit the Department of Defense from proceeding to Milestone B in the Space Based Radar program until 30 days after meeting a requirement to provide the congressional defense committees and intelligence committees a report that includes independent cost and technology maturity and readiness assessments and the system design concept for the program.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Mark-54 torpedo product improvement program

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 216) that would make available $2.0 million of the funds in PE 64610N for Research, Development, Test, and Evaluation, Navy for the Mark-54 torpedo product improvement program.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $1.5 million in PE 64610N for the Mark-54 torpedo product improvement program.

Infrastructure system security engineering development for the Navy

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 217) that would authorize an increase of $3.0 million in PE 26313M for Research, Development, Test and Evaluation, Navy, for infrastructure system security engineering development.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $1.5 million in PE 26313M for infrastructure system security engineering at the Critical Infrastructure Protection Center.

Neurotoxin Mitigation Research

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 218) that would authorize an increase of $2.0 million in PE 62384BP for Research, Development, Test and Evaluation, Defense-wide activities for neurotoxin mitigation research.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $1.0 million in PE 62384BP for neurotoxin mitigation research.

Spiral development of Joint Threat Warning System maritime variants

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 219) that would authorize an increase of $2.0 million in PE 116405BB for the development of maritime variants for the Joint Threat Warning System (JTWS), to be offset by a decrease of $2.0 million of the amount authorized to be appropriated for military personnel (sec. 421), with the amount of the reduction to be derived from excess amounts provided for military personnel of the Air Force.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $2.0 million in PE116405BB for spiral development of maritime variants for JTWS.

Advanced ferrite antenna

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 220) that would authorize an increase of $3.0 million in PE 26313M for Research, Development, Test, and Evaluation, Navy, for advanced ferrite antenna development.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $2.1 million in PE 26313M for advanced ferrite antenna development.

Prototype littoral array system for operating submarines

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 221) that would authorize an increase of $5.0 million in PE 64503N for Research, Development, Test and Evaluation, Navy for the design, development, and testing of a prototype littoral array system for operating submarines.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $3.3 million in PE 64503N for the design, development, and testing of a prototype littoral array system for operating submarines.

Advanced manufacturing technologies and radiation casualty research

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 222) that would authorize an increase of $2.0 million in PE 78011S for advanced manufacturing technologies and $3.0 million in PE 63002D8Z for radiation casualty research.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $4.5 million in PE 78011S for advanced manufacturing technologies.

Research and development for improved prevention of leishmaniasis

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 328) that would authorize an increase of $0.5 million in the Defense Health Program and $4.5 million in PE 64807A for research and development for improved prevention of leishmaniasis.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $0.5 million in the Defense Health Program, $1.4 million in PE 63002A, and $4.5 million in PE 64807A for research and development for the prevention and treatment of leishmaniasis.

TITLE III—OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE

Operation and Maintenance Overview

The budget request included an authorization of $121,874.6 million in Operation and Maintenance, $20,109.6 million in Other Programs, and $2,955.1 million in Working Capital Fund accounts for the Department for Defense.

The House bill would authorize $119,758.9 million in Operation and Maintenance, $20,229.8 million in Other Programs, and $2,767.1 million in Working Capital Fund accounts.

The Senate amendment would authorize $120,522.3 million in Operation and Maintenance, $20,529.0 million in Other Programs, and $2,894.9 million in Working Capital Fund accounts.

The conferees recommend an authorization of $121,520.2 million in Operation and Maintenance, $20,086.9 million in Other Programs, and $2,896.1 million in Working Capital Fund accounts. Unless noted explicitly in the statement of managers, all changes are made without prejudice.

ITEMS OF SPECIAL INTEREST

Navy Marine Corps Intranet

The conferees note that the Navy Marine Corps Intranet (NMCI) program is working to transfer legacy applications and networks into the NMCI environment. The conferees note that the scope of this process is large and the original goals relating to termination or migration of legacy applications have not been achieved. The conferees understand that there may be valid operational reasons for not migrating some legacy applications into the NMCI environment. The Secretary of the Navy should accelerate the migration or termination of legacy applications and networks, and the conferees direct the Secretary to report to the Congress on the progress in this area, as well as on a plan for the future funding of any legacy systems support by September 30, 2005. The conferees take no position on matters of NMCI contract administration and direct the Secretary to resolve any matters in contractual arrangements relating to legacy application termination, transition, and support in a manner consistent with established procedures and acquisition policies.

Transforming the Department of the Army's logistics maintenance information

The conferees support the Department of the Army's recent decision to allocate funds to reduce the cost, while increasing the speed of transforming its logistics maintenance information into modern and usable formats. The conferees urge the Army to continue these efforts as a means to improve maintenance support tools available to soldiers.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Subtitle A—Authorization of Appropriations

Authorization of appropriations (secs. 301-303)

The House bill contained provisions (sec. 301-303) that would authorize fiscal year 2005 funding levels for all operation and maintenance accounts, working capital funds, and other Department of Defense programs, including the Defense Inspector General, the Chemical Demilitarization Program, Drug Interdiction and Counter-Drug Activities, and the Defense Health Program.

The Senate amendment contained similar provisions (secs. 301-303).

The conference agreement includes these provisions.

Chemical Agents and Munitions Destruction, Defense (sec. 303b)

The budget request included $1,372.0 million in Chemical Agents and Munitions Destruction, Army for the Department of Defense.

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 303(b)) that would provide a total of $1,372.0 million in Chemical Agents and Munitions Destruction, Defense (CAMD,D) for the Department of Defense.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 303(b)) that would provide a total of $1,519.0 million for CAMD,D, including an increase of $147.0 million to restore the funding for the chemical demilitarization research and development program at the Pueblo Chemical Agent Disposal Facility, Pueblo, Colorado, to the original estimates developed by the Department's Cost Analysis Improvement Group, which were provided in the Future Years Defense Program submitted with the fiscal year 2004 budget request.

The House recedes with an amendment that would authorize $1,372.0 million for CAMD,D, as follows: $1,088.8 million for Operation and Maintenance; $204.2 million for Research and Development, (an increase of $50.0 million to the budget request to be used for the chemical demilitarization research and development program at Pueblo); and $79.0 million for Procurement.

Elsewhere in this report the conferees recommend an authorization of $81.9 million for military construction for the Chemical Agents and Munitions Destruction program.

The conferees note the reduction in the fiscal year 2005 budget request from the fiscal year budget estimate for the chemical demilitarization program, particularly for the Pueblo facility, and concerns raised in the Senate report accompanying S.2400 (S. Rept. 108-260) regarding the need to provide sufficient funding in the program for the United States to meet its obligations under the Chemical Weapons Convention. The conferees also note the views expressed in the House report accompanying H.R. 4200 (H. Rept. 108-491) that the United States proceed as rapidly as possible in destroying the stockpile of bulk VX nerve agent stored at Newport Chemical Depot, Indiana, in order to ensure maximum safety and to meet international treaty commitments, while proceeding objectively and deliberately in ensuring that the disposal of the hydrolysate hazardous waste, which results from neutralization of the VX agent, in a commercial hazardous water treatment facility does not compromise the public health and safety of the citizens or the environment near such a facility.

Elsewhere in this report the conferees have recommended a provision that would require the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology and Logistics and the Secretary of the Army to jointly prepare and annually update a strategic report for future activities and funding of the chemical demilitarization program.

Section 1421 of the Department of Defense Authorization Act, 1986 (section 1521 of title 50, United States Code, Public Law 99-145) requires that funds for the chemical demilitarization program, including those for military construction, shall be set forth in the budget of the Department for any fiscal year as a separate account and shall not be included in the budget accounts for any military department. Section 141 of the National Defense Authorization Act for fiscal year 2003 (Public Law 107-314) requires that the Under Secretary of Defense (Comptroller) annually certify to the congressional defense committees that the budget request for the chemical agents and munition destruction program has been submitted in accordance with the requirements of section 1421. The Department submitted the fiscal year 2005 budget request for chemical demilitarization in an Army account, contrary to the law. The conferees expect the Department to comply with the law in future budget requests by submitting the budget request for chemical agents and munitions destruction in a Department of Defense account.

Subtitle B—Environmental Provisions

Satisfaction of Superfund audit requirements by the Inspector General of the Department of Defense (sec. 311)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 323) that would allow the Inspector General of the Department of Defense the discretion to audit Superfund financial transactions on a periodic basis.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

The conferees expect that a periodic review would result in an audit at least every three years.

Reimbursement of Environmental Protection Agency for certain costs in connection with Moses Lake Wellfield Superfund Site, Moses Lake, Washington (sec. 312)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 322) that would provide discretionary authority to the Secretary of Defense to transfer not more than $524,927 to the Moses Lake Wellfield Superfund Site (Moses Lake), 10-6J Special Account, formerly the home of Larson Air Force Base. This payment would be for reimbursement to the Environmental Protection Agency for costs and interest incurred to perform a remedial investigation and feasibility study at Moses Lake, where the groundwater is apparently contaminated with trichloroethylene.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Increase in authorized amount of environmental remediation, Front Royal, Virginia (sec. 313)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 325) that would amend section 591(a)(2) of the Water Resources Development Act of 1999 (Public Law 106-53) by increasing the authorized level by $10.0 million for environmental remediation in Front Royal, Virginia.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Small Boat Harbor, Unalaska, Alaska (sec. 314)

The conferees agree to include a provision that requires the Secretary of the Army to carry out the small boat harbor project in Unalaska, Alaska. The conferees note that the total estimated cost is $23.2 million, with an estimated federal cost of $11.5 million and an estimated non-federal cost of $11.7 million. The project shall be carried out in accordance with the plans and subject to the conditions recommended in a final report of the Chief of Engineers, if a favorable final report of the Chief for the project is completed not later than December 31, 2004.

Report regarding encroachment issues affecting Utah Test and Training Range, Utah (sec. 315)

The House bill included a provision (sec. 311) that would require the Secretary of the Air Force to submit a report to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives that outlines current and anticipated encroachments on the use of the special use airspace of the Utah Test and Training Range (UTTR). The Senate amendment included a similar provision (sec. 329). The Senate amendment also confirmed a prohibition on ground military operations in the covered wilderness study area within UTTR. The Senate amendment further clarified that nothing in the provision would prevent required maintenance of existing communications, instrumentation, or electronic tracking systems necessary for effective testing and training to meet military requirements in UTTR.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Comptroller General Study and report on Alternative Technologies to decontaminate groundwater at Department of Defense installations (sec. 316)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 326) which would require the Comptroller General of the United States to conduct a study to determine whether or not cost-effective technologies are available to the Department of Defense for the cleanup of groundwater contamination at Department installations in lieu of traditional methods.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment clarifying the scope of the study.

Comptroller General study and report on drinking water contamination and related health effects at Camp Lejeune, North Carolina (sec. 317)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 324) that would require the Comptroller General of the U.S. to conduct a study of the history of drinking water contamination at the United States Marine Corps (USMC) base at Camp Lejeune, North Carolina.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment clarifying the scope of the study.

Sense of Congress regarding perchlorate contamination of ground and surface water from Department of Defense activities (sec. 318)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 327) that would express the sense of the Senate that the Department of Defense should develop a national plan to remediate perchlorate contamination specifically to: (1) ensure the Department is prepared to respond quickly and appropriately once a drinking water standard is established; (2) continue remediation at those sites where perchlorate contamination poses an imminent and substantial endangerment to public health; (3) develop a plan to remediate perchlorate contamination in cases in which such contamination from the Department's activities is present in ground or surface water at levels the Department determines pose a hazard to human health; and (4) continue the process of evaluating and prioritizing sites without waiting for the development of a federal standard.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment clarifying the scope of the sense of the Congress.

Subtitle C-Workplace and Depot Issues

Simplification of annual reporting requirements concerning funds expended for depot maintenance and repair workloads (sec. 321)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 321) that would amend section 2466(d) of title 10, United States Code, to require the Secretary of Defense to submit to Congress a report on the percentage of funds expended or expected to be expended for depot maintenance and repair workloads in the public and private sectors.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (section 331) that would simplify and improve the two separate annual reports required by section 2466(d) of title 10, United States Code, that the Department of Defense prepares relating to the percentage of funds expended or projected to be expended for depot maintenance and repair workloads in the public and private sectors.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Repeal of annual reporting requirement concerning management of depot employees (sec. 322)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 322) that would repeal section 2472(b) of title 10, United States Code, which currently requires the Secretary of Defense to report annually to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives the number of Department of Defense employees employed and expected to be employed during that fiscal year to perform depot level maintenance and repair of materiel.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 332).

The Senate recedes.

Extension of special treatment for certain expenditures incurred in the operation of Centers of Industrial and Technical Excellence (sec. 323)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 333) that would extend for three years section 2474(f) of title 10, United States Code. Section 2474(f) excludes all work performed by non-federal personnel at designated Centers of Industrial and Technical Excellence from the 50 percent limitation on contracting for depot maintenance in section 2466(a) of title 10, United States Code, if the personnel are performing the work pursuant to a public-private partnership.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Temporary authority for contractor performance of security-guard functions (sec. 324)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 362) that would extend for two years the authority granted in section 332 of the Bob Stump National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2003 (Public Law 107-314) to hire contract security guards on a temporary basis to fill positions that would otherwise be filled by members of the Armed Forces.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a report on the use of this authority no later than December 1, 2005.

Pilot program for purchase of certain municipal services for Army installation (sec. 325)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 363) that would authorize a pilot program under which the secretary of a military department could provide for the purchase of local governmental services at a Department of Defense installation from the local government responsible for serving the area.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would limit the pilot program to two Department of Army installations located in the United States.

Bid protests by federal employees in actions under Office of Management and Budget Circular A-76 (sec. 326)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 325) that would express the sense of Congress that Department of Defense civilian employees (or their representatives) and contractors (or their representatives) should receive comparable treatment regarding legal standing to challenge the way in which a public-private competition has been conducted before the Government Accountability Office (GAO) or in the U.S. Court of Federal Claims.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1107) that would provide such legal standing, in GAO bid protests only, to both: (1) the official who submits an agency tender in a public-private competition (the Agency Tender Official (ATO)); and (2) a person representing a majority of the employees of the federal agency who are engaged in the performance of the activity or function that is subject to the competition. The Senate amendment also authorized the ATO or a person representing a majority of the employees to intervene in protests filed in the U.S. Court of Federal Claims.

The House recedes with an amendment providing the ATO legal standing in GAO bid protests of public-private competitions for functions performed by more than 65 full-time federal employees.

Under the conference agreement, the ATO would be required to file a protest at the request of a majority of the employees of the federal agency who are engaged in the performance of the activity or function that is subject to the competition unless the ATO determines that there is no reasonable basis for the protest. A determination by the ATO would not be subject to judicial or administrative appeal, but would be reported to the congressional defense committees. A person representing a majority of the employees would not have standing to file a protest, but would have the right to intervene in a protest filed by an interested party, including the ATO. The conference agreement would not address protests that are filed in the United States Court of Federal Claims.

Limitations on conversion of work performed by Department of Defense civilian employees to contractor performance (sec. 327)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 323) that would: (1) codify the prohibition on converting an activity or function to private sector performance unless the conversion would result in savings of at least 10 percent or $10.0 million; (2) prohibit the Department from breaking up a function to avoid applicable thresholds for conducting a public competition; (3) ensure that a public competitor is not disadvantaged by the offer of a private competitor to reduce costs by reducing health care benefits for its employees; and (4) require the Department to conduct a competition, including an agency tender, a most efficient organization plan, and a formal cost comparison for any function performed by 10 or more civilian employees.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 851).

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would: (1) codify the prohibition on converting an activity or function to private sector performance unless the conversion would result in savings of at least 10 percent or $10.0 million when conducting a public-private competition under OMB circular A-76 dated May 29, 2003; and (2) prohibit the Department of Defense from breaking up a function to avoid applicable thresholds for conducting a public-private competition under A-76 Circular A-76, May 29, 2003.

The conferees agree to exclude the pilot program for best-value source selection authorized by section 336 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004 (Public Law 103-136) from the requirement to apply a price differential of 10 percent or $10.0 million. The conferees expect the Secretary of Defense to utilize the price differential in the cost or price component of an evaluation under the pilot program, but understand that cost or price alone is not determinative in a best value competition.

The conferees note that the Department of Defense Appropriations Act for Fiscal Year 2005 (Public Law 108-257) includes a provision that would require the Department to ensure, in fiscal year 2005, that a public competitor is not disadvantaged by the offer of a private competitor to reduce costs by reducing health care benefits for its employees and that the Department must conduct a competition, including an agency tender, a most efficient organization plan, and a formal cost comparison for any function performed by 10 or more civilian employees.

The conferees direct the Comptroller General to review the implementation and impact of the Appropriations provision with regard to health care costs and competition of small agency functions. The Comptroller General's review should also address the full range of benefits provided by public and private sector employers, the manner in which these benefits are considered in a public-private competition, the impact of any benefit changes on employees who transition to private sector employment as a result of a public-private competition, and steps that could be taken to ameliorate any adverse impact of such a transition.

The conferees direct the Comptroller General to provide a preliminary report on this review to the congressional defense committees by no later than May 1, 2005, and a final report by no later than three months after the end of fiscal year 2005.

Competitive sourcing reporting requirement (sec. 328)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 326) that would require the Inspector General of the Department of Defense to submit to Congress a report addressing whether the Department has implemented a comprehensive and reliable system to track and assess the results of public-private competitions. The House provision would establish a number of specific elements to be addressed in the tracking system.

The Senate amendment contained a compatible provision (sec. 853). The Senate provision would not establish the specific reporting elements to be addressed in the tracking system.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that section 354 of the Floyd D. Spence National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2001 (Public Law 106-398) and section 385 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998 (Public Law 105-85) required the Department to maintain a system for tracking the results of public-private competitions and established the specific elements to be addressed in the tracking system.

Subtitle D—Information Technology

Preparation of Department of Defense plan for transition to Internet Protocol version 6 (sec. 331)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 331) that would require the Secretary of Defense to prepare a transition plan to evaluate how the Department of Defense's information technology systems may be affected by the Department's decision to transition from the current protocols to Internet Protocol version 6 (IPv6). The provision would also direct the Secretary to conduct and manage tests of IPv6 and the global information grid to ensure the needs of the warfighter will continue to be met.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary to include cost estimates in the IPv6 transition plan.

The conferees expect that any testing will be performed under the direction and review of the Director of Operational Test and Evaluation, who shall identify the most appropriate facilities and organizations to perform the testing. The conferees direct the Director to provide an update on the ongoing test program and test results no later than September 30, 2005.

Defense business enterprise architecture, system accountability, and conditions for obligation of funds for defense business system modernization (sec. 332)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 332) that would require the Department of Defense to develop a comprehensive architecture for all business systems of the Department. The provision would also prohibit significant investments in new business systems or upgrades to existing business systems that would be inconsistent with the new architecture.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1004).

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would: (1) clarify the criteria for approving business system modernization expenditures; (2) provide that a covered expenditure for a business system that has not been approved is a violation of the Anti-Deficiency Act (31 U.S.C., section 1341); (3) provide additional detail on the composition of the enterprise architecture and transition plan; (4) clarify that domain managers have responsibility for the review, approval, and oversight of defense business system acquisition and operation, but not for the execution of such requirements; (5) clarify the budget justification material to be provided by the Secretary of Defense in support of the President's budget; (6) require the Secretary to appoint a Vice Chairman of the Defense Business System Management Committee; (7) clarify the responsibilities of the Committee; and (8) require the Comptroller General to assess the Department's compliance with the requirements of the provision.

Report on maturity and effectiveness of the Global Information Grid Bandwidth Expansion (GIG BE) (sec. 333)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 142) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the congressional defense committees on a test program to demonstrate the maturity and effectiveness of the Global Information Grid-Bandwidth Expansion (GIG BE).

The House bill amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Subtitle E—Extensions of Program Authorities

Two-year extension of Department of Defense telecommunications benefit (sec. 341)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 341) that would extend until September 30, 2006 the Department of Defense telecommunications benefit authorized in section 344 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004 (Public Law 108-136).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees are concerned that the Department has not competitively awarded a contract under this section, relying instead on an existing contract. The conferees expect that the Secretary of Defense will, as soon as possible, award a contract to a commercial firm for the purposes of this provision through competitive procedures.

Extension of Arsenal Support Program Initiative (sec. 342)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 351) that would amend Section 343 of the Floyd D. Spence National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2001 (Public Law 106-398), to authorize the Secretary of the Army to extend the Arsenal Support Initiative Program through fiscal year 2008. This section would also require the Secretary to report to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives by March 1, 2007, the benefits of the program, the extent to which the program met its goals, and whether the program should be made permanent.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 342) that would extend the Arsenal Support Program Initiative through the end of fiscal year 2006.

The Senate recedes.

Two-year extension of warranty claims recovery pilot program (sec. 343)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 343) that would extend, through September 30, 2006, the warranty claims recovery pilot program authorized in section 391 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998 (Public Law 105-85).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a report on the commercial use of warranty recovery services, and to determine whether the pilot should be made permanent or extended beyond 2006.

Subtitle F—Other Matters

Reimbursement for certain protective, safety, or health equipment purchased by or for members of the Armed Forces deployed in contingency operations (sec. 351)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 304) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to reimburse service members who purchased protective body armor for use while deployed in connection with Operation Noble Eagle, Operation Enduring Freedom, or Operation Iraqi Freedom, if the service member did not receive the protective body armor before engaging in such operations where such body armor might be necessary. Reimbursement would be available to service members who purchased the body armor between September 1, 2003 and December 31, 2003.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1072) that would direct the Secretary to reimburse service members, a relative of the service member, a nonprofit organization, or a community group, who purchased any protective, safety, or health equipment for use by such service member while deployed in connection with Operation Noble Eagle, Operation Enduring Freedom, or Operation Iraqi Freedom, provided that the unit commander of the service member certifies that such equipment was critical to the protection, safety, or health of the service member. The provision also stated that the type of protective, safety, or health equipment would include personal body armor, collective armor or protective equipment (including armor or protective equipment for high mobility multi-purpose wheeled vehicles), and items provided through the Rapid Fielding Initiative of the Army such as the advanced (on-the-move) hydration system, the advanced combat helmet, the close combat optics system, a Global Positioning System (GPS) receiver, and a solder intercommunication device. Non-military equipment would be treated as protective, safety, and health equipment only if such equipment provides protection, safety, or health benefits, as the case may be, such as would be provided by equipment meeting military specifications. Reimbursement would be available for armor or protective equipment purchased for high mobility multi-purpose wheeled vehicles between September 11, 2001 and July 31, 2004, and for any other protective, safety, and health equipment purchased between September 11, 2001 and December 31, 2003 or any date thereafter as determined by the Secretary. The provision would further establish a limit on the amount of reimbursement, and provide authority for the Secretary to assume title or ownership of any protective, safety, or health equipment for which a service member was reimbursed.

The House recedes with an amendment that would direct the Secretary to reimburse service members who purchased, or had another person purchase on their behalf, any protective, safety, or health equipment for use while deployed in connection with Operation Noble Eagle, Operation Enduring Freedom, or Operation Iraqi Freedom, provided that: (1) the Secretary certifies that the equipment was critical to the protection, safety, and health of the service member; (2) the equipment was not issued to the service member before the service member was on duty in an area in which the service member was in imminent danger of being exposed to hostile fire; and (3) the equipment was purchased between September 11, 2001 and July 31, 2004. The amendment would also limit the amount of reimbursement to $1,100 per item, establish a one-year period for the submission of claims for reimbursement, and direct the Secretary to establish rules not later than 120 days after date of enactment of this Act to expedite reimbursements, to include addressing circumstances under which the United States will assume title or ownership of any protective, safety, or health equipment for which a service member was reimbursed.

The conferees direct the Secretary to consult with the appropriate chain of command to ensure all criteria for reimbursement are attained. The conferees also note that the type of protective, safety, or health equipment for which a reimbursement is made may include personal body armor, collective armor or protective equipment (including armor or protective equipment for high mobility multi-purpose wheeled vehicles), and items provided through the Rapid Fielding Initiative of the Army such as the advanced (on-the-move) hydration system, the advanced combat helmet, the close combat optics system, a Global Positioning System (GPS) receiver, and a solder intercommunication device. Non-military equipment for which a reimbursement could be made should be treated as protective, safety, and health equipment only if such equipment provides protection, safety, or health benefits, as the case may be, such as would be provided by equipment meeting military specifications.

Limitation on preparation or implementation of Mid-Range Financial Improvement Plan pending report (sec. 352)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 352) that would prohibit the Secretary of Defense from obligating operation and maintenance funds to implement the Mid-Range Financial Improvement Plan until the Secretary provides to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives an explanation of how the operation and maintenance funds are to be utilized in fiscal year 2005 and the estimated cost for this plan in future years.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would also require the Secretary to provide a written determination that the Department has developed an enterprise architecture and transition plan for its business systems that meets the requirements of section 2222 of title 10, United States Code (as added by section 332.

Pilot program to authorize Army working-capital funded facilities to engage in cooperative activities with non-Army entities (sec. 353)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 364) that would authorize Army industrial activities that operate under the working capital fund to enter into public-private partnerships with non-Army entities, and allow the proceeds to be retained by the entity engaged in the partnership.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would authorize such contracts or cooperative arrangements, but would not direct that the facility involved retain the proceeds.

Transfer of excess Department of Defense personal property to assist firefighting agencies (sec. 354)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1079) that would amend section 2576b of title 10, United States Code, to modify the recipients of the Department of Defense excess personal property to assist rural firefighting agencies. The provision would require the Secretary of Defense to enter into an agreement with the Secretary of Agriculture to facilitate the reutilization of the Department's excess personal property by firefighting agencies in rural areas. The agreement between the Secretary of Defense and Secretary of Agriculture would include a prohibition on the transfer of the Department's aircraft until the end of a one-year period beginning on the date that the Secretary of Agriculture submits a report to the House Committee on Agriculture, the Senate Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition and Forestry, and the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives on the measures taken by the U.S. Forest Service in response to National Transportation Safety Board Recommendations A 04 29 through A 04 33. The provision would also require that personal property being transferred for reutilization by firefighting agencies in rural areas be afforded a property disposal priority at least equal to the priority given to the military departments and other entities within the United States.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would amend section 2576b of title 10, United States Code, to direct the Secretary of Defense to transfer to a firefighting agency in a State any personal property of the Department that the Secretary determines is excess to the needs of the Department and suitable for use in providing fire and emergency medical services, including personal protective equipment and equipment for communications and monitoring.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Amount for One Source military counseling and referral hotline

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 304) that would authorize an increase of $5.0 million for the Department of Defense One Source counseling and referral hotline.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Reduction in authorization for Air Force operations and maintenance

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 305) that would reduce the amount authorized to be appropriated to the Air Force by $10.0 million, to be derived from the transportation working capital fund.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Family Readiness Program of the National Guard

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 313) that would increase the amount authorized to be appropriated in Operation and Maintenance, Army by $10.0 million for the Family Readiness Program of the National Guard.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Payment of certain private cleanup costs in connection with Defense Environmental Restoration Program

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 321) that would allow the Secretary of Defense to execute environmental restoration agreements with owners of covenant properties.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Public-private competition pilot program

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 324) that would require the Secretary of Defense to establish a pilot program to examine the use of public-private competition process on new requirements and functions currently being performed by contractors that could be performed by civilian employees. Under the pilot program, the Secretary would be required to allow civilian employees to compete through the standard competitive process of Office of Management and Budget Circular A-76 for: (1) approximately one-tenth of the new requirements of the Department of Defense; and (2) functions currently being performed by a number of contractor employees that is approximately one-tenth of the number of civilian employees subject to public-private competition during the same period.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 852) that would require the Secretary to prescribe guidelines and procedures for ensuring that fair consideration is given to using federal government employees to perform new work and functions that are currently performed by contractors. The provision would provide that no public-private competition may be required before assigning government employees to perform new work or work that was previously performed by contractors.

The conference report does not include either provision.

The conferees believe that the Department's workforce of civilian employees is an important resource that the Department should fully utilize. The National Security Personnel System gives the Secretary broad authority to hire new civilian employees and to develop new competencies within the Department's civilian workforce. The conferees believe that Department of Defense managers must have flexibility not only to assign work to civilian employees, but also to build and structure the civilian workforce to perform appropriate tasks, free of artificial or unneeded regulatory constraints.

The conferees direct the Secretary to work with the Director of the Office of Management and Budget and other appropriate officials to ensure that the Department has the flexibility that it needs to assign work to its civilian workforce and to build needed capabilities in that workforce.

Establishment of joint program office to improve interoperability of battlefield management command and control systems

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 333) that would establish a joint program office to improve interoperability of battlefield management command and control systems.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that the Department of Defense has struggled for many years to develop and field command, control, communications, computers, and intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance systems that interoperate effectively across all of the military services and with coalition forces. The conferees note that there are a number of current efforts throughout the Department to develop portions of a "Family of Interoperable Operating Pictures", including the Single Integrated Air Picture, the Single Integrated Ground Picture, the Single Integrated Maritime Picture, the Special Operations Forces Picture, and the Single Integrated Space Picture. The conferees are concerned that without proper management, oversight, and coordination, as well as a single over-arching architecture that controls all systems, these efforts could become redundant and wasteful, and lack the interoperability required to effectively support joint warfighting missions.

Therefore, the conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to provide to the congressional defense committees a report no later than March 15, 2005 that identifies all funds for research and procurement activities related to the development of joint battlefield management command and control systems in the Department.

This report shall also include baselines for the Family of Interoperable Pictures, including a baseline for the Single Integrated Air Picture, the Single Integrated Ground Picture, the Single Integrated Maritime Picture, the Special Operations Forces Picture, and the Single Integrated Space Picture. The baselines shall be consistent with those required for major defense acquisition programs under Department regulations, and shall include a description of the overall systems architecture, specific milestones and performance measures for each developmental block, the schedule for achieving those performance goals, the estimated total and annual costs to meet that schedule, and a description of the management approach being used to achieve program goals.

Procurement of follow-on contracts for the operation of five Champion-class T-5 tank vessels

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 353) that would direct the Secretary of the Navy to consider proposals for the follow-on Department of the Navy contracts to operate five Champion-class T-5 tank vessels only from an entity that is a citizen under section 2 of the Shipping Act, 1916 (46 App. U.S.C. 802).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Expansion of Department of Defense excess personal property disposal program to include health agencies

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1080) that would amend section 2576b of title 10, United States Code, to authorize the Secretary of Defense to expand the Department of Defense excess personal property program to include State health agencies.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

TITLE IV—MILITARY PERSONNEL AUTHORIZATIONS

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Subtitle A—Active Forces

End strengths for active forces (sec. 401)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 401) that would authorize the following end strengths for active forces as of September 30, 2005: Army, 482,400; Navy, 365,900; Marine Corps, 175,000; and Air Force, 359,700.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 401) that would authorize an active-duty end strength for the Army of 502,400, subject to the condition that costs of active-duty personnel of the Army in excess of 482,400 shall be paid out of funds authorized to be appropriated for fiscal year 2005 for a contingent emergency reserve fund or as an emergency supplemental appropriation.

The House recedes with an amendment that would authorize an end strength of 178,000 for the Marine Corps subject to the condition that costs in excess of 175,000 active-duty Marines shall be paid out of funds authorized to be appropriated for fiscal year 2005 for a contingent emergency reserve fund or as an emergency supplemental appropriation.

The conferees recommend end strength levels for active forces for fiscal year 2005 as set forth in the following table:

Service	FY 2004 authorized	FY 2005		Change from
		Request	Conferee recommendation	FY 2005 request	FY 2004 authorized
Army	482,400	482,400	502,400	20,000	20,000
Navy	373,800	365,900	365,900	0	−7,900
Marine Corps	175,000	175,000	178,000	3,000	3,000
Air Force	359,300	359,700	359,700	0	400
DoD Total	1,390,500	1,383,000	1,406,000	23,000	15,500

Revision in permanent active duty end strength minimum levels (sec. 402)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 402) that would establish new minimum active-duty end strengths for the Navy of 365,900 and Air Force of 359,700 as of October 1, 2004.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would establish new minimum active-duty end strengths for the Army of 502,400 and the Marine Corps of 178,000.

Additional authority for increases of Army and Marine Corps active duty personnel end strengths for fiscal years 2005 through 2009 (sec. 403)

The House bill contained provisions (sec. 1531 and 1532) that would increase the active Army and Marine Corps end strength authorized for fiscal year 2005 by 10,000 and 3,000 respectively above the authorization in section 401 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004. These provisions would also authorize corresponding active-duty Army and Marine Corps end strengths for fiscal years 2006 and 2007 and prescribe corresponding minimum end strengths under section 691(b) of title 10, United States Code.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 402) that would authorize a temporary increase in the Army's active-duty end strength of up to 30,000 during fiscal years 2005 through 2009. The provision would require that if the Secretary of Defense plans to increase the Army active-duty end strength above the levels authorized for fiscal year 2004, then the budget for the Department for such fiscal years as submitted to Congress shall specify the amounts necessary for funding the active duty end strength of the Army in excess of 482,400.

The House recedes with an amendment that would authorize a temporary increase in the Marine Corps' active-duty end strength of up to 9,000 over 175,000, the level set forth in section 401 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004 during fiscal years 2005 through 2009. The amendment would also require that if the Secretary of Defense plans to increase the Army or Marine Corps active-duty end strength for a fiscal year, then the budget for the Department for such fiscal years as submitted to Congress shall specify the amounts necessary for funding the active duty end strength of the Army or Marine Corps in excess of 482,400 and 175,000 respectively.

Exclusion of service academy permanent and career professors from a limitation on certain officer grade strengths (sec. 404)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 403) that would amend section 523(b) of title 10, United States Code, to exclude up to 50 permanent professors at both the U.S. Military Academy and U.S. Air Force Academy, and up to 50 career military professors at the U.S. Naval Academy from the determination of authorized strengths in prescribed officer grades.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Subtitle B—Reserve Forces

End strengths for Selected Reserve (sec. 411)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 411) that would authorize the following end strengths for Selected Reserve personnel, including the end strengths for Reserves on active duty in support of the Reserves as of September 30, 2005: the Army National Guard of the United States, 350,000; the Army Reserve, 205,000; the Naval Reserve, 83,400; the Marine Corps Reserve, 39,600; the Air National Guard of the United States, 106,800; the Air Force Reserve, 76,100; and the Coast Guard Reserve, 10,000.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 411).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

The conferees recommend end strength levels for the Selected Reserve for fiscal year 2005 as set forth in the following table:

Service	FY 2004 authorized	FY 2005		Change from
		Request	Conferee recommendation	FY 2005 request	FY 2004 authorized
Army National Guard	350,000	350,000	350,000	0	0
Army Reserve	205,000	205,000	205,000	0	0
Naval Reserve	85,900	83,400	83,400	0	−2,500
Marine Corps Reserve	39,600	39,600	39,600	0	0
Air National Guard	107,030	106,800	106,800	0	−230
Air Force Reserve	75,800	76,100	76,100	0	300
DoD Total	863,330	860,900	860,900	0	−2,430
Coast Guard Reserve	10,000	10,000	10,000	0	0

End strengths for Reserves on active duty in support of the Reserves (sec. 412)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 412) that would authorize the following end strengths for Reserves on active duty in support of the Reserves as of September 30, 2005: the Army National Guard of the United States, 26,476; the Army Reserve, 14,970; the Naval Reserve, 14,152; the Marine Corps Reserve, 2,261; the Air National Guard of the United States, 12,225; and the Air Force Reserve, 1,900.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 412) that would authorize end strengths of 26,602 for the Army National Guard, 12,253 for the Air National Guard, and identical end strengths for the other services.

The House recedes.

The conferees recommend end strength levels for Reserves on active duty in support of the Reserves as set forth in the following table:

Service	FY 2004 authorized	FY 2005		Change from
		Request	Conferee recommendation	FY 2005 request	FY 2004 authorized
Army National Guard	25,599	26,476	26,602	126	1003
Army Reserve	14,374	14,970	14,970	0	596
Naval Reserve	14,384	14,152	14,152	0	−232
Marine Corps Reserve	2,261	2,261	2,261	0	0
Air National Guard	12,191	12,225	12,263	28	62
Air Force Reserve	1,660	1,900	1,900	0	240

End strengths for military technicians (dual status) (sec. 413)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 413) that would authorize the following end strengths for military technicians (dual status) as of September 30, 2005: the Army National Guard of the United States, 25,076; the Army Reserve, 7,299; the Air National Guard of the United States, 22,956; and the Air Force Reserve, 9,954.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 413).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

The conferees recommend end strength levels for military technicians (dual status) as set forth in the following table:

Service	FY 2004 authorized	FY 2005		Change from
		Request	Conferee recommendation	FY 2005 request	FY 2004 authorized
Army National Guard	24,589	25,076	25,076	0	487
Army Reserve	6,949	7,299	7,299	0	350
Air National Guard	22,806	22,956	22,956	0	150
Air Force Reserve	9,991	9,954	9,954	0	−37
DoD Total	64,335	65,285	65,285	0	950

Fiscal year 2005 limitation on number of non-dual status technicians (sec. 414)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 414) that would establish the maximum end strengths for the Reserve components of the Army and Air Force for non-dual status technicians as of September 30, 2005.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 414).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Maximum number of Reserve personnel authorized to be on active duty for operational support (sec. 415)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 403) that would authorize the maximum number of Reserve component personnel who may be on active duty or full-time National Guard duty under section 115(b) of title 10, United States Code, during fiscal year 2005 to provide operational support.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees recommend maximum levels by service for Reserve component personnel on full-time, active duty who are providing operational support as set forth in the following table:

Service	FY 2005 conference recommendation
Army National Guard	10,300
Army Reserve	5,000
Naval Reserve	6,200
Marine Corps Reserve	2,500
Air National Guard	10,100
Air Force Reserve	3,600
DoD Total	37,700

Accounting and management of Reserve component personnel performing active duty or full-time National Guard duty for operational support (sec. 416)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 404) that would establish the requirement for an annual congressional authorization of the maximum number of Reserve component personnel to be on active duty or full-time National Guard duty providing operational support. This provision would eliminate the current 180-day strength accounting metric that requires all reservists on active duty beyond that limit to count against Active component end strengths. In its place, the section would authorize Reserve component members who are voluntarily on active duty for up to three years, or a cumulative three years over a four-year period, to not be counted against Active component end strengths. The section would also exempt Reserve component personnel, authorized by this section, from certain officer and enlisted grade limits.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a technical amendment.

Subtitle C—Authorization of Appropriations

Military personnel (sec. 421)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 421) that would authorize a total of $104,647.6 million for military personnel for the Department of Defense in fiscal year 2005.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 421) that would authorize a total of $104,535.5 million for military personnel for the Department of Defense in fiscal year 2005. The Senate amendment also contained $57.5 million in military personnel reductions in other titles of the amendment that were not reflected in the total contained in section 421. Therefore, the net amount authorized to be appropriated to the Department by the Senate amendment was $104,478.0 millions.

The House recedes with an amendment that would authorize $106,543.0 million for military personnel for the Department of Defense in fiscal year 2005, an increase of $1,731.4 million above the budget request.

The conferees note that in addition to the amounts shown below, $1,250.0 million was made available in title XV of this act for the additional costs of military personnel associated with ongoing operations in Iraq and Afghanistan. The conferees provide the following itemization of the increases from the budget request related to the military personnel accounts:

[Additions in millions]

Add AGR strength for WMD-CST teams	$ 14.7
Imminent Danger Pay	92.5
Family Separation Allowance	135.0
Eliminate SBP-Social Security Offset (Accrual Payment)	439.0
Enhanced Reserve Education Benefit (Accrual Payment)	222.0
Additional military personnel costs	828.2
Total	$1,731.4

Armed Forces Retirement Home (sec. 422)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 422) that would authorize $61.2 million to be appropriated for the operation of the Armed Forces Retirement Home during fiscal year 2005.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 422).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

TITLE V—MILITARY PERSONNEL POLICY

Items of Special Interest

Space cadre

The conferees appreciate the submission by the Secretary of Defense of the human capital resources strategy for space personnel, as required in section 547 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004 (Public Law 108–87). The conferees note, however, that the strategy lacks a detailed implementation plan and direct the Secretary to develop such an implementation plan. The conferees further direct the Secretary of Defense to submit this plan and the Secretary of the Air Force to submit the detailed career planning guidance for the Air Force space cadre, consistent with direction in the Senate report accompanying S. 2400 (S. Rept. 108–260).

The conferees believe that a comprehensive view of the military space community must also consider competencies and skills embodied in academia and industry. These institutions have valuable tools, expertise, and a skill base that contribute to the military space community, as well as unique organizational cultures with which the military space cadre must interact. The conferees are concerned that the human capital resources strategy lacks breadth and depth with respect to the relationship of academia and industry to the development, education, and training of the space cadre.

The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to provide the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives an interim report by March 15, 2005, and a full report concurrent with the Department of Defense fiscal year 2007 budget submission that: (1) assess the ability in academia, industry, and government to educate and train a community of space professionals, and (2) recommend corrective actions to address any shortfalls identified in these education and training activities. The reports should also address the definition and development of key competencies and skill levels in the areas of systems engineering, program management, financial management, operations and tactics, and any other areas deemed necessary by the Secretary of Defense as they relate to military space systems.

Time for holding grade of general, admiral, lieutenant general, or vice admiral

The conferees are aware of the legislative proposal affecting senior military officers in the grades of admiral, general, vice admiral, and lieutenant general. This proposal would give authority to the Secretary of Defense to exempt senior officers in these grades who are on terminal leave from counting against applicable grade limits and would enable senior military officers, after Senate confirmation and upon the assumption of the duties of a position of importance and responsibility under section 601 of title 10, United States Code, to be promoted. It would repeal the authority to "frock" these officers, or allow them, in advance of their actual promotion to a higher grade, to wear the insignia of the higher rank of the position that they are assigned to. The conferees have long sought to limit the practice of frocking, but also have had concerns about continuing efforts by the Department to waive senior general and flag officer grade limits. The conferees believe this proposal would benefit from more time for consideration to better understand the implications of the changes in law contained in the informal legislative proposal. The conferees urge the Secretary of Defense to formally submit a legislative proposal for the conferees' consideration during the next defense authorization budget request.

Legislative Provisions Adopted

Subtitle A—Officer Personnel Policy

Transition of active-duty list officer force to a force of all regular officers (sec. 501)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 511) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to commission all new officer accessions as Regular officer and transition all officers on the active-duty list to regular status. The provision would implement the recommendation of the Defense Science Board Task Force on Human Resources Strategy that all new officers, regardless of their commissioning source, be given regular commissions in order to enhance professionalism, esprit de corps, and retention.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 511).

The House recedes with an amendment that would repeal the requirement that a member serve the last six years in a Reserve component before being eligible for nonregular service retirement.

Repeal of requirement that Deputy Chiefs and Assistant Chiefs of Naval Operations be selected from officers in the line of the Navy (sec. 502)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 502) that would eliminate the requirement that officers serving in the positions of Deputy Chief of Naval Operations and Assistant Chief of Naval Operations be line officers. This provision would expand the pool of officers who may be considered for assignment in these highly responsible positions within the Office of the Chief of Naval Operations, to include officers of the Navy staff corps.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 512).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Limitation on number of officers frocked to major general and rear admiral (sec. 503)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 514) that would provide that the total number of brigadier generals and rear admirals (lower half) on the active-duty list who are authorized to be frocked to the grade of major general or rear admiral (upper half) may not exceed 30.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Distribution in grade of Marine Corps Reserve officers in an active status in grades below brigadier general (sec. 504)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 513) that would correct a technical discrepancy in the existing grade table for the Marine Corps Reserve that could unnecessarily limit the overall numbers of Marine Corps Reserve officers in an active status under section 12005 of title 10, United States Code.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 415).

The Senate recedes.

Authority for Federal recognition of National Guard commissioned officers appointed from former Coast Guard personnel (sec. 505)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 588) that would make current and former officers and enlisted members of the U.S. Coast Guard, as well as graduates of the U.S. Coast Guard Academy, eligible for federal recognition after becoming commissioned officers of the National Guard.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Study regarding promotion eligibility of retired officers recalled to active duty (sec. 506)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 515) that would require the Secretary of Defense to carry out a study to determine whether it would be equitable for retired warrant officers on active duty, but not on the active-duty list by reason of section 582(2) of title 10, United States Code, to be eligible for consideration for promotion under section 573 of such title. The Secretary would be required to submit a report on the results of the study not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment that would extend the scope of the study to include all retired officers.

Succession for office of Chief, National Guard Bureau (sec. 507)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 507) that would establish a chain of succession when there is a vacancy in the Office of the Chief of the National Guard Bureau or in the event that the Chief is unable to perform the duties of the office. In such cases, the more senior officer of either the Army National Guard or of the Air National Guard on duty with the National Guard Bureau would assume responsibility as the Acting Chief.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 903).

The Senate recedes with a technical amendment.

Redesignation of Vice Chief of the National Guard Bureau as Director of the Joint Staff of the National Guard Bureau (sec. 508)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 508) that would change the title of the Vice Chief of the National Guard Bureau to the Director of the Joint Staff of the National Guard Bureau.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 904).

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Subtitle B—Reserve Component Policy Matters

Modification of stated purpose of the Reserve components (sec. 511)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 521) that would clarify the purpose of the Reserve components. By eliminating statutory reference to planned mobilizations, the provision would more accurately reflect the operational mission, responsibilities, and contributions of National Guard and Reserve members and the manner in which Reserve forces will be employed in the future.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 901).

The Senate recedes with a technical amendment.

Homeland defense activities conducted by the National Guard under authority of title 32 (sec. 512)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 529) that would amend title 32, United States Code, to authorize the Secretary of Defense to provide funds to the governor of a State to employ National Guard units and personnel to conduct operational activities that the Secretary determines to be in the national interest. This provision would also establish a process by which the governor of a State may request funding from the Secretary for the operational activities of that State's National Guard.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 906).

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would authorize the Secretary to provide funds to a governor of a State to employ National Guard units or members to conduct homeland defense activities. Homeland defense activities include those undertaken for the military protection of the territory or domestic population of the United States, or of infrastructure or other assets of the United States determined by the Secretary as being critical to national security, from a threat or aggression against the United States. National Guard personnel could perform homeland defense activities under this provision for up to 180 days, which could be extended for an additional 90 days to meet extraordinary circumstances.

Commission on the National Guard and Reserves (sec. 513)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 902) that would establish a Commission on the National Guard and Reserves. The commission would study the roles and missions of the National Guard and Reserve and the compensation and other benefits that are provided to members of the Reserve components. Among the issues the commission would be required to assess are the following: (1) the current and future roles and missions of the Reserve components; (2) the capabilities of the Reserve components and the manner in which the Reserve components may be best used to support the military operations of the Armed Forces and the achievement of national security objectives, including homeland defense; (3) the current and future organization and structure of the National Guard and Reserve; (4) the organization and funding of training for the Reserve; and (5) options for improving compensation and benefits. The provision would also require the establishment of an independent review board in 2006, following the termination of the commission, to annually review the roles and missions of the Reserve components and the compensation and other benefits provided for members of the Reserve components.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require an annual review by the Secretary of Defense of the roles and missions of the Reserve components and the compensation and benefits provided for members of the Reserve components beginning in fiscal year 2006.

Repeal of exclusion of active duty for training from authority to order Reserves to active duty (sec. 514)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 522) that would authorize units and members of the Reserve components to be involuntarily mobilized for the purpose of training. This would provide the Department of Defense with improved access to Reserve component personnel during war or national emergency for the purpose of individual or collective skill training required to meet deployment standards and timelines for emergent missions or contingencies. The provision would also require that the time spent in such training be counted against the mobilization timelines that are established in law.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 521).

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Army program for assignment of Active component advisers to units of the Selected Reserve (sec. 515)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 530) that would reduce from 5,000 to 3,500 the minimum number of Army Active component advisers that are required to be assigned to support the training and readiness of Selected Reserve units of the Army. This provision would prohibit the Secretary of the Army from making any reductions in the numbers of Active component advisers until the Secretary reports, as required by March 31, 2005, to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives on the support by the Active component of the Army for training and readiness of the Army National Guard and Army Reserve.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a technical amendment.

Authority to accept certain voluntary services (sec. 516)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1078) that would authorize the secretaries concerned to accept voluntary services to support programs of the National Committee for Employer Support of the Guard and Reserve as authorized by the Secretary of Defense.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Authority to redesignate the Naval Reserve as the Navy Reserve (sec. 517)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 905) that would authorize the Secretary of the Navy, with the approval of the President, to redesignate the Naval Reserve as the "Navy Reserve" effective 180 days after the date on which the Secretary submits recommended legislation.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Comptroller General assessment of integration of Active and Reserve components of the Navy (sec. 518)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 528) that would require the Comptroller General to review the Navy's implementation plans for the integration of the service's Active and Reserve components. This provision would require the Comptroller General to submit a report on the results of that assessment to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives by March 31, 2005.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that eliminates the provision that would prohibit appropriated funds being made available for the decommissioning of any Naval Reserve or Marine Corps Reserve aviation squadrons until the report required by this section is completed.

Limitation on number of STARBASE academies in a State (sec. 519)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 527) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to support the establishment of more than two STARBASE academies in a State under criteria to be established by the Secretary.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment that would provide that waivers granted by the Secretary for the establishment and operation of additional STARBASE academies in a State should be based on the availability of appropriated funds for that purpose.

The conferees believe that limiting the number of STARBASE academies eligible for Department of Defense financial support to two per State could lead to inequities, particularly in states with several military installations located in separate communities. The conferees urge the Secretary to develop criteria for waivers that will appropriately balance increased program costs associated with establishment and operation of additional STARBASE academies with anticipated measurable gains in realizing the mission of the program.

Recognition items for certain Reserve component personnel (sec. 520)

The conferees agree to include a provision that would authorize the use of official funds by the Army National Guard, Air National Guard, and Army Reserve in order to recognize and retain Guardsmen and Reservists, family members, and other individuals who have served and supported members of the National Guard and Army Reserve. The provision would permit procurement of recognition items of nominal or modest value such as coins, medals, trophies, flags, posters, or other similar items that are valued at less than $50 per item. The authorization would be effective as of November 24, 2003, and would expire on December 31, 2005.

Subtitle C—Reserve Component Personnel Matters

Status under disability retirement system for Reserve members released from active duty due to inability to perform within 30 days of call to active duty (sec. 521)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 523) that would clarify that mobilized Reserve members who, within 30 days of being called to active duty, are unable to serve the full period for which they were mobilized due to pre-existing medical conditions, which were not aggravated while on active duty, may be separated. Such members would be considered as serving under an order to active duty for a period of 30 days or less.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a technical amendment.

Requirement for retention of Reserves on active duty to qualify for retired pay not applicable to nonregular service retirement system (sec. 522)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 512) that would clarify that section 12686 of title 10, United States Code, does not require that reservists serving on active duty with over 18 years of reserve service be retained on active duty for the purpose of qualifying the member for reserve retirement.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 522).

The Senate recedes with a technical amendment.

Federal civil service military leave for Reserve and National Guard civilian technicians (sec. 523)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 524) that would eliminate the restriction on the use of military leave specified in section 6323 of title 5, United States Code, during a war or national emergency declared by the President, for Reserve and National Guard civilian technicians who are federal employees.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Expanded educational assistance authority for officers commissioned through ROTC program at military junior colleges (sec. 524)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 525(a), (b), and (d)), that would allow commissioned officers who graduate from military junior colleges to receive additional financial assistance to complete their baccalaureate degree requirements. Individuals who participate in this program would be attached to a Senior Reserve Officers' Training Corps unit to ensure that they maintain their military training, bearing, and education as they complete their post-secondary education.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a technical amendment.

Repeal of sunset provision for financial assistance program for students not eligible for advanced training (sec. 525)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 525(c)) that would repeal section 2103a(d) of title 10, United States Code. This section provided that after December 31, 2006 contracts by members of the Senior Reserve Officers' Training Corps program, under the authority of section 2103a, could no longer be entered into force.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Effect of appointment or commission as officer on eligibility for selected Reserve education loan repayment program for enlisted members (sec. 526)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 526) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to continue to repay educational loans for enlisted members in a Reserve component after they are commissioned as officers, if the members continue to serve the period specified in the original loan repayment agreement.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a technical amendment.

Educational assistance for certain Reserve component members who perform active service (sec. 527)

The conferees agree to include a provision that would authorize a new educational assistance benefit for members of the reserve components who have been ordered to active service in support of a contingency operation or in response to a war or national emergency. The provision would be effective on or after September 11, 2001, and would authorize: (1) payment of 40 percent of the amount of basic educational assistance provided under section 3015 of title 38 for a member whose entitlement is based on completion of an obligated period of active duty of three years for reservists who perform active service for a period of 90 days to one year; (2) payment of 60 percent of the amount of basic educational assistance in the case of a member who performed active service for one continuous year but less than two continuous years; and (3) payment of 80 percent of the amount of basic educational assistance for those members who serve for two continuous years or more. The maximum number of months of educational assistance that would be permitted under this provision would be 36, or the equivalent thereof in part-time educational assistance. Eligible reservists would remain entitled to educational assistance under this provision while serving in the Selected Reserve, in the case of members who were ordered to active duty while serving in the Selected Reserve, or in the Ready Reserve, in the case of a member who was ordered to active duty while serving in the Ready Reserve other than the Selected Reserve.

Sense of Congress on guidance concerning treatment of employer-provided compensation and other benefits voluntarily provided to employees who are activated reservists (sec. 528)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1075) that would express the sense of the Senate that the Internal Revenue Service should provide guidance consistent with the goal of promoting and ensuring the validity of differential pay arrangements, benefits payments, and contributions to retirement savings plans made by employers of reservists who have been called to active duty.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

The conferees note that employers of reservists called up for active duty are required under the Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act of 1994 (USERRA) to treat their reservist-employees as if they are on a leave of absence or furlough and are not required to pay their salaries. Many patriotic employers, however, have paid their reservist-employees who have been mobilized the difference between their military pay and their civilian salaries, and have allowed deductions from these differential payments for contributions to employer-provided retirement savings plans. The conferees believe that insufficient guidance exists for the tax status of these payments for both reservist-employees and employers under existing Internal Revenue Service regulations and that additional guidance should be provided.

Subtitle D—Joint Officer Management and Professional Military Education

Strategic plan to link joint officer development to overall missions and goals of Department of Defense (sec. 531)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 531) that would require the Secretary of Defense, with the advice of the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, to develop a strategic plan for joint officer management and joint professional military education. This strategic plan would link future requirements for Active and Reserve military personnel, who are trained and educated in joint matters, to the resources required to develop those persons in terms of manpower, formal education, practical experience, and other requirements. Additionally, the strategic plan would identify the methods the Secretary would use to fulfill those requirements.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that, among other data elements, would call for assessment of emerging issues related to joint officer management, including problems stemming from linkage of qualification as a joint specialty officer to eligibility for promotion, expected rates of promotion, and prescribed tour lengths.

Improvement to professional military education in the Department of Defense (sec. 532)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 541) that would establish a new chapter 107 in title 10, United States Code, consisting of eight new sections that would consolidate sections of law related to joint professional military education. The provision would define the term "joint professional military education," as well as "intermediate" and "senior level" schools. It would require the secretaries of the military departments to use a written examination as a portion of the evaluation criteria in selecting officers for full-time attendance at intermediate level service schools and would require phasing of joint professional military education and student to faculty ratios. The provision would also require that the length of the principal course of instruction at the Joint Forces Staff College could not be less than 10 weeks.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 505) that would repeal the minimum period requirement for phase II joint professional military education in section 663 of title 10, United States Code.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would reduce and consolidate the number of subjects that joint professional military education must include. The amendment would specify that the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff will advise and assist the Secretary of Defense in designating and certifying certain courses of instruction and would delete the requirement for a written examination as a portion of the evaluation criteria in selecting officers for full-time attendance at intermediate level service schools.

Although the conferees did not establish a statutory minimum length for the duration of the principal course of instruction offered at the primary resident campus of each intermediate level service school and each senior level service school, the conferees believe that such courses should consist of not less than 10 months of resident instruction, except in times of war or national emergency. The conferees will continue to review this matter with each of the military services as changes and modifications to such courses are proposed.

Joint requirements for promotion to flag or general officer grade (sec. 533)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 532) that would extend from September 30, 2007 to September 30, 2008, the date after which an officer must be selected for the joint specialty before promotion to the grade of brigadier general or rear admiral (lower half). The provision would also eliminate the requirement that an officer serve in a joint assignment at least 180 days prior to the convening of a promotion board for selection to the grade of brigadier general or rear admiral (lower half).

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 501) that would also eliminate the requirement for 180 days of service in a joint duty assignment before an officer may be considered for promotion to flag or general officer rank.

The Senate recedes.

Clarification of tours of duty qualifying as a joint duty assignment (sec. 534)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 533) that would modify the definition of the term "tour of duty" in section 668(c) of title 10, United States Code, to allow officers to continue accumulating joint credit if they serve consecutive joint duty assignments, even if those assignments are not within the same organization.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 506).

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would insert the term "joint duty assignment list" in section 668 of title 10, United States Code.

Two-year extension of temporary standard for promotion policy objectives for joint officers (sec. 535)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 503) that would require the military departments to ensure that an adequate number of officers are eligible for promotion to brigadier general and rear admiral (lower half) to meet joint qualification requirements under section 619a of title 10, United States Code. The provision would also make permanent the temporary authority regarding promotion comparison standards for joint specialty officers under section 662 of title 10, United States Code.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would extend the temporary authority regarding promotion comparison standards for officers with the joint specialty under section 662 of title 10, United States Code, until December 27, 2006.

Two-year extension of authority to waive requirement that Reserve Chiefs and National Guard Directors have significant joint duty experience (sec. 536)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 509) that would extend for two years, until December 31, 2006, the authority of the Secretary of Defense to waive the requirement that the chiefs of the Reserves and the directors of the Army and Air National Guard must have significant joint duty experience to be eligible for appointment. The provision would also require that the Secretary develop a plan to ensure that officers selected after December 31, 2006, to be the chiefs of the Reserves and the directors of the Army and Air National Guard, have significant joint duty experience in order to ensure a concerted effort to develop a system to eliminate the need for this waiver.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 513) that would extend the Secretary's waiver authority for one year.

The Senate recedes.

Subtitle E—Military Service Academies

Revision to conditions on service of officers as service academy superintendents (sec. 541)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 557) that would repeal the requirement that the superintendents of the military service academies retire upon completion of their assignments. The provision would also require that an officer serve at least a three-year tour of duty as superintendent, and that if the officer is re-assigned before that period elapses, the secretary of the military department concerned must notify the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives of the reasons for the re-assignment.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 535) that would repeal the requirement under sections 8921 and 9333a of title 10, U.S. Code, that the Superintendent of the U.S. Air Force Academy retire upon termination of his or her assignment.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would retain the requirement that the superintendents retire upon completion of their tours of duty. It would, however, authorize the Secretary of Defense to waive this requirement for good cause, and would require written notification to Congress of the President's intent to nominate a superintendent of a service academy for re-assignment.

Academic qualifications of the Dean of the Faculty of United States Air Force Academy (sec. 542)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 559) that would require that a person selected to be the Dean of the Faculty at the U.S. Air Force Academy, who is not an officer on active duty, must be either a retired or former officer of the Armed Forces. Furthermore, the provision would prohibit the appointment or assignment of a person to be the Dean unless that person holds the highest academic degree in their academic field.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would delete the requirement that the Dean of the Faculty at the U.S. Air Force Academy must be either a retired or former officer of the Armed Forces.

Board of Visitors of United States Air Force Academy (sec. 543)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 560A) that would modify section 9355 of title 10, United States Code, to change the composition of the Board of Visitors of the U.S. Air Force Academy. The provision would also prescribe: (1) procedures for when a member of the Board dies, resigns, or is absent from meetings; (2) four meetings of the Board and reports to Congress each year; and (3) candid and complete disclosure by the Secretary of the Air Force and the Superintendent of the Air Force Academy of all institutional problems.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would retain the current criteria in section 9355 of title 10, United States Code, for designation of U.S. Senators to serve on the Board of Visitors. The amendment would also modify the conditions for termination of board members who are members of Congress, assigning discretion to designating authorities to take appropriate action if Board of Visitors meetings are unattended without good cause. The amendment would further require semiannual reports from the Board of Visitors to Congress.

Appropriated funds for service academy athletic and recreational extracurricular programs to be treated in same manner as for military morale, welfare, and recreation programs (sec. 544)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1005) that would authorize the service academies to treat funds appropriated for morale, welfare, and recreation athletics and extracurricular programs as non-appropriated funds in order to achieve uniform funding and management of those funds.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Codification of prohibition on imposition of certain charges and fees at the service academies (sec. 545)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 558) that would codify section 553 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1995 (Public Law 103-337). This provision would prohibit the imposition of charges or fees for tuition, room, or board for attendance by cadets and midshipmen at the service academies.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a technical amendment.

Subtitle F—Other Education and Training Matters

College First delayed enlistment program (sec. 551)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 551) that would permanently authorize the Army College First Pilot Program, and extend the authority to implement the program to the other service secretaries.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 531) that would extend for one year the duration of the Army's College First Pilot Program.

The Senate recedes with a technical amendment.

Senior Reserve Officer Training Corps and recruiter access at institutions of higher education (sec. 552)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 596) that would: (1) require that military recruiters be given access to campuses and students at institutions of higher education that is at least equal in quality and scope to the access provided to any other employer; (2) require the Secretary of Defense to obtain an annual verification from colleges and universities which already support the Senior Reserve Officers' Training Corps (ROTC) program that they will continue to do so in the upcoming academic year; (3) specify that federal funding that is provided to an institution of higher education, or to an individual, to be available solely for student financial assistance is exempt from the stricture of section 983 of title 10, United States Code; and (4) add additional defense-related funding sources to include: the Department of Homeland Security, the Central Intelligence Agency, and the National Nuclear Security Administration of the Department of Energy, and would restore the funds of the Department of Transportation to the list of covered funds that potentially could be terminated if an institution is determined to prevent recruiter access or maintains anti-ROTC policies.

The Senate amendment contained two provisions (sec. 532 and 533) that would require colleges and universities to give equal treatment to military recruiters, and specify that federal funding for student financial assistance may be used for the purpose for which the funding is provided.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would delete the requirement for the Secretary to obtain an annual verification from colleges and universities that they would continue to support Senior ROTC.

Tuition assistance for officers (sec. 553)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 514) that would authorize the secretaries of the military departments to waive for Reserve component officers the two-year Active-Duty service obligation required as a condition for receipt of tuition assistance while on active duty. The provision would also allow an increase in tuition assistance authorized for Army officers in the Selected Reserve.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Increased maximum period for leave of absence for pursuit of a program of education in a health care profession (sec. 554)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 554) that extends from two to three years the educational leave of absence authorized for members of the Armed Forces in section 708 of title 10, United States Code.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 651) that would extend from two to three years the period of time that a military member may take educational leave of absence for a health profession education program.

The House recedes.

Eligibility of cadets and midshipmen for medical and dental care and disability benefits (sec. 555)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 555) that would provide the capability to effectively respond to injuries and illness sustained during accession training by cadets and midshipmen. The provision would authorize service academy cadets and midshipmen to be eligible for disability evaluation and retirement under chapter 61 of title 10, United States Code, and cadets and midshipmen participating in the Senior Reserve Officers' Training Corps (ROTC) to be eligible for medical and dental care for injuries and illness sustained in the line of duty and not due to gross negligence or misconduct.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 717).

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

The conferees were greatly assisted by the Department of Defense's report on health and disability benefits for pre-accession training and education programs required by section 546 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2002 (Public Law 107-107). This report proved essential in gaining an understanding of the origins of current law and the steps that are needed to be taken to ensure equitable treatment of cadets and midshipmen and their families.

The conferees urge the Department to continue to identify ways to improve the treatment of Senior ROTC cadets and midshipmen who have experienced illness or injury and whose continued participation in ROTC is jeopardized as a result. The conferees, for example, are aware that under current service regulations cadets in Army ROTC and midshipmen in Naval ROTC who become ill or who are injured through no fault of their own are involuntarily being placed on "leave of absence" and denied scholarship payments and monthly stipends, even when it is apparent that these cadets and midshipmen will recover fully and they continue to attend classes and participate fully in ROTC activities. The conferees urge the Department and the services to act expeditiously, but no later than April 1, 2005, to revise Departmental regulations to achieve uniformity among the services in responding to medical conditions to avoid unnecessary hardships on ROTC cadets, midshipmen, and their families.

Transfer of authority to confer degrees upon graduates of the Community College of the Air Force (sec. 556)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 552) that would authorize the Commander of the Air University to confer associate level academic degrees on graduates of the Community College of the Air Force. This change would align the Community College with all other Air University programs by ensuring that only the Commander of the Air University is responsible for conferring degrees.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 534).

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Change in titles of leadership positions at the Naval Postgraduate School (sec. 557)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 553) that would change the title of the Superintendent of the Naval Postgraduate School from Superintendent to President. This provision would also establish a new civilian position of Provost and Academic Dean, and revise the procedures to fill this position.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 913).

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Subtitle G—Assistance to Local Educational Agencies for Defense Dependents Education

Continuation of impact aid assistance on behalf of dependents of certain members despite change in status of member (sec. 558)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 590) that would temporarily adjust the process for computing the amount of funding provided by the Department of Education to certain local educational agencies heavily impacted by dependents of military personnel. The adjustment, limited to school year 2004-2005, would require that certain children continue to be counted as a child enrolled in school when computing the average daily attendance. Such children include those who attend the school but no longer live on a military base because both parents are deployed, or are children who temporarily reside in military base housing following the death of a military parent on active duty.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a technical amendment.

Assistance to local educational agencies that benefit dependents of members of the Armed Forces and Department of Defense civilian employees (sec. 559)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 595) that would provide $50.0 million in Operation and Maintenance, Defense-wide activities, for assistance to local educational agencies that benefit dependents of members of the Armed Forces and Department of Defense civilian employees.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 351) that would authorize $30.0 million for assistance to local educational agencies.

The House recedes.

Impact aid for children with severe disabilities (sec. 560)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 352) that would authorize $5.0 million in Operation and Maintenance, Defense-wide, for impact aid payments for children with disabilities under section 8003(d) of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 7703(d)), using the formula set forth in section 363 of the Floyd D. Spence National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2001 (Public Law 106-398), for continuation of the Department of Defense's assistance program to local educational agencies that benefit dependents with severe disabilities.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Subtitle H—Medals and Decorations and Special Promotions and Appointments

Award of medal of honor to individual interred in the Tomb of the Unknowns as representative of casualties of a war (sec. 561)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 541) that would clarify that the posthumous award of a medal of honor to the deceased member of the Armed Forces who is interred in the Tomb of the Unknowns at Arlington National Cemetery is awarded to that member as a representative of the unknown members of the Armed Forces who died in such war or other armed conflict, and not to the individual personally.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Plan for revised criteria and eligibility requirements for award of combat infantryman badge and combat medical badge for service in Korea after July 28, 1953 (sec. 562)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 565) that would revise the criteria and eligibility requirements for award of the combat infantry badge and combat medical badge to Army personnel for service in the Republic of Korea after July 28, 1953.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 543) that would require the Secretary of the Army to submit a plan not later than 90 days after the date of enactment of this Act for the revision of the criteria and eligibility requirements for these badges for service in Korea.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that the mutual purpose of the House and Senate provisions is to ensure modification of the eligibility requirements, which over time have become inequitable for soldiers who are serving or have served in Korea. The Commander, U.S. Forces Korea, has expressed his support for this initiative. The conferees expect the Secretary to promptly and equitably revise the criteria for the award of the combat infantryman and combat medical badges, and act upon applications from veterans of Korea service who qualify for these awards.

Authority to appoint Brigadier General Charles E. Yeager, United States Air Force (retired), to the grade of major general on the retired list (sec. 563)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 563) that would authorize the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, to appoint Brigadier General Charles E. Yeager U. S. Air Force (retired), to the grade of major general on the retired list of the U.S. Air Force.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Posthumous commission of William Mitchell in the grade of major general in the Army (sec. 564)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 564) that would authorize the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, to issue a posthumous commission in the grade of major general in the Army to William Mitchell, formerly a colonel in the U.S. Army. A commission issued under this authority would become effective as of the date of the death of William Mitchell on February 19, 1936.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Subtitle I—Military Voting

Federal write-in ballots for absentee military voters located in the United States (sec. 566)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 572) that would amend section 1973ff of title 42, United States Code, to authorize military voters and their dependents, who are stationed in the United States but absent from their home states, to use federal write-in absentee ballots. Operational requirements and the mobility of military personnel may prevent them from receiving state-provided absentee ballots in the mail in time for an election. Allowing absentee military voters and their dependents to use the federal write-in ballots, even while stationed in the United States, would serve to remedy these problems.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Repeal of requirement to conduct electronic voting demonstration project for the federal election to be held in November 2004 (sec. 567)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 592) that would repeal the requirement in section 1604 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2002 (Public Law 107–107) for the Secretary of Defense to conduct a demonstration project to permit absentee uniformed service voters to cast their ballots through an electronic voting system.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1065) that would authorize delay in carrying out an electronic voting demonstration project until November 2006.

The House recedes with an amendment that would delay the electronic voting demonstration project until the first regularly scheduled general election for federal office that occurs after the Election Assistance Commission notifies the Secretary that the commission has established electronic absentee voting guidelines and certifies that the commission will assist the Secretary in carrying out the project.

The conferees recognize the magnitude of the technical challenge associated with ensuring the security of electronic voting using the Internet. The Department of Defense's Secure Electronic Registration and Voting Experiment (SERVE) was an important prototype for electronic voting that should not be abandoned. The conferees encourage the Secretary to provide funding to the Election Assistance Commission and the National Institute of Standards and Technology to advance electronic absentee voting by U.S. voters located overseas and Uniformed Services voters.

Reports on operation of Federal Voting Assistance Program and military postal system (sec. 568)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1026) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit reports to Congress on: (1) the actions that the Secretary has taken to ensure that the Federal Voting Assistance Program functions effectively to support absentee voting; (2) the actions that the Secretary has taken to ensure that the military postal system functions effectively to support the morale of military members and their ability to vote by absentee ballot; and (3) the actions taken to implement the recommendations of the Military Postal Service Agency Task Force of August 28, 2000.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Subtitle J—Military Justice Matters

Review on how sexual offenses are covered by Uniform Code of Military Justice (sec. 571)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 571) that would require the Secretary of Defense to review the Uniform Code of Military Justice and the Manual for Courts-Martial to determine what changes are required to improve the ability of the military justice system relating to sexual assault, and to conform the Code and the Manual more closely to other federal laws and regulations that address such issues. The Secretary is to report on the review to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives by March 1, 2005. The report is to include the Secretary's recommendations for revisions to the Code.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees understand that the Department of Defense is already undertaking such a review. The conferees expect that the Department's legislative proposal for fiscal year 2006 will include any suggestions for revisions in the Code provisions dealing with sexual assault that are determined to be desirable.

Waiver of recoupment of time lost for confinement in connection with a trial (sec. 572)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 552) that would amend section 972 of title 10, United States Code, to require the Secretary concerned to waive time lost when a member is confined by military or civilian authorities for more than one day in connection with a trial, if the charge is thereafter dismissed, the trial results in an acquittal, a conviction is thereafter set aside (other than for clemency), or a judgment of acquittal or dismissal is entered upon a reversal of the conviction of on appeal.

The House bill contained a similar provision.

The House recedes.

Processing of forensic evidence collection kits and acquisition of sufficient stocks of such kits (sec. 573)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 306) that would require the Secretary of Defense to take steps to eliminate the current backlog in the processing of forensic evidence collection kits, to shorten the time period between the use of such kits and their processing, and to ensure that there is an adequate supply of rape kits for all domestic and overseas U.S. military installations.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary to ensure that the United States Army Criminal Investigation Laboratory has the personnel and resources to effectively process forensic evidence used by the Department of Defense within 60 days of its receipt, and that military personnel are properly trained in the use of forensic evidence collection kits and in procedures to ensure protection of the chain of custody of the kits once used.

Authorities of the Judge Advocates General (sec. 574)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 915) that would amend the title 10, United States Code, provisions relating to the Judge Advocates General (TJAG) of the services and the General Counsels (GC) of the military departments to make the TJAGs the legal advisers of the service secretaries, the service chiefs and their staffs, and the offices and agencies of the military departments, provide for TJAG direction and supervision of judge advocates and of civilian attorneys outside the offices of the service general counsels, provide for the responsibilities of the TJAGs under the Uniform Code of Military Justice (UCMJ), provide for other duties as may be directed by the service secretaries, and provide that the TJAGs shall be appointed in the grade of lieutenant general or vice admiral, as appropriate.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would prohibit any officer or employee of the Department of Defense from interfering with the ability of the TJAGs to provide independent legal advice to their service secretaries and service chiefs, or of judge advocates assigned, attached, or performing duty with military units to provide such advice to commanders. The provision would also require the Secretary of Defense to appoint an independent panel to conduct a study of the relationships between the legal elements of each service and transmit the panel's recommendations as to statutory, regulatory, and policy changes which it believes to be desirable, together with the Secretary's comments, to the Committees on Armed Services by May 1, 2005. The conferees expect that this panel will be truly independent, expert, and disinterested. They will examine the panel's findings and recommendations with care in the fiscal year 2006 authorization process.

The conferees note that this is the second time in 12 years that attempts to consolidate legal services in the Department of Defense have led to congressional action. In 1992, the Deputy Secretary of Defense issued a memorandum that would have moved substantially in the direction of centralization under the General Counsel of the Department of Defense. In response, the Senate version of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1993 contained a provision directing that the memorandum be rescinded. After the memorandum was rescinded, the provision was dropped in conference.

In May 2003, the Secretary of the Air Force issued an order subordinating the Judge Advocate General to the General Counsel of the Department of the Air Force as her military deputy. The order also stated that the General Counsel had "full legal authority to . . . become involved in . . . any particular case or matter within the Department." Thereafter the General Counsel issued a draft operating instruction in which she asserted the right to exercise legal oversight and review over virtually every legal issue arising in the Department of the Air Force, including the field of military justice which is statutorily reserved to the TJAGs. The Air Force situation, while the most aggravated, is not unique.

Consistent with the legislative provision included in the conference report, the conferees direct the Secretary of the Air Force to rescind his order of May 15, 2003, "Functions and Duties of the General Counsel and the Judge Advocate General." The conferees further direct the General Counsel of the Department of the Air Force to rescind all internal operating instructions and memoranda issued in reliance on the Secretary's May 15, 2003, order.

Subtitle K—Sexual Assault in the Armed Forces

Examination of sexual assault in the Armed Forces by the defense task force established to examine sexual harassment and violence at the military service academies (sec. 576)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 593) that would require the Secretary of Defense to expand the mission of the Task Force on Sexual Harassment and Violence at the Military Service Academies that was established in the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal year 2004 (Public Law 108-136). Upon completion of its current work, the task force would be renamed the Defense Task Force on Sexual Assault in the Military Services and would be extended for at least 18 months. It would examine matters relating to sexual assault in the Armed Forces and would be required to report its findings and recommendations to the Secretary of Defense within 12 months of its initial meeting. The Secretary of Defense would be required to provide the report, together with an evaluation of it, to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives, along with an assessment of the effectiveness of the corrective actions being taken by the Department of Defense and the military services as a result of various investigations and reviews into matters involving sexual assault.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment to expand the scope of the task force report to include: a report on the use of data relating to sexual assault by senior military and civilian leaders; development of measures of effectiveness for responding to victim needs by sexual assault programs; progress in developing means to investigate and prosecute assailants who are foreign nationals; the adequacy of Department resources supporting sexual assault prevention and victim advocacy programs, particularly for deployed units and personnel; training of military and civilian personnel responsible for implementation of sexual assault polices; and programs and policies, including those related to confidentiality, designed to encourage victims to seek services and report offenses.

The Senate amendment also would authorize the Secretary to change the composition of the Defense Task Force on Sexual Assault in the Military Services as appropriate, but remaining consistent with the qualifications required by section 526(f) of Public Law 108-136, and not before the task force established to examine sexual harassment and violence at the service military academies has completed its statutorily mandated functions.

The conferees intend to closely monitor the development and implementation of uniform policies and programs on sexual assault required elsewhere in this Act. Given the urgency of the need for effective action to prevent and resolve sexual assault offenses against military members, the conferees expect that the task force, re-designated as the Task Force on Sexual Assault in the Military Services, will provide an independent assessment of the effectiveness of policies and programs developed by the Department, as well as the success of the military services at all levels in achieving their implementation.

Department of Defense policy and procedures on prevention and response to sexual assaults involving members of the Armed Forces (sec. 577)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 598) that would require the Department of Defense to promulgate a uniform Department of Defense policy for the prevention of and response to sexual assaults involving members of the Armed Forces, and would require service secretaries to prescribe regulations on policies and procedures to prevent and respond to sexual assaults involving members of the Armed Forces. The provision would also require the secretaries of the military departments to prescribe programs throughout each service designated for victim advocacy and intervention, both at home and in deployed locations, and provide an annual assessment of the implementation of sexual assault prevention policies and procedures during the preceding year. Additionally, the provision would require the Secretary to develop a definition of sexual assault that is uniform for all the Armed Forces. The provision would require an annual report to Congress by the Secretary of Defense on the number of sexual assaults, rapes, and other sexual offenses involving military personnel; a synopsis of disciplinary action taken in substantiated cases; the policies and programs implemented by the Secretary to respond to sexual assault and violence against military members; and a plan for future actions to be taken.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 553).

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would clarify reporting requirements by the Secretary and service secretaries, and would require a definition of sexual assault that is uniform for all the Armed Forces.

Subtitle L—Management and Administrative Matters

Three-year extension of limitation on reductions of personnel of agencies responsible for review and correction of military records (sec. 581)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 581) that would extend through September 30, 2008 the prohibition precluding the secretaries of the military departments from reducing the number of military and civilian personnel assigned to duty within the boards for correction of military records until 90 days after the secretary of the military department concerned submits a report to Congress that describes the proposed reduction, provides the rationale for the reduction, and specifies the number of personnel that will be assigned to the board after the reduction is complete.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Staffing for Defense Prisoner of War/Missing Personnel Office (DPMO) (sec. 582)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 582) that would establish specific, permanent minimum levels of military and civilian personnel assigned to the Defense Prisoner of War/Missing Personnel Office (DPMO). The provision would require that the number of permanent positions and full-time Department of Defense personnel permanently assigned or detailed to the DPMO would not be less than 46 military members and 69 civilian employees of the Department.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would modify section 1501(a)(5) of title 10, United States Code, to provide that the number of military and civilian personnel, whether temporary or permanent, who are assigned or detailed to the DPMO may not be less than the number requested in the President's budget for fiscal year 2003. The conferees note that the budget request for fiscal year 2003 provided for 46 military personnel and 69 civilian personnel and included a budget request for $16.0 million.

The Senate amendment would also require a study by the Government Accountability Office in order to provide a comprehensive examination of trends in staffing and funding levels of the DPMO compared to mission requirements and the Comptroller General's assessment of the adequacy of current manning and funding levels of the DPMO in light of current mission requirements.

Permanent ID cards for retiree dependents age 75 and older (sec. 583)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 583) that would require the service secretaries to issue permanent identification cards to dependents of military retirees and survivors of military retirees eligible for benefits for periods after the dependent or survivor attains age 75.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would establish the age for issuance of permanent military identification cards to dependents and survivors of military retirees at 75 years of age.

Authority to provide civilian clothing to members traveling in connection with medical evacuation (sec. 584)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 584) that would authorize the secretaries of the military departments to furnish members, who have been medically evacuated, civilian clothing at a cost not to exceed $250 or to reimburse the member for the purchase of civilian clothing in an amount not to exceed $250.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to provide civilian clothing to members traveling in connection with medical evacuation. This authority is a continuation of the authority provided in section 1319 of the Emergency Wartime Supplemental Appropriations Act, 2003 (Public Law 108-11) and later in section 1103 of the Emergency Supplemental Appropriations Act for Defense and for the Reconstruction of Iraq and Afghanistan, 2004 (Public Law 108-106).

Authority to accept donation of frequent traveler miles, credits, and tickets to facilitate rest and recuperation travel of deployed members of the Armed Forces and their families (sec. 585)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 585) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to accept the donation of frequent traveler miles, credits, and tickets for the purpose of facilitating the travel of members of the Armed Forces who are deployed away from their permanent duty station and are granted leave, to include rest and recuperative leave, emergency leave, convalescent leave, or another form of leave authorized for the member, and for facilitating the travel of family members to be reunited with such a member.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 653) that, in addition, would authorize the Secretary, in an exceptional case, to permit a person who is not a family member to use frequent traveler miles, credits, and tickets, if that person has a notably close relationship with the member. The Senate amendment also contained a provision that would authorize the Secretary to enter into an agreement with a nonprofit organization to assist in administering the collection, distribution, and use of donated frequent traveler miles, credits, and tickets.

The House recedes with an amendment that would eliminate a requirement that the Secretary encourage air and surface carriers to participate in the donation of frequent traveler miles, credits, and tickets. The amendment would also amend section 134 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to exempt recipients of frequent traveler miles, credits, and tickets authorized in this Act from tax liability for receipt of such frequent traveler miles, credits, or tickets.

Annual report identifying reasons for discharges from the Armed Forces during preceding fiscal year (sec. 586)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 587) that would require the Secretary of Defense to report annually to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives detailed information regarding the numbers of persons discharged from each of the military services in the preceding fiscal year.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment that would authorize the use of generic interservice separation codes providing similar, consistent data across the services in this report, and that would terminate the authority for this report after 1 March 2011.

Study of blended wing concept for the Air Force (sec. 587)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 589) that would require the Secretary of the Air Force to submit by March 1, 2005 a report on matters related to the Air Force's current implementation of and future plans for blended wings to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

In describing the manner in which current blended wings are functioning, the conferees request the Secretary of the Air Force to comment on the efficacy of the provisions of section 516 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004 (Public Law 108-136). The Secretary should include recommendations for legislative changes, if needed, to ensure the ability of officers of the Army or Air National Guard, called to active duty for the purpose of commanding a unit composed of both active and Reserve component personnel, to successfully perform their duties.

Sense of Congress regarding return of members to active-duty service upon rehabilitation from service-related injuries (sec. 588)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 575) that would find that in cases involving combat-related injuries or other service-related injuries, it is possible, as a result of advances in technology and extensive rehabilitative services, to restore to members of the Armed Forces sustaining such injuries the capability to resume active military service, including, in a few cases, the capability to participate directly in the performance of combat missions.

The provision would express the sense of the Senate that members of the Armed Forces who, on their own initiative, are highly motivated to return to active-duty service following rehabilitation from injuries incurred in service of the Armed Forces should, after appropriate medical review and physical disability evaluation, be given the opportunity to present their case for continuing service on active duty in varied military capacities. Additionally, the provision would express the sense of the Senate that there should be no barrier in policy or law to members having the option to return to military service on active duty, and that the Secretary of Defense should develop specific protocols that include options for such members to return to active-duty service and to be retrained to perform military missions for which they are fully capable.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would express a sense of Congress.

Subtitle M—Other Matters

Protection of Armed Forces personnel from retaliatory actions for communications made through the chain of command (sec. 591)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1069) that would amend section 1034 of title 10, United States Code, to allow a protected communication to be made to any person in the chain of command of a member of the Armed Forces making such a communication, as well as any other person or organization designated by regulations or other procedures for such communications.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Implementation plan for accession of persons with specialized skills (sec. 592)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 571) that would authorize the service secretaries to establish an alternate minimum military service obligation for accession of persons into the Armed Forces who have unique skills. The provision would also authorize establishment of expedited basic training requirements for certain individuals in order to allow the Department of Defense to meet exigent mission requirements.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense, not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act, to submit a plan for implementation of authority, if subsequently provided by law, to allow for accession into the Armed Forces of persons with specialized skills for duty involving the use of such skills. The Secretary would also be required to include a comparison of the plan submitted with an alternative plan of using civilian contractor personnel to meet the specialized skills required by the Armed Forces.

The conferees believe that there may be a valid requirement for an alternate minimum military service obligation for certain individuals and for expedited basic training that would justify exceptions under sections 651 and 671 of title 10, United States Code. The Department has not sufficiently explained, however, the manner in which such new authorities would be used and the potential effects such exceptional treatment of new accessions could have on other special or lateral entry programs. The conferees expect the Department to use the report to address these concerns.

The provision would also require the Secretary to conduct a feasibility study of how to implement a system that would make civilian volunteers, with skills determined by the Secretary to be critical, rapidly available for use in, or in support of, units of the Armed Forces on a temporary basis to meet no-notice or short-notice operational requirements. The requirement to conduct this feasibility study was included in the House bill (sec. 597) and is appropriately submitted in the context of better evaluating expedited, short-term manpower needs of the military services.

The conferees suggest that coordinating the foregoing feasibility study with the separate report required elsewhere in this Act on acceptance of voluntary services under section 1588 of title 10, United States Code, could be useful.

Enhanced screening methods and process improvements for recruitment of home schooled and National Guard Challenge program GED recipients (sec. 593)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 594) that would reestablish the pilot program under section 571 of the Strom Thurmond National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1999 (Public Law 105-261). This pilot program permitted participants in a National Guard Challenge Program who received a general education development (GED) certificate, and those who completed their high school requirements through a home schooling program to enlist in the Armed Forces as if they had received a high school diploma.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of the Army to carry out an initiative aimed at developing screening methods and process improvements for recruiting specified GED recipients. The purpose would be to achieve attrition patterns among the recruited recipients of a GED that match those of Army recruits who are high school diploma graduates and, following review by the Secretary of Defense, to implement such screening methods and process improvements on a test basis.

Redesignation of National Guard Challenge Program as National Guard Youth Challenge Program (sec. 594)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 573) that would change the name of the National Guard Challenge Program to the National Guard Youth Challenge Program. Additionally, the provision would phase in over three years an increase in the matching funds ratio to increase the amount of federal funds that may be provided to a State program.

The House bill contained no similar provision. The House recedes with an amendment that would redesignate the National Guard Challenge Program as the National Guard Youth Challenge Program.

The conferees were disappointed that the Secretary of Defense, in the report required by section 587 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004 (Public Law 108-136), did not provide alternatives to the current matching funds structure for the National Guard Youth Challenge Program. The conferees believe that such alternatives would provide greater flexibility in the management of the program to better respond to temporary fiscal conditions.

The conferees direct the Comptroller General to conduct a study of the National Guard Youth Challenge program to determine the effects of current fiscal constraints at the State level on the operation of individual programs. The study should assess the Department of Defense's oversight of the program, the efforts of both the Department and the States to secure alternative and supplemental funding support for the programs, and the impact of changes to the existing 60-40 DOD-to-State matching funds ratio.

Reports on certain milestones relating to Department of Defense transformation (sec. 595)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 597) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit reports to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives on implementation of transformational milestones identified by the Department of Defense.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment to remove the requirement for a feasibility study on a civilian skill corps.

The conferees expect that a study on the feasibility of a civilian skill corps will be conducted under authority provided elsewhere in this Act concerning accession of persons with specialized skills.

With respect to military-to-civilian conversions in Navy medical and dental fields that are proposed for fiscal year 2005, the conferees are concerned that the specialties targeted for conversion are those most needed by military families, including pediatrics, family practice, and pharmacy. The conferees urge not only the Secretary of the Navy but also the secretaries of the other military departments to ensure that plans for military-to-civilian conversions do not adversely affect the quality and access of military health care required by military families. The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to provide a report to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives not later than 90 days following enactment of this Act that describes the plans of each military department for military-to-civilian conversions of medical and dental personnel in fiscal year 2006.

Report on issues relating to removal of remains of persons interred in United States military cemeteries overseas (sec. 596)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 599) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense, upon application of a qualifying survivor, to authorize disinterment and removal of the remains of military personnel interred in overseas military cemeteries.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of the Army, in consultation with the American Battle Monuments Commission (ABMC), to examine the history of the overseas cemeteries and the processes used to ensure that the initial disposition decision was carried out, together with a review and explanation of the existing policy and procedures regarding requests for disinterment and any exceptions that have been made. Additionally, the examination should include an analysis of potential reasons for justifying disinterment or remains from overseas cemeteries and the potential impact on the operation of U.S. overseas military cemeteries of permitting disinterment of remains from those cemeteries. Not later than September 30, 2005, the Secretary would be required to submit a report to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives on the results of the examination, a description of the changes to policy that would be necessary to support a system for requesting and authorizing disinterment of remains, and the recommendations of the Secretary and the ABMC with respect to changes in policy and procedures with respect to such disinterments.

The conferees believe that a comprehensive examination and report on the history of the overseas military cemeteries and the reasons for the policy prohibiting disinterments is needed. Survivors of military veterans buried in the overseas military cemeteries must be assisted in every way possible in understanding the history of the overseas cemeteries and the reasons justifying the policy barring disinterments. The conferees express no opinion about this policy, however, to the extent that exceptions to the policy have been made or may be deemed warranted by the Secretary and the ABMC, survivors should have a clear understanding through the report that would be required by this provision of what burden of proof must be satisfied.

Comptroller General reports on closure of Department of Defense Dependent Elementary and Secondary Schools and commissary stores (sec. 597)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2845) that would require the Comptroller General of the United States to submit a report to the appropriate committees of Congress which includes an assessment of the policy and criteria utilized by the Department of Defense regarding the closure of schools and commissary stores, including whether or not such policy and criteria are consistent with policies and procedures on the preservation of the quality of life of members of the Armed Forces.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Comptroller General report on transition assistance programs for members separating from the Armed Forces (sec. 598)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1029A) that would require the Comptroller General to carry out a study of the programs of the Department of Defense and other departments and agencies of the Federal Government, including the Department of Veterans Affairs, under which transition assistance is provided to personnel who are separating from active-duty service in the Armed Forces. The report would include an analysis of the extent to which transition assistance programs authorized under sections 1142 and 1144 of title 10, United States Code, are adequate to meet the needs of the Reserve components, as well as recommendations by the Comptroller General to improve the content and uniformity of pre-separation counseling. The provision would also include an analysis of pre- and post-deployment health screening, and programs that are in place to identify and treat post-traumatic stress disorder and related health conditions.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment to clarify that the Comptroller General report will include an assessment of the quality and thoroughness of information being provided during the pre-separation briefings conducted by the Department of Veterans Affairs.

Study on coordination of job training standards with certification standards for military occupational specialties (sec. 599)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1029B) that would require the Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of Labor to jointly carry out a study on ways to coordinate the standards applied by the Armed Forces for the training and certification of members of the Armed Forces in military occupational specialties with the standards that are applied to corresponding civilian occupations by governmental and private sector certification agencies.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Length of service for service chiefs

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 501) that would authorize the President to extend the term of service of an officer serving as the Chief of Staff of the Army, the Chief of Naval Operations, the Commandant of the Marine Corps, or the Chief of Staff of the Air Force for a period of up to two years beyond the initial four-year appointment.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Modification of conditions of eligibility for waiver of joint duty credit requirement for promotion to general or flag officer

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 501) that would allow waivers of certain tour length requirements in cases in which an officer's proposed selection for promotion is based primarily upon a career field specialty, vice scientific and technical qualification, for which joint requirements do not exist. The provision would also eliminate the requirement that an officer serve in a joint duty assignment at least 180 days prior to the convening of a selection board for that officer to qualify for promotion to the rank of brigadier general or rear admiral (lower half).

The House bill had no similar provision regarding waivers of tour length requirements but a provision (sec. 532) that also repealed the requirement for 180 days service in a joint duty assignment before an officer may be considered for promotion to flag or general officer rank.

The Senate recedes.

Management of joint specialty officers

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 502) that would provide that officers shall be designated as joint specialty officers upon successfully completing, in any sequence, a program accredited by the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff that is offered by a joint professional military education institution and a full tour of duty in a joint duty assignment, or after completing two full tours of duty in joint duty assignments. This provision would also specify that general and flag officer positions identified as joint duty assignments must be filled by officers with joint specialty unless the Secretary of Defense determines that the assignment of officers without the joint specialty is necessary and waives the requirement.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Increase in age limit for deferral of mandatory retirement for up to 10 senior general and flag officers

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 503) that would increase from 64 to 66 the mandatory retirement age for senior general and flag officers whom the President had previously retained on active duty beyond the statutory limits on either time-in-grade or age.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Increased flexibility for voluntary retirement for military officers

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 504) that would require officers serving in grades above colonel or captain in the Navy to serve a minimum of one year time-in-grade before being allowed to retire in that grade. Additionally, the provision would modify existing law to give the authority to the secretary of the military department concerned to approve retirement of officers in grades above major general or rear admiral in the Navy with the concurrence of the Secretary of Defense.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Length of joint duty assignments

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 504) that would prescribe certain conditions under which officers would qualify to receive full credit for joint duty. The provision would also allow the Secretary of Defense to waive the applicability of section 664 of title 10, United States Code, if the Secretary determines that it is in the national security interests of the United States to do so.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Repeal of requirement that no more than 50 percent of active duty general and flag officers be in grades above brigadier general and rear admiral (lower half)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 505) that would repeal the limitation in section 525 of title 10, United States Code, that no more than 50 percent of general and flag officers in a military service on active duty can be in grades above brigadier general and rear admiral (lower half).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Revision to terms for assistants to the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff for National Guard and Reserve matters

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 506) that would authorize the assistants to the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff for National Guard and Reserve matters to serve an initial term of four years.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Repeal of distribution requirements for Naval Reserve flag officers

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 510) that would amend section 12004(c) of title 10, United States Code, and repeal the existing distribution of flag officer billets for staff corps officers in the U.S. Naval Reserve.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that the allocations for flag officer billets in section 12004(c) apply to the Medical Corps, Nurse Corps, Dental Corps, Judge Advocate General's Corps, Civil Engineer Corps, Supply Corps, Chaplain Corps, and Medical Service Corps of the U.S. Naval Reserve. At a time when the Naval Reserve is engaged in an ongoing zero-based review of Reserve component force structure and development of initiatives to improve the integration of the Active and Reserve components of the Navy, the conferees question the Department of Defense's position that flag officer allocations for these vital Naval Reserve staff corps communities should be totally eliminated in order to establish additional line and restricted line Naval Reserve flag officer billets. The conferees expect the Navy to provide the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives with additional information justifying modifications to existing allocations in section 12004(c) based on the results of its zero-based review.

Authority for Reserve officers to qualify as joint specialty officers

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 534) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to award the joint specialty officer designation to Reserve officers who have met the prescribed requirements for such designation.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees strongly support the inclusion of Reserve officers in the Department of Defense planning and policies regarding designation, career development, and management of officers skilled in joint matters. The conferees anticipate that the report on the applicability of the term "joint specialty officer" to qualified reservists, required by the Senate report accompanying S. 2400 (S. Rept. 108-260), will be useful in identifying legislative and regulatory changes needed to accomplish this goal. Additionally, the conferees expect the strategic plan linking joint officer development to overall missions and goals of the Department to fully address Reserve officer matters.

Ribbons to recognize completion of joint professional military education

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 542) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to award a military decoration to persons who have successfully completed joint professional military education phase I and to subsequently award a device to affix to the ribbon when a person has successfully completed joint professional military education phase II.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Increase in number of private-sector civilians who may be enrolled for instruction at National Defense University

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 543) that would increase the maximum number of eligible private-sector employees who may receive instruction at the National Defense University from 10 to 20.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Requirement for completion of phase I joint professional military education before promotion to colonel or Navy captain

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 544) that, with certain exceptions, would require that after September 30, 2007 officers on the active-duty list must complete joint professional military education phase I or phase II before being appointed to the grade of colonel or captain in the Navy.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Reduced blood alcohol content limit for offense of drunken operation of a vehicle, aircraft, or vessel

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 551) that would amend Article 111 of the Uniform Code of Military Justice (10 U.S.C. 911) to lower the permissible blood alcohol concentration for the offense of drunken operation of a vehicle, aircraft, or vessel from the lesser of 0.10 grams or the limit prescribed in the State in which the offense occurred to the lesser of 0.08 grams or the limit prescribed in the State in which the offense occurred.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Prayer at military service academy activities

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 556) that would authorize the superintendent of a service academy to establish a policy with respect to the offering of a voluntary, nondenominational prayer at an authorized activity of the academy.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Establishment of college financial assistance program for District of Columbia National Guard

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 560B) that would authorize the Department of Defense to provide financial assistance for college expenses, not to exceed $2,500 for any academic year, to eligible members of the National Guard of the District of Columbia.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Separate military campaign medals to recognize service in Operation Enduring Freedom and service in Operation Iraqi Freedom

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 561) that would require the President to establish separate campaign medals to recognize the service of members during Operation Enduring Freedom and Operation Iraqi Freedom.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 542).

This provision is not included in the conference report because it is unnecessary. On May 28, 2004, H.R. 3104, an Act to provide for the establishment of separate campaign medals to be awarded to members of the uniformed services who participate in Operation Enduring Freedom and Operation Iraqi Freedom, was enacted as Public Law 108-234.

Redesignation of inactive-duty training to encompass operational and other duties performed by Reserves while in inactive duty status

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 561) that would redesignate the duty status applicable to members of the Reserve components of the Armed Forces known as "inactive duty training" as "inactive duty."

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees acknowledge that the intent of the Department of Defense in requesting this statutory change is to more accurately reflect the current mission, capabilities, and actual utilization of the modern Reserve component. The conferees are concerned, however, that the full implications of this extensive change on the requirement for training and the priority to be given to training are not sufficiently defined or understood. The conferees urge the Department to demonstrate in its Reserve continuum of service and corresponding proposals for legislative change, its commitment to preserving periods of training in order to maintain readiness and core capabilities.

Eligibility of all uniformed services personnel for National Defense Service Medal

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 562) that would require the President to authorize the award of the National Defense Service Medal to members of the uniformed services.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Repeal of unnecessary duty status distinction for funeral honors duty

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 562) that would repeal section 12503 of title 10, United States Code, relating to funeral honors duty. Section 12503, which authorizes treatment of funeral honors duty as inactive duty training, would have been unnecessary in conjunction with renaming of "inactive duty training" as "inactive duty."

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Conforming amendments to other laws referring to inactive-duty training

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 563) that would conform certain provision in titles 5 and 38, United States Code, with the proposed change of the term "inactive duty training" to "inactive duty."

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Conforming amendments to other laws referring to funeral honors duty

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 564) that would conform certain provisions in titles 5 and 38, United States Code, with the proposed change of the term "inactive duty training" to "inactive duty" as it would apply to funeral honors duty.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Army combat recognition ribbon

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 566) that would require the Secretary of the Army to establish a combat recognition ribbon to recognize participation by members of the Army in combat.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Clarification of authority of military legal assistance counsel to provide military legal assistance without regard to licensing requirements

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 573) that would amend section 1044 of title 10, United States Code, to provide that a judge advocate or a civilian attorney authorized to provide military legal assistance may provide such assistance in any jurisdiction, notwithstanding any law regarding the licensing of attorneys and subject to regulations to be prescribed by the Secretary concerned.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that differing responses were received from the Department of Defense and the services as to the need for and advisability of such a change in law. Concerns were expressed as to the possible effect on judge advocates and federal civilian attorneys practicing outside the legal assistance area, if such a proposal is adopted. The conferees urge the Department to develop a unified position with regard to the need for such a statutory change, and to submit a legislative proposal, if necessary.

Appearance of veterans service organizations at pre-separation counseling provided by the Department of Defense

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 574) that would authorize the service secretaries to permit a representative from a veterans service organization to appear at and participate in pre-separation counseling for military members, authorized in section 1142 of title 10, United States Code. The provision would also authorize Reserve component units to meet with a veterans service organization upon release from active duty for the purpose of obtaining information and assistance.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees expect that the matter of participation by representatives from veterans service organizations in pre-separation counseling for members in both Active and Reserve components will be addressed in the Comptroller General's report on transition assistance programs for members separating from the Armed Forces required elsewhere in this Act.

Limitation on amendment or cancellation of Department of Defense directive relating to reasonable access to military installations for certain personal commercial solicitation

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 586) that would prohibit the Secretary of Defense from cancelling or amending Department of Defense (DOD) Directive 1344.7, "Personal Commercial Solicitation on DOD Installations," for a period of one year after the Government Accountability Office (GAO) reports to Congress on the findings of an ongoing review of the financial allotment system and the treatment of insurance agents by military finance offices and local managers and commanders at Department of Defense installations.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that the Statement of Managers accompanying the Department of Defense Appropriations Act for Fiscal Year 2005 (Public Law 108-287) prohibits the use of appropriated funds to amend or cancel DOD Directive 1344.7 until 90 days after the report of the results of the investigation regarding insurance premiums allotment processing is submitted.

In the statement of managers accompanying the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004 (Public Law 108-136), the conferees stated that the Department has taken appropriate steps to thoroughly consider and evaluate potential changes to personal commercial solicitation policies. The conferees believe sufficient time has elapsed for the Department to complete its evaluation. The Secretary is directed to submit a report on the status of its plans to effect changes to personal commercial solicitation policies, including any recommended changes or revisions to DOD Directive 1344.7, to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives by May 1, 2005.

Employment preferences for spouses of certain Department of Defense civilian employees subject to relocation agreements

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 591) that would expand the employment preference for spouses of Department of Defense civilian employees who have been assigned under a mandatory mobility agreement or similar mandatory mobility program. The authority would place spouses of civilian employees in an equivalent position to spouses of military members who already receive employment preferences.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Demonstration program on expanded use of Reserves to perform developmental testing, new equipment training, and related activities

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 862) that would authorize the Secretary of the Army to carry out a demonstration program through September 2009 on the assignment of members of Reserve components to perform test, evaluation, and related activities for acquisition programs.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Content of pre-separation counseling for personnel separating from active-duty service

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1029C) that would require that information on participation in Federal Government procurement opportunities be included in pre-separation counseling authorized by section 1142 of title 10, United States Code. The provision would also authorize the secretary concerned to provide pre-separation counseling at medical centers of the Department of Veterans Affairs and the Department of Defense with the consent of the member.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees expect that this requirement will be included in the Comptroller General report on transition assistance programs for members separating from the Armed Forces required elsewhere in this Act.

TITLE VI—COMPENSATION AND OTHER PERSONNEL BENEFITS

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Subtitle A—Pay and Allowances

Increase in basic pay for fiscal year 2005 (sec. 601)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 601) that would specify the requirement for increased pay for members of the Armed Forces by 3.5 percent effective January 1, 2005, and waiver of the adjustment required by section 1009 of title 37, United States Code.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision in view of the requirement regarding annual pay adjustment under section 1009(c)(2) of title 37, United States Code.

The Senate recedes.

Relationship between eligibility to receive supplemental subsistence allowance and eligibility to receive imminent danger pay, family separation allowance, and certain federal assistance (sec. 602)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 621) that would exclude the family separation allowance and special pay relating to duty subject to hostile fire or imminent danger from the calculation of household income for eligibility to receive the family supplemental subsistence allowance (FSSA). The provision would also exclude the amount of FSSA received by service members in determining the eligibility of their spouses and children for certain low income assistance programs, and require a report on the accessibility by members of the Armed Forces and their families to social services.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment that would eliminate the reporting requirement.

Authority to provide family separation basic allowance for housing (sec. 603)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 602) that would extend permissive authority to service secretaries to decline to pay family separation housing allowances when, in the secretaries' discretion, members' circumstances do not justify such payments.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees caution that it is not their intent that the service secretaries use the discretion provided in this provision to deny appropriate housing allowances to deserving service members and their families. The conferees intend that service members stationed worldwide should receive a family separation housing allowance in all cases when their families are prohibited from joining them at their current duty station and government-provided quarters are unavailable to the service members at their duty locations.

Geographic basis for housing allowance during short-assignment permanent changes of station for education or training (sec. 604)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 603) that would authorize service members who attend professional military education or training lasting 12 months or less to elect to leave their families at their previous duty station and receive basic allowance for housing based on the area where their dependents reside.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 601).

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Immediate lump-sum reimbursement for unusual nonrecurring expenses incurred for duty outside the continental United States (sec. 605)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 604) that would authorize the service secretary concerned to pay service members serving outside the continental United States for certain unusual nonrecurring expenses.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 602).

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Authority for certain members deployed in combat zones to receive limited advances on future basic pay (sec. 606)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 606) that would authorize the secretary concerned to pay advances on future basic pay for service members assigned to locations where they would receive imminent danger pay and their assignment is pursuant to orders specifying an assignment of one year or more or the assignment is extended beyond one year.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment that would require the service member to repay the advance in equal monthly installments over a one-year period beginning the month after the advance is received.

Repeal of requirement that members entitled to basic allowance for subsistence pay subsistence charges while hospitalized (sec. 607)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 661) that would repeal the requirement for officers and certain enlisted members to pay subsistence charges when they are hospitalized.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 711).

The Senate recedes with a technical amendment.

Subtitle B—Bonuses and Special and Incentive Pays

One-year extension of certain bonus and special pay authorities for Reserve forces (sec. 611)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 611) that would extend the authority for various bonuses and special pays for Active and Reserve members.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 611) that would extend for one year the authority to pay the Selected Reserve reenlistment bonus, the Selected Reserve enlistment bonus, the special pay for enlisted members assigned to certain high priority units in the Selected Reserve, the Selected Reserve affiliation bonus, the Ready Reserve enlistment and reenlistment bonus, and the prior service enlistment bonus.

The House recedes.

One-year extension of certain bonus and special pay authorities for certain health care professionals (sec. 612)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 611) that would extend the authority for various bonuses and special pays for Active and Reserve members, including certain health care professionals.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 612) that would extend for one year the authority to pay the nurse officer candidate accession bonus, the accession bonus for registered nurses, incentive special pay for nurse anesthetists, special pay for Selected Reserve health professionals in critically short wartime specialties, the accession bonus for dental officers, and to repay education loans for certain Selected Reserve health professionals.

The House recedes with an amendment that would also extend the authority to pay the accession bonus for pharmacy officers until December 31, 2005.

One-year extension of special pay and bonus authorities for nuclear officers (sec. 613)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 611) that would extend the authority for various bonuses and special pays for Active and Reserve members, including nuclear officers.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 613) that would extend for one year the authority to pay the special pay for nuclear-qualified officers extending their period of active service, the nuclear career accession bonus, and the nuclear career annual incentive bonus.

The House recedes.

One-year extension of other bonus and special pay authorities (sec. 614)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 611) that would extend the authority for various bonuses and special pays for Active and Reserve members.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 614) that would extend for one year the authority to pay the aviation officer retention bonus, assignment incentive pay, the reenlistment bonus for Active members, the enlistment bonus for Active members, the retention bonus for members with critical military skills, and the accession bonus for new officers in critical military skills.

The House recedes.

Authority to provide hazardous duty incentive pay to military firefighters (sec. 615)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 620) that would authorize a new hazardous duty incentive pay of $150 per month for members of the uniformed services who regularly perform duty as a member of a firefighting crew.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would modify section 301 of title 37, United States Code, to authorize incentive pay at a monthly rate not to exceed $150 per month for any month during which a member performs duty involving regular participation as a firefighting crew member, as determined by the secretary concerned.

Reduced service obligation for nurses receiving nurse accession bonus (sec. 616)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 612) that would reduce the service commitment required for the nurse accession bonus from four to three years of service.

The Senate amendment contained a similar amendment (sec. 615).

The House recedes with an amendment that the authority shall apply on or after the date of enactment of this Act.

Assignment incentive pay (sec. 617)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 614) that would require termination of assignment incentive pay when the member is placed on terminal leave and will not be returning to the assignment location.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 616) that would also delete the requirement for a written agreement between the secretary concerned and the member.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

The conferees believe that assignment incentive pay should be a highly flexible means of providing an incentive to members to volunteer for challenging assignments. In this regard, the conferees approve of the actions of the Department of Defense and the Department of the Army in supporting the Commander, U.S. Forces Korea, in aggressively using assignment incentive pay to provide stability and enhanced readiness for soldiers and units in the Republic of Korea.

The conferees also view assignment incentive pay as a responsive means for service secretaries, on a discretionary basis when mission accomplishment so requires, to appropriately compensate members who are called on to extend their service or tours of duty or otherwise serve in demanding assignments. The requirement for a written agreement under these circumstances is not required and should not be mandatory in all cases.

Modification of active and Reserve component reenlistment and enlistment bonus authorities (sec. 618)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 615) that would consolidate Active and Reserve Component reenlistment and enlistment bonus authorities. The provision would repeal certain special pay provisions and also extend eligibility for the reenlistment bonus through 17 years of service and authorize the use of the reenlistment bonus during war and national emergency to address unit specific retention problems without regard to critical skill eligibility requirements.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would authorize payment of an active-duty or Selected Reserve reenlistment bonus up to 16, vice 14, years of service and increase the maximum amount of the Selected Reserve reenlistment bonus from $5,000 to $15,000 for a reenlistment or extension of six years, from $2500 to $7,500 for a reenlistment or extension of three years, and from $2,000 to $6,000 for a reenlistment or extension of three years when the member has received a bonus for a previous three year enlistment. The amendment would also authorize lump sum payments of the foregoing bonuses.

The amendment would increase the maximum amount of the Selected Reserve enlistment bonus from $8,000 to $10,000; increase the Ready Reserve enlistment bonus for persons without prior service from $1,000 to $3,000; and increase the maximum amount of the prior service Ready Reserve bonus from $15,00 to $3,000 for a six year enlistment and from $750 to $1,500 for a three year enlistment. The amendment would authorize payment of the prior service enlistment bonus for the Selected Reserve for members who have not more than 16 years of total service. It would increase the maximum amount of the bonus from $8,000 to $15,000 for a six year enlistment, from $4,000 to $7,500 for a three year enlistment, and from $3,500 to $6,000 for a three year reenlistment or extension when the member has received a bonus for a previous three year enlistment.

Bonus for certain initial service of officers in the Selected Reserve (sec. 619)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 618) that would modify section 324 of title 37, United States Code, to authorize Reserve component officers to be paid an accession of affiliation bonus using the same authority used to pay active-duty officers.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 620) that would authorize an affiliation or accession bonus of up to $6,000 for certain commissioned officers in the Selected Reserve. The provision would help to access and affiliate officers in the Selected Reserve who possess or would train to acquire designated critical skills.

The House recedes with an amendment that would specify that a member entitled to a bonus under this provision who is called or ordered to active duty shall be paid, during that period of active duty, any amount of the bonus that becomes payable to the member during that period of active duty.

Revision of authority to provide foreign language proficiency pay (sec. 620)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 616) that would authorize the service secretary concerned to pay an annual bonus of up to $12,000 to members of the uniformed services who maintain proficiency in a foreign language.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would authorize the monthly rate for foreign language proficiency pay under section 316 of title 37, United States Code, to be determined by the secretary concerned but not to exceed $1,000. Additionally, the amendment would authorize payment of a bonus of up to $6,000 payable in a lump sum or installments for members of the Reserve component. The amendment would require that if a member of a Reserve component serving on active duty receives foreign language monthly special pay during any month for which the member receives a lump sum payment, the amount of the special pay paid to the member for the month shall be reduced by an amount equal to one-twelfth of the bonus amount.

Eligibility of enlisted members to qualify for critical skills retention bonus while serving on indefinite reenlistment (sec. 621)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 617) that would allow Reserve component members to be paid the critical skills retention bonus under the authority of section 323 of title 37, United States Code. The provision would also extend eligibility for the bonus through 17 years of service and, clarify that enlisted members serving pursuant to an indefinite enlistment would be eligible under certain conditions for receipt of the bonus.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 618) that would authorize enlisted personnel serving on indefinite reenlistments in designated critical military skills to receive a critical skills retention bonus on the condition that they enter into a written agreement to remain on active duty for at least one year under such enlistments.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

The conferees believe that initiatives to consolidate or extend bonus authorities in the absence of Department of Defense legislative proposals are premature. The Department has indicated that a Defense Advisory Committee on Military Compensation will be appointed by the Secretary of Defense to conduct a comprehensive review of military compensation from the perspective of both the Active and Reserve forces. This Advisory Committee on Military Compensation will perform a comprehensive review and strategic assessment of military pay and benefits with a view towards simplifying and balancing pays to maintain a competitive edge in recruiting and retention. Upon completion of its work, which is anticipated in the late summer of 2005, the advisory committee will publish its conclusions and recommendations and transmit those to the Secretary of Defense. The conferees also expect that the Commission on National Guard and Reserves will contribute to a better informed resolution of questions about potential reform to title 37, United States Code.

Eligibility of Reserve component members for incentive bonus for conversion to military occupational specialty to ease personnel shortage (sec. 622)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 619) that would allow Reserve component members to be paid bonuses for converting to, and serving for a period of not less than three years, in military occupational specialties for which there is a shortage of trained and qualified personnel.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would provide that a bonus under this provision may not exceed $2,000.

Permanent increase in authorized amounts for imminent danger special pay and family separation allowance (sec. 623)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1533) that would make permanent the increase in the rate of imminent danger pay from $150 per month to $225 per month and the increase in the rate of family separation allowance from $100 per month to $250 per month.

The Senate amendment contained similar provisions (sec. 603 and 617).

The Senate recedes with a technical amendment.

Subtitle C—Travel and Transportation Allowances

Travel and transportation allowances for family members to attend burial ceremony or memorial service of member who dies on duty (sec. 631)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 631) that would clarify that family members are authorized to travel at government expense to the burial site of a member who dies while on duty, and that the member's parents are always eligible to travel at government expense to attend the burial ceremony. The House bill included a $2.0 million ceiling on expenditures in fiscal year 2005 for this purpose.

The Senate amendment included a similar provision (sec. 631), but did not include a ceiling on expenditures in fiscal year 2005.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Transportation of family members incident to serious illness or injury of members of the uniformed services (sec. 632)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 632) that would expand the number and categories of family members and other people that would be entitled to transportation at government expense, and would authorize such persons to receive a per diem or be reimbursed for travel expenses.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would limit the number of family members authorized transportation and travel expenses to three, and would provide authority for the Secretary concerned to waive the limitation on the number of family members in circumstances determined to be appropriate.

Reimbursement for certain lodging costs incurred in connection with dependent student travel (sec. 633)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 633) that would authorize the secretary concerned to reimburse a service member for lodging costs incurred by a dependent child traveling between the child's school and the member's overseas duty station when the lodging expenses are incurred for reasons beyond the control of the dependent child.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 632).

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Subtitle D—Retired Pay and Survivor Benefits

Computation of high-36 month average for Reserve component members retired for disability while on active duty or dying while on active duty (sec. 641)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 641) that would modify the rules controlling the computation of retirement pay and survivor annuities for Reserve component members who are entitled to retired pay for physical disability under sections 1201 and 1202 of title 10, United States Code. The provision would permit more equitable treatment of these Reserve component members by calculating the average of monthly basic pay for purposes of pay and annuity payments as if they had been entitled to basic pay for the 36 months preceding their retirement, regardless of whether the member served the entire period on active duty.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Repeal of phase-in of concurrent receipt of retired pay and veterans' disability compensation for military retirees with service-connected disabilities rated as 100 percent (sec. 642)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 643) that would modify section 1414 of title 10, United States Code, to repeal the requirement for phase-in of concurrent receipt of retired pay and veterans' disability compensation for military retirees with service-connected disabilities rated as 100 percent.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Death benefits enhancement (sec. 643)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 642) that would index the amount of the death gratuity payable under section 1478 of title 10, United States Code, to the average percentage of the increase in rates of basic pay taking effect each year. Additionally, the amendment would require the President to submit draft legislation to Congress that would increase the maximum benefit provided under Servicemembers' Group Life Insurance (SGLI) to $350,000 and allow a minimum SGLI benefit of $100,000 at no cost for members who elect the maximum coverage. The amendment would also establish an additional set of death benefits, retroactive to October 7, 2001, for survivors of members who die in the line of duty or as a result of hostile action consisting of the total amount of basic pay, allowances, and special pays a member would have received for one or two years respectively. The amendment would also require the budget for fiscal year 2006 to include funds for the implementation of the foregoing enhanced benefits.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the President, at the same time he transmits to Congress the budget for fiscal year 2006, to submit assessments and recommendations on legislation, including budgetary implications for the legislation described in the Senate amendment.

Phased elimination of two-tier annuity computation for surviving spouses under Survivor Benefit Plan (sec. 644)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 641) that would phase in from October 2005 to March 2008 elimination of the Social Security offset under the Survivor Benefit Plan (SBP), and increase the annuities paid to survivors of military retirees who are 62 or older. The provision would also make corresponding adjustments to the SBP supplemental annuity program and require SBP annuities to be recalculated during October 2005, April 2006, April 2007, and April 2008.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 644) that would phase in from October 2005 to October 2014 elimination of the Social Security offset under the SBP.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would eliminate the requirement that participating retirees continue to pay premiums for supplemental SBP coverage effective on the date of enactment of this Act. Retired members who choose supplemental SBP coverage during the open enrollment period, which would begin on October 1, 2005, would have their additional premium phased out from 2005 through 2008.

One-year open enrollment period for Survivor Benefit Plan commencing October 1, 2005 (sec. 645)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 642) that would authorize an open enrollment period for retired members to participate in the Survivor Benefit Plan (SBP) or to increase the level of their participation if they were previously participating below the maximum allowed level. The provision would authorize the Secretary of Defense to require retirees who enroll to pay an additional premium not to exceed 4.5 percent of the retiree's base amount.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 645) that would authorize an open enrollment period similar to that authorized by section 642 of the Strom Thurmond National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1999 (Public Law 105-261). The open enrollment period under the Senate amendment would last for one year beginning on October 1, 2005. The premium would be calculated based on the total amount of the premiums, plus interest, by which members' retired pay would have been reduced if they had elected to participate in the SBP at the first opportunity that they had been afforded.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment that would give eligible retirees during the open enrollment period the option of purchasing temporary supplemental SBP coverage that would be phased out by 2008 when the two-tier SBP system is terminated.

Subtitle E—Commissary and Nonappropriated Fund Instrumentality Benefits

Consolidation and reorganization of legislative provisions regarding defense commissary system and exchanges and other morale, welfare, and recreation activities (sec. 651)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 651) that would consolidate and reorganize a wide range of sections from title 10, United States Code, and related laws concerning commissaries, exchanges and other morale, welfare, and recreation activities. The provision would define the commissary benefit; specify criteria for establishment, sizing, and closure of commissaries; and address other commissary management matters.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would define commissary and exchange systems, and clarify that the purpose of the systems is to enhance the quality of life of members of the uniformed services, retired members, and dependents of such members; and to support military readiness, recruitment, and retention. The amendment would require the designation of a senior official to oversee both systems and an executive governing body to ensure complimentary operations of both systems. The amendment would authorize the Secretary of Defense to consider the quality of life of the Reserve components whenever assessing whether to close a commissary store, and would clarify that the closure of a commissary store at an installation not closing under a base closure law would not take effect until 90 days after the Secretary notifies Congress of the reasons for such closure.

The amendment would authorize the Secretary to conduct a test program on the sale of telephone cards, film, and one-time use cameras. Within 90 days of the completion of one year of testing, the Secretary would report findings and recommendations to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives. The amendment would require the report to include an analysis of the actual impact of the sale of such items on the exchange dividend and any recommendations for changes in legislation that may be necessary. The amendment would require the Comptroller General to conduct a study to evaluate the impact of the expansion of categories of merchandise authorized for sale in commissary stores and its impact on the exchange dividend.

The conferees expect that the oversight body established by this Act will include military members. The conferees also expect that for items procured from the exchange, any revenue above the commissary purchase price of other merchandise items, shall be accounted for and allocated as if it were a uniform sales price surcharge. Finally, the conferees expect the Secretary to maintain the decor, format, and product selection in military commissaries consistent with modern grocery store norms.

Consistent State treatment of Department of Defense Nonappropriated Fund Health Benefits Program (sec. 652)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 652) that would clarify that the Nonappropriated Fund Uniform Health Benefits Program of the Department of Defense is not subject to State, local and territorial taxes, fees, other monetary payment, or health plan mandates.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1106).

The Senate recedes with a technical amendment.

Subtitle F—Other Matters

Eligibility of members for reimbursement of expenses incurred for adoption placements made by foreign governments (sec. 661)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 652) that would amend section 1052(g) of title 10, United States Code, to include within the definition of "qualified adoption agency" a foreign government or an agency authorized by a foreign government to place children for adoption. Section 1052 authorizes reimbursement of expenses for certain members of the Armed Forces who adopt children. Although that statute includes intercountry adoptions, the definition of qualified adoption agency does not include either foreign governments or agencies authorized by such governments to place children. Otherwise eligible members who adopt children while on duty outside the United States have been forced to re-adopt them through a domestic agency upon their return to the United States in order to be reimbursed. The provision would authorize reimbursement of expenses for such intercountry adoptions, if the child is either eligible for automatic United States citizenship or has been issued a certificate of citizenship under the Immigration and Nationality Act.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees expect that the Secretary of Defense will make the necessary adjustments, including extending the period allowed under regulations for filing for reimbursement, to accommodate members who are outside the United States on military orders.

Clarification of education loans qualifying for education loan repayment program for Reserve component health professions officers (sec. 662)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 662) that would clarify that college loans involving both a basic professional degree and graduate education would qualify for repayment under section 16302 of title 10, United States Code.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 619).

The Senate recedes.

Receipt of pay by reservists from civilian employers while on active duty in connection with a contingency operation (sec. 663)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1068) that would modify section 209 of title 18, United States Code, to permit a member of the Reserves on active duty pursuant to a call or order to active duty to receive payment of any part of the salary or wages that a civilian employer would have paid if the reservist's employment had not been interrupted by the order to active duty.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Relief for mobilized reservists from certain federal agricultural loan obligations (sec. 664)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 655) that would authorize forgiveness of interest payments due under section 1981f of title 7, United States Code, while borrowers are mobilized military reservists. The provision would also authorize deferral of principal payments due while or after borrowers are mobilized reservists, and direct that borrowers who receive assistance under this provision would not be considered to be delinquent or receiving debt forgiveness for purpose of receiving direct or guaranteed loans under title 7, United States Code.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Survey and analysis of effect of extended and frequent mobilization of reservists for active-duty service on reservist income (sec. 665)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 663) that would require the Secretary of Defense to conduct a detailed study of the loss of income by mobilized reservists who have served on active-duty in support of a contingency operation following September 11, 2001.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment to ensure that all sources of income are reported by the member in response to the survey.

The conferees believe that accurate information regarding loss of income is an important prerequisite to future congressional action, and acknowledge the need to better understand the impact of any such loss of income on members with skills in high demand for deployments.

Study of disability benefits for veterans of service in the Armed Forces with service-connected disabilities (sec. 666)

The conferees agree to a provision that would require the Secretary of Defense to conduct a study of the totality of all current and projected disability benefits that are available to disabled members and former members of the Armed Forces for service-connected disabilities. The study would compare the disability benefits for members of the Armed Forces with commercial and other private sector disability benefits plans, and identify the Department of Defense personnel policy changes needed to enhance the financial and nonfinancial benefits that are provided to members and former members of the Armed Forces for service-connected disabilities. The Secretary's report would include conclusions resulting from the study and recommended legislation to address the deficiencies in the system of Federal Government disability benefits for disabled members and former members of the Armed Forces.

The provision would require the Comptroller General to study the disability benefits that are available for employees of the Federal, State and local governments, especially those provided for disabilities incurred in the performance of jobs in which employees perform tasks with risks that are similar to the risks associated with military service.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Income replacement payments for Reserves experiencing extended mobilization for active-duty service

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 605) that would require the Secretary of Defense to pay involuntarily mobilized Reserve members on a monthly basis the amount necessary to replace the difference in income between their regular military compensation plus special pays and allowances and the average monthly income received by the member during the 12 months preceding the month in which the member was mobilized. Payments would be limited to a minimum of $50 each month and a maximum of $3,000 each month.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1110) that would amend chapter 55 of title 5, United States Code, to require federal agencies to pay any difference between military and civilian compensation for federal employees who, as members of the uniformed services or National Guard, were called to active-duty service in support of a national emergency since October 11, 2002.

These provisions were not included in the conference report because funding was not appropriated for Reserve income replacement payments to either Reserve members or federal government agencies.

Increase in maximum monthly rate authorized for hardship duty pay

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 613) that would increase from $300 to $750 the maximum amount of special pay that may be paid to members performing duty designated by the Secretary of Defense as hardship duty under section 305 of title 37, United States Code.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Source of funds for Survivor Benefit Plan annuities for Department of Defense beneficiaries over age 62

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 643) that would direct that the payments made into the Department of Defense Military Retirement Fund, which is funding the increases in this Act, to the cost of the Survivor Benefit Plan would be made directly by the Secretary of the Treasury.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Cooperation and assistance for qualified scouting organizations serving dependents of members of the Armed Forces and civilian employees overseas

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 653) that would require that professional staff supporting both the Boy Scouts of America and the Girl Scouts of the United States of America in overseas areas be made non-appropriated fund employees of the United States and would clarify that appropriated funds may be used to pay the costs of the employees.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Child care for children of members of Armed Forces on active duty for Operation Enduring Freedom or Operation Iraqi Freedom

The Senate amendment (sec. 654) would authorize the Secretary of Defense to provide funds, to the extent that funds are available for such purpose, to secure access to child care at State licensed child care and development programs in the private sector for members serving in Operation Enduring Freedom and Operation Iraqi Freedom, who are geographically disbursed and do not have practical access to a military child development center.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees acknowledge that the Department of Defense has authority under section 1798 of title 10, United States Code, to subsidize the cost of child and youth services in the private sector, and has initiated programs to provide affordable, quality child care and youth service options for families of activated Guard and Reserve members. Such initiatives include partnerships with civilian child care referral agencies, and the Department of Defense Military One Source referral services available to all members.

TITLE VII—HEALTH CARE PROVISIONS

Subtitle A—Enhanced Benefits for Reserves

TRICARE coverage for members of Reserve components who commit to continued service in the Selected Reserve after release from active duty (sec. 701)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 706) that would authorize TRICARE coverage for each member of the Ready Reserve while in a non-active duty status. The provision would authorize the same benefits for members of the Reserve components as a member on active duty or a dependent of an active-duty member, based on a premium payment by the member. The amount of the monthly premium required of the member would be 28 percent of the total amount determined by the Secretary of Defense as being reasonable for the TRICARE coverage. TRICARE coverage for Reserves in a non-active duty status would commence following expiration of transitional health care benefits authorized in section 1145, title 10, United States Code. The amendment would not extend TRICARE eligibility to federal employees entitled to Federal Employee Health Benefits Plan coverage under chapter 89 of title 5, United States Code.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment to authorize TRICARE coverage for Reserves in a non-active duty status for members of Reserve components called or ordered to active duty on or after September 11, 2001 in support of a contingency operation, and who commit to continued service in the Selected Reserve after release from active duty. For each period of 90 consecutive days of extended active-duty service, the Reserve member would be entitled to one year of TRICARE coverage while in a non-active duty status under the TRICARE Standard option. The amendment would authorize one year of coverage for a member who is otherwise eligible but does not serve continuously on active duty for 90 days because of an injury, illness, or disease incurred or aggravated while deployed. The amendment would also require payment of a premium by the Reserve member equal to 28 percent of the total amount determined by the Secretary as being reasonable for TRICARE coverage, and execution by the member of a service agreement. The amendment would be in effect within 180 days of enactment of this Act, and would require the Secretary to take all necessary actions to ensure that members eligible for TRICARE coverage receive information on the opportunity to enter into such an agreement.

Comptroller General report on the cost and feasibility of providing private health insurance stipends for members of the Ready Reserves (sec. 702)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 702) that would require the Comptroller General to conduct a study on the cost and feasibility of providing a stipend to members of the Ready Reserves to offset the cost of continuing private health insurance when the member is on active duty for more than 30 days.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Permanent earlier eligibility date for TRICARE benefits for members of Reserve components and their dependents (sec. 703)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 703) that would make permanent the temporary authority for dependents of Reserve component members to obtain TRICARE benefits up to 90 days before the date on which the member's period of active duty is to begin.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 702).

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Waiver of certain deductibles under TRICARE program for members on active duty for a period of more than 30 days (sec. 704)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 704) that would authorize the waiver of certain deductibles required by certain TRICARE programs for dependents of certain Reserve component members who are called or ordered to active duty for a period of more than 30 days.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 703).

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Authority for payment by United States of additional amounts billed by health care providers to activated Reserves (sec. 705)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 705) that would protect a dependent of a member of a Reserve component who is ordered to active duty for a period of more than 30 days in support of a contingency operation from paying a health care provider any amount above the TRICARE maximum allowable charge.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 704).

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Permanent extension of transitional health care benefits and addition of requirement for preseparation physical examination (sec. 706)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 706) that would make permanent the authority to provide Transition Assistance Medical Program benefits to service members and their dependents for up to 180 days following separation from active duty. The provision would require that eligibility for transition benefits would cease prior to the 180-day limit if the beneficiaries acquire employer-provided insurance. The provision would also limit outlays provided after January 1, 2005, to not more than $170.0 million.

The Senate amendment included a provision (sec. 705) that would make permanent the authority to provide transition benefits for 180 days following separation from active duty for certain Active and Reserve members. The provision would require that as part of such transitional health care coverage, each member shall undergo a comprehensive physical examination before separating from active-duty service.

The House recedes with an amendment that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to prescribe in regulations the content of the physical provided to each member immediately before separation. The amendment would also authorize a waiver of the requirement for a physical examination if a member has undergone a physical examination within 12 months before the scheduled date of separation, and would require that a waiver may be granted only with the consent of the member and the member's unit commander.

Subtitle B—Other Benefits Improvements

Opportunity for young child dependent of deceased member to become eligible for enrollment in a TRICARE dental plan (sec. 711)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 711) that would permit certain young children, who are dependents of service members who die while on active duty, to enroll in the TRICARE dental insurance program, regardless of the dependent's dental plan enrollment status on the date of the service member's death. Many young children, due to their age, are not enrolled in the TRICARE dental plan.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 712).

The House recedes.

Comptroller General report on provision of health, education, and support services for Exceptional Family Member Program enrollees (sec. 712)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 712) that would require the Comptroller General to evaluate the effect of the Exceptional Family Member Program on health and support services in selected civilian communities near military installations with a high concentration of Exceptional Family Member Program enrollees, and to submit a report to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives no later than March 31, 2005.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would include in the Comptroller General's assessment an evaluation of education services, including early childhood intervention and special education services required by Exceptional Family Member Program enrollees. The amendment would also require the report to be submitted no later than one year after the date of enactment of this Act. The conferees specifically request that the report include an assessment of the services available for family members with autism.

Continuation of sub-acute care for transition period (sec. 713)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 714) that would allow the Secretary of Defense to extend previous benefits for part-time or intermittent home health care after the transition to new managed care contracts that result in a change of benefits.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 718).

The House recedes.

Improvements to pharmacy benefits program (sec. 714)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 715) that would prohibit the prescription drug cost-sharing requirements for Medicare-eligible TRICARE beneficiaries from being in excess of the cost-sharing requirements applicable to non-Medicare-eligible beneficiaries.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to consider additional determinations by the Department of Defense Pharmacy and Therapeutics Committee of the relative clinical and cost-effectiveness of the agents for a preferred formulary status at military treatment facilities.

Professional accreditation of military dentists (sec. 715)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 716) that would allow the secretaries of the military departments to authorize the treatment of no more than 2,000 children under the age of 13 per year at certain military facilities offering residency training programs in oral and maxillofacial surgery and orthodontics.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 713).

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Temporary authority for waiver of collection of payments due for CHAMPUS benefits received by disabled persons unaware of loss of CHAMPUS eligibility (sec. 716)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 718) that would allow the Secretary of Defense to waive the collection of certain payments for health care services provided during a period of ineligibility between July 1, 1999 and December 31, 2004 for beneficiaries under age 65 entitled to Medicare on the basis of disability or end stage renal disease. The waiver would apply to those beneficiaries who were unaware of their loss of eligibility to receive health benefits at the time they were received. The provision also required a quarterly report to Congress on efforts to identify such individuals and actions taken when individuals are determined to be ineligible.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 719) with no reporting requirement.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Services of marriage and family therapists (sec. 717)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 714) that would clarify that certified marriage and family therapists can serve as health care professionals under sections 1091 and 1094 of title 10, United States Code.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees clarify that the term "marriage and family therapist" includes masters-level prepared psychologists who are licensed in marriage and family therapy.

Chiropractic health care benefits advisory committee (sec. 718)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 715) that would require the Secretary of Defense to establish a Chiropractic Health Care Benefits Advisory Committee to provide advice regarding the implementation of chiropractic benefits for active-duty members, and would require the Committee to meet no fewer than three times in each fiscal year beginning in 2005.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would clarify that not less than three committee members appointed by the Secretary must be practicing representatives of the chiropractic health care profession. The amendment would also require that the Secretary submit a copy of the advisory committee report to the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives, including an explanation of the criteria used to determine full implementation of the current program, and views with regard to future implementation of chiropractic health care benefits.

Subtitle C—Planning, Programming, and Management

Pilot program for health care delivery (sec. 721)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 721) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to conduct a pilot program for health care delivery to test a model for future health care delivery systems at one or more military installations where the military population is expected to expand. The model would focus on coordinating and leveraging the use of existing health care resources, to include federal, state, local, and contractor assets, to meet increased health care requirements.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would authorize the Secretary to conduct a health care delivery pilot program at two or more military installations for the purpose of testing a model of health care delivery that builds cooperative health care arrangements between military installations and local and regional civilian health care systems.

The conferees find that with increasing requirements to repair or replace aging military treatment facilities and potential realignment of forces, the Department of Defense will be challenged to find new ways of providing enhanced health care for beneficiaries entitled to military health care.

Study of provision of travel reimbursement to hospitals for certain military disability retirees (sec. 722)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 722) that would require the Secretary of Defense to conduct a study of the feasibility and desirability of providing retirees with combat-related disabilities travel and transportation benefits to receive medical treatment at military hospitals for two years after their retirement. The provision would also require the Secretary to report the results of the study to the congressional defense committees by March 1, 2005.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would include all military disability retirees in the study.

Study of mental health services (sec. 723)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 723) that would require the Secretary of Defense to conduct a study of mental health services available to members of the Armed Forces, to include an evaluation of the availability and effectiveness of mental health treatment and screening resources for members before and after deployment, and for the families of deployed members. The provision would also require an assessment of obstacles that prevent members of the Armed Forces and their families from obtaining mental health services, as well as identification of mental health problems unique to members of the Reserve component.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Comptroller General to conduct the study and submit a report to Congress by March 31, 2005. The amendment would also require the report to include recommendations for removing any obstacles to obtaining mental health services for members of the Reserve component.

The conferees support the recommendations made by the Army's Mental Health Advisory Team and direct the Secretary of the Army to provide a report by March 1, 2005, on the implementation of recommendations for providing mental health assistance to soldiers wanting help and educating soldiers on how to obtain help from forward-deployed mental health units.

Policy for timely notification of next of kin of members seriously ill or injured in combat zones (sec. 724)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 367) that would require the Secretary of Defense, not later than 120 days after the date of enactment of this Act, to prescribe the policy for providing timely notification to the next of kin of the status, including health and location of members of the Armed Forces who are seriously ill or injured in a combat zone. The provision also authorized an increase of $10.0 million in research, development, test and evaluation funding for medical equipment and combat casualty care technologies.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

The conferees honor the sacrifice of the members of the Armed Forces who have been killed or wounded while bravely serving in ongoing military operations and the heroic efforts of the medical personnel of the Armed Forces in treating wounded military personnel and civilians under combat conditions. In view of modern communications capabilities, the conferees believe the Department of Defense's current policies relating to notification of next of kin about service members who have been seriously wounded or are gravely ill must be revised to include appropriate standards aimed at ensuring timely and ongoing communication, consistent with the desires of individual service members.

The conferees agree to an increase of $5.3 million for combat casualty care technologies, which is reflected in the tables for title II of this Act.

Revised funding methodology for military retiree health care benefits (sec. 725)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1541) that would revise the process for funding the annual payments that are required to be paid into the Department of Defense Medicare-Eligible Retiree Health Care Accrual Fund. Beginning in fiscal year 2006, the Secretary of the Treasury would make the annual payments from the general fund of the Treasury.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to transmit certifications required under this Act to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives immediately upon transmission to the Secretary of the Treasury.

The conferees expect that the transmission of funding certifications will include all determinations by the Secretary of Defense concerning the amounts required for deposit into the Medicare-Eligible Retiree Health Care Accrual Fund beginning in fiscal year 2006.

Grounds for presidential waiver of requirement for informed consent or option to refuse regarding administration of drugs not approved for general use (sec. 726)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 716) that would limit to national security interests the grounds on which the President could deny a service member the right to refuse an investigational new drug or product not approved for general use.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

TRICARE program regional directors (sec. 727)

The conferees agree to include a provision which would require the Secretary of Defense to develop and report to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives by March 1, 2005 recommendations for a formal TRICARE Regional Director selection process. The selection process would require the Secretary of each military department to nominate one commissioned officer in a grade above colonel or, for the Navy in a grade above the grade of captain, or a member of the Senior Executive Service. The provision would require that the recommendations of the Secretary include the qualifications for Regional Directors, the period of assignment of a commissioned officer as a Regional Director and other requirements as prescribed by the Secretary.

The conferees expect that, among other duties as prescribed by the Secretary, the TRICARE Regional Director will be responsible for ensuring the adequacy of the number and types of civilian TRICARE providers, both in civilian networks and those who participate in the TRICARE Standard program. The conferees expect that the Regional Director will consider the requirement for the availability of TRICARE Standard providers to support members of the Reserve components and their families who are eligible to participate in TRICARE Standard, as authorized elsewhere in this Act.

Subtitle D—Medical Readiness Tracking and Health Surveillance

Medical readiness plan and Joint Medical Readiness Oversight Committee (sec. 731)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1301) that would require the Secretary of Defense to develop a comprehensive plan to improve medical readiness, and Department of Defense tracking of the health status of members of the Armed Forces; and to strengthen medical readiness tracking before, during, and after deployment of members of the Armed Forces overseas. The provision would also require the establishment by the Secretary of a Joint Medical Readiness Oversight Committee to advise the Secretary of Defense on medical readiness and health status of the members of the Active and Reserve components of the Armed Forces and to oversee the development of the comprehensive medical readiness plan required elsewhere in this Act.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment to include the Vice Chiefs of the military services as members of the committee, and a requirement that each year, before the committee submits its report to Congress, that the Secretary shall provide an opportunity for representatives of veterans and military health advocacy organizations, and others the Secretary of Defense considers appropriate, to comment on the report. The amendment requires that the report submitted to Congress shall include a summary of the comments received and the Secretary's response to them.

The conferees are concerned that a report published by the Comptroller General in September 2004, entitled "DoD Needs to Address Long-term Reserve Force Availability and Related Mobilization and Demobilization Issues," continues to identify problems in the management of the health status of Reserve forces by the Department of Defense. The report finds that, "DoD's ability to effectively manage the health status of its reserve forces is limited because its centralized database has missing and incomplete health records and it has not maintained full visibility over reserve component members with medical problems." The conferees expect the committee and the comprehensive plan authorized in this Act to promptly address the ongoing issues identified by the Comptroller General for the Reserve component, as well as all those matters concerning medical readiness, health surveillance, and force health protection for both active-duty and Reserve components delineated in this Act.

Medical readiness of Reserves (sec. 732)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1302) that would require the Comptroller General to conduct a study of the health of members of the Reserve components who have been ordered to active duty in support of Operation Enduring Freedom and Operation Iraqi Freedom. The study would review the health and medical fitness of Reserves when they were ordered to active duty, the effects of their health status on planning and deployment schedules, and compliance by military personnel with Department of Defense policies on medical and physical fitness applicable to the reserve components. The provision would also require health assessments not less frequently than once every two years, using the pre-deployment health assessments required under section 1074f of title 10, United States Code, as the minimum standard. The provision would require the review of pre-deployment health assessments by a medical professional and any follow-up care that is required by the member. The Senate provision would further require improvement to the pre-deployment assessment form currently in use by the Department, and development of a uniform policy on deferral of medical treatment pending deployment to theaters of operations.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment to clarify that follow-up care and treatment provided to Reserve members is care that is otherwise authorized for medical and dental readiness.

Baseline health data collection program (sec. 733)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1303) that would require the Secretary of Defense to collect baseline health data from each person entering the Armed Forces, and to provide for the computerized compilation and maintenance of the data. The provision would also establish interim standards for blood sampling, not less than 60 days prior to deployment and not later than 30 days after the date on which the deployment ends.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment to require that blood samples be drawn not earlier than 120 days before the date of deployment. The amendment would require the application of interim standards for blood sampling unless the Joint Medical Readiness Oversight Committee established elsewhere in this Act recommends, and the Secretary approves, a different standard.

The conferees expect that in the development of the health baseline data collection program required by this title, the Department of Defense will work jointly with the Department of Veterans Affairs to examine coding and terminology for all computerized medical data systems to ensure compatibility with those computerized medical data systems of the Department of Veterans Affairs. The conferees acknowledge that much progress has been made in achieving compatibility of medical information systems, both in the clinical setting, such as the Federal Health Information Exchange, and in support of field operational units, such as the Special Operations Forces Medics system. The conferees urge the Department of Defense to continue such efforts with the Department of Veterans Affairs, which are necessary to improve continuity of care.

Medical care and tracking and health surveillance in the theater of operations (sec. 734)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1304) that would require the Secretary of Defense to establish a policy on health record keeping in the theater of operations, and to evaluate and report to Congress on the strengths and weaknesses and recommend changes to mandatory record keeping systems for military personnel in the theater. The report would also include a summary of scientific literature on blood sampling, and a recommendation for changes to regulations and standards for blood sampling. The provision would require that the Secretary develop a plan for obtaining all records of medical treatment provided to members of the Armed Forces by allies of the United States in Operation Enduring Freedom and Operation Iraqi Freedom. The provision would also require the Secretary to prescribe a policy on the collection and dissemination of in-theater individual personnel location data.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Declassification of information on exposures to environmental hazards (sec. 735)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1305) that would require the Secretary of Defense to review and revise as appropriate the classification policies of the Department of Defense to facilitate the declassification of data that is potentially useful for monitoring and assessing the health of members of the Armed Forces who have been exposed to environmental hazards during overseas deployments.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Report on training on environmental hazards (sec. 736)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1306) that would require a report by the Secretary of Defense to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives on the training on environmental hazards that is provided by the Armed Forces to medical personnel who are deployed to the field in support of combat personnel. The provision would also require a report to congressional defense committees on actions taken by Department of Defense officials in response to health concerns expressed by members of the Armed Forces during post-deployment health assessments.

The House recedes with an amendment to remove the reporting requirement on actions taken by Department officials in response to health concerns expressed by members of the Armed Forces during post-deployment health assessments from this provision.

The conferees intend that the report required by this provision on actions taken by Department officials to health concerns expressed by members of the Armed Forces during post- deployment health assessments will be addressed by a reporting requirement elsewhere in this Act.

Uniform policy for meeting mobilization-related medical care needs at military installations (sec. 737)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1307) that would require the Secretary of Defense to prescribe through regulations a policy to ensure that anticipated health needs of members of the Armed Forces at mobilization installations can be met at those installations. The policy would include procedures for arrangements for health care provided by the Secretary of Veterans Affairs, services of local health care providers, and temporary employment of health care personnel at such installations.

The House bill contains no similar amendment.

The House recedes with an amendment to clarify the definition of the term military installation, and to require the Secretary of Defense to establish a uniform policy through the secretaries concerned and military command structure for meeting anticipated health needs at mobilization installations.

Full implementation of Medical Readiness Tracking and Health Surveillance Program and Force Health Protection and Readiness Program (sec. 738)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1308) that would require the Secretary of Defense, acting through the Under Secretary of Defense for Personnel and Readiness and in conjunction with the secretaries of the military departments, to fully implement at all levels the Medical Readiness Tracking and Health Surveillance Program under this title, and the Force Health Protection and Readiness Program of the Department of Defense.

The House recedes.

Reports and Internet accessibility relating to health matters (sec. 739)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1309) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit annually to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives a report on the Force Health Protection Quality Assurance Program. The provision would require that the report include an audit of the extent to which the serum samples required to be obtained from members of the Armed Forces before and after deployment are stored in the serum repository of the Department of Defense, and an audit of the extent to which health assessments required before and after deployment are being maintained in the electronic database of the Defense Medical Surveillance System.

The provision would also require that the annual report to the congressional defense committees include an analysis of actions taken by the Department to respond to health concerns expressed by members of the Armed Forces upon return from a deployment, and an analysis of actions taken by Department personnel to evaluate or treat members of the Armed Forces who are confirmed to have been exposed to occupational or environmental hazards deleterious to their health during a deployment.

The provision would include a requirement for an annual report on compliance by the military departments with Department policy on recording of health assessment data in military health records. The provision would also require that the Chief Information Officer of each military department ensure that information on Department policies regarding pre-deployment and post-deployment health policies are available through an online portal website of that military department.

The House bill contains no similar amendment.

The House recedes with an amendment to remove the requirement for a report on actions taken by the Department to evaluate or treat former members of the Armed Forces who are confirmed to have been exposed to occupational or environmental hazards during deployment. The amendment would also clarify that health assessment data required in section 1074(f) of title 10, United States Code, would be recorded in military health records.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Demonstration project on health benefits for Reserves

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 701) that would require the Secretary of Defense to conduct a three-year demonstration project to provide TRICARE coverage for Ready Reserve members not on active duty who are ineligible for employer-sponsored health benefits. The purpose of the demonstration would be to determine whether such coverage enhances medical readiness, recruiting, and retention of Reserve component members.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 701) that would direct the Secretary to carry out a demonstration project under section 1092 of title 10, United States Code, to determine the need for, and feasibility of, providing benefits under TRICARE to members of the Ready Reserve who are eligible for unemployment compensation, continuously unemployed after the expiration of such compensation, or ineligible for employer-provided health care coverage.

The conference agreement does not include these provisions.

The conferees acknowledge the preference of the Secretary to conduct a demonstration project and expect the Secretary to proceed with a demonstration project to assess the feasibility and effectiveness of providing TRICARE benefits to Reserve members without employer-provided health insurance coverage using existing authority in section 1092 of title 10, United States Code. The conferees request that the Comptroller General include in the evaluation of the needs of Reserves for health care required by section 705 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004 (Public Law 108–136) a report on actions taken by the Department to prepare for a demonstration project on the feasibility of providing TRICARE benefits to Reserve members without employer-provided health insurance.

Continuation of non-TRICARE health benefits plan coverage for certain Reserves called or ordered to active duty and their dependents

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 707) that would direct the Secretary of Defense to pay private health insurance premiums for the dependents of a Reserve member ordered to extended active duty and who would then not be eligible for TRICARE.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Exceptional eligibility for TRICARE Prime Remote

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 713) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to waive all restrictions with regard to TRICARE Prime Remote medical coverage for active-duty family members that reside at a remote location without regard to the sponsor's current or past assignment. Such a waiver would occur if the Secretary determines that exceptional circumstances warrant such coverage.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees believe that there exist today situations of extreme hardship for beneficiaries, particularly minor children, caused by exceptional circumstances through no fault of their own and beyond their control. The conferees urge the Secretary to look within existing authorities for means to remedy these extreme circumstances. If existing authorities do not allow for such remedy, the Secretary shall submit to Congress recommendations to address such exceptional situations.

Addition of certain unremarried former spouses to persons eligible for dental insurance plan of retirees of the uniformed services

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 717) that would permit certain unremarried former spouses of a member or former member to participate in the TRICARE Retiree Dental Program, if they do not have dental coverage under an employer-sponsored health plan.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Vaccine Healthcare Centers Network

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 720) that would require the Secretary of Defense to establish the Vaccine Healthcare Centers Network for the purpose of monitoring adverse reactions of members of the Armed Forces to vaccines and, in addition, to improve the safety and quality of vaccine administration for members of the Armed Forces.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees acknowledge that the Vaccine Healthcare Centers in existence today have made contributions to the quality monitoring system for adverse reactions to anthrax and smallpox immunization programs conducted by the Department of Defense. The Secretary should examine the feasibility and necessity of the establishment of an expanded Vaccine Healthcare Centers Network in the context of a review of the adequacy of existing clinical immunization safety, educational, training and research programs for military members and providers involved in immunization of military service members. The Secretary should also make recommendations on improvements as necessary in submission of data to the Vaccine-related Events Reporting System, and access to clinical management services for members who experience vaccine adverse events.

The conferees strongly encourage each of the military departments to continue to provide funds required by the existing Vaccine Healthcare Centers based on each service's share of the total force vaccinated.

Use of Department of Defense funds for abortion

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 721) that would authorize the use of Department of Defense funds for abortions in cases in which a pregnancy occurred as a result of an act of rape or incest.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

United States Military Cancer Institute

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 914) that would establish a United States Military Cancer Institute within the Uniformed Services University of the Health Sciences. The institute would conduct research on the causes, prevention, and early detection of cancer, including epidemiological features of cancer and impact of genetic and environmental factors and disparities in health among populations of various ethnic origins. The research would also include research on oncologic nursing.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees acknowledge that the United States Military Cancer Institute continues to operate under the auspices of the Uniformed Services University of the Health Sciences, and has received appropriations since fiscal year 2002. The conferees commend the United States Military Cancer Institute for its worthy contributions to cancer research, prevention, and treatment.

Use of civilian experts as consultants

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1310) that would clarify that nothing contained in amendments to this title should be construed to limit the authority of the Secretary of Defense to procure the services of experts outside the Federal Government for performing any function to comply with requirements for readiness tracking and health surveillance.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees expect that the Secretary will use existing authority to procure the services of outside experts as needed for any of the requirements of this title.

TITLE VIII—ACQUISITION POLICY, ACQUISITION MANAGEMENT, AND RELATED MATTERS

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Subtitle A—Acquisition Policy and Management

Software-related program costs under major defense acquisition programs (sec. 801)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 802) that would modify existing quarterly acquisition reports submitted to Congress by the Secretary of Defense to include information on significant changes in the cost, schedule, or performance of the computer software component of each major defense acquisition program.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would delay the effective date of the provision.

Internal controls for Department of Defense procurements through General Services Administration Client Support Centers (sec. 802)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 803) that would prohibit Department of Defense officials from placing orders in excess of $100,000 through a Client Support Center (CSC) of the Federal Technology Service of the General Services Administration (GSA) until the Department Inspector General, in consultation with the GSA Inspector General, determines that the CSC has in place the policies, procedures, and internal controls necessary to ensure compliance with requirements of law and regulation.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would: (1) extend the time frame for Inspector General review of the policies, procedures, and internal controls of the GSA Client Support Centers; (2) permit the Department to continue contracting for an additional year with any CSC that is making significant progress toward implementing effective policies, procedures, and internal controls; (3) require a second Inspector General review and determination at the end of the additional year; and (4) authorize the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology and Logistics to continue contracting through a CSC that has failed to implement appropriate policies, procedures, and internal controls, if he determines that it is necessary to do so in the interest of the Department.

Defense commercial communications satellite services procurement process (sec. 803)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 804) that would require the Secretary of Defense to review alternative mechanisms for procuring commercial satellite services, and provide guidance to the Director of the Defense Information Services Agency and the secretaries of the military departments on how such procurements should be conducted.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would modify the reporting requirement, and require a 30 day waiting period after the submission of the report during which the Secretary could not enter into a new contract for commercial satellite services unless the Secretary determines that such a contract is required to meet urgent national security requirements.

Contractor performance of acquisition functions closely associated with inherently governmental functions (sec. 804)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 867) that would limit contracting for functions closely associated with inherently governmental functions unless the Secretary of Defense determines that: (1) appropriate military or civilian personnel are not available to perform such function; (2) appropriate military or civilian personnel are able to supervise and perform all inherently governmental functions; and (3) the contractor to perform the function does not have an organizational conflict of interest or the appearance of an organizational conflict of interest.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would clarify the applicability of the provision, and require the agency to address any potential contractor organizational conflict of interest consistent with subpart 9.5 of part 9 of the Federal Acquisition Regulation and the best interest of the Department of Defense.

Sustainment plans for existing systems while replacement systems are under development (sec. 805)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 821) that would require the Department of Defense to plan and budget for the sustainment and modernization of current military systems until such time that the replacement system under development is fielded and assumes responsibility for the mission.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would clarify the requirements of the provision and delete annual review and reporting requirements.

Applicability of competition exceptions to eligibility of National Guard for financial assistance for performance of additional duties (sec. 806)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 863) that would clarify that exceptions to competition requirements provided in the Competition in Contracting Act (10 U.S.C. 2304), apply to support activities provided by the Army National Guard under the authority of section 113(b) of title 32, United States Code.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Inflation adjustment of acquisition-related dollar thresholds (sec. 807)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 807) that would authorize the Federal Acquisition Regulatory Council to amend the dollar threshold of procurement statutes in accordance with inflationary rates in order to maintain the constant dollar value of the threshold. This section would not authorize adjustments to the Davis-Bacon Act (40 U.S.C. 276(a)), the Service Contract Act of 1965 (Public Law 89-286), or title III of the Trade Agreements Act of 1979 (Public Law 96-39).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would: (1) codify the provision in the Office of Federal Procurement Policy Act; (2) make adjustment to acquisition thresholds mandatory rather than discretionary to ensure that all thresholds are adjusted in the same way; (3) establish a petition process for thresholds omitted by the Federal Acquisition Regulatory Council; (4) supercede other inflation adjustment statutes to ensure there is no conflicting authority; and (5) address procurement thresholds enacted in law after October 1, 2000.

Subtitle B—Amendments to General Contracting Authorities, Procedures, and Limitations

Rapid acquisition authority to respond to combat emergencies (sec. 811)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 801) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to establish a streamlined acquisition process for use when combat fatalities have occurred, the combatant commander has an urgent need of equipment, and delay would cause a continuation of combat fatalities. This process is to be used as a 'quick start' bridge to the normal acquisition process.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would incorporate the new authority into section 806 of the Bob Stump National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2003 (Public Law 107-314), provide for waivers to be made on a case-by-case basis, and clarify that a program initiated under this authority must transition to the traditional acquisition process within two years.

Defense acquisition workforce improvements (sec. 812)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 802) that would amend various sections of the Defense Acquisition Workforce Improvement Act, chapter 87 of title 10, United States Code.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 842).

The House recedes with an amendment that would: (1) clarify the selection criteria for the acquisition corps and for critical acquisition positions; and (2) streamline the provision addressing scholarship program requirements.

Period for multiyear task and delivery order contracts (sec. 813)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 803) that would amend section 2304(a) of title 10, United States Code, to clarify time limitations for options in task and delivery order contracts.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 812).

The House recedes with an amendment to limit the base period of a task and delivery order contract to five years, with options for up to an additional five years, for a total period of not more than ten years. Task and delivery order contracts may have more than five option years, if the head of an agency determines in writing that exceptional circumstances necessitate a longer contract period.

Funding for contract ceilings for certain multiyear procurement contracts (sec. 814)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 804) that would amend section 2306b(g) and section 2306c(d) of title 10, United States Code, to require the head of the agency concerned to provide written notification to the congressional defense committees in those instances when cancellation costs that are above $100.0 million are not fully funded. The written notification would include a financial risk assessment for not fully funding the cancellation ceiling.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would not require the head of the agency to identify up-front funding sources for potential contract cancellation.

Increased threshold for senior procurement executive approval of use of procedures other than competitive procedures (sec. 815)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 811(a)) that would raise from $50.0 million to $75.0 million the threshold in section 2304(f)(1)(B)(iii) of title 10, United States Code, for requiring approval of the senior procurement executive of an agency to award contracts under other than competitive procedures.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Section 811(b) of the Senate amendment is addressed elsewhere in this conference report.

Increased threshold for applicability of requirement for defense contractors to provide information on subcontracting authority of contractor personnel to cooperative agreement holders (sec. 816)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 805) that would increase from $500,000 to $1.0 million the threshold in section 2416(d) of title 10, United States Code, at which contractors must provide to cooperative agreement holders a listing of the names and contact information of each contractor employee who has authority to enter into contracts, including subcontracts.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 811(b)).

The Senate recedes.

Section 811(a) of the Senate amendment is addressed elsewhere in this conference report.

Extension of authority for use of simplified acquisition procedures (sec. 817)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 806) that would amend section 4202(e) of the Clinger-Cohen Act of 1996 (Public Law 104-106) by extending until October 1, 2009, the time frame in which the secretary of an executive agency may use simplified procedures to purchase commercial items that have a value of $5.0 million or less.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would extend this authority for two years.

Submission of cost or pricing data on noncommercial modifications of commercial items (sec. 818)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 813) that would require contractors for Department of Defense contracts to submit cost or pricing data on noncommercial modifications to commercial items, if the modifications are expected to cost in excess of $500,000.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would modify the requirement to apply to noncommercial modifications that are expected to cost in excess of $500,000 or five percent of the total price of the contract, whichever is greater.

Delegations of authority to make determinations relating to payment of defense contractors for business restructuring costs (sec. 819)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 814) that would permit the Secretary of Defense to delegate below the level of an Assistant Secretary of Defense the authority to pay defense contractors for restructuring costs associated with business combinations in cases where the amount of restructuring costs over a five year period is expected to be under $25.0 million. In no case could this authority be delegated below the Director of the Defense Contract Management Agency.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Availability of Federal supply schedule supplies and services to United Service Organizations, Incorporated (sec. 820)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 870) that would clarify that the Secretary of Defense may provide the United Service Organizations access to the Federal Supply Schedule of the General Services Administration.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Addition of landscaping and pest control services to list of designated industry groups participating in the small business competitiveness demonstration program (sec. 821)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3601) that would add landscaping and pest control services to the list of designated industry groups participating in the small business competitiveness demonstration program.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Increased thresholds under special emergency procurement authority (sec. 822)

The conferees agree to include a provision that would increase the dollar thresholds below which the Department of Defense may use streamlined acquisition procedures for purchases outside the United States in support of a contingency operation or to facilitate the defense against or recovery from nuclear, biological, chemical, or radiological attack against the United States. The provision included in the conference report would raise the simplified acquisition threshold for such purchases from $500,000 to $1,000,000 and it would raise the micropurchase threshold for such purchases from $15,000 to $25,000.

Subtitle C—United States Defense Industrial Base Provisions

Defense trade reciprocity (sec. 831)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 811) that would limit the ability of the Secretary of Defense to purchase defense items from countries that impose offset regulations or policies on purchases of defense items from the United States.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to develop a defense acquisition trade policy designed to eliminate any adverse impact of offset agreements in defense trade.

Assessment and report on the acquisition of polyacrylonitrile (PAN) carbon fiber from foreign sources (sec. 832)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 813) that would require the Secretary of Defense to delay phasing out of the restriction of acquisition of polyacrylonitrile (PAN) carbon fiber from foreign sources for three years.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would delay the phase out of the domestic source restriction for PAN carbon fibers for 30 days after the Secretary of Defense provides to the Committees on Armed Service of the Senate and the House of Representatives a report on an assessment of the domestic and international industrial structure that produces PAN carbon fibers and market trends for the product.

Subtitle D—Extensions of Temporary Program Authorities

Extension of mentor-protege program (sec. 841)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 822) that would extend for five years the pilot Mentor-Protege program established by section 831 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1991 (Public Law 101-510).

The House amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment requiring a review of the implementation and effectiveness of the Mentor-Protege program.

Amendment to mentor-protege program (Sec. 842)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1083) that would permit HUBZone small business concerns and small business concerns owned and controlled by service-disabled veterans to participate in the Department of Defense's Mentor-Protege program.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Extension of test program for negotiation of comprehensive small business subcontracting plans (sec. 843)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 823) that would extend for five years the test program for negotiation of comprehensive small business subcontracting plans established by section 834 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Years 1990 and 1991 (Public Law 101-189). Under the test program, prime contractors may submit a plan designed to provide the maximum subcontracting opportunity for small, disadvantaged, and women-owned small business concerns that covers all anticipated contracts on a plant, division, or corporate basis, rather than for each Federal contract and subcontract of more than $500,000 (or $1.0 million in the case of construction contracts) awarded as required under section 8(d) of the Small Business Act (Public Law 85-536, as amended).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Extension of pilot program on sales of manufactured articles and services of certain Army industrial facilities (sec. 844)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 824) that would extend for five years the pilot program for the sale of manufactured articles and services from Army industrial facilities enacted in the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998 (Public Law 105-85). This program tests the efficiency and appropriateness of selling manufactured articles and services at Army facilities under the authority of section 4543 of title 10, United States Code, without regard to the availability of the articles and services from U.S. commercial sources.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Subtitle E—Other Acquisition Matters

Review and demonstration project relating to contractor employees (Sec. 851)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 822) that would require the Secretary of Defense to conduct a review of Department of Defense policies, procedures, and practices relating to employees of defense contractors and their subcontractors. The provision also require the Secretary to conduct a demonstration program for the procurement of military construction, renovation, maintenance or repair service on military installations to ensure employees are properly authorized to be employed in the United States and properly qualified to perform the services required under the contract.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would give the Secretary of Defense general discretion over the types of procurement procedures used in the demonstration project.

Inapplicability of certain fiscal laws to settlements under special temporary contract closeout authority (sec. 852)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 861) that would clarify the authority to settle financial accounts for old contracts that have unreconciled balances of less than $100,000 under section 804 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004 (Public Law 108-136).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Contracting with employers of persons with disabilities (sec. 853)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 868) that would provide for the continuation and completion of existing contracts (including any options) awarded to the blind and severely disabled for the operation of military troop dining facilities, military mess halls, and other similar military dining facilities.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would cover contracts awarded under the Randolph-Sheppard Act (28 U.S.C. 107).

Defense procurements made through contracts of other agencies (sec. 854)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 815) that would prohibit the Department of Defense from paying more than a 1 percent service charge for using other agency contracts to purchase goods and services.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would delete the prohibition on paying fees in excess of 1 percent of the amount charged by the contractor and substitute: (1) a requirement that the procurement is done in accordance with military department or defense agency procedures for reviewing and approving the use of non-Department contracts; and (2) a reporting requirement for all service charges imposed on purchases in amounts greater than the simplified acquisition threshold in fiscal years 2005 and 2006. Approvals of inter-agency transactions under this provision should be in writing, with supporting rationale, and retained in an official file.

The conferees expect the Department's review and approval procedures to ensure that any fees are reasonable in relation to the work actually performed by the contracting agency. The conferees do not believe that the Department should pay fees in excess of 1 percent to an outside agency that merely acts as a conduit for Department requirements. The conferees are particularly concerned that in some instances, the Department's orders appear to have been awarded to contractors who charge their own fees for directing the work to preferred subcontractors without providing any value added.

The conferees also expect the Department's review and approval procedures to ensure that the goods or services to be procured are within the scope of the non-Department contract vehicle, and that the supplies or services to be acquired are consistent with the appropriated funding to be utilized. In addition, the Department's review and approval procedures should ensure that orders placed against non-Department contracts are in compliance with all applicable Department-unique statutes, regulations, directives, and other requirements prior to approval. The use of multiple award contracts must be consistent with the requirements of section 803 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2002 (Public Law 107–107 (Competition Requirements for Purchase of Services Pursuant to Multiple Award Contracts)); Part 8.002 of the Federal Acquisition Regulation (Priorities for Use of Government Supply Sources); Part 17.5 of the Federal Acquisition Regulation (Interagency Acquisitions under the Economy Act); and the Department of Defense Instruction 4000.19 (Interservice and Intergovernmental Support). Purchases of information technology should also be consistent with Department information security requirements and the requirements of the Department business system enterprise architecture and transition plan. Officials should be familiar with the requirements of the basic contract and should provide to the assisting agency any Department-unique requirements associated with the acquisition.

Requirements relating to source selection for integrated support of aerial refueling aircraft fleet for the Air Force (sec. 855)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 871) that would require the Secretary of Defense to prevent the Secretary of the Air Force from proceeding with the acquisition of aerial refueling aircraft, by lease or other contract, either with full and open competition or under section 135 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004 (Public Law 108–136) until 60 days after the Secretary of Defense has reviewed applicable documentation and submitted a determination to the congressional defense committees that the acquisition is in compliance with all currently applicable laws, Office of Management and Budget circulars, and regulations. The provision would also require an independent review of the acquisition by the Comptroller General and the Inspector General of the Department of Defense. The provision would also require operational testing prior to proceeding beyond low-rate initial production of the aircraft. The provision would also require a competition for the integrated support of the aircraft, and require pricing information with respect to commercial items covered by the lease or contract. The provision would also require the Secretary of the Air Force to contact the Inspector General of the Department of Defense to review and approve any Air Force use of non-Federal audit services for any lease or other contract for the acquisition of aerial refueling aircraft.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment to require the Department to review the costs and benefits of using federal employees or contractors for the logistics support of any new tanker aircraft and, if the Air Force chooses to use a contractor for this support, that any such contract be conducted under the procedures of the Competition in Contracting Act.

The conferees understand that the Department is working on a new aerial refueling validated capabilities document in accordance with applicable Chairman of Joint Chiefs Instructions. The conferees also note that on February 24, 2004, the Acting Undersecretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology and Logistics directed the Secretary of the Air Force to conduct an analysis of alternatives (AOA) for recapitalizing the KC-135 fleet as required by section 134(b) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004 (Public Law 108–136), and that the Secretary of Defense has directed that this analysis, along with a completed aerial refueling portion of the mobility capabilities study be accelerated. In addition, at the direction of the Secretary, the National Defense University, the Defense Science Board and the Department of Defense Inspector General prepared independent evaluations on various aspects of the aerial tanker refueling issue. The conferees expect that the Secretary of Defense will fully consider all of the recommendations from these studies and reports prior to proceeding with the acquisition of aerial refueling aircraft for the Air Force.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Responsibilities of acquisition executives and chief information officers under the Clinger-Cohen Act

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 801) that would require that the Clinger-Cohen Act requirements as applied to weapons and weapon systems be administered by senior acquisition executives of the three military services and overseen by a board of senior acquisition officials.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The Clinger-Cohen Act (40 U.S.C. 113) establishes requirements for capital planning, investment control, and performance and results-based management processes in the acquisition of information technology. While the Clinger-Cohen Act designates that the Chief Information Officer (CIO) is responsible for information technology in general, the Act does not specify who within the Department of Defense is responsible for administering these requirements for information technology embedded in major weapon systems. The Department's current practice is to administer the requirements of the Clinger-Cohen Act through the Department's CIO, even for information technology embedded in major weapon systems that are acquired by senior acquisition executives of the military departments. This approach raises the possibility of overlapping responsibilities and inefficient and/or duplicative procedures for the acquisition of information technology embedded in major weapon systems.

Therefore, the conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to review the Department's current approach to implementing the requirements of the Clinger-Cohen Act with respect to information technology embedded in major weapon systems; the conferees also direct the Secretary to identify any overlapping responsibilities and inefficient and/or duplicative procedures arising from possible dual responsibilities of the CIO and senior acquisition executives for the acquisition of such information systems. The conferees further direct the Secretary to report to the congressional defense committees and the Committee on Governmental Affairs of the Senate and the Committee on Governmental Reform of the House of Representatives no later than June 15, 2005, on the Department's strategy for addressing any such overlapping responsibilities and inefficient and/or duplicative procedures, including any legislative changes that the Secretary may choose to recommend.

Revision and extension of authority for advisory panel on review of government procurement laws and regulations

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 805) that would revise and extend the authority for the advisory panel on the review of government procurement laws and regulations established by section 1423 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004 (Public Law 108–136).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Amendments to domestic source requirements

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 812) that would amend section 2533a of title 10, United States Code, also known as the Berry Amendment, to require the Secretary of Defense to notify Congress and the public when the Secretary exercises a waiver and describe certain covered items as clothing.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Grant program for defense contractors to implement strategies to avoid outsourcing of jobs

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 814) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to award grants to qualified defense contractors in order to assist the contractor in avoiding the outsourcing of jobs.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees recognize that improving competitiveness in the defense industrial base is an effective method of retaining domestic defense jobs and reducing the pressure to outsource jobs.

The conferees recommend that the Secretary of Defense establish a program to encourage qualified defense contractors to implement cost reduction strategies that would improve competitiveness to avoid the outsourcing of jobs. Examples of such strategies could include retraining employees, plant upgrades, technology development, and other production cost-cutting measures.

Preference for domestic freight forwarding services

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 815) that would require the Secretary of Defense to grant preferences to freight forwarder companies owned and controlled by U.S. citizens that offer fair and reasonable rates in the award of transportation service contracts for transportation services to, from, or within Iraq or Afghanistan.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Sense of the Senate of effects of cost inflation on the value of the contracts to which a small business contract reservation applies

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 816) that would express the sense of the Senate that the thresholds for the requirement for the reservation of contracts for small businesses and the use of simplified acquisition procedures should be adjusted in the same amount when adjusting these thresholds for inflation.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Extension of contract goal for small disadvantaged businesses and certain institutions of higher education

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 821) that would extend section 2323 of title 10, United States Code, for three years.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees note that section 2323, which establishes a 5 percent goal for Department of Defense contracting with small disadvantaged businesses and certain institutions of higher education, would continue to be effective until September 2006, and that a decision on whether to extend this authority will be deferred to later legislation.

Defense acquisition workforce limitations

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 823) that would require a 5 percent reduction in the number of defense acquisition and support personnel in the Department of Defense on or before October 1, 2005.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 841) that would require a 15 percent increase in the defense acquisition and support workforce during fiscal years 2005 through 2007.

The conference report does not include either provision.

Provision of information to Congress to enhance transparency in contracting

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 824) that would require the Secretary of Defense to provide information on contracts and task or delivery orders to the chairmen or ranking members of the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives, within 14 days of the request.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Requirement to treat sureties in same manner as financing institutions when contractors default

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 825) that would require that sureties be treated in the same manner as financing institutions in cases of contractor default.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Provisions relating to creation of jobs in the United States by defense contractors

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 826) that would require that the creation of jobs in the United States be used as an evaluation factor in defense procurements.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Commission on the future of the national technology and industrial base

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 831) that would require the President to establish a commission to assess the future of the national technology and industrial base as defined by section 2500 of title 10, United States Code.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Waiver authority for domestic source or content requirements

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 832) that would provide the Secretary of Defense the authority to waive the application of statutory domestic source requirements and domestic content requirements for those countries who have signed a Declaration of Principles on defense trade with the United States.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Consistency with United States obligations under trade agreements

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 833) that would require that no provision of this Act, or any amendment made by this Act, shall apply if the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Secretary of Commerce, the U.S. Trade Representative, and the Secretary of State determines that the application of the provision would be inconsistent with international trade agreements of the United States.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Repeal of certain requirements and limitations relating to the defense industrial base

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 834) that would repeal sections 812, 813, 814, and 821 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004 (Public Law 108-136).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Report on contractor performance of security, intelligence, law enforcement, and criminal justice functions in Iraq

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 865) that would require the Secretary of Defense to report to the congressional defense committees on contractor performance of security, intelligence, law enforcement, and criminal justice functions in Iraq.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees agree to include the intent of this provision in a related provision in this conference report.

Accreditation study of commercial, off-the-shelf processes for evaluating information technology products and services

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 866) that would require the Secretary of Defense to carry out a study of commercial, off-the-shelf processes available to measure the quality of information technology, and to determine whether to accredit such a process for use in procurement of information technology and related services throughout the Department of Defense.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Energy savings performance contracts

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 869) that would require the Secretary of Defense to exercise existing authority to introduce life-cycle, cost-effective upgrades to federal assets through shared, energy savings contracting; demand management programs; and utility incentive programs.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Comptroller General analysis of use of transitional benefit corporations in connection with competitive sourcing of performance of Department of Defense activities and functions

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1029) that would require the Comptroller General to review the potential for use of transitional benefit corporations in connection with competitive sourcing of the performance of activities and functions of the Department of Defense.

The House amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes. The manner in which employee benefits are addressed in public-private competitions is addressed in a separate section of the conference report.

Study of effect on defense industrial base of elimination of United States domestic firearms manufacturing base

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1042) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit to the congressional defense committees, within 60 days of enactment of this Act, a report detailing the impact on military readiness and the defense industrial infrastructure of the elimination of the U.S. domestic firearms manufacturing base as a result of ongoing civil litigation.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Determination of whether private air carriers are controlled by United States citizens for purposes of eligibility for government contracts for transportation of passengers or supplies

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1063) that would amend section 2710 of the Emergency Wartime Supplemental Appropriations Act, 2003 (Public Law 108-11), to clarify that the Secretary of Transportation is responsible for certifying whether an air carrier is effectively controlled by citizens of the United States.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Report on offset requirements under certain contracts

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1093) that would add additional reporting requirements to the report required under section 8138(b) of the Department of Defense Appropriations Act for Fiscal Year 2004 (Public Law 108-199).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

TITLE IX—DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE ORGANIZATION AND MANAGEMENT

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Subtitle A—Duties and Functions of Department of Defense

Study of roles and authorities of the Director of Defense Research and Engineering (sec. 901)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 911) that would require the Secretary of Defense, through the Defense Science Board, to carry out a study of the roles and authorities of the Director, Defense Research and Engineering.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Change of membership of specified council (sec. 902)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 905) that would amend sections 171 and 179, title 10, United States Code, to include the Commandant of the Coast Guard as a member of the Armed Forces Policy Council (AFPC) and include the Under Secretary of Defense for Policy (USD,P) on the Nuclear Weapons Council (NWC).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would include the USD,P on the NWC, but would leave the membership of the AFPC unchanged.

The conferees believe that the addition of the USD,P should allow the other members of the NWC to become more closely involved with nuclear related policy decisions. Additionally, the change will make the decisions that flow from the NWC more responsive to policy direction. The conferees note that this is the first time an additional member has been added to the NWC since its inception in 1987. The conferees expect the next two annual reports of the NWC required by subparagraph (f) of section 179 of title 10, United States Code, will discuss implementation of this provision.

Subtitle B—Space Activities

Space posture review (sec. 911)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1031) that would require the Secretary of Defense, jointly with the Director of Central Intelligence, to conduct a comprehensive review of the space posture of the United States for the period of the next 10 years. The provision also would require the Secretary and Director to provide an interim report on that review to congressional defense and intelligence committees by March 15, 2005 and a final report by December 31, 2005.

The House bill amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Panel on the future of national security space launch (sec. 912)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1032) that would establish a panel to examine the future military space launch requirements of the United States and the means of meeting such requirements.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would establish a panel to examine the future national security space launch requirements of the United States and the means of meeting such requirements.

The conferees expect that the panel will consider the full range of national security space launch requirements.

Operationally responsive national security satellites (sec. 913)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1033) that would establish a separate program element for operationally responsive satellite payloads managed by the Office of Force Transformation of the Office of the Secretary of Defense. The provision would also authorize $25.0 million for the new program element.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $20.0 million in PE 65799D8Z for operationally responsive payloads.

Nondisclosure of certain products of commercial satellite operations (sec. 914)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1034) that would exempt from disclosure under the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA), section 552 of title 5, United States Code, data that are collected by land remote sensing and are prohibited from sale to customers other than the United States and its affiliated users under the Land Remote Sensing Policy Act of 1992, section 5601 et seq. of title 15, United States Code. The exemption would also include any imagery and other product that is derived from such data. State and local laws mandating disclosure would be preempted.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would clarify that the restrictions imposed on such data or imagery are imposed for reasons of national security pursuant to the terms of operating licenses issued pursuant to the Land Remote Sensing Policy Act, and that would extend the preemption to include tribal law. The amendment would also provide that nothing in this section shall be construed to authorize the withholding of information from Congress.

Subtitle C—Intelligence-Related Matters

Two-year extension of authority of the Secretary of Defense to engage in commercial activities as security for intelligence collection activities abroad (sec. 921)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1071) that would amend section 431(a) of title 10, United States Code, to extend by two years, to December 31, 2006, the authority of the Secretary of Defense to engage in commercial activities necessary to provide security for authorized intelligence collection activities abroad.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 1062).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Pilot program on cryptologic service training (sec. 922)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1090) that would allow the Director of the National Security Agency (NSA) to establish a pilot program for cryptologic service training by way of scholarships for college study in order to increase the number of qualified language analysts and intelligence analysts available to work at NSA or other elements of the intelligence community.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Subtitle D—Other Matters

Strategic plan for destruction of lethal Chemical Agents and Munitions Stockpile (sec. 931)

The conferees agree to include a provision that would require the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology and Logistics and the Secretary of the Army, who is responsible for executing the Chemical Agents and Munitions Destruction program, to jointly prepare a strategic plan for the future activities of the Chemical Demilitarization program. The plan shall include, at a minimum, consideration of realistic budgeting for stockpile destruction and related support programs; contingency planning for foreseeable or anticipated problems; and a management approach and associated actions that are designed to ensure full compliance with U.S. obligations under the Chemical Weapons Convention, and that take full advantage of opportunities to accelerate destruction of the chemical stockpile. The plan shall be updated yearly, and submitted each year by the Secretary of Defense to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives with the President's budget submission for the next fiscal year.

Secretary of Defense criteria for and guidance on identification and internal transmission of critical information (sec. 932)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 908) that would require the Secretary of Defense to establish criteria for determining the types of critical information required to be made known expeditiously to senior decision makers in the Department of Defense. The Secretary should provide guidance for the purpose of identifying such information to the secretaries of the military departments, the commanders of deployed forces, and other elements of the Department. The provision would also establish minimum criteria for such information, and would require the Secretary to establish a policy for the expeditious transmission of any report or evaluation at any level of the Department that results in the identification of any such information to the Secretary and the Joint Chiefs of Staff. The guidance is to be issued by the Secretary not later than 90 days after enactment.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Change in title of Secretary of the Navy to Secretary of the Navy and Marine Corps

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 901) that would change the title of the Secretary of the Navy to the Secretary of the Navy and Marine Corps.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Transfer of Center for the Study of Chinese Military Affairs from the National Defense University to United States-China Economic and Security Review Commission

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 902) that would transfer the Center for the Study of Chinese Military Affairs at the National Defense University, established in the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2000 (Public Law 106-65) to the United States-China Economic and Security Review Commission, established in the Floyd D. Spence National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2001 (Public Law 106-398).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note their strong support for having a Center for the Study of Chinese Military Affairs at the National Defense University, and urge the Secretary of Defense to provide the Institute for National Strategic Studies at the National Defense University with sufficient resources to support a fully operational China Center.

Transfer to Secretary of the Army responsibility for Assembled Chemical Weapons Alternatives program.

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 903) that would transfer oversight of the Assembled Chemical Weapons Alternatives program from the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology and Logistics to the Secretary of the Army, and would require the Army to fully implement the alternative technologies previously selected for destruction of lethal chemical munitions at Pueblo Chemical Depot, Colorado, and Blue Grass Army Depot, Kentucky.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Modification of obligated service requirements under National Security Education Program

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 904) that would amend section 802 of the David L. Boren National Security Education Act of 1991 (50 U.S.C. 1902) to modify service requirements, allow service to be conducted in additional agencies of government, establish time frames for commencement of service, and clarify minimum length of service.

The Senate Amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Responses to congressional inquiries

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 907) that would require the Secretary of Defense and other Department of Defense officials to respond to questions for the record from hearings of the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives within 21 days of receiving such questions.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that Department officials frequently take months to respond to questions for the record.

The two committees conduct hearings to inform Congress and the public on significant issues regarding the operations of the Department. These hearings often serve as the basis for legislative, budget, and policy positions of the two committees. Because officials of the Department are not always prepared to respond to the full range of questions at such hearings, questions for the record form an important part of the record of such hearings.

Lengthy delays in responding to questions for the record are contrary to the public interest because they delay the availability of critical information to Congress and the public. In many cases, responses are not made available until after the committees have made decisions on legislative, budget, and policy matters to which the information relates. This is not in the interest of either the Congress or the Department.

The conferees recognize that questions for the record for some hearings are extensive and that, in some instances, the compilation of answers and responses can and does require detailed research and discussion prior to their transmission to the Congress. For this reason, the conferees have determined that it would not be practical to establish a single, uniform deadline for all responses to questions for the record.

Overall, however, the Department must do a far better job of responding to questions for the record than it has in the recent past. Accordingly, the conferees direct the Secretary of Defense and other officials of the Department to respond to questions for the record within 21 days of receiving such questions, unless the Secretary or other official has informed the committee concerned in writing that he or she will be unable to meet the 21-day deadline and stated the date by which the questions will be answered.

The conferees note that the Members of the congressional defense committees frequently request information from the Department through letters, meetings, and other mechanisms. The conferees expect that officials of the Department will respond promptly to such inquiries as well.

Directors of Small Business Programs

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 912) that would change the title of the Department of Defense's Office of Small and Disadvantaged Business Utilization to the Office of Small Business Programs.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

TITLE X—GENERAL PROVISIONS

ITEMS OF SPECIAL INTEREST

Coordination of Department of Defense Homeland Defense/Homeland Security Initiative in Support of First Responders

The conferees remain concerned about the level of planning and coordination between the Department of Defense and other federal departments and agencies that the Department might be called upon to assist in cases of natural or man-made disasters.

Therefore, the conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to provide the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives a report by March 5, 2005, detailing the Department's strategy and plans to coordinate with the Department of Homeland Security (DHS), the Department of Justice (DoJ), and state, local and tribal governments on command, control and communication problems encountered during man-made and natural disasters. Additionally, the report shall address technology developments and interoperability issues that exist or may exist between the Department and other federal departments, and state, local and tribal first responders, as well as possible solutions to resolve such issues. The conferees encourage the Department to continue its efforts to identify technologies that may serve homeland security purposes, and to make such technologies available to DHS, DoJ and the first responder community.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Subtitle A—Financial Matters

Transfer Authority (sec. 1001)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1001) that would provide $3.0 billion in transfer authority among accounts in division A of this Act for fiscal year 2005.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1001).

The conferees agree to a provision that provides $3.5 billion in transfer authority.

United States contribution to NATO common-funded budgets in fiscal year 2005 (sec. 1002)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1002) that would authorize the U.S. contribution to North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) common-funded budgets for fiscal year 2005, including the use of unexpended balances. The resolution of ratification for the Protocol to the North Atlantic Treaty of 1949 on the Accession of Poland, Hungary, and the Czech Republic contained a provision (section 3(2)(c)(ii)requiring a specific authorization for U.S. payments to the common-funded budgets of NATO for each fiscal year, beginning in fiscal year 1999, that payments exceed the fiscal year 1998 total.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Budget justification documents for operation and maintenance (sec. 1003)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1002) that would amend section 232 of title 10, United States Code, to require additional information be provided with the annual Department of Defense operation and maintenance (O&M) budget presentation, including: the baseline costs for programs in which there is an identified program increase or decrease; the amount of funds requested for personal service contracts and the number of personal service contractors expected to be compensated at an annual rate in excess of the annual rate of pay for the Vice President; identification by the Department of the Navy of funding requested for ship depot maintenance and funding requested for intermediate depot maintenance; and the average civilian salary cost by sub-activity group as a component of the personnel summary. The provision would also require the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives by March 1, 2005 that catalogues the elements of "other costs" and "other contracts" which are currently used in the O&M justification materials of the budget request.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would amend section 232 of title 10, United States Code, to require additional information be provided with the Department of Defense annual O&M budget presentation, including: the baseline costs for programs in which there is an identified program increase or decrease; and identification by the Department of the Navy of funding requested for ship depot maintenance and funding requested for intermediate depot maintenance. The amendment would also require the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives by March 1, 2005 that catalogues the elements of other costs and other contracts which are currently used in justification materials of the budget request.

The conferees note that the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives will continue to work with the Department and the services to improve the information included in the annual O&B budget submissions.

Licensing of intellectual property (sec. 1004)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1003) that would authorize the Secretary concerned, under regulations prescribed by the Secretary of Defense, to license trademarks, service marks, certification marks, and collective marks owned by a military department, and to retain and expend fees received from such licensing. Fees received in excess of the costs of registration and licensing could be expended for recruiting and retention and morale, welfare, and recreation activities of the military department.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1064) that would provide similar authority, but would limit the use of excess fees to morale, welfare, and recreation activities of the military department.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Repeal of funding restrictions concerning development of medical countermeasures against biological warfare threats (sec. 1005)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1005) which would repeal Section 2370a of title 10, United States Code that set statutory limits on funding concerning the development of medical countermeasures against biological warfare threats.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees intend to monitor the expenditure of funds in this account and expect the Department of Defense to provide briefings to the congressional defense committees on this issue. Although the statutory limits are being lifted, the conferees remain concerned that sufficient funding is not being requested or expended in the various categories for medical countermeasures against biological warfare threats. The conferees urge the Department to program more robust funding for biological defense programs consistent with the needs and objectives of these programs, and expect the Department to use the money authorized to develop medical countermeasures against biological warfare threats.

Report on budgeting for exchange rates for foreign currency fluctuations (sec. 1006)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1006) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and House of Representatives a report on the foreign currency exchange rate projection used in annual Department of Defense budget presentations.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a technical amendment.

Fiscal year 2004 transfer authority (sec. 1007)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1007) that would provide $3.0 billion in transfer authority among accounts in division A of this Act for fiscal year 2004.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would provide $2.8 billion in transfer authority.

Clarification of fiscal year 2004 funding level for a National Institute of Standards and Technology account (sec. 1008)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1092) that would clarify fiscal year 2004 funding for programs under the National Institute of Standards and Technology Industrial Technology Services account.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Notification of fund transfers from working capital funds (sec. 1009)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 312) that would limit the transfer of funds out of, or among, working capital funds. The provision requires the Secretary of Defense to notify the Congress when such transfers are made. The Department of Defense should submit prior approval reprogramming requests, DD Forms 1415–1, to the congressional defense committees in accordance with established procedures.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Charges for Defense Logistics Information Services materials (sec. 1010)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 361) that would permit the Defense Logistics Information Services, a division of the Defense Logistics Agency, to develop a fee schedule for charging public and private entities for copies of materials from the Federal Logistics Information System (FLIS). The FLIS is a management system designed to collect, store, process, and provide item-related logistics information. This information often is used by private entities doing or seeking business with the Department of Defense.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Subtitle B—Naval Vessels and Shipyards

Authority for award of contracts for ship dismantling on net-cost basis (sec. 1011)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1011) that would allow the Secretary of the Navy to award contracts for the dismantling of vessels stricken from the Naval Vessel Register on a net-cost basis.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1013).

The Senate recedes.

Use of proceeds from exchange and sale of obsolete Navy service craft and boats (sec. 1012)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1011) that would allow the Secretary of the Navy to retain the proceeds of the sale, or exchange allowance from the exchange, of obsolete service craft and obsolete boats. The Secretary would be allowed to use these proceeds or exchange allowances for specified purposes.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment that restructures the items within the provision.

Transfer of Naval vessels to certain foreign recipients (sec. 1013)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1013) that would authorize the President: (1) to transfer on a grant basis to the government of Chile, the Spruance-class destroyer O'Bannon (DD 987) and (b) to the government of Portugal, the Oliver Hazard Perry-class frigate George Phillip (FFG 12); and (2) to transfer on a sale basis to the Taipei Economic and Cultural Office of the United States, the Anchorage-class dock landing ship Anchorage (LSD–36). The provision would also direct that: (1) any expense incurred by the United States in connection with a transfer on a grant basis shall be charged to the recipient; and (2) to the maximum extent possible, the President shall require, as a condition of transfer, the repair and refurbishment associated with the transfer be accomplished in a shipyard located in the United States.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1014) that would authorize the Secretary of the Navy: (1) to transfer on a grant basis to the government of Chile, the Spruance-class destroyer O'Bannon (DD 987) and to the government of Portugal, the Oliver Hazard Perry-class frigates George Phillip (FFG 12) and Sides (FFG 14); and (2) to transfer on a sale basis to the Taipei Economic and Cultural Office of the United States, the Anchorage-class dock landing ship Anchorage (LSD–36) and (b) to the government of Chile, the Spruance-class destroyer Fletcher (DD 992). The provision would also direct that any expense incurred by the United States in connection with a transfer authorized by this provision be charged to the recipient.

The House recedes with an amendment that would authorize the President: (1) to transfer on a grant basis to the government of Chile, the Spruance-class destroyer O'Bannon (DD 987) and to the government of Portugal, the Oliver Hazard Perry-class frigates George Phillip (FFG 12) and Sides (FFG 14); and (2) to transfer on a sale basis to the Taipei Economic and Cultural Office of the United States, the Anchorage-class dock landing ship Anchorage (LSD–36) and to the government of Chile, the Spruance-class destroyer Fletcher (DD 992). The amendment would also direct that any expense incurred by the United States in connection with a transfer authorized by this provision be charged to the recipient.

Independent study to assess cost-effectiveness of the Navy ship construction program (sec. 1014)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1012) that would require the Secretary of Defense to have a study conducted by an entity independent of the Department of Defense on the cost-effectiveness of the ship construction program of the Navy. The study would examine various approaches for how the Navy ship construction program could be made more cost-effective in the near-term, and how the United States shipbuilding industry might be made globally competitive through a nationally integrated effort over the next decade.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to provide for a group of industrial experts to assess priorities for potential implementation of the various approaches in the near-term study, with an assessment of the return on investment. It would also require an assessment of priorities for potential implementation of the various approaches for the nationally, integrated effort, with the objective being to create a healthier and more viable U.S. shipbuilding industrial base.

The conferees believe the group chosen for this study should be five to ten industrial experts who represent an array of industrial sectors, not just the shipbuilding industry. Many sectors of the U.S. industrial base have had to retool processes and equipment to become more competitive. Since the rate of shipbuilding is much lower, competitiveness has not provided the same incentive for this sector. The conferees are aware of and support the work of the National Shipbuilding Research Program-Advanced Shipbuilding Enterprise (NSRP–ASE), including its lean shipbuilding initiative. The conferees would expect the group of industrial experts chosen for this study to become familiar with this work, and to consider the potential for using the NSRP–ASE to implement some of the various approaches.

Limitation on disposal of obsolete naval vessel (sec. 1015)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1012) that would not allow the Secretary of the Navy to dispose of the decommissioned destroyer ex-Edson (DD–946) to a nonprofit organization before October 1, 2007, unless the Secretary first determines that there is no nonprofit organization that meets the criteria for donation of that vessel under section 7306(a)(3) of title 10, United States Code.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Subtitle C–Counterdrug Matters

Use of funds for unified counterdrug and counterterrorism campaign in Colombia (sec. 1021)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1052) that would extend through fiscal year 2006, the expanded authority for the Department of Defense to use counterdrug funds to support the Government of Colombia's unified campaign against narcotics cultivation and trafficking, and against the terrorist organizations involved in such drug trafficking activities. The provision would also change the limitation on the number of U.S. military personnel assigned to Colombia in support of Plan Colombia to 800 personnel, and the number of federally funded contractor personnel employed in support of Plan Colombia to 600 personnel.

The House bill contained similar provisions (sec. 1031 and 1032) that would extend the expanded authority through fiscal year 2006 and would increase the number of U.S. military personnel in Colombia to 500.

The House recedes.

Sense of Congress and report regarding counterdrug efforts in Afghanistan (Sec. 1022)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1056) that would express the sense of the Senate that: (1) the President should make the substantial reduction of drug trafficking in Afghanistan a priority in the war on terror; (2) the Secretary of Defense should, in coordination with the Secretary of State, work to a greater extent with the Government of Afghanistan and international organizations involved in counterdrug activities to provide a secure environment for counter-drug personnel in Afghanistan; and (3) additional efforts should be made by the Armed Forces of the United States, with coalition forces, to significantly reduce narcotics trafficking in Afghanistan, with particular focus on those traffickers with the closest links to known terrorist organizations. The provision also directed the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to Congress on progress made towards substantially reducing the poppy cultivation and heroin production capabilities in Afghanistan, and the extent to which profits from illegal drug activity in Afghanistan fund terrorist organizations and support groups that seek to undermine the Government of Afghanistan.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would express the sense of the Congress that: (1) the President should make the substantial reduction of illegal drug trafficking in Afghanistan a priority in the global war on terrorism; (2) the Secretary of Defense, in coordination with the Secretary of State and the heads of other appropriate federal agencies, should expand cooperation with the Government of Afghanistan and international organizations involved in the counter-drug activities to assist in providing a secure environment for counter-drug personnel in Afghanistan; and (3) the United States, in conjunction with the Government of Afghanistan and coalition partners, should undertake additional efforts to reduce illegal drug trafficking and related activities that provide financial support for terrorist organizations in Afghanistan and neighboring countries. The conferees further agree that the Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of State will jointly submit the aforementioned report.

The conferees note that there are strong, direct connections between terrorism and drug trafficking, and that the elimination of this funding source is critical to making significant progress in the global war on terror. It is clear that the military action against the Taliban in Afghanistan was designed, in part, to disrupt the activities of and financial support for terrorists. While progress in disrupting the financial links has been made, it is clear that some of the profits associated with opium harvested in Afghanistan continue to fund terrorists and terrorist organizations, including Al Qaeda, that seek to attack the United States and its interests. Additionally, the President of Afghanistan, Hamad Karzai, has stated that opium production poses a significant threat to the future of Afghanistan, and has established a plan of action to deal with this threat. It is for these and other reasons that the conferees believe that the United States, in conjunction with the Government of Afghanistan and coalition partners, should undertake additional efforts to reduce illegal drug trafficking and related activities that provide financial support for terrorist organizations in Afghanistan and neighboring countries. The conferees believe that the Department of Defense, in conjunction with other U.S. agencies and coalition partners, must have a comprehensive strategy that provides consistent funding from year to year to achieve significant progress in reducing drug cultivation, trafficking, and related activities in Afghanistan.

Subtitle D—Matters Relating to Museums and Commemorations

Recognition of the Liberty Memorial Museum, Kansas City, Missouri, as America's National World War I Museum (sec. 1031)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 354) that would express the sense of Congress that the Liberty Memorial Museum in Kansas City, Missouri, is recognized as "America's National World War I Museum."

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1078).

The Senate recedes with technical amendments.

Program to Commemorate 60th Anniversary of World War II (sec. 1032)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 365) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to conduct a program to commemorate the 60th anniversary of World War II and to coordinate, support, and facilitate other such commemoration programs and activities of the Federal, State, and local governments, and other persons.

The House bill contained no similar amendment.

The House recedes.

Annual report on Department of Defense operation and financial support for military museums (sec. 1033)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 341) that would amend chapter 23 of title 10, United States Code, to require the Secretary of Defense to include in the annual budget justification materials a complete inventory of military museums operated with funds appropriated to the Department of Defense or the military services.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would add a reporting requirement for the Secretary to describe the management structure of each museum. The amendment would also add a reporting requirement for the Secretary to provide information on the prioritization process within the Department and within each military department for funds allocation and personnel support for museums.

While the conferees agree that military museums serve an important role in the preservation of the history and heritage of the U.S. military, the conferees are concerned that the proliferation of military museums nationwide may be draining fiscal resources needed for other requirements. The conferees expect that the information to be provided by the Secretary will be used as a database for future discussions with the Department about the effective management of military museums.

Subtitle E—Reports [Not Provided for Elsewhere]

Quarterly detailed accounting for operations conducted as part of the global war on terrorism (sec. 1041)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1029D) that would require the Secretary of Defense to provide to the congressional defense committees quarterly reports on the costs incurred by the Department of Defense for all operations in the global war on terrorism. In addition to the reports required by this provision, the conferees expect the Department to continue to provide to the legislative branch timely access to monthly contingency cost reports.

The House bill amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Report on post-major combat operations phase of Operation Iraqi Freedom (sec. 1042)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1028) that would require a report on aspects of the post-major combat operations phase of Operation Iraqi Freedom.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would change the due date of the report to June 1, 2005, and would include an assessment of the organization of U.S Central Command to conduct post-conflict operations and related lessons learned.

Report on training provided to members of the Armed Forces to prepare for post-conflict operations (sec. 1043)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1024) that would direct the Secretary of Defense to conduct a study to determine the extent to which members of the Armed Forces assigned to duty in support of contingency operations receive training in preparation for post-conflict operations and to evaluate the quality of such training. The provision would direct the Secretary to submit a report to Congress on the assessment not later than May 1, 2005.

The House bill contained a similar provision (sec. 1043).

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Report on establishing national centers of excellence for unmanned aerial and ground vehicles (sec. 1044)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1027) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the congressional defense committees on the need for one or more national centers of excellence for unmanned aerial and ground vehicles. The provision also defines the goals of the centers and other considerations to be included in the preparation of this report.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment to clarify certain elements of the provision.

Study of continued requirement for two-crew manning for ballistic missile submarines (sec. 1045)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1041) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit to the congressional defense committees a report on whether the requirement for two-crew manning of fleet ballistic missile submarines should be continued, modified, or terminated.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Report on Department of Defense programs for prepositioning of materiel and equipment (sec. 1046)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 342) that would direct the Secretary of Defense to conduct an assessment of the programs of the Department of Defense for the prepositioning of materiel and equipment. The provision would direct the Secretary to submit a report to Congress on the assessment not later than October 1, 2005.

The Senate amendment contained no similar amendment.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Report on al Qaeda activity in the Western Hemisphere (sec. 1047)

The conferees agree to include a provision that would direct the Secretary of State, in consultation with the Secretary of Defense and the Director of Central Intelligence, to submit to the appropriate committees of Congress a report on any al Qaeda activity in the Western Hemisphere, including fundraising, affiliations with other groups in the region, and possible targets for attack; and on United States policies that are designed to address such activities. The provision would require that an unclassified report, with a classified annex as necessary, be submitted no later that 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act. The conferees note their concern about potential al Qaeda activity in the Western Hemisphere, and the indirect and direct threat to United States national security that such activity represents.

Subtitle F—Defense Against Terrorism [and Other Domestic Security Matters]

Acceptance of communications equipment provided by local public safety agencies (sec. 1051)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1041) that would allow military installations that have Memoranda of Understanding or Memoranda of Agreement with state and local first responders to accept ham radios or communication equipment on an interim basis until interoperability of communications has been established.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Determination and report on full-time airlift support for homeland defense operations (sec. 1052)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1042) that would instruct the Secretary of Defense to determine the feasibility and advisability of dedicating a full-time airlift capability to support homeland defense operations.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would instruct the Secretary to also consider the transportation requirements of the newly established National Guard Chemical, Biological, Radiological, Nuclear and High Explosive Enhanced Response Force Packages.

Survivability of critical systems exposed to chemical or biological contamination (sec. 1053)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1043) that would direct the Secretary of Defense to submit a plan to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives that describes the Department of Defense's systematic approach for ensuring the survivability of defense critical systems exposed to chemical or biological contamination.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Subtitle G—Personnel Security Matters

Use of National Driver Register for personnel security investigations and determinations (sec. 1061)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1051) that would amend title 49, United States Code, to authorize access to the National Driver Register by federal departments and agencies for use in personnel security investigations and for use in personnel investigations with regard to federal employment.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would clarify that the federal employment contemplated in the provision is employment requiring access to national security information, and that the department or agency receiving such information may use that information only for the purpose of the authorized investigation, in accordance with applicable law.

Standards for disqualification from eligibility for Department of Defense security clearance (sec. 1062)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1052) that would amend section 986 of title 10, United States Code, to clarify a standard for disqualification and would allow delegation of waiver authority, in accordance with standards and procedures establish by Executive order or other Presidential guidance.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Subtitle H—Transportation-Related Matters

Use of military aircraft to transport mail to and from overseas locations (sec. 1071)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1061) that would provide the Secretary of Defense the authority to use military aircraft to transport mail and parcels to, from, and between overseas locations. This authority, however, would be limited to the following circumstances:

(1) There is excess space on a scheduled military flight;

(2) There is no overall cost increase to the Department of Defense or the U.S. Postal Service;

(3) The U.S. Transportation Command would pay the cost of transporting mail from U.S. Postal Service to customs clearance facilities and military debarkation locations at rates not to exceed Department of Transportation rates for commercial airlines;

(4) There is no degradation of mail service; and

(5) There is no diversion of such military aircraft during contingencies or other events.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Reorganization and clarification of certain provisions relating to control and supervision of transportation within the Department of Defense (sec. 1072)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1062) that would amend sections 4744 through 4747 of title 10, United States Code, by moving these sections from chapter 47 to chapter 26. This section would also repeal sections 9741, 9743, and 9746 of title 10, United States Code. These changes reflect the Secretary of Defense's role in transportation versus the individual role of the service secretaries.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Evaluation of procurement practices relating to transportation of security-sensitive cargo (sec. 1073)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1064) that would require the Secretary of Defense to evaluate whether, and under what conditions, in the award of service contracts for domestic freight transportation for security-sensitive cargo, the Secretary should not consider an offer or tender from more than one motor carrier that is a part of a group of motor carriers under common financial or administrative control. The provision would also direct the Secretary to submit a report to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives with the results of the evaluation not later than January 1, 2005.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would direct the Secretary to evaluate the award of service contracts for domestic freight transportation for security-sensitive cargo (such as arms, ammunition, explosive, and classified material) to determine whether such practices are in the best interest of the Department of Defense, and would direct the Secretary to submit a report to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives with the results of the evaluation not later than January 1, 2005.

Subtitle I—Other Matters

Liability protection for Department of Defense volunteers working in maritime environment (sec. 1081)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1075) that would modify section 1588 of title 10, United States Code, to add the training of cadets and midshipmen at the service academies to the voluntary services that may be accepted, and include chapters 20 and 22 of title 46 to the laws covered by this provision.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1063) that would extend to volunteers working in the maritime training environment the same status and legal protections, for purposes of claims and loss, presently available to volunteers working in support of land-based programs.

The House recedes with an amendment that would modify section 1588 of title 10, United States Code, to add chapters 20 and 22 of title 46 Appendix to the provisions of law listed in subparagraph (d) with the intent of not limiting the liability protection afforded volunteers in the maritime environment only to the service academies.

The conferees appreciate the importance of voluntary services provided by individuals for the benefit of soldiers, sailors, airmen, and marines and their families. As reflected in section 1588 of title 10, United States Code, voluntary services are received in connection with a wide variety of programs and activities. Under many circumstances, the ability of the services to offer protection from personal liability is a necessary condition for the acceptance of voluntary services. This is not always the case; however, and the criteria for identifying those functions and voluntary services appropriate for inclusion in section 1588 are not evident.

The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to submit a report by June 1, 2005, to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives describing the manner in which the Department of Defense currently determines what voluntary services to accept, which of the accepted services warrant liability protection, and how the Department oversees their delivery under section 1588. The Secretary should prescribe the policy of the Department of Defense regarding the acceptance of voluntary services and, in consultation with the Department of Justice, submit proposals for legislative changes, if needed. The conferees urge the Department of Defense to develop policies and procedures that will enable commands and activities to appropriately accept and supervise voluntary services and, when called for, afford immunity from personal liability.

Sense of the Congress concerning media coverage of the return to the United States of the remains of deceased members of the Armed Forces from overseas (sec. 1082)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 366) that would state the sense of the Congress that the Department of Defense policy regarding no media coverage of the transfer of the remains of deceased members of the Armed Forces appropriately protects the privacy of the families and friends of the deceased, and is consistent with constitutional guarantees of freedom of speech and freedom of the press.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Transfer of historic F3A-1 Brewster Corsair aircraft (sec. 1083)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1076) that would authorize the Secretary of the Navy to convey by means of a gift, without consideration, to Mr. Lex Cralley, of Princeton, Minnesota, all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to a F3A-1 Brewster Corsair aircraft.

The Senate amendment contained no similar amendment.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees note that this transfer should not be considered as a precedent for future transfers of aircraft or other property of the U.S. government to individuals.

Technical and clerical amendments (sec. 1084)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1073) that would make technical and clerical amendments to various provisions of law. The Senate amendment contained similar provisions (sec. 1022 and 1061).

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would incorporate the provisions of sections 1022 and 1061 of the Senate amendment, strike certain portions of section 1073 of the House bill, and make certain additional technical and clerical amendments.

Preservation of search and rescue capabilities of the Federal Government (sec. 1085)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1073) that would prevent the Secretary of Defense for reducing or eliminating the search and rescue capabilities at any military installation in the United States until the Secretary certifies that equivalent services will be provided without interruption and consistent with the policies and objectives established in the United States National Search and Rescue Plan of January 1, 1999.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Acquisition of aerial firefighting equipment for National Interagency Fire Center (sec. 1086)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1076) that would authorize the Secretary of Agriculture to purchase 10 aerial firefighting aircraft to be used by the National Interagency Fire Center.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require that the aircraft be certified by the Chief of the Forest Service as suited for conditions commonly carried out in the United States, including Alaska.

Revision to requirements for recognition of institutions of higher education as Hispanic-serving institutions for purposes of certain grants and contracts (sec. 1087)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1079) that would allow universities to qualify as Hispanic-serving institutions, as defined by the Higher Education Act (Public Law 89-329, as amended), by providing assurances that 50 percent of the Hispanic student population is low-income by employing statistical extrapolation from Census Bureau data.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Military extraterritorial jurisdiction over contractors supporting defense missions overseas (sec. 1088)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1081) that would amend the definitional section of the Military Extraterritorial Jurisdiction Act of 2000, section 3267 of title 18, United States Code (Public Law 106-523), to expand jurisdiction over civilian employees and contractor personnel of the United States to include personnel not employed by or contracting with the Department of Defense whose employment relates to supporting the mission of the Department of Defense overseas.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Definition of United States for purposes of Federal crime of torture (sec. 1089)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1082) that would amend section 2340 of title 18, United States Code, to define "United States" for the purposes of chapter 113C of that title as the States, the District of Columbia, and the commonwealths, territories, and possessions of the United States.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Energy savings performance contracts (sec. 1090)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1091) that would reauthorize energy savings performance contract authority under section 802 of the National Energy Policy Act (42 U.S.C. 8287a) for the Department of Defense and other federal agencies until October 1, 2006. The provision would also authorize water or wastewater treatment projects to be conducted under an energy savings performance contract.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment to reauthorize this authority until October 1, 2006.

Sense of Congress and policy concerning persons detained by the United States (sec. 1091–1093)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 906) that would require the Secretary of Defense to prescribe policies to prevent the abuse of detainees held by the United States as part of the Global War on Terrorism, and would require that the policies be transmitted, and a report on implementation be submitted, to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives. It also contained a provision (sec. 1207) expressing the sense of Congress concerning the abuse of persons in United States custody in Iraq.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1029F) that would require detailed reports on foreign national detainees in the custody of the Department of Defense, and the detention facilities and practices of the Department. It also contained a provision (sec. 1057) that would make findings on United States adherence to international conventions on torture and cruel or inhuman treatment or punishment; prohibit torture or cruel, inhuman, or degrading treatment or punishment that is prohibited by the Constitution, laws, or treaties of the United States; require the Secretary of Defense to prescribe regulations to ensure compliance with the prohibition; and report twice a year on investigations of possible violations of the prohibition. The Senate amendment also contained a provision (sec. 1059C) that would set out the policy of the United States concerning torture and inhumane treatment; require reports on detainees, military commissions, and interrogation techniques; require the submission of certain reports prepared by the International Committee of the Red Cross; and require the Secretary to certify that federal and contractor personnel engaged in the handling of detainees have been trained in U.S. international obligations and the law of war.

The House recedes with an amendment that would state the sense of Congress with regard to misconduct by certain U.S. personnel at the Abu Ghraib prison in Iraq; the professionalism and morality of the vast majority of American servicemembers serving there; the law governing the treatment of detainees; and the prohibition of torture or cruel and inhumane treatment contained in applicable domestic and international law. The amendment further sets out the policy of the United States with respect to the proper treatment of detainees; the need for thorough investigation and prosecution, as appropriate, of unlawful treatment of detainees; the need to ensure that all personnel of the United States Government understand their obligations to comply with the prohibitions against torture and inhumane treatment; the need to ensure the proper status of detained persons while a determination is made as to their prisoner of war status under the applicable Geneva Convention; and the need for expeditious prosecution of detainees in U.S. custody who are alleged to have committed terrorist acts or other crimes.

The amendment would further require the Secretary of Defense to ensure that policies are prescribed, within 150 days of enactment, to ensure that detainees are treated in a humane manner consistent with the international obligations of the United States and the aforementioned policies on the treatment of detainees; would set out minimum criteria for these policies; and would require that the Secretary certify that federal employees and contractor personnel involved with handling or interrogation of detainees have fulfilled annual training requirements on the law of war and U.S. obligations under international law.

Finally, the amendment contains several reporting requirements, including a requirement that the policies prescribed be forwarded by the Secretary to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives within 30 days. The Secretary is to report to the committees within one year after prescribing the policies on further steps taken to implement them. Nine months after enactment and annually thereafter, the Secretary would be required to submit to the committees a report giving notice of any investigations into violations of international or U.S. law regarding the treatment of detainees; and aggregate data on foreign national detainees in the custody of the Department of Defense during the prior year. The reporting provisions of this provision expire on December 31, 2007.

Findings and sense of Congress concerning Army Specialist Joseph Darby (sec. 1091)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1206) that would recognize and thank U.S. Army Specialist Joseph Darby for his courageous actions in alerting his superiors to misconduct by American soldiers at Abu Ghraib prison in Iraq, and express the sense of Congress that Specialist Darby should be afforded appropriate protection and recognition by the Department of Defense.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Legislative Provisions Not Adopted

Reduction in overall authorization due to inflation savings

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1003) that would reduce the amount authorized to be appropriated to the Department of Defense by $1.7 billion to reflect the reduced inflation estimates in the Congressional Budget Office's annual review of the budget.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Authority to waive claims of the United States when amounts recoverable are less than costs of collection

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1004) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense or his designee to waive indebtedness when the cost of processing the transaction exceeds the amounts recoverable. The maximum amount that may be waived under this statue would be the micro-purchase threshold, currently $2,500.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees request that the Department of Defense provide the following information: (1) proposed regulations for the purposes of this section; (2) how this authority will be used with the existing law related to claims or debt collection, including the Debt Collection Improvement Act; (3) the number of estimated transactions that will be used with this authority regarding amounts owed by members of the Armed Forces and Department civilian personnel; (4) the number of estimated transactions that will be used with this authority regarding amounts owed by contractors; and (5) the procedures that will be implemented to track debts waived for members of the Armed Forces and Department civilian personnel for tax implications.

Report on amounts remitted and reimbursed during fiscal year 2004 under section 1007 of Public Law 108–136

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1008) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a report not later than 30 days after the end of fiscal year 2004 on amounts remitted and reimbursed during fiscal year 2004 under section 1007 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004 (Public Law 108–136; 117 Stat. 1585; 10 U.S.C. 2241 note).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that section 1007 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004 permits funds appropriated to the Department of Defense to be transferred to the Department of State as payment for a fee charged by the Department of State for maintenance, upgrade, or construction of U.S. diplomatic facilities only to the extent that the amount charged in any given year exceeds the total amount of unreimbursed costs incurred by the Department of Defense during that year in providing goods and services to the Department of State. Section 8067 of the Defense Appropriations Act for Fiscal Year 2005 permits funds appropriated to the Department of Defense to be transferred to the Department of State as remittance for a fee charged by the Department of State for fiscal year 2005 for maintenance, upgrade, or construction of U.S. diplomatic facilities only to the extent that the amount of the fee so charged exceeds the total amount of the unreimbursed costs incurred by the Department of Defense during that fiscal year in providing goods and services to the Department of State.

The conferees further note that the capital security cost sharing program has not been authorized by the Congress. While the conferees recognize the need to upgrade and construct new U.S. diplomatic facilities, the conferees oppose the use of a capital cost sharing program as a means of accomplishing this goal. As currently described by the administration, the capital cost sharing program does not take into account the goods and services that other departments and agencies provide to the Department of State at no cost. The conferees urge the administration to request sufficient funds for the Department of State in future year budget requests to provide for the costs of upgrading or constructing U.S. diplomatic facilities.

Limitation on leasing of foreign-built vessels

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1014) that would restrict the secretary of a military department from entering into a contract for a lease or charter of a vessel for a term of more than 12 months, including all options to renew or extend the contract, if the hull, a major component of the hull, or superstructure of the vessel is constructed in a foreign shipyard. This provision includes a clause by which the President could make an exception to this limitation if the President determines it is in the national security interest of the United States to do so.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Report on availability of potential overland ballistic missile defense test ranges

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1025) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to Congress assessing the availability of potential ballistic missile defense test ranges for overland intercept flight tests of defenses against ballistic missiles with a range of 750–1500 kilometers.

The House bill amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the congressional defense committees by February 1, 2005, that assesses the availability of potential ballistic missile defense test ranges for overland intercept flight tests of defenses against ballistic missiles with a range of 750–1500 kilometers.

Sense of Congress on space launch ranges

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1035) that would express the sense of Congress that the Secretary of Defense should provide support for and continue the development of range safety systems to reduce costs and enhance technical capabilities and operational safety at U.S. space launch ranges.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees continue to believe that safe, effective, and efficient space launch ranges are key to assured access to space. The conferees are aware of ongoing efforts to develop, test, and certify launch range technology based on Global Positioning System signals and inertial navigation that holds promise to improve down-range reentry support, increase launch support capability, lower range support costs, and improve range safety. The conferees encourage the Department of Air Force to support these efforts.

Compensation for former prisoners of war

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1055) that would require that any plan of the Secretary of Defense to provide compensation to an individual who was injured in a military prison under the control of the United States in Iraq shall include a provision to address the injuries suffered by the citizens of the United States who were held as prisoners of war by the regime of Saddam Hussein during the First Gulf War.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Phased implementation of new program for transporting household goods of members of the Armed Forces

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1065) that would prohibit the Secretary of Defense from implementing the new program, "Families First" for the transportation of household goods of members of the Armed Forces and their dependents beyond phase I of the program until the Secretary submits to Congress a report evaluating whether phase I met its objectives and whether it is in the best interest of the Department of Defense and members of the Armed Forces to move forward to phase II of the program.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Repeal of quarterly reporting requirement concerning payments for District of Columbia water and sewer services and establishment of annual report by Treasury

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1067) that would amend the District of Columbia Public Works Act of 1954, as amended, to repeal the requirement that the Inspector General of each federal department or agency receiving water or sewer services from the District of Columbia submit quarterly reports, analyzing the promptness of payments for such services. These reports would be replaced by an annual report on payments for these services submitted by the Secretary of the Treasury to the Committees on Appropriations of the Senate and the House and Representatives, the Committee on Governmental Affairs of the Senate, and the Committee on Government Reform of the House of Representatives.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes. The conferees anticipate that this issue will be addressed in other legislation.

Assistance for study of feasibility of biennial international air trade show in the United States and for initial implementation

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1072) that would require the Secretary of Defense to select and provide assistance to a community in conducting a joint study to determine the feasibility of establishing an international air trade show in that community.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Commission on the long-term implementation of the new strategic posture of the United States

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1074) that would establish a new commission to review the long-term implementation of Nuclear Posture Review recommendations.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Grant of federal charter to Korean War Veterans Association, Incorporated

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1074) that would modify title 36, United States Code, to grant a federal charter to the Korean War Veterans Association, Incorporated.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Assignment of members to assist Bureau of Border Security and Bureau of Citizenship and Immigration Services of the Department of Homeland Security

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1077) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to assign members of the Army, Navy, Air Force, and Marine Corps to assist the Bureau of Border Security and the U.S. Customs Service of the Department of Homeland Security in preventing the entry of terrorists, drug traffickers, and illegal aliens into the United States; and to aid in the inspection of cargo, vehicles, and aircraft at points of entry into the United States to prevent the entry of weapons of mass destruction, prohibited narcotics or drugs, or other terrorist or drug trafficking items.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Sense of the Senate on American Forces Radio and Television Service

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1077) that would express the sense of the Senate that the mission statement and policies of the American Forces Radio and Television Service appropriately state the goal of maintaining equal opportunity balance with respect to political programming and that the Secretary of Defense should ensure that these policies are fully being implemented.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Extension of scope and jurisdiction for current fraud offenses

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1080) that would provide for extraterritorial jurisdiction under the provisions of section 1001 of title 18, United States Code, dealing with false statements or entries and section 1031 of that title, dealing with major fraud against the United States.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees believe that existing law adequately addresses the situation.

Broadcast Decency Enforcement Act of 2004

The Senate amendment contained several provisions (sec. 1084–1089) that would (1) amend the Communications Act of 1934 (47 U.S.C. 151 et seq.) to increase the penalties for broadcasting obscene, indecent, or profane language; (2) provide mitigating factors for such penalties; (3) make findings on media concentration and suspend the media concentration rules adopted by the Federal Communications Commission in June, 2003; and (4) prohibit the distribution of violent video programming not blockable by electronic means.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Local Law Enforcement Enhancement Act of 2004

The Senate amendment contained several provisions (sec. 3401–3410) that would constitute the "Local Law Enforcement Enhancement Act of 2004." The Attorney General, at the request of a State or tribal law enforcement official, could provide assistance in the investigation or prosecution of certain hate crimes. The Attorney General could also award grants to State, local, and tribal law enforcement officials to assist with the investigation and prosecution of such crimes. Chapter 13 of title 18, United States Code, would be amended to establish a substantive federal prohibition of certain specific hate crime acts. No prosecution could be undertaken under this section without certification from the Attorney General or certain other officials of the Department of Justice.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

TITLE XI—CIVILIAN PERSONNEL MATTERS

Items of Special Interest

Fort Meade—work related illnesses

The conferees are concerned with continued reports of work related illnesses among the National Security Agency (NSA) employees at Fort Meade, Maryland. The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to undertake an epidemiological study and health hazard evaluation related to NSA buildings at Fort Meade. The conferees believe the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health of the Department of Health and Human Services is an appropriate federal government organization to perform such a study. The conferees expect the study to be completed by March 2006.

Legislative Provisions Adopted

Payment of Federal employee health benefit premiums for mobilized Federal employees (sec. 1101)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1101) that would authorize a federal government employee, who is a member of a Reserve component ordered to active-duty in support of a contingency operation and placed on leave without pay, to continue to receive coverage under the Federal Employee Health Benefit Program for 24 months. The provision would also authorize the agency to pay both the employee's share and the agency's share of the premiums for continued coverage up to 24 months.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Foreign language proficiency pay (sec. 1102)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1102) that would eliminate the restriction in current law that foreign language proficiency pay may be paid only to those civilian employees working in support of contingency operations.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1102).

The House recedes with an amendment to require that the authority for foreign language proficiency pay will take effect on the first day of the first month that begins after the date of enactment of this Act.

Pay and performance appraisal parity for civilian intelligence personnel (sec. 1103)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1103) that would require the Secretary of Defense to fix the rates of basic pay for employees within the Department's Civilian Intelligence Personnel System in relation to rates of pay provided for their counterparts elsewhere within the Department of Defense. The provision would repeal maximum rates of pay and outline the performance appraisal system for senior executive service personnel.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1103) that would also require the implementation of an appraisal system for Defense Intelligence Senior Executive Service personnel comparable to that provided for other senior executive service personnel in the Department of Defense that would make meaningful distinctions based on performance.

The House recedes with an amendment to clarify that pay rates for defense civilian intelligence personnel would be established in relation to the rates of pay provided for comparable positions in the Department of Defense, and subject to the same limitations on maximum rates of pay established for employees of Defense by law or regulation. The amendment would recede to the Senate's version of the performance appraisal system for senior executive service personnel in the Defense Intelligence Personnel System.

Pay parity for senior executives in defense nonappropriated fund instrumentalities (sec. 1104)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1104) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to adjust the pay cap for Department of Defense nonappropriated fund executives to ensure that the compensation paid to such employees remains consistent with the Senior Executive Service employees.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1105).

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

The conferees intend that in order to qualify for higher pay, the nonappropriated fund executives would meet performance standards established in a rigorous performance management system as required for federal civil service employees under section 5382 of title 5, United States Code.

Science, mathematics and research for transformation (SMART) defense scholarship pilot program (sec. 1105)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1101) that would establish a pilot program within the Department of Defense to provide targeted educational assistance to individuals seeking a baccalaureate or an advanced degree in science and engineering disciplines that are critical to national security. This provision would allow individuals to acquire such education in exchange for a period of employment with the Department in the areas specified.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Report on how to recruit and retain individuals with foreign language skills (sec. 1106)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1108) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a plan to the congressional defense and intelligence committees with the fiscal year 2006 budget request for expanding and improving the national security foreign language workforce of the Department of Defense, on both a near-term and a long-term basis.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment that would require the Secretary to submit the required plan to the congressional defense and intelligence committees no later than March 31, 2005, and incorporate the findings of the Senate's provision into this statement of managers.

The conferees agree that strengthening the foreign language workforce of the Department is a critical step in winning the global war on terrorism and improving the national security of the United States. The conferees find that: (1) The Federal Government has a requirement to ensure that the employees of its departments and agencies with national security responsibilities are prepared to meet the challenges of the current and future international environment; (2) According to a 2002 General Accounting Office report, federal agencies have shortages in translators and interpreters and an overall shortfall in the language proficiency levels needed to carry our their missions, which has adversely affected agency operations and hindered U.S. military, law enforcement, intelligence, counterterrorism, and diplomatic efforts; (3) Foreign language skills and area expertise are integral to, or directly support, every foreign intelligence discipline and are essential factors in national security readiness, information superiority, and coalition peacekeeping or warfighting missions; (4) Communicating in languages other than English and understanding and accepting cultural and societal differences are vital to the success of peacetime and wartime military and intelligence activities; (5) Proficiency levels required for foreign language support to national security functions have been raised, and what was once considered proficiency is no longer the case; (6) According to the Joint Intelligence Committee Inquiry into the 9/11 Terrorist Attacks, the U.S. intelligence community had insufficient linguists prior to September 11, 2001, to handle the challenge it faced in translating the volumes of foreign language counterterrorism intelligence it collected, including a readiness level of only 30 percent in the most critical languages that are used by terrorists; and (7) Because of this shortage, the Federal Government has had to enter into private contracts to procure linguist and translator services, including some positions that would be more appropriately filled by permanent federal employees or members of the U.S. Armed Forces.

The conferees expect the Secretary to formulate a comprehensive, achievable plan for improving the foreign language workforce of the Department, both military and civilian, and to work closely with other agencies of the Federal Government to ensure that the foreign language requirements of the United States are met.

Plan on implementation and utilization of flexible personnel management authorities in Department of Defense laboratories (sec. 1107)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1109) that would require the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology and Logistics and the Under Secretary of Defense for Personnel and Readiness to jointly develop and submit to the Committees on Armed Services in the Senate and the House of Representatives a plan for the effective utilization of specific personnel management authorities designed to increase the mission responsiveness, efficiency, and effectiveness of Department of Defense laboratories.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would change the reporting requirements associated with the plan.

The conferees note that Secretary of the Navy Gordon England's letter to the Committee on Government Reform of the House of Representatives, dated April 26, 2004, stated that the Department "will not impose Best Practices in those laboratories that are temporarily exempt" from the National Security Personnel System. The Secretary further stated that the Department's laboratories "should be able to continue individually to refine and evolve their 'successfully tailored systems' over the next several years if they determine that such adjustments are beneficial and not disruptive to their workforce."

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Accumulation of annual leave by intelligence senior-level employees

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1104) that would permit intelligence senior-level employees of the Department of Defense to accumulate annual leave in a manner identical to the Department's Senior Executive Service.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Prohibition of unauthorized wearing or use of civilian medals or decorations

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1105) that would prohibit any person from merchandising or wearing a Department of Defense civilian medal or decoration without the written permission of the Secretary of Defense. The provision would also authorize the Attorney General to initiate a civil proceeding in a U.S. district court to enjoin the prohibited practice.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

TITLE XII—MATTERS RELATING TO OTHER NATIONS

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Subtitle A—Matters Relating to Iraq, Afghanistan, and Global War on Terrorism

Commanders' Emergency Response Program (sec. 1201)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1203) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to use, notwithstanding any other provision of law, up to $300.0 million in operations and maintenance funding for additional costs due to Operation Iraqi Freedom and Operation Enduring Freedom for the Commanders' Emergency Response Program (CERP), under which commanders in Iraq and Afghanistan receive funds for use in small humanitarian and reconstruction projects in their areas of responsibility. The provision would require quarterly reports on the source and use of funds pursuant to this program.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 311), but did not include the phrase "notwithstanding any other provision of law."

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would provide the Secretary authority to waive any provision of law that would prohibit, restrict, limit or otherwise constrain implementation of the CERP program in Iraq and Afghanistan. The provision would also require the Secretary to submit a report within 120 days to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives identifying all provisions of law that, if not waived, would prohibit, restrict, limit or otherwise constrain implementation of the CERP program in Iraq and Afghanistan. In the event that the Secretary identifies additional such provisions of law after the report is submitted to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives, the conferees expect the Secretary to send supplemental reports with the requested information to those committees.

Assistance to Iraq and Afghanistan military and security forces (sec. 1202)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1053) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense, with the concurrence of the Secretary of State, to use up to $250.0 million in operations and maintenance funding to provide assistance in fiscal year 2005 to Iraq and Afghanistan military or security forces solely to enhance their ability to combat terrorism and support United States or coalition military operations in Iraq and Afghanistan, respectively.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to use up to $500.0 million in operations and maintenance funding for additional costs due to Operation Iraqi Freedom and Operation Enduring Freedom to provide assistance in fiscal year 2005 to Iraq and Afghanistan military or security forces solely to enhance their ability to combat terrorism and support United States or coalition military operations in Iraq and Afghanistan, respectively. The provision defines "military and security forces" to mean national armies, national guard forces, border security forces, civil defense forces, infrastructure protection forces, and police.

The conferees note that the authority provided by this provision would not permit the provision of assistance to nongovernmental or irregular forces such as private militias. The conferees expect the prior notifications to the congressional defense committees to include detailed information regarding the proposed amounts of funds to be spent, recipients of the funds, and the specific purposes for which the funds would be used.

Redesignation and modification of authorities relating to Inspector General of the Coalition Provisional Authority (sec. 1203)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1059B) that would amend the Emergency Supplemental Appropriations Act for Defense and Reconstruction of Iraq and Afghanistan, 2004 (Public Law 108-106), to establish the Office of Special Inspector General for Iraq Reconstruction; to provide for the continuation in office of the individual presently serving as Inspector General of the Coalition Provisional Authority; to provide that the Inspector General shall be responsible to the Secretaries of State and Defense; to provide for support of the Inspector General at appropriate locations of the Department of State in Iraq; to provide for reporting by the Inspector General to the Secretaries of State and Defense; to provide for jurisdiction of the Inspector General over sums appropriated to the Iraq Relief and Reconstruction Fund; to provide for coordination by the Inspector General with the Inspectors General of the Departments of State and Defense and the Agency for International Development; to allow personnel of the Inspector General to carry firearms and make arrests in the line of duty with the permission of the Attorney General; and to provide for the termination of the Office of the Special Inspector General.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Presidential report on strategy for the stabilization of Iraq (sec. 1204)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1204) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a strategic plan on how the United States will achieve the goal of establishing capable Iraqi security forces to provide for the long-term security of the Iraqi people.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1029E) that would require the President to submit a report on the strategy of the United States and coalition partners to stabilize Iraq, including the training and deployment of Iraqi security forces, as well as the participation of other international police and military forces.

The House recedes with an amendment that would incorporate the House provision into the Senate provision and require a single Presidential report, followed by quarterly updates from the Secretary of Defense, in conjunction with the Secretary of State, during calendar year 2005. Each quarterly report shall address the following: the number of forces recruited, currently serving, and that have left (along with a breakdown of the reasons for leaving) by service over the period in question; progress in meeting training goals; progress in achieving other metrics as identified in the strategic plan; and a description and analysis of any training incidents and deployment successes and failures, with a discussion of how those incidents and successes will affect future efforts to achieve the goals of the strategic plan.

Guidance on contractors supporting deployed forces in Iraq (sec. 1205)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1205) that would require the Secretary of Defense to issue guidance and a report on contractors supporting deployed forces in Iraq.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 864). In addition, the Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 865) that would require a report on contractor performance of security, intelligence, law enforcement, and criminal justice functions in Iraq.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would provide additional detail on the guidance to be issued. The amendment would require that the Secretary's guidance address the issue of contractor performance of security, intelligence, law enforcement, and criminal justice functions. The conferees expect the guidance to address the full range of security, intelligence, law enforcement, and criminal justice functions that are being performed by contractors in support of current military operations or are anticipated to be performed by contractors in support of future military operations.

The amendment would also require that the guidance address: (1) investigating background and qualifications of contractor security personnel and organizations; and (2) ensuring proper training and compliance with rules of engagement by armed contractor security personnel. The conferees take no position as to whether such investigations and training should be conducted by Department of Defense personnel or by contractor personnel subject to Department oversight.

The conferees expect the Secretary to coordinate, as appropriate, with the heads of other departments and agencies of the Federal Government that would be affected by the implementation of the guidance.

In addition, the conferees expect the Secretary, in preparing the guidance required by this section, to address options for enhancing contractor security and reducing contractor security costs in current and future armed conflicts. The options considered should include: (1) temporary commissioning of contractor security personnel as Reserve component officers in order to subject such personnel to the military chain of command; (2) requiring contractor security personnel to obtain security clearances to facilitate the communication of critical threat information; (3) establishing a contract schedule for companies furnishing contractor security personnel to provide a more orderly process for the selection, training, and compensation of such personnel; (4) establishing a contract schedule for companies to provide more cost-effective insurance for contractor security personnel; and (5) providing for U.S. indemnification of contractors to reduce the costs of insuring contractor security personnel. The report required by subsection (c) should explain the rationale for the Secretary's decision to implement or not to implement these options.

Report on contractors supporting deployed forces and reconstruction efforts in Iraq (sec. 1206)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1021) that would require a report on contractor security in Iraq.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would clarify the reporting requirements.

With regard to contractor casualties and fatalities, the report would include: (1) a plan for establishing and implementing a process for collecting data on casualties and fatalities; and (2) a requirement for data on casualties and fatalities that have occurred since the conclusion of major combat operations in Iraq. The conferees understand that the Department of Defense has not yet established a comprehensive system for collecting data on contractor casualties and fatalities and do not believe that the requirement to provide retrospective data should be, or needs to be, implemented in a manner that would become burdensome on the combatant command or on combat units, but should be done in a manner and to an extent that does not undermine military operations. The conferees believe that the Department should be able to collect this information accurately and comprehensively from the contractors themselves. The requirement to establish a plan for collecting contractor casualty and fatality data in the future should ensure that such data is collected routinely and uniformly.

With regard to the requirement to establish a plan for establishing and implementing a process for collecting data on contractors performing security functions in Iraq, the conferees understand that the categories of security functions performed by contractors are not mutually exclusive and expect the Department to indicate any overlap to the best of its ability.

United Nations Oil-for-Food Program (sec. 1207)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1058) that would: (1) require the Inspector General of the Department of Defense to ensure, not later than June 30, 2004, the security of all documents relevant to the United Nations Oil-for-Food Program that are in the possession or control of the Coalition Provisional Authority; (2) require executive agencies to provide to the Senate committees of jurisdiction access to documents and information relevant to the Oil-for-Food Program; (3) call on the Secretary of State to urge the Secretary General of the United Nations to provide the United States copies of all audits and core documents related to the Oil-for-Food Program; and (4) require the Comptroller General to conduct a review of United States oversight of the Oil-for-Food Program.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would: (1) express the sense of Congress that the Secretary of State should seek to conclude a Memorandum of Understanding with the Iraq Interim Government to ensure that the United States will have access to all documents in the possession of the Iraq Interim Government related to the United Nations Oil-for-Food Program; (2) require executive agencies to provide to congressional committees of jurisdiction access to documents and information relevant to the Oil-for-Food Program; (3) call on the Secretary of State to urge the Secretary General of the United Nations to provide the United States copies of all audits and core documents related to the Oil-for-Food Program; and (4) require the Comptroller General to conduct a review of the Oil-for-Food Program, including the role of the United States.

The conferees note their understanding that the phrase "committee of jurisdiction" includes, but is not limited to, the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and House of Representatives, and the Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations of the Committee on Governmental Affairs of the Senate.

Support of military operations to combat terrorism (sec. 1208)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1202) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to expend up to $25.0 million during fiscal years 2005 to 2007 to provide support to foreign forces, irregular forces, groups, or individuals engaged in supporting or facilitating ongoing military operations by the U.S. Special Operations Forces to combat terrorism. The provision would not, however, constitute authority to conduct a covert action. The Secretary would be required to submit a report on the support provided under this section within 30 days of the close of each fiscal year.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary to establish procedures for the exercise of such authority and to notify the congressional defense committees of these procedures prior to the exercise of authority contained in the provision. Additionally, the amendment would require the Secretary to notify the congressional defense committees expeditiously, and in any event, within 48 hours, of the use of such authority as part of an approved military operation, and would prohibit the Secretary from delegating this authority.

The conferees intend that nothing in this provision shall constitute specific statutory authorization within the meaning of section 5(b) of the War Powers Resolution (Public Law 93-148) or to supersede any requirement of the War Powers Resolution.

Report on al Qaeda activity in the Western Hemisphere (sec. 1209)

The conferees agree to include a provision that would direct the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Secretary of State to submit to the committees on Armed Services of the Senate and House of Representatives of Congress a report on the activities of al Qaeda and associated groups in Latin America and Caribbean, including (1) an assessment of the extent to which such groups have established a presence in the area; (2) a description of activities of such groups in the area, including fund-raising, money laundering, narcotrafficking, and association with criminal groups; (3) an assessment or the threat posed by such groups to the peace and stability of nations in the area and to United States interests; and (4) a description of the United States policies intended to deal with such a threat. The provision would require that an unclassified report, with a classified annex as necessary, be submitted no later that 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act. The conferees note their concern about potential al Qaeda activity in the Western Hemisphere, and the indirect and direct threat to United States national security that such activity represents.

Subtitle B—Counterproliferation Matters

Defense international counterproliferation programs (sec. 1211)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1411) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to expand existing programs to train foreign border and law enforcement officials in preventing the illicit transfer of weapons of mass destruction in the states of the former Soviet Union, Eastern Europe, and the Baltic States, by granting the Secretary authority to conduct those programs in any other country in which the Secretary determines a significant threat exists.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Policy and sense of Congress on nonproliferation of ballistic missiles (sec. 1212)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1071) that would establish the policy of the United States to develop, support, and strengthen efforts to curtail the proliferation of ballistic missiles and related technology. The provision would also express the sense of Congress that ballistic missile proliferation represents a threat to the United States and its allies and friends which has been slowed by variety of means, and that steps to prevent such proliferation should be vigorously pursued.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Sense of Congress on the Global Partnership against the Spread of Weapons of Mass Destruction (sec. 1213)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1059) that would express the sense of Congress that the President should be commended for the steps taken at the G-8 summit at Sea Island, Georgia, on June 8-10, 2004, to demonstrate continued support for the Global Partnership against the Spread of Nuclear Weapons and Materials of Mass Destruction, and to expand the Global Partnership by welcoming new members and using the partnership to coordinate nonproliferation projects in Libya, Iraq, and other countries. The provision would also call on the President to take a number of specific steps to strengthen the partnership.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Report on collaboration to reduce the risks of a launch of Russian nuclear weapons (sec. 1214)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1423) that makes certain findings and would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to Congress by November 1, 2005 on steps that might be taken to reduce the danger of unauthorized or accidental ballistic missile launches.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary to submit a report to Congress by November 1, 2005 on current and future collaborative efforts to reduce the risk of unauthorized or accidental launches of nuclear armed ballistic missiles.

The conferees recognize that a number of factors related to Russian Federation nuclear forces contribute to the risk of unauthorized or accidental launch of Russian ballistic missiles. These factors include: the high state of readiness of the Russian Federation intercontinental ballistic missile force; the remote location of many of these forces; shortcomings in the Russian Federation's early warning system; the short decision time available to the Russian Federation President after being informed of a possible nuclear attack; the possibility that the Russian Federation, because of concerns that its nuclear forces would not survive a nuclear attack, may have a nuclear deterrence posture that relies on launching a retaliatory strike on warning of nuclear attack; deficiencies in the security and control of Russian Federation nuclear forces; and the susceptibility of nuclear strategic command and control systems and early warning systems to an intrusion or accident that could create the false impression that a nuclear ballistic missile attack is underway. The conferees believe that collaborative measures between the United States and the Russian Federation and continued high-level discussions between U.S. and Russian Federation military leaders could be useful in reducing these risks.

Subtitle C—Other Matters

Authority for humanitarian assistance for the detection and clearance of landmines extended to include other explosive remnants of war (sec. 1221)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1051) that would add a new section to chapter 20 of title 10, United States Code, to authorize the Secretary of Defense to provide military training, education, and technical assistance to foreign nations for the purpose of detecting and clearing landmines or other explosive remnants of war. The provision would clarify existing law by separating authority to conduct humanitarian mine clearing actions from the authority to conduct humanitarian and civic assistance, and recognize the requirement to detect and clear other explosive remnants of war, in addition to landmines.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would amend section 401 of title 10, United States Code, to include explosive remnants of war, but would not establish a new category for humanitarian activity.

Expansion of entities of the People's Republic of China subject to certain Presidential authorities when operating in the United States (sec. 1222)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1212) that would expand the definition of a "Communist Chinese military company" as defined in the Strom Thurmond National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1999 (Public Law 105-261) to include Chinese firms owned or operated by a ministry of the People's Republic of China or an entity affiliated with the defense industrial base of the People's Republic of China.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Assignment of NATO naval personnel to submarine safety programs (sec. 1223)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1211) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to assign military personnel from NATO countries and specified other countries to U.S. commands for the purpose of working on the standardization, development, and interoperability of submarine safety and rescue systems and procedures.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1054).

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would: (1) limit the authority of the Secretary of the Navy to the assignment of members of the naval services of NATO nations in connection with this program; and (2) terminate this authority after September 30, 2008.

Availability of Warsaw Initiative Funds for new NATO Members (sec. 1224)

The conferees agree to include a provision that would make available up to $4.0 million of Warsaw Initiative Funds in fiscal year 2005 for the participation of new North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) Members (Bulgaria, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Romania, Slovakia, and Slovenia) in the exercises and programs of the Partnership for Peace program. This authority would be available only in fiscal year 2005.

The conferees note that Warsaw Initiative Funds are authorized for the participation of Partnership for Peace nations in the exercises and programs of NATO's Partnership for Peace program.

In a letter to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives, the Deputy Secretary of Defense requested that $4.0 million of these funds be available in fiscal year 2005 to new NATO members, specifically to work with remaining Partnership for Peace nations as they seek closer cooperation with NATO. The Deputy Secretary noted in his letter that in 1999, when Poland, Hungary, and the Czech Republic became NATO Members, a limited amount of Warsaw Initiative Funds continued into fiscal year 2000 for exercises and programs that had begun in fiscal year 1999, as well as for funding completion of program audits by local-hire administrative personnel in each of these countries.

The conferees expect that the use of Warsaw Initiative Funds in fiscal year 2005 for new NATO Members will similarly be used for the purposes of completing exercises and programs that began in fiscal year 2004 and, as necessary, completing program audits in those countries.

Bilateral exchanges and trade in defense articles and defense services between the United States and the United Kingdom and Australia (sec. 1225)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1059A) that would provide an exception from the certain requirements of subsection (j) of section 38 of the Arms Export Control Act related to bilateral agreement requirements for the transfers of defense items for the Governments of Australia and the United Kingdom.

The House contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of State, in consultation with the Secretary of Defense, to expeditiously process any application for the export of defense items to the Governments of Australia and the United Kingdom without referral to any other Federal department of agency, except where the item is classified or exceptional circumstances apply.

Study on Missile Defense Cooperation (sec. 1226)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1070) that would require the Secretary of State and the Secretary of Defense to establish procedures for streamlining the export licensing review process for missile defense items and examine the feasibility of providing major project authorizations for programs related to missile defense similar to those established under section 126.14 of the International Traffic in Arms Regulations.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Secretary of State, to study the advisability and feasibility of establishing procedures for streamlining the export licensing review process for missile defense items and providing major project authorizations for programs related to missile defense.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Documentation of conditions in Iraq under former dictatorial government as part of transition to post-dictatorial government

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1201) that would require the Secretary of Defense to establish a process for transferring to Iraqi entities documentation on the nature of the Saddam Hussein regime, including any documents or records that have been captured by U.S. military forces in Iraq regarding the activities of the Saddam Hussein government and individuals within that government.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that the Secretary has already transferred most of the noteworthy documentation and is sharing relevant information with the Iraqi government.

Sense of Congress regarding limitation on use of funds for the reconstruction of Iraq

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1208) that would express the sense of Congress that no U.S. funds may be used for reconstruction activities in Iraq until the President certifies that the Government of Iraq has agreed to expend a significant portion of its oil production revenues on reconstruction activities.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Sense of Congress on destruction of Abu Ghraib prison in Iraq

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1209) that would express the sense of Congress that the Secretary of Defense should assist the Government of Iraq in destroying the Abu Ghraib prison and replacing it with a modern detention facility.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that Abu Ghraib prison was one of the world's most notorious prisons during the rule of Saddam Hussein, and that recent misconduct at that prison by members of the U.S. Armed Forces have further highlighted the horrible memories associated with Abu Ghraib. The conferees further note the progress made in improving conditions at Abu Ghraib prison in recent months, combined with the limited options available to the Government of Iraq for adequate detention facilities, suggest that continued operation of the prison may be a necessity in the near-term. The conferees believe that the fate of Abu Ghraib prison is a decision for the sovereign Government of Iraq.

Report on Global Peace Operations Initiative

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1213) that would require the President to report to Congress on the Global Peace Operations Initiative (GPOI), a new program announced by the administration after the submission of the budget request.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that, traditionally, the training of foreign peacekeeping forces has been conducted by the Department of State under title 22 of the United States Code. The conferees further note that the administration has the necessary authority under title 22 to conduct GPOI as a foreign assistance program.

Procurement sanctions against certain foreign persons that transfer certain defense articles and services to the People's Republic of China

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1214) that would make it the policy of the United States to prevent destabilizing arms transfers to the People's Republic of China by denying Department of Defense procurement contracts to foreign companies that sell to China items similar to those found on the U.S. Munitions List. The provision would also require the Secretary of Defense to publish a list of such companies in the Federal Register.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Military educational exchanges between senior officers and officials of the United States and Taiwan

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1215) that would require the Secretary of Defense to undertake a program of senior military officer and senior official exchanges with Taiwan designed to improve Taiwan's defenses against the People's Liberation Army of the People's Republic of China.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Definitions under Arms Export Control Act

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1401) that would amend the Arms Export Control Act (22 U.S.C. 2794) to clarify the definitions of "license," "agent," and "exporting agent."

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Exemption from licensing requirements for export of significant military equipment

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1402) that would amend the Arms Export Control Act (22 U.S.C. 2778(b)(2)) to prohibit the President from creating regulatory exemptions for significant military equipment that would otherwise require an export license.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Cooperative projects with friendly foreign countries

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1403) that would amend the Arms Export Control Act (22 U.S.C. 2767) to: (1) permit the Congress to block a cooperative project agreement with a friendly foreign country; and (2) require a license for the export of defense articles or defense services relating to a cooperative project.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Control of exports of United States weapons technology to the People's Republic of China

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1404) that would require the President to require exporters of militarily critical technologies to obtain an export license for the export or re-export of any item on the Militarily Critical Technologies List published by the Department of Defense.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Licensing requirement for export of militarily critical technologies

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1405) that would prohibit the export of certain technologies to individuals or countries engaged in the sale of such items to the security services of the People's Republic of China unless certain conditions are met. Such conditions would require that: a license be approved for that export; the Secretary of Defense concurs in the export; and the foreign person or country agrees in writing not to transfer title, possession of, or otherwise provide access to that item without prior written consent by the President.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Strengthening international export controls

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1406) that would make it the policy of the United States to seek continued negotiations to strengthen the international export control system for sales of arms and militarily-sensitive goods and technologies to countries of concern. The provision would require a Presidential report on progress made in strengthening international controls 180 days after enactment of this Act and every six months thereafter.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Defense counterproliferation fellowship program

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1412) that would direct the Secretary of Defense to establish a fellowship program to train and educate foreign defense policy-makers and military officers in identifying and using counterproliferation tools to combat the spread of weapons of mass destruction.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

TITLE XIII—COOPERATIVE THREAT REDUCTION WITH STATES OF THE FORMER SOVIET UNION

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Specification of Cooperative Threat Reduction programs and funds (sec. 1301)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1301) that would define the programs and funds that are Cooperative Threat Reduction (CTR) programs and funds, define the funds as those authorized to be appropriated in section 301 of this Act, and specify that CTR funds shall remain available for obligation for three fiscal years.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 1201).

The conferees agree to include this provision.

Funding allocations (sec. 1302)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1302) that would authorize $409.2 million for the Cooperative Threat Reduction (CTR) program. The provision would also authorize specific amounts for each CTR program element, require notification to Congress 30 days before the Secretary of Defense obligates and expends fiscal year 2005 funds for purposes other than those specifically authorized, and provide limited authority to obligate amounts for a CTR program element in excess of the amount specifically authorized for that purpose.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1202).

The House recedes.

Temporary authority to waive limitation on funding for chemical weapons destruction facility in Russia (sec. 1303)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1303) that would provide the President authority for fiscal year 2005 to waive existing certification requirements before obligating funds for the construction of the Shchuch'ye chemical weapons destruction facility in Russia.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1203) that would provide the President permanent authority to waive, on an annual basis for each fiscal year, existing certification requirements before obligating funds for the construction of the Shchuch'ye chemical weapons destruction facility in Russia. The Senate amendment would also clarify that funds obligated, but not expended, prior to lapse of a previously executed waiver could be expended.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would provide the President authority through December 31, 2006, to waive, on an annual basis for each calendar year, existing certification requirements before obligating or expending funds for the construction of the Shchuch'ye chemical weapons destruction facility in Russia. This authority would expire on December 31, 2006, and no waiver would remain in effect after that date.

The conferees agree that providing waiver authority on a calendar year basis, rather than on a fiscal year basis, will minimize the risk of unintended interruptions in the program that could occur when fiscal year waiver authority is not renewed before the end of a fiscal year.

Inclusion of descriptive summaries in annual Cooperative Threat Reduction reports and budget justification materials (sec. 1304).

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1204) that would clarify that the Secretary of Defense should provide the specified Cooperative Threat Reduction (CTR) budgetary and programmatic information both in the CTR annual report, and in the budget justification materials that the Department of Defense provides each year as part of the President's annual budget request to Congress.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

TITLE XIV—SUNKEN MILITARY CRAFT

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Sunken military craft (sec. 1401–1408)

The House bill contained several provisions (sec. 1021–1028) that would protect sunken U.S. military vessels, aircraft, and spacecraft, as well as the remains and personal effects of their crews from salvage, recovery, or other disturbance without authorization from the secretary of the military department concerned.

These provisions would clarify the circumstances under which such sunken craft, entitled to sovereign immunity when they sank, remain the property of the flag state until officially abandoned. They would also encourage the negotiation of international agreements to protect sunken military craft.

Finally, the provisions would authorize the secretary of the military department concerned to issue and enforce permits for activities directed at sunken U.S. military craft, including contract salvage. This system would not invalidate any permitting system currently in place nor affect any prior lawful transfer or express abandonment of title to any sunken military craft.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would authorize the Secretary of the Navy, in consultation with the Secretary of State, to apply the permitting system established by these provisions to any foreign sunken military craft located in United States waters, if requested by the flag state of that craft. It would also authorize in rem liability against a vessel involved in a violation of these provisions, and would authorize the Secretary concerned to request the Attorney General to seek other relief in certain cases. It would establish an eight-year statute of limitations for actions to enforce violations of these provisions or any permit issued thereunder. It would also extend the prohibition on applying the law of finds to sunken military craft to foreign craft located in U.S. waters. Finally, it makes technical changes to the definitional section.

TITLE XV—AUTHORIZATION FOR INCREASED COSTS DUE TO OPERATION IRAQI FREEDOM AND OPERATION ENDURING FREEDOM

Overview

The House bill contained a title (title XV) that would provide new authorizations of appropriations of $25.0 billion for ongoing operations in Iraq and Afghanistan. The title also contains reporting requirements and general provisions.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1006) that would authorize $25.0 billion for ongoing operations in Iraq and Afghanistan. The provision also contained reporting requirements.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would create a title that provides new authorization of appropriations of $25.0 billion for ongoing operations in Iraq and Afghanistan. The title also contains reporting requirements and general provisions.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Purpose (sec. 1501)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1501) that would establish a title as an authorization of appropriations for the Department of Defense for fiscal year 2005, in addition to amounts otherwise authorized in this Act, to provide funds for additional costs due to Operation Iraqi Freedom and Operation Enduring Freedom.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1006) that would authorize a contingent emergency reserve fund for ongoing operations in Iraq and Afghanistan.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would establish this title to provide additional funds for ongoing operations in Iraq and Afghanistan.

Army Procurement (sec. 1502)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1511) that would authorize an additional $2,439.2 million for fiscal year 2005 in Procurement, Army.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would authorize $965.0 million for fiscal year 2005 in Procurement, Army. Unless noted explicitly in the statement of managers, all changes are made without prejudice.

Navy and Marine Corps Procurement (sec. 1503)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1512) that would authorize an additional $136.6 million for fiscal year 2005 in Procurement, Navy and Marine Corps.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

DIVISION B MILITARY CONSTRUCTION AUTHORIZATIONS

Overview

The administration originally requested authorization of appropriations in fiscal year 2005 for military construction and housing programs totaling $9,450,475,000. The administration's amended budget for authorization of appropriations totaled $9,480,475,000, after adding certain military construction projects for the Army National Guard totaling $30.0 million.

The House bill would authorize appropriations totaling $9,930.5 million for military construction and family housing programs.

The Senate amendment would authorize appropriations totaling $9.822.9 million for military construction and family housing programs.

The conferees recommend authorization of appropriations of $9,930.1 million for the military construction and family housing accounts of the Department of Defense for fiscal year 2005. The authorization of appropriations includes the use of $130.0 million from prior-year rescissions. The conference agreement is consistent with a budget authority level of $10,003.0 million for military construction and family housing programs.

The following tables provide the project-level authorizations for the military construction funding authorized in Division B of this Act and summarize that funding by account. The tables also note as "Budget Amend" the projects contained in a fiscal year 2005 amended budget request submitted by the administration on March 5, 2004.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 2502).

The conference agreement reduces the authorization of appropriations by $5.0 million.

TITLE XXVI—GUARD AND RESERVE FORCES FACILITIES

Overview

The House bill would authorize appropriations of $839.8 million for military construction and land acquisition for fiscal year 2005 for the Guard and Reserve components.

The Senate amendment would authorize appropriations of $768.7 million for military construction and land acquisition for fiscal year 2005 for the Guard and Reserve components.

The conferees recommend authorization of appropriations of $929.2 million for military construction and land acquisition for fiscal year 2005 for the Guard and Reserve components. This authorization would be distributed as follows:

Army National Guard	$434.4
Air National Guard	233.5
Army Reserve	90.3
Naval and Marine Corps Reserve	48.2
Air Force Reserve	122.8
Total	929.2

Legislative Provisions Adopted

Authorized Guard and Reserve construction and land acquisition projects (sec. 2601)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2601) that would authorize appropriations for military construction for the Guard and Reserve by service component in fiscal year 2005.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2601).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

A State list of projects contained in the table at the beginning of division B of this conference report entitled "Military Construction Authorization for FY2005" provides the binding list of specific construction projects authorized at each location.

Item of Special Interest

Change in title of military construction project previously authorized

The conferees agree to make a technical clarification to the table, entitled "Military Construction Authorization for FY2004," contained within division B of the statement of managers accompanying the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004 (Conf. Rept. 108-354) by changing the title for a project authorized for the Air National Guard at the Memphis International Airport, Tennessee from "C-5 Upgrade Shops" to "C-5 Site Improvements and Utilities".

TITLE XXVII—EXPIRATION AND EXTENSION OF AUTHORIZATIONS

Legislative Provisions Adopted

Expiration of authorizations and amounts required to be specified by law (sec. 2701)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2701) that would provide that authorizations for military construction projects, repair of real property, land acquisition, family housing projects and facilities, contributions to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization investment program, and Guard and Reserve projects will expire on October 1, 2007, or the date of enactment of an act authorizing funds for military construction for fiscal year 2008, whichever is later. This requirement would not apply to funds obligated prior to the expiration date.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 2701).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Extension of authorizations of certain fiscal year 2002 projects (sec. 2702)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2702) that would provide for the extension of certain fiscal year 2002 military construction project authorizations until October 1, 2005, or the date of enactment of an act authorizing funds for military construction for fiscal year 2006, whichever is later.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2702).

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would amend the list of fiscal year 2002 military construction project authorizations to be extended.

Extension and renewal of authorizations of certain fiscal year 2001 projects (sec. 2703)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2703) that would provide for the extension of certain fiscal year 2001 military construction project authorizations until October 1, 2005 or the date of enactment of an act authorizing funds for military construction for fiscal year 2006, whichever is later.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2703).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Legislative Provisions Not Adopted

Effective date

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2704) that would provide that titles XXI, XXII, XXIII, XXIV, XXV, and XXVI of this Act shall take effect on October 1, 2004, or the date of enactment of this Act, whichever is later.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 2704).

Because the conference report was not adopted prior to October 1, 2004, this provision is no longer required and was not included in the conference agreement.

TITLE XXVIII—GENERAL PROVISIONS

Items of Special Interest

Acceleration of environmental clean-up activities related to public lands, West Wendover, Nevada

Section 2843 of the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2003 (division B of Public Law 107 314) authorized the Secretary of the Interior and the Secretary of the Air Force to convey certain parcels of real property totaling 14,000 acres at Wendover Air Force Base Auxiliary Field, Nevada to the City of West Wendover, Nevada and Tooele County, Utah. The purpose of the conveyance is to protect and benefit the local community by establishing aircraft accident prevention zones and developing 3,000 acres for an industrial park.

In order for the Secretary of the Interior to carry out the conveyance, the Secretary of the Air Force must identify the extent of environmental contamination on the lands and the measures to ensure the protection of the public. Currently, the Air Force has planned, based on a risk assessment and available funding, for a preliminary environmental assessment in 2006 and, if needed, subsequent environmental actions for these lands in 2011.

Establishing aircraft accident prevention zones are critical to mitigating the risk of loss of life for local residents in the vicinity of airports. The industrial park planned by the local community is vital to the economic development and the growth of commercial investment in the areas surrounding Wendover airport. Delays in the conveyance of the lands are having a detrimental impact on the safety of residents and the vitality of the local economy.

Therefore, the conferees direct the Secretary of the Air Force to give appropriate consideration to the completion of environmental remediation activities for lands at Wendover Air Force Base Auxiliary Field, Nevada so that the lands may be transferred to the Bureau of Land Management as quickly as possible.

Consideration of proposal for leased facilities supporting Headquarters, United States Southern Command, Miami, Florida

The conferees are aware of a proposal from the State of Florida to construct a building for Southern Command occupancy once the current lease expires in 2008. The conferees urge the Secretary of Defense to consider the State's proposal and update the congressional defense committees on the status of this proposal by February 1, 2005.

Legislative Provisions Adopted

Subtitle A—Military Construction Program and Military Family Housing Changes

Modification of approval and notice requirements for facility repair projects (sec. 2801)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2802) that would amend section 2811(b) of title 10, United States Code, by raising the threshold of the cost of a construction project requiring approval in advance by a service secretary from $5.0 million to $7.5 million.

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2803) that would amend section 2811(d) of title 10, United States Code, to lower the threshold at which congressional notification is required for facility repairs using operation and maintenance funds from $10.0 million to $7.5 million.

The House recedes with an amendment that would include in the conference agreement both amendments to section 2811 of title 10, United States Code.

Reporting requirements regarding military family housing requirements for general officers and flag officers (sec. 2802)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2804) that would require the Department of Defense to conduct an analysis of general and flag officer housing requirements in the national capital region by March 30, 2005. This section would also require the Department to report to Congress, by March 30, 2005, on its inventory of general and flag officer housing, including annual expenditures of each house for operations, utilities, and maintenance and repair over the past five years. Finally, this section would require the Department to provide, as part of its annual budget justification documents, by March 30 of each year a detailed list of each general and flag officer quarters for which operations, utilities, and maintenance and repair costs, in sum, are anticipated to exceed $20,000 in the coming year.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Department to provide, as part of its annual budget justification documents, a list of general and flag officer quarters for which operations, maintenance and repair costs are anticipated to exceed $35,000 in the budget year. The amendment would also add a reporting requirement for each dwelling unit where operations, maintenance and repair actions would exceed an annual cost of $35,000, not included in the annual President's budget request, but required for environmental remediation or to protect the safety or security of the occupants.

In annual cost calculations, the conferees define "operations activities" to include the prorated share of costs for management of family housing, services, and furnishings. Utilities, leases, and costs related to historical preservation should not be included in the analysis of the $35,000 threshold, but should be included in all reports.

Congressional notification of deviations from authorized cost variations for military construction projects and military family housing projects (sec. 2803)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2805) that would amend section 2853(c)(3) of title 10, United States Code, to shorten the notice and wait period for significant project cost increases or scope decreases from 21 days to 14 days, if notification is provided in an electronic format to Congress.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Assessment of vulnerability of military installations to terrorist attack and annual report on military construction requirements related to antiterrorism and force protection (sec. 2804)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2802) that would require the Secretary of Defense to establish guidance on appropriate levels of antiterrorism and force protection requirements for facilities construction and perimeter defenses, and to certify that all major Department of Defense installations have been assessed for vulnerabilities to terrorist attack since September 11, 2001. This section also would require the Department to provide an annual list of unfunded antiterrorism and force-protection military construction requirements.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Repeal of limitations on use of alternative authority for acquisition and improvement of military housing (sec. 2805)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2806) that would amend section 2883 of title 10, United States Code, to repeal the limitation on budget authority for contracts and investments in military housing privatization projects, effective October 1, 2005.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2804) that would amend section 2874 of title 10, United States Code, and would repeal sections 2876, 2877, and 2882 of title 10, United States Code.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would repeal the limitation on budgetary authority for contracts and investments for the acquisition or construction of military family housing and military unaccompanied housing. These limitations would be repealed as of the date of enactment of this Act. The amendment would also repeal section 2885 of title 10, United State Code.

Additional reporting requirements relating to alternative authority for acquisition and improvement of military housing (sec. 2806)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2803) that would amend section 2884 of title 10, United States Code, to add additional requirements for reports provided by the Secretary of Defense to congressional defense committees.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Temporary authority to accelerate design efforts for military construction projects carried out using design-build selection procedures (sec. 2807)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2807) that would establish a demonstration program to allow the Department of Defense to enter into a design-build construction contract using design funds made available under sections 2807 and 18233 of title 10, United States Code, prior to the authorization of the project. This section would permit the Department to enter into 36 contracts through September 30, 2008, and would require a report to Congress on the value of the program by March 1, 2007.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would limit the demonstration program to 18 projects that are included in the annual President's budget request to Congress.

The conferees intend that in the case of a design-build project carried out under this authority for which construction funds are not subsequently authorized and appropriated by Congress, the design completed at the time of the government's termination for convenience would become the property of the United States Government.

Notification thresholds and requirements for expenditures or contributions for acquisition of facilities for Reserve components (sec. 2808)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2812) that would amend sections 18231, 18232, 18233, and 18233a of title 10, United States Code, to modify and enhance definitions and authorities available to the Secretary of Defense, and to provide for the acquisition of facilities and land interests necessary for the proper development, training, operation, and maintenance of the Reserve components of the Armed Forces.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would clarify the modifications to notification thresholds and requirements contained in section 18233a of title 10, United States Code. The conferees note that additional modifications to section 18233 of title 10, United States Code, contained in the Senate amendment have been addressed in another conference provision (sec. 2809).

Authority to exchange Reserve component facilities to acquire replacement facilities (sec. 2809)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2808) that would amend section 18233 of title 10, United States Code, to provide the Secretary of Defense the authority to receive facilities, cash, or a combination of facilities and cash for existing Reserve component facilities.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2813) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to carry out projects to assess the feasibility and advisability of obtaining new facilities for the Reserve components through the exchange or sale of existing facilities of such components.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would amend chapter 1803 of title 10, United States Code, to clarify the authority of the secretary of a military department to acquire facilities through exchanges of equal value facilities with a State, local government, local authority, or private entity, and would provide temporary authority to the secretary concerned to include cash equalization payments in the terms of the exchange.

The amendment would establish requirements for the terms of the agreement and would require the secretary of a military department to certify to the congressional defense committees, prior to carrying out an agreement, that certain conditions have been satisfied before an agreement is signed.

The amendment would also provide temporary authority to the secretary of a military department to make or accept cash payments as a part of an exchange agreement for facilities. The cash payments would be deposited in a special account and available to the Secretary concerned to be used in agreements to equalize the equitable exchange of facilities, or to cover costs related to operations, maintenance, and improvements to facilities acquired using an exchange agreement. The amendment would limit the use of the temporary authority, establish an expiration date, and require the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the congressional defense committees on the usefulness of the temporary authority.

The conferees acknowledge that ambiguous definitions in chapter 1803, United States Code, have been interpreted by the military departments to authorize these exchange agreements. While the conferees recognize the benefit to the Department of Defense of certain transactions that would exchange sub-optimized land or deteriorated facilities for new facilities for the Reserve components, these unique agreements must be carried out with oversight from Congress.

It is the intent of the conferees that the use of this authority will satisfy, to the maximum extent possible, military construction requirements included in the Future Years Defense Plan for each Reserve component. The conferees expect that the exchange agreements will not result in additional military construction or operations and maintenance requirements imposed upon the Reserve component and that impact on current readiness and missions will be minimized during the exchange. The conferees expect that the Reserve components will consider the feasibility of addressing joint facility and land requirements within the land exchange agreements. The conferees expect the interests of the government will be protected by the use of competitive procedures, to the maximum extent practicable, in order to obtain a realistic value for the facilities to be exchanged.

The conferees expect that the military departments will use the temporary authority to use equalizing cash payments as a condition to facilitate the exchange of facilities in order to expedite agreements to replace or improve deficient Reserve facilities, and not as an opportunity to maximize the accumulation of cash proceeds. The conferees expect the military departments to be able to provide Congress with audit information to account for cash receipts and expenditures in order to retain oversight on the use of funds.

One-year extension of temporary, limited authority to use operation and maintenance funds for construction projects outside the United States (sec. 2810)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2809) that would extend for one year the authority provided by section 2808 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004 (Public Law 108-136), to permit the Secretary of Defense to utilize operation and maintenance funds to construct facilities necessary for temporary operational requirements related to a declaration of war, national emergency, or contingency.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would make the extension of the authority contingent upon receipt by Congress of all required reports contained in the original provision.

The conferees direct the Department of Defense to determine whether they require permanent authority to utilize operation and maintenance funds to construct facilities in lieu of continuing a temporary extension.

Consideration of combination of military medical treatment facilities and health care facilities of Department of Veterans Affairs (sec. 2811)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2810) that would direct the Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to certify that each project to construct medical treatment facilities, included in the annual President's budget request to Congress, had been evaluated for the feasibility of carrying out a project for a combined medical facility.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would eliminate the certification requirement, but continue to require the Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of Veterans Affairs, when proposing construction of a medical facility, to consult on the feasibility of accomplishing a joint project.

Subtitle B—Real Property and Facilities Administration

Reorganization of existing administrative provisions relating to real property transactions (sec. 2821)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2811) that would amend sections 2661 and 2679 of title 10, United States Code, to consolidate and clarify authorities available for real property administration. This provision would also repeal sections 2666, 2670, and 2673 of title 10, United States Code, that would be superceded as a result of the consolidations.

The House bill contained a similar provision (sec. 2812).

The House recedes with an amendment that would also repeal section 2664 of title 10, United States Code.

Development of Heritage Center for the National Museum of the United States Army (sec. 2822)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2843) that would authorize the Secretary of the Army to enter into an agreement with the Army Historical Foundation for the design, construction, and operation of a facility, or group of facilities, at Fort Belvoir, Virginia for the National Museum of the United States Army.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would clarify the extent of lease payments to be received by the Secretary.

Elimination of reversionary interests clouding United States title to property used as Navy homeports (sec. 2823)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2817) that would authorize the Secretary of the Navy to enter into agreements with holders of reversionary interests at Navy homeports to secure permanent title to the properties for the Navy. In exchange, the Navy may provide in-kind consideration, including modification of existing agreements that require payment to the Navy for real property improvements.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Subtitle C—Base Closure and Realignment

Establishment of specific deadline for submission of revisions to force-structure plan and infrastructure inventory (sec. 2831)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2822) that would amend section 2912(a)(4) of the Defense Base Closure and Realignment Act of 1990 (part A of title XXIX of Public Law 101-510, as amended) to establish March 15 of the base closure round year as the final deadline for revision of the force structure plan or infrastructure inventory.

The Senate amendment contained no similar amendment.

The Senate recedes.

Specification of final selection criteria for 2005 base closure round (sec. 2832)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2823) that would amend and codify the criteria that will be used by the Secretary of Defense in making recommendations for the closure or realignment of military installations inside the United States during the next base closure round.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would codify, with an amendment, the final selection criteria published by the Secretary in the Federal Register (Volume 69, Number 29) on February 12, 2004. The conferees expect that the Secretary shall adhere, to the maximum extent possible, to responses in the analysis of comments to the draft selection criteria, as published in the Federal Register on February 12, 2004, including the incorporation of elements of military value, such as research, development, test, evaluation, maintenance, and repair facilities for weapon systems; and the interaction with a highly skilled local work force and local industrial and academic institutions.

Repeal of authority of Secretary of Defense to recommend that installations be placed in inactive status (sec. 2833)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2814) that would repeal subsection (c) of section 2914 of the Defense Base Closure and Realignment Act of 1990 (part A of title XXIX of Public Law 101-510, as amended).

The House bill contained no similar amendment.

The House recedes.

Voting requirements for Defense Base Closure and Realignment Commission to add to or otherwise expand closure and realignment recommendations made by Secretary of Defense (sec. 2834)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2824) that would amend section 2914(d) of the Defense Base Closure and Realignment Act of 1990 (part A of title XXIX of Public Law 101-510, as amended) to require a unanimous vote of the base closure commission to recommend closure, realignment, or expanded realignment of an installation not recommended for closure or realignment by the Secretary of Defense.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would amend section 2914(d) of the Defense Base Closure and Realignment Act of 1990 (part A of title XXIX of Public Law 101-510, as amended) to require the consent of at least seven commissioners to recommend closure, realignment, or expanded realignment of an installation not recommended for closure or realignment by the Secretary.

Subtitle D—Land Conveyances

PART I—ARMY CONVEYANCES

Land conveyance, Sunflower Army Ammunition Plant, Kansas (sec. 2841)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2833) that would authorize the Secretary of the Army, in consultation with the Administrator of General Services, to convey, with consideration, to an entity selected by the Board of Commissioners of Johnson County, Kansas a parcel of property consisting of approximately 9,065 acres for the purpose of facilitating economic development and revitalization of the property.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would clarify the authorization for consideration to be received by the Secretary.

The conferees expect the Secretary of the Army to work with local, state, and federal environmental agencies to develop an agreement in accordance with the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act (CERCLA) of 1980 (42 U.S.C. 9601 et seq.), that will lead to an accelerated cleanup and enhanced early transfer of the property. Nothing in this section shall waive any obligation of the Secretary under section 120(h) of CERCLA.

Land exchange, Fort Campbell, Kentucky and Tennessee (sec. 2842)

The conferees agree to a provision that would authorize the Secretary of the Army to convey to Bi-County Solid Waste Management System, a local government agency, a parcel of real property consisting of approximately 358 acres located at Fort Campbell in Montgomery County, Tennessee for the purpose of permitting Bi-County to expand a landfill. In exchange, the Secretary would receive a parcel of property consisting of approximately 670 acres located adjacent to Fort Campbell in Trigg County, Kentucky and Stewart County, Tennessee.

Land conveyance, Louisiana Army Ammunition Plant, Doyline, Louisiana (sec. 2843)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2835) that would authorize the Secretary of the Army to convey, with consideration, to the State of Louisiana a parcel of property including any improvements thereon, consisting of approximately 14,949 acres located at the Louisiana Army Ammunition Plant, Doyline, Louisiana.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

The conferees encourage the Secretary to work with local, state, and federal environmental agencies to develop a condition of the land conveyance agreement that eventually transfers to the State the responsibility for monitoring, sampling, or reporting requirements that are associated with the environmental restoration activities of the Louisiana Army Ammunition Plant, while maintaining the government's compliance with the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act of 1980 (42 U.S.C. 9601 et seq.).

Land conveyance, Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri (sec. 2844)

The conferees agree to a provision that would authorize the Secretary of the Army to convey, without consideration, to the State of Missouri a parcel of real property consisting of approximately 227.7 acres located at Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri for the purpose of permitting the State to establish a cemetery for veterans of the Armed Forces.

Transfer of administrative jurisdiction, Defense Supply Center, Columbus, Ohio (sec. 2845)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2821) that would authorize the Secretary of the Army to transfer, without reimbursement, to the administrative jurisdiction of the Secretary of Veterans Affairs a parcel of real property consisting of approximately 20 acres at the Defense Supply Center, Columbus, Ohio, for the sole purpose of constructing a new outpatient clinic for veterans' medical services.

The House bill contained a similar provision (sec. 2831)

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Jurisdiction and utilization of former public domain lands, Umatilla Chemical Depot, Oregon (sec. 2846)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2842) that would transfer jurisdiction to the Secretary of the Army of various parcels of property, consisting of approximately 8,300 acres located at Umatilla Army Depot, Oregon, that are withdrawn from the public domain. The Secretary would combine the transferred real property with other land interests at the Depot for purposes of management and disposal under title II of the Defense Authorization Amendment and Base Closure and Realignment Act of 1988 (Public Law 100-526) and other applicable law.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Modification of authority for land conveyance, equipment and storage yard, Charleston, South Carolina (sec. 2847)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2836) that would amend section 563(h) of the Water Resources Development Act of 1999 (Public Law 106-53) to amend the authorized use of proceeds received as consideration by the Secretary of the Army for a parcel of property conveyed to the City of Charleston, South Carolina.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Land conveyance, Fort Hood, Texas (sec.2848)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2832) that would authorize the Secretary of the Army to convey approximately 662 acres at Fort Hood, Texas, to the Texas A&M University system of the State of Texas for the purpose of establishing the Texas A&M University, Central Texas. In exchange, the Army would receive fair market value in cash or in-kind consideration for the property.

The Senate amendment contained no similar amendment.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees anticipate that the terms and conditions for any consideration other than cash provided by the Texas A&M University system for the land received will directly enhance the educational opportunities for military personnel and their families at Fort Hood, Texas. The conferees encourage the parties to explore the possibility of providing consideration in the form of reduced tuition rates for military personnel.

Land conveyance, local training area for Browning Army Reserve Center, Utah (sec. 2849)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2822) that would authorize the Secretary of the Army to convey, without consideration, to the State of Utah a parcel of real property consisting of approximately 10 acres located at the Browning Army Reserve Center, Utah for the purpose of constructing a nursing care facility for veterans.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would add a reversionary interest, if the Secretary of the Army determines that the property is not being used for the purpose expressed in the legislation.

Land conveyance, Army Reserve Center, Hampton, Virginia (sec. 2850)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2824) that would authorize the Secretary of the Army to convey, without consideration, to the Hampton City School Board, Hampton, Virginia, a parcel of real property consisting of approximately 29.8 acres, known as the Butler Farm United States Army Reserve Center, for public education purposes.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Land conveyance, Army National Guard Facility, Seattle, Washington (sec. 2851)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2825) that would authorize the Secretary of the Army to convey, without consideration, to the State of Washington a parcel of real property consisting of approximately 9.8 acres in Seattle, Washington and comprising a portion of a National Guard Facility, Pier 91, for the purpose of permitting the State to convey the facility unencumbered for economic redevelopment purposes.

The House bill contained a similar provision (sec. 2833).

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Modification of land exchange and consolidation, Fort Lewis, Washington (sec. 2852)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2834) that would amend the section 2837 of the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2002 (division B of Public Law 107–107) to increase the acreage authorized to be conveyed and to clarify the treatment of easements.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

PART II—NAVY CONVEYANCES

Land exchange, former Richmond Naval Air Station, Florida (sec. 2861)

The conferees agree to a provision that would authorize the Secretary of the Army to convey to the University of Miami, Miami, Florida, a parcel of real property and easements consisting of approximately 14 acres at the former Richmond Naval Air Station, Miami, Florida for the purpose of expansion of university facilities. In exchange, the Secretary would be authorized to receive a parcel of real property consisting of approximately 12 acres, and related easements and construction to provide security and access to the parcel.

Land conveyance, Honolulu, Hawaii (sec. 2862)

The Senate amendment included a provision (sec. 2827) that would authorize the Secretary of the Navy to convey to the City and County of Honolulu, Hawaii, a parcel of real property consisting of approximately 5.16 acres for the purpose of continuing fire protection and training for civilian and military personnel.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Land conveyance, Navy property, former Fort Sheridan, Illinois (sec. 2863)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2842) that would authorize the Secretary of the Navy to convey, without consideration, a parcel of environmentally-sensitive property to a nonprofit land conservation organization, for the purpose of ensuring permanent protection of the lands.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a technical amendment.

Land exchange, Naval Air Station, Paturent River, Maryland (sec. 2864)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2843) that would authorize the Secretary of the Navy to convey approximately 5 acres of real property at Naval Air Station, Patuxent River, Maryland, to the state of Maryland. In exchange, the Navy shall receive approximately 5 acres of property of an equal value to the conveyance.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2831).

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Modification of land acquisition authority, Perquimans County, North Carolina (sec. 2865)

The conferees agree to a provision that would amend section 2846 of the Military Construction Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2002 (division B of Public Law 107–107) to increase the amount of acreage that the Secretary of the Navy is authorized to acquire.

Land conveyance, Naval Weapons Station, Charleston, South Carolina (sec. 2866)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2834) that would authorize the Secretary of the Navy to convey, with fair market value consideration, to the Berkeley County Sanitation Authority, South Carolina, a parcel of property consisting of not more than 38 acres at the Naval Weapons Station, Charleston, South Carolina, for the purpose of allowing the Authority to expand an existing sewage treatment plant.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Land conveyance, Navy YMCA building, Portsmouth, Virginia (sec. 2867)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2828) that would authorize the Secretary of the Navy to convey, without consideration, to the City of Portsmouth, Virginia, a parcel of real property consisting of approximately ½ acre, known as the Navy YMCA building, for economic revitalization purposes.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment that would require the city to provide consideration equal to the costs related to the environmental remediation in exchange for the property.

PART III—AIR FORCE CONVEYANCES

Land exchange, Maxwell Air Force Base, Alabama (sec. 2871)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2851) that would authorize the Secretary of the Air Force to convey approximately 28 acres comprising the Maxwell Heights Housing site at Maxwell Air Force Base, Alabama, to the city of Montgomery, Alabama. In exchange, the Air Force shall receive approximately 35 acres of land contiguous to Maxwell Air Force Base.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2830).

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would state the use of the land to be received by the Air Force, and would permit the Air Force to seek reimbursement for the costs of the exchange.

Land conveyance, March Air Force Base, California (sec. 2872)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2832) that would authorize the Secretary of the Air Force to convey, with consideration, to the March Joint Powers Authority a parcel of property consisting of approximately 15 acres located in Riverside County, California and containing the former Defense Reutilization and Marketing Office facility for March Air Force Base. The purpose of the conveyance would be for economic development and revitalization.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Land conveyance, former Griffiss Air Force Base, New York (sec. 2873)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2829) that would authorize the Secretary of the Air Force to convey, at fair market value, to the Oneida County Industrial Development Agency, New York, a parcel of property at the former Griffiss Air Force Base, New York, consisting of 9.369 acres, including four buildings, for economic development purposes.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

PART IV—OTHER CONVEYANCES

Land exchange, Arlington County, Virginia (sec. 2881)

The Senate amendment contained provision (sec. 2823) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to exchange a parcel of real property consisting of not more than 4.5 acres at the Navy Annex property, Virginia to Arlington County, Virginia for a parcel of approximately equal acreage known as the Southgate Road right-of-way between Arlington National Cemetery and the Navy Annex property.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would clarify the location of the land to be conveyed and would provide conditions to the Secretary for the land conveyance.

Subtitle E—Other Matters

One-year resumption of Department of Defense Laboratory Revitalization Demonstration Program (sec. 2891)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2841) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to carry out a follow-on program for the revitalization of laboratories operated by the Department of Defense.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that establishes an authorization expiration date of September 30, 2005.

Designation of Airmen Leadership School at Luke Air Force Base, Arizona, in honor of John J. Rhodes, a former minority leader of the House of Representatives (sec. 2892)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2816) that would designate the Airmen Leadership School at Luke Air Force Base, Arizona, as the John J. Rhodes Airmen Leadership School in honor of the former minority leader of the House of Representatives, Congressman John J. Rhodes.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Settlement of claim of Oakland Base Reuse Authority and Redevelopment Agency (sec. 2893)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2844) that would authorize the Secretary of the Navy to pay $2.1 million to the Oakland Base Reuse Authority and Redevelopment Agency of the City of Oakland, California, as settlement from a court case.

The House bill contained no similar amendment.

The House recedes with amendment that would clarify the release of claims against the United States.

Report on establishment of mobilization station at Camp Ripley National Guard Training Center, Little Falls, Minnesota (sec. 2894)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1023) that would direct the Secretary of Defense to carry out a study on the feasibility of the use of Camp Ripley National Guard Training Center, Little Falls, Minnesota, as a mobilization center for Reserve components ordered to active duty.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Report on feasibility of establishment of veterans memorial at Marine Corps Air Station, El Toro, California (sec. 2895)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2818) that would require the Secretary of the Navy, within 30 days of enactment of this Act, to report to Congress on whether the anticipated future uses of the former Marine Corps Air Station, El Toro, California, by the City of Irvine, California, would permit the establishment of a veterans memorial at the former installation.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a technical amendment.

Sense of Congress regarding effect of military housing policies and force structure basing changes on local education agencies (sec. 2896)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 353) that would express the sense of the Senate that the Department of Defense should support the construction of schools in housing privatization agreements that severely impact school populations.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The conferees agree to express the sense of Congress that the Department of Defense should consider the effects that the analyses used to determine military housing requirements, changes in force structure due to transformation, and overseas basing realignments will have on the number of school-aged military dependents and the need for additional educational facilities to serve such dependents. In many cases, local school districts do not have the resources or flexibility to respond quickly to changes in requirements, resulting in budget shortfalls and the use of inadequate, temporary facilities affecting the quality of education. The Department should address such effects by closely coordinating changes in requirements with local education agencies. The Department should also consider using existing authority under subchapter IV of chapter 169 of title 10, United States Code, to include the construction of educational facilities in military housing privatization initiatives.

Sense of Congress and study regarding memorial honoring non-United States citizens killed in the line of duty while serving in the United States Armed Forces (sec. 2897)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1081) that would require the Secretary of the Army to place in Arlington National Cemetery a memorial marker honoring the service and sacrifice of noncitizens killed in the line of duty while serving in the Armed Forces of the United States.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would express the sense of the Congress that a memorial marker or monument honoring the service and sacrifice of noncitizen service members killed in the line of duty should be designed and placed in an appropriate location. The amendment would require the Secretary of the Army, in consultation with the Secretary of Veterans Affairs and the American Battle Monuments Commission, to conduct a study examining the feasibility of placing such a memorial marker in the Arlington National Cemetery, or some other suitable location. It would require the Secretary of the Army to submit a report on this study and any recommendations by April 1, 2005.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Increase in thresholds for unspecified minor military construction projects

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2801) that would amend section 2805(a)(1) of title 10, United States Code, by raising the threshold of the cost of a construction project authorized by this section from $1.5 million to $2.5 million. This provision would also raise the threshold of the cost of a construction project intended solely to correct a deficiency that is life-threatening, health-threatening, or safety-threatening from $3.0 million to $4.0 million.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Increase in certain thresholds for carrying out unspecified minor military construction projects

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2801) that would amend section 2805(b) of title 10, United States Code, to increase from $750,000 to $1.0 million the threshold at which service secretaries must approve the use of operation and maintenance funds for unspecified minor construction projects. This section would also amend section 2805(c) to establish a single limit of $1.5 million at which operation and maintenance funds may be used for unspecified minor construction projects.

The Senate amendment contained no similar amendment.

The House recedes.

Increase in certain thresholds for reporting real property transactions

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2811) that would amend section 2662 of title 10, United States Code, to increase from $750,000 to $1.5 million the thresholds at which the military services must report to Congress real property transactions. This section would also change the threshold amounts in annual reporting requirements for minor real property transactions.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Treatment of money rentals from golf course at Rock Island Arsenal, Illinois

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2813) that would amend section 2667 of title 10, United States Code, to allow 50 percent of lease receipts from the Rock Island Arsenal Golf Club, a community club that leases and operates the arsenal's golf course for the general public and local military personnel, to be placed into the Rock Island Arsenal morale, welfare, and recreation fund.

The Senate amendment contained no similar position.

The House recedes.

Number of contracts authorized department-wide under demonstration program on reduction in long-term facility maintenance costs

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2814) that would amend section 2814 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2002 (Public Law 107-107), to adjust the number of contracts permitted under the building commissioning program.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Repeal of Commission on Review of Overseas Military Facility Structure of the United States

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2815) that would repeal section 128 of the Military Construction Appropriations Act, 2004 (Public Law 108-132), which established the Commission on the Review of Overseas Military Facility Structure of the United States.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Two-year postponement of 2005 base closure and realignment round and submission of reports regarding future infrastructure requirements for the Armed Forces

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2821) that would amend current base realignment and closure law to postpone the 2005 base closure and realignment round until 2007, pending receipt of several reports on significant infrastructure issues.

The Senate amendment contained no similar amendment.

The House recedes.

Adherence to certain authorities on preservation of military depot capabilities during any subsequent round of base closures and realignments

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2825) that would amend the Defense Base Closure and Realignment Act of 1990 (part A of title XXIX of Public Law 101-510, as amended) to require that base closure and realignment actions comply with provisions of title 10, United States Code, that address government-owned, government-operated depot-level maintenance, repair, and logistics capabilities within the Department of Defense.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees acknowledge that section 2464 of title 10, United States Code, requires the Department of Defense to maintain government-owned and operated logistics capabilities to include work force and facilities, to ensure a ready and controlled source of technical competence and resources necessary to support an effective and timely response to a mobilization, a national defense contingency situation, and other emergency requirements. Section 2466 of the same title requires that no more than 50 percent of each military department's annual funding for depot level maintenance and repair activities be performed in the private sector. While these sections are intended to preserve a certain level of depot and logistics capabilities in the Department, these sections also authorize the Secretary of Defense to waive these provisions for reasons of national security.

The conferees believe that military base realignment and closure actions undertaken by the Department under authority provided in the Defense Base Closure and Realignment Act of 1990 (Public Law 101-510), as amended by the National Defense Authorization Act for 2002 (division B of Public Law 107-107), must be consistent with the provisions in title 10, United States Code, pertaining to the preservation of depot logistics capabilities.

Therefore, the conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to ensure that the recommendations submitted to the Commission, pursuant to the Base Closure and Realignment Act, adhere to sections 2464 and 2466 of title 10, United States Code. The conferees further direct the Secretary to ensure that the same recommendations will not result in the requirement to perpetually waive the provisions of sections 2464 and 2466 of title 10, United States Code.

Transfer of jurisdiction, Nebraska Avenue Naval Complex, District of Columbia

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2841) that would transfer jurisdiction of the Nebraska Avenue Naval Complex in Washington, D.C., from the Navy to the Administrator of General Services for the purpose of accommodating the Department of Homeland Security.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 2826).

The authority for the Secretary of the Navy to transfer jurisdiction of the Nebraska Avenue Naval Complex to the Administrator of General Services for use by the Department of Homeland Security was provided by Congress in Public Law 108-268, signed on July 2, 2004. Therefore, this provision is not adopted by the conferees.

TITLE XXXI—DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY NATIONAL SECURITY PROGRAMS

Overview

Title XXXI authorizes appropriations for atomic energy defense activities of the Department of Energy (DOE) for fiscal year 2005, including: the purchase, construction, and acquisition of plant and capital equipment; research and development; nuclear weapons activities; defense nuclear nonproliferation; naval nuclear propulsion; environmental restoration and waste management; operating expenses; and other expenses necessary to carry out the purposes of the Department of Energy Organization Act (Public Law 95-91). The title would authorize appropriations in four categories: National Nuclear Security Administration (NNSA); defense environmental management; other defense activities; and defense nuclear waste disposal.

The budget request for atomic energy defense activities at DOE totaled $16.8 billion, a $483.2 million increase above the fiscal year 2004 level. Of the total amount requested, $9.0 billion would be for NNSA, of which $6.6 billion would be for weapons activities; $1.3 billion would be for defense nuclear nonproliferation activities; $797.9 million would be for naval reactors; $333.7 million would be for the Office of the Administrator; $7.0 billion would be for defense environmental management, of which $6.0 billion would be for defense site acceleration completion and $982.5 million would be for defense environmental services; $663.6 million would be for other defense activities; and $131.0 million would be for defense nuclear waste disposal.

The conferees agree to authorize $16.8 billion for atomic energy defense activities at DOE, an increase of $483.2 million above the fiscal year 2004 level. The conferees agree to authorize $9.1 billion for the NNSA, an increase of $33.6 million above the budget request. Of the amounts authorized for the NNSA, $6.6 billion would be for weapons activities, an increase of $23.6 million; $1.3 billion would be for defense nuclear nonproliferation activities; $797.9 million would be for naval reactors; and $343.7 million would be for the Office of the Administrator, an increase of $10.0 million above the budget request. The conferees agree to authorize $7.0 billion for defense environmental management, an increase of $4.0 million above the budget request. Of the amounts authorized for defense environmental management, $6.0 billion would be for defense site acceleration completion and $986.5 million for defense environmental services. The conferees agree to authorize $636.0 million for other defense activities, a decrease of $27.6 million below the budget request. The conferees agree to authorize $120.0 million for defense nuclear waste disposal, a decrease of $11.0 million below the budget request.

The following table summarizes the budget request and the authorizations:

Legislative Provisions Adopted

Subtitle A—National Security Programs Authorizations

National Nuclear Security Administration (sec. 3101)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3101) that would authorize $9.0 billion for the National Nuclear Security Administration (NNSA), including funds for weapons activities, defense nuclear nonproliferation programs, naval reactor programs, and the Office of the Administrator.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision that would authorize $9.2 billion (sec. 3101).

The conferees agree to include a provision that would authorize $9.1 billion for NNSA.

The budget request included $1.4 billion for directed stockpile work. The conferees agree to authorize $1.4 billion for directed stockpile work, a decrease of $21.5 million to be taken out of individual warhead life extension programs. The conferees note that this is a $44.6 million increase over the amount appropriated for directed stockpile work in fiscal year 2004.

The budget request included $301.0 million in science campaigns. The conferees agree to authorize $281.5 million for science campaigns, a decrease of $19.5 million. The conferees note that the reduction is without prejudice and should be taken from carry over due to the shutdown at the national laboratories in July and August.

The budget request included $243.0 million for the engineering campaign. The conferees agree to authorize $253.0 million for the engineering campaign, an increase of $10.0 million, to support the microsystems and engineering sciences applications (MESA) construction project.

The budget request included $741.3 million for the advanced simulation and computing (ASC) campaign. The conferees agree to authorize $731.3 million for the advanced simulation and computing campaign, a decrease of $10.0 million. The conferees note that the ASC campaign has experienced cost growth and schedule slippage.

The budget request included $1.5 billion for readiness in technical base and facilities. The conferees agree to authorize $1.5 billion, an increase of $55.6 million for readiness in technical base and facilities for replacement of aging equipment, correction of deferred maintenance, and disposition of legacy materials consistent with the National Nuclear Security Administration approved 10 year comprehensive plan as follows: $12.6 million at the Kansas City Plant in Missouri, $6.0 million for the Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory in California, $19.0 million for the Pantex Plant in Texas, $9.0 million for Sandia National Laboratory in New Mexico, and $9.0 million for the Y–12 National Security Complex in Tennessee.

The budget request included $707.0 for safeguards and security. The conferees agree to authorize $716.0 million for safeguards and security, a $9.0 million increase for security upgrades at the Y–12 National Security Complex in Tennessee.

The budget request included $1.3 billion for defense nuclear nonproliferation. The conferees agree to authorize $1.3 billion for defense nuclear nonproliferation, the amount of the budget request. The conferees further agree to a $25.0 million increase for nonproliferation and verification research and development, and a $25.0 million reduction for fissile materials disposition. The conferees note that continued delays in the commencement of construction activities under the fissile materials disposition program make it unlikely that the Department will be able to fully obligate the budget request for that program in fiscal year 2005. The conferees believe that the nonproliferation and verification research and development program is doing valuable work on proliferation detection and other technologies that would benefit from additional resources.

The budget request included $333.7 million for the Office of the Administrator. The conferees agree to authorize $343.7 million, an increase of $10.0 million to settle claims of Pajarito homesteaders. This account includes program direction funding for all elements of NNSA, with the exception of the Naval Reactors Program and the Secure Transportation Asset.

The conferees note that security lapses at the Los Alamos National Laboratory (LANL) concerning classified removable electronic media (CREM) this past year have been very disruptive to the nuclear weapons program. The conferees encourage the Administrator to become more involved in making sure these types of incidents are avoided in the future. The contractor has the primary day-to-day accountability for maintaining security of the laboratory, including the security of classified information. The contractor must ensure that a culture exists across the laboratory which maintains classified information in a very secure manner. However, the National Nuclear Security Administration also must be held accountable, and the Administrator must ensure the federal workforce is applying an appropriate level of oversight to avoid security lapses to the maximum extent possible.

Defense environmental management (sec. 3102)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3102) that would authorize $6.9 billion for the Department of Energy for defense environmental management (EM) activities for fiscal year 2005, including funds for defense site acceleration completion and defense environmental services.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 3102) that would authorize $7.0 billion for defense environmental activities.

The conferees agree to authorize $7.0 billion for defense environmental management, the amounts of the budget request, including $6.0 billion for defense site acceleration completion and $986.5 million for defense environmental services, an increase of $4.0 million. The conferees agree to authorize this $4.0 million increase in defense environmental services for newly generated waste requirements and ground water cleanup activities at the Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory in California (Project HQ SW 0013Y).

Of the amounts authorized to be appropriated in the defense site acceleration completion program, $6.0 million may be available for the Hazardous Materials Management and Emergency Response (HAMMER) Training Center. While the conferees recognize that HAMMER is an important facility for the training of emergency response personnel, the conferees note that HAMMER may be more appropriately funded and managed by the Department of Homeland Security.

Other defense activities (sec. 3103)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3103) that would authorize $657.6 million for the Department of Energy (DOE) for other defense activities for fiscal year 2005.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 3103) that would authorize $568.1 million for DOE for other defense activities.

The conferees agree to include a provision that would authorize $636.0 million, a reduction of $27.6 million below the budget request.

The budget request included $10.6 million for energy security and assurance. The conferees recommend no funds for these activities. The operational component for this office was transferred to the Department of Homeland Security in fiscal year 2003. The conferees do not support using Atomic Energy Act funds for nondefense activities.

The budget request included $255.1 million for the Office of Security. The conferees agree to authorize $256.6 million for the Office of Security, an increase of $1.5 million above the budget request for International Nuclear Analysis.

The budget request included $34.9 million for the Office of Legacy Management. The conferees agree to authorize $35.9 million for the Office of Legacy Management, an increase of $1.0 million above the budget request. The conferees direct $500,000 of this increase be added to the $2.5 million provided for worker and community transition, for a total authorization of $3.0 million. The remaining $500,000 shall be used for Local Stakeholder Organizations.

The budget request included $112.9 million for nuclear energy. The conferees agree to authorize $114.3 million for nuclear energy, an increase of $1.5 million over the budget request for the Lynchburg Technology Center in Virginia to inspect and repackage the spent nuclear fuel stored in aluminum canisters. The Senate amendment would authorize $1.1 million for these activities within defense site acceleration completion. The conferees note that these activities should be addressed by the Office of Nuclear Energy, the office with primary responsibility for these materials.

The budget request included $92.4 million for defense related administrative support (DRAS). The conferees recommend $71.4 million for DRAS, a reduction of $21.0 million below the budget request. The conferees are concerned that the activities conducted by DRAS are not defense activities, but instead support the general administrative responsibilities of the Department of Energy. There are many activities conducted by the defense funded programs at DOE which are paid for entirely by the defense programs that support the Department of Energy broadly. The conferees prefer not to use Atomic Energy Defense funds for nondefense activities. The conferees encourage the Department of Energy to restrict future budget requests for Atomic Energy Defense funds to defense activities.

The budget request included $5.0 million for the Office of Future Liabilities (FL). The conferees recommend no funds for these activities. The conferees are concerned that DOE is creating this new office to conduct essentially the same type of work being conducted by the Office of Environmental Management (EM). The conferees strongly encourage DOE to include this function in the EM program to avoid the cost and inefficiency of creating a new office.

Defense nuclear waste disposal (sec. 3104)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3104) that would authorize $131.0 million for defense nuclear waste disposal (DNWD).

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 3104) that would authorize $108.0 million for DNWD.

The conferees agree to include a provision that would authorize $120.0 million, a reduction of $11.0 million below the budget request.

Subtitle B—Program Authorizations, Restrictions, and Limitations

Report on requirements for Modern Pit Facility (sec. 3111)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3111) that would prohibit the Secretary of Energy from obligating or expending more than half of the funds available for the Modern Pit Facility (MPF) until 30 days after the Administrator of the National Nuclear Security Administrator (NNSA) submits a report to congressional defense committees setting forth the validated pit production requirements for the MPF, and one additional report on the stockpile required by the Energy and Water Development Appropriations Act, 2004 (Public Law 108-137). The requirement shall be developed in consultation with the Department of Defense.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Administrator of the NNSA to submit a report to congressional defense committees setting forth the validated pit production requirements for the MPF not later than January 31, 2005 based on certain assumptions for pit lifetimes. In addition, the provision does not restrict the Secretary's authority to obligate and expend the funds available for the MPF pursuant to section 3101.

Two-year extension of authority for appointment of certain scientific, engineering, and technical personnel (sec. 3112)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3111) that would extend the authority of the Secretary of Energy to appoint certain scientific, engineering, and technical personnel until September 30, 2006.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 3142).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Limited authority to carry out new projects under Facilities and Infrastructure Recapitalization Program after project selection deadline (sec. 3113)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3112) that would amend section 3114 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004 (Public Law 108-136) to give the Administrator of the National Nuclear Security Administration (NNSA) greater flexibility in adding projects or updating priorities to projects within the Facilities and Infrastructure Recapitalization Program (FIRP).

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 3113) that would amend section 3114 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004 (Public Law 108-136) to permit the Administrator of the NNSA to make no more than five modifications per fiscal year, and would limit each modification to a specific building, facility, or other improvement at an NNSA site. The provision would also prohibit any modifications until 60 days after the congressional defense committees receive both the report required in section 3114(c), setting forth the guidelines on the conduct of the readiness in technical base and facilities (RTBF) program, and a list of projects selected for inclusion in the FIRP program as required by section 3114(a). Nothing should delay the completion of the section 3114(c) report or the completion of the section 3114(a) project section required by the Act.

The House recedes.

Modification of milestone and report requirements for National Ignition Facility (sec. 3114)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3114) that would modify and extend current reporting requirements for the National Ignition Facility (NIF), section 3137 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2002 (Public Law 107-107), to review all program elements necessary for both achieving ignition and enabling NIF to be a fully functioning facility.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees strongly support NIF and are encouraged by the recent progress in constructing NIF, and the initiation of experiments on NIF in support of the science-based stockpile stewardship program. The purpose of this provision is to ensure there is better internal and external oversight of the project by requiring milestones on construction, ignition, and the scientific experiments.

Modification of submittal date of annual plan for stewardship, management, and certification of warheads in the nuclear weapons stockpile (sec. 3115)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3115) that would change the due date of the annual reporting requirement for the stockpile stewardship program from March 15 to May 1.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees believe that changing the due date for the report will allow the Department of Energy to submit a complete and timely report.

Defense site acceleration completion (sec. 3116)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3116) that would authorize the Secretary of Energy to determine that, notwithstanding any other provision of law, high-level radioactive waste does not include radioactive material resulting from the reprocessing of spent nuclear fuel if (a) the radioactive material does not require permanent isolation in a deep geologic repository for spent fuel or highly radioactive waste pursuant to criteria promulgated by the Secretary in consultation with the Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC); (b) to the maximum extent practical, that the highly radioactive radionuclides were removed in accordance with NRC approved criteria; and (c) that materials from storage tanks are disposed of in a facility pursuant to a State-approved closure plan, or a State issued permit, authority for the approval or issuance of which is conferred on the State outside of this Act. This provision would apply to the material stored at the Savannah River Site in South Carolina.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would authorize the Secretary of Energy to determine, in consultation with the Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC), that notwithstanding the provisions of the Nuclear Waste Policy Act of 1982, the requirements of section 202 of the Energy Reorganization Act of 1974 and other laws that define classes of radioactive waste, the term "high-level radioactive waste" does not include radioactive waste resulting from the reprocessing of spent nuclear fuel if: (1) the waste does not require permanent isolation in a deep geologic repository for spent fuel or high-level radioactive waste, (2) the waste has had highly radioactive radionuclides removed to the maximum extent practical and (3) the waste either does not exceed concentration limits for Class C low-level waste as set out in section 61.55 of title 10, Code of Federal Regulations (CFR), and will be disposed of in compliance with the performance objectives set out in subpart C of part 61 of title 10, CFR, pursuant to a State-approved closure plan or State-issued permit, authority for the approval or issuance of which is conferred on the State outside of this section or, if the waste does exceed concentration limits for Class C low-level waste, the waste will be disposed of in compliance with the performance objectives set out in subpart C of part 61 of title 10, CFR, pursuant to a State-approved closure plan or State-issued permit, authority for the approval or issuance of which is conferred on the State outside of this section, and pursuant to plans developed by the Secretary in consultation with the NRC. Any modification to the performance objectives in subpart C of part 61 of title 10, CFR, shall apply to actions under this section.

Section 3116 applies to material stored at a Department of Energy site at which activities are regulated by a covered State pursuant to approved closure plans or permits issued by the State. For purposes of this section, covered states are the States of South Carolina and the State of Idaho.

The NRC shall, in coordination with the covered State, monitor the disposal actions taken by the Department of Energy (DOE). If the NRC considers any disposal actions by DOE to not be in compliance with the requirements set out in this section, the NRC shall inform DOE, the covered State, and the appropriate congressional committees. The Secretary of Energy shall reimburse the NRC for all expenses that the NRC incurs for performance under this section during fiscal year 2005. In subsequent fiscal years, the NRC shall include in the budget justification materials submitted to Congress the amounts required, not offset by revenues, for performance under subsections (a) and (b).

Section 3116, as passed by the Senate, applied "notwithstanding any other provision of law." The conferees substitute this broad application with specific laws that are within the ambit of the "notwithstanding" clause; those laws that define classes of radioactive waste, including, but not limited to, the Nuclear Waste Policy Act, section 202 of the Energy Reorganization Act of 1974, section 2(10) of the Waste Isolation Pilot Plant Land Withdrawal Act and section 11dd. of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954, which cross-reference section 2(12) of the NWPA's definition of "high-level waste," section 2(9) of the Low-Level Waste Policy Act which defines low-level radioactive waste with reference to high-level radioactive waste, and the authorities stemming from the Atomic Energy Act for establishing radiation protection standards for disposal of radioactive waste that were transferred to the EPA by Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1970. Laws like the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act of 1980 (Public Law 96-510) and the Resource Conservation and Recover Act of 1976 (Public Law 94-580) which do not specify or establish disposal standards based on these kinds of classifications of radioactive waste, would be unaffected, as would general environmental laws such as National Environmental Policy Act, and laws regulating radioactive waste for purposes other than disposal.

The conferees note that nothing in section 3116 shall impair, alter, or modify the full implementation of any Federal Facility Agreement and Consent Order or other applicable consent decree for a Department of Energy site. In that connection, the conferees understand that pursuant to the settlement agreement entered into by the United States with the State of Idaho in the actions captioned Public Service Co. of Colorado v. Batt, Civil No. 91-0035-S-EJL, and United States v. Batt, Civil No. 91-0054-S-EJL, in the United States District Court for the District of Idaho, and the consent order of the United States District Court for the District of Idaho dated October 17, 1995 that effectuates this settlement agreement, the Department of Energy has committed to complete solidification of the sodium-bearing waste retrieved from tanks in the Tank Farm Facility at the Idaho Nuclear Engineering and Technology Center at the Idaho National Engineering and Environmental Laboratory (INEEL) by December 31, 2012 and to treat this material so that it is ready to be moved out of Idaho for disposal by a target date of 2035, regardless of any ultimate decision on the classification of this waste. The conferees urge the Department to accelerate the final out-of-state disposal of this waste. Furthermore, the conferees direct the Secretary of Energy to submit a report to the congressional defense committees by March 1, 2005 describing the Department's plans for the final disposal of the sodium bearing waste at INEEL. Section 3116 does not establish any precedent for and is not binding on the States of Washington, Oregon or any other state that is not a covered state for the management, storage, treatment, and disposition of radioactive and hazardous material.

The conferees note that the Defense Nuclear Facilities Safety Board (DNFSB) has statutory responsibilities associated with the Department's defense site acceleration completion activities. Although this provision establishes new responsibilities for the NRC, nothing in this section is intended to alter the existing statutory authority of the DNFSB in any area.

The conferees note that subsection (c) of this provision states that subsection (a) does not apply to any material transported from the state and subsection (e)(3) states that nothing in this section amends the definition of "transuranic waste". The conferees' intent is that nothing in this statute changes the disposal requirements for waste that will ultimately be disposed of at the Waste Isolation Pilot Plant. In addition, subsection (e)(5) states that nothing in this provision amends the West Valley Demonstration Project Act.

The conferees note that subsection (f) provides for judicial review of any determination or agency action by the Secretary of Energy under this section consistent with the Administrative Procedure Act's provisions for judicial review as set out in chapter 7 of title 5 of the United States Code. Failure by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission to perform its monitoring responsibilities under subsection (b) is also subject to judicial review in accordance with those provisions. The conferees intend that the Secretary of Energy's actions under section 3116 are fully subject to judicial review notwithstanding any action by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

The conferees note that section 3155 of the National Defense Authorization for Fiscal Year 2002 sets forth the obligations of the Department to manage and dispose of surplus plutonium shipped to the Savannah River Site. The authority granted to the Department under section 3116 to reclassify radioactive material does not extend to this plutonium nor does it relieve the Department of its obligations under Section 3155 of the 2002 Act. Subsection (e)(4) was included to clarify this limitation.

Treatment of waste material (sec. 3117)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3120) that would authorize $350.0 million out of defense site acceleration completion and defense environmental services to be expended for activities at the Hanford Site in Washington, the Idaho National Engineering and Environmental Laboratory in Idaho, and the Savannah River Site in South Carolina for the safe management, treatment, storage, consolidation, and emptying and cleaning of tanks or tank farms used to store waste from reprocessing activities.

The House bill would authorize $300.0 million for defense site acceleration completion to address waste incidental to reprocessing.

The House recedes with an amendment that would authorize $350.0 million for defense site acceleration completion activities at the Idaho National Engineering and Environmental Laboratory in Idaho, the Savannah River Site in South Carolina, and the Hanford Site in Washington.

Local stakeholder organizations for 2006 closure sites (sec. 3118)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3121) that would direct the Secretary of Energy to establish local stakeholder organizations (LSOs) to operate in consultation with local elected officials at Department of Energy Environmental Management 2006 closure sites. This would include the Rocky Flats Environmental Technology Site, the Fernald Environmental Management Project, and the Miamisburg Environmental Management Project Mound Site.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would strike the portion of the provision which stated that the Federal Advisory Committee Act (FACA) (5 U.S.C. App.) does not apply to LSOs.

The conferees note that as the community reuse organizations comply with FACA, LSOs will also have to comply with FACA. The conferees also encourage the LSOs to work with other community organizations and groups to allow a broad view to be considered.

Report to Congress on Advanced Nuclear Weapons Concepts Initiative (sec. 3119)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3112) that would prohibit the Secretary of Energy from obligating or expending the funds available for advanced nuclear concepts initiative (ACI) until 30 days after the Administrator of the National Nuclear Security Administration submits a report on the planned activities for fiscal year 2005 under this initiative.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Administrator of the NNSA to submit a report setting forth the planned ACI activities in fiscal year 2005 by March 1, 2005. The Secretary may fully obligate or expend the funds available for ACI.

Subtitle C—Proliferation Matters

Modification of authority to use International Nuclear Materials Protection and Cooperation Program funds outside the former Soviet Union (sec. 3131)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3131) that would amend section 3124 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004, to remove the $50.0 million limitation on the authority to use International Nuclear Materials Protection and Cooperation Program funds for projects and activities outside of the former Soviet Union to meet emerging proliferation threats. The provision would also clarify that this authority applies only to projects or activities that have not previously been authorized by Congress.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Acceleration of removal or security of fissile materials, radiological materials, and related equipment at vulnerable sites worldwide (sec. 3132)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3132) that would express the sense of Congress that the security of high-risk, proliferation-attractive fissile materials, radiological materials, and related equipment at vulnerable sites worldwide should be a top U.S. national security priority. The provision would also express the sense of Congress that the President may establish a Department of Energy Task Force on Nuclear Materials to carry out a program to undertake an accelerated, comprehensive worldwide effort to mitigate threats posed by high-risk, proliferation-attractive fissile materials, radiological materials, and related equipment located at sites potentially vulnerable to theft or diversion. The provision would include a list of specific activities that would be authorized under such a program.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Silk Road Initiative (sec. 3133)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1421) that would authorize the Secretary of Energy to carry out a program known as the Silk Road Initiative to promote non-weapons-related employment opportunities for scientists, engineers, and technicians formerly engaged in activities to develop and produce weapons of mass destruction in nations of the former Soviet Union in the Caucasus and Central Asia. The provision would encourage the Secretary to begin a pilot program in the Republic of Georgia, and would authorize the Secretary to spend up to $10.0 million on the program from funds available for nonproliferation and international security for fiscal year 2005.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with technical amendments.

The conferees note that a number of independent states of the former Soviet Union have been helpful to the United States in the war on terrorism. Such states are new and struggling democracies and would benefit considerably from assistance to create sustainable jobs for their underemployed or unemployed scientists, engineers, and technicians who were formerly engaged in activities to develop and produce weapons of mass destruction. The conferees further note that it is the policy of the United States to seek to establish and promote programs to prevent the proliferation of scientific and technical expertise to develop and produce weapons of mass destruction from states of the former Soviet Union to countries of proliferation concern; and to assist independent states of the former Soviet Union that have been helpful to the United States in the war on terrorism so as to promote the creation of jobs that foster economic stability and democracy.

Nuclear Nonproliferation Fellowships for scientists employed by United States and Russian Federation (sec. 3134)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1422) that would authorize the Administrator for Nuclear Security to carry out a program under which the Administrator would award international exchange fellowships in the nuclear nonproliferation sciences to scientists employed at the Kurchatov Institute of the Russian Federation and the Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory of the United States. The fellowships would be known as Teller-Kurchatov Nonproliferation Fellowships. The provision would authorize the Administrator to spend up to $10.0 million on the program from funds available for nonproliferation and international security in fiscal year 2005.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would authorize the Administrator for Nuclear Security to carry out a program under which the Administrator would award international exchange fellowships in the nuclear nonproliferation sciences to scientists employed at nonproliferation research laboratories of the Russian Federation and the United States. The fellowships would be known as Nuclear Nonproliferation Fellowships. The provision would authorize the Administrator to use funds available for nonproliferation and international security in fiscal year 2005 for this fellowship program.

Utilization of international contributions to the Elimination of Weapons Grade Plutonium Production Program (sec. 3135)

The conferees agree to include a provision that would provide the Secretary of Energy authority to accept international contributions to the Elimination of Weapons Grade Plutonium Production Program. The provision would permit the Secretary of Energy to: (1) enter into agreements, in consultation with the Secretary of State, with a person, foreign government, or international organization for this purpose; and (2) use such contributions without further authorization or appropriation. The provision would require the Secretary to notify the congressional defense committees: (1) of the receipt of any international contributions for this program within 30 days of their receipt; and (2) of the intended use of any funds received 30 days before they may be utilized. The provision would also require the Secretary to submit an annual report to the congressional defense committees on the receipt and utilization of amounts received pursuant to this authority for each fiscal year. The provision would require that any funds not used within five years be returned to the contributor. The authority provided by this provision would expire on December 31, 2011.

Subtitle D—Other Matters

Indemnification of Department of Energy contractors (sec. 3141)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3141) that would amend section 170d(1)(A) of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 to allow the Department of Energy to continue to enter into contracts for indemnification for an additional two years, through December 31, 2006.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Report on maintenance of retirement benefits for certain workers at 2006 closure sites after closure of sites (sec. 3142)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3122) that would require the Assistant Secretary of Energy for Environmental Management to submit a report to the Secretary of Energy on maintenance of retirement benefits for workers at 2006 closure sites shortly before closure of those sites. The report would include the number of workers at the closure sites which would not receive retirement benefits if the site where they work is closed early; the cost to provide benefits to these workers; and the impact on collective bargaining agreements due to the workers' loss of benefits. The Secretary of Energy would be required to send the report to the congressional defense committees.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would clarify the scope of the report.

The conferees direct the Department of Energy to use the contracts that were in effect on September 30, 2003 as the contracts for determining the target completion date.

Report on efforts of National Nuclear Security Administration to understand plutonium aging (sec. 3143)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3123) that would require the Administrator of the National Nuclear Security Administration (NNSA) to enter into a contract with a Federally Funded Research and Development Center for a study to assess the efforts of the NNSA to understand the aging of plutonium used in nuclear weapons.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Support for public education in the vicinity of Los Alamos National Laboratory, New Mexico (sec. 3144)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3144) that would require the Secretary of Energy (DOE) to include in all the management and operating contracts for the Los Alamos National Laboratory (LANL), entered into after September 30, 2005, a provision that would require the contractor to provide $8.0 million per year for support for public secondary and elementary education to the Los Alamos Public School District.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Review of Waste Isolation Pilot Plant, New Mexico, pursuant to competitive contract (sec. 3145)

The House bill contains a provision (sec. 3133) that would direct the Secretary of Energy to enter into a new contract for independent reviews of the design, construction, and operations of the Waste Isolation Pilot Plant in New Mexico (WIPP).

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 3145) that would direct the Secretary of Energy to use competitive procedures in future contracts for independent reviews of the design, construction, and operations of WIPP.

The House recedes.

National Academy of Sciences study on management by Department of Energy of certain radioactive waste streams (sec. 3146)

The House bill contains a provision (sec. 3132) that would require the Secretary of Energy to enter into an agreement with the National Research Council of the National Academy of Sciences to complete a study of the plans of the Department of Energy (DOE) to manage certain waste streams that are not planned for disposal in a high-level repository. These streams are located at the Savannah River site, South Carolina, the Idaho National Engineering and Environmental Laboratory, Idaho, and the Hanford Reservation, Washington.

The provision would require the National Research Council to submit an interim report no later than six months after entering into the agreement with the Secretary and a final report no later than one year after entering such agreement.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 3117) that would authorize $750,000 for a similar study.

The Senate recedes with an amendment which would require the Secretary of Energy to enter into an arrangement with the National Research Council of the National Academy of Sciences (NAS) to carry out a study of the plans of the Department of Energy to manage waste, from reprocessed spent nuclear fuel, which exceeds the concentration limits for Class C low-level waste set out in section 61.55 of title 10, Code of Federal Regulations (CFR). The waste that is the subject of the study is stored in tanks at the Savannah River Site, in South Carolina, the Idaho National Engineering and Environmental Laboratory (INEEL), in Idaho, and the Hanford Reservation, in Washington, and it is waste which DOE does not plan to dispose of in a repository for spent nuclear fuel and high-level waste.

The conferees note that the study shall evaluate the state of the Department's understanding of the physical, chemical, and radiological characteristics of the waste. Additionally, the study should evaluate any actions, in addition to those contained in the Department's current plans, which should be considered to ensure the plan's compliance with the performance objectives of part 61 of title 10, Code of Federal Regulations. In addition, the study shall evaluate the adequacy of the Department's plans for monitoring disposal sites to verify compliance with the performance objectives in part 61 of title 10, Code of Federal Regulations, any existing technology alternatives to these plans, and any existing technology gaps.

The National Research Council may develop recommendations it considers appropriate and directly related to the subject matter of the study. The National Research Council shall submit the reports to the Secretary of Energy and the appropriate congressional committees. Of the amounts authorized for the Department of Energy, $1.5 million shall be available for carrying out this study.

Compensation of Pajarito Plateau, New Mexico, homesteaders for acquisition of lands for Manhattan Project in World War II (sec. 3147)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3146) that would establish a fund to settle outstanding claims derived from the acquisition of land used in the Manhattan Project. The provision would authorize $10.0 million to settle claims for compensation by Pajarito Plateau homesteaders.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the United States District Court for the District of New Mexico to appoint a special master to identify class members, receive claims, resolve contests, and address such other matters the Court may order. The claims to be settled from the fund are the claims pending before the court as Civil Number 00-60. In addition, the provision would establish guidelines for settling claims using the fund. Following all determinations, the Special Master would be directed to award the allocated amounts from the fund after approval by the Court. The conferees intend this fund and the payments made from it constitute full and complete settlement of these claims.

Modification of requirements relating to conveyances and transfer of certain land at Los Alamos National Laboratory, New Mexico (sec. 3148)

The conferees agree to include a provision that would authorize the Department of Energy to transfer certain parcels of land at the Los Alamos National Laboratory in New Mexico to the Los Alamos County Public Schools in New Mexico. The conferees note the financial benefits realized through this land transfer will be used to facilitate economic development for the Los Alamos County Public Schools.

Subtitle E—Energy Employees Occupational Illness Compensation Program

Improvements to the Energy Employees Occupational Illness Compensation Program Act (sec. 3161-3170)

The Senate amendment contained a series of provisions (sec. 3151-3157) that would amend section 3621 of the Energy Employees Occupational Illness Compensation Program Act (EEOICPA) of 2000 (Public Law 106-398). The primary changes that the provisions would make to the EEOICPA program would transfer claims processing under Part D of EEOICPA from the Department of Energy (DOE) to the Department of Labor (DOL), direct DOL to compute compensation payments and require DOL to make such compensation payments to the employees.

The Senate amendment would allow covered DOE contractor employees to elect to proceed under State workers' compensation systems or choose to receive compensation under EEOICPA Part D.

The Senate amendment allowed covered DOE contractor employees who have been determined to be entitled to compensation and benefits for an occupational illness contracted in the performance of duty at a DOE facility under subtitle B of EEOICPA, to be treated as having contracted the occupational illness through exposure at DOE facilities for purposes of subtitle D. Employees not previously covered under subtitle B of EEOICPA would be determined to have contracted an illness through exposure at a DOE facility for purposes of subtitle D if (1) it is at least as likely as not that exposure to a toxic substance was a significant factor in aggravating, contributing to, or causing the illnesses; and (2) it is at least as likely as not that the exposure to such toxic substance was related to employment at a DOE facility. The Secretary of Labor would make such determinations. In making these determinations, the Secretary of Labor would be allowed to use physicians to assist in making such determinations.

The amount of workers' compensation to which covered DOE contractor employees or eligible survivors would be entitled would be determined under the appropriate State workers' compensation system. Covered DOE contractor employees determined to be eligible for compensation for an occupational illness or covered illness under these provisions would also be furnished medical benefits. Covered DOE contractor employees would also be able to seek review by the Secretary of Labor of determinations concerning eligibility and levels of compensation decided against the employees.

Attorney fees for assistance on a claim under this subtitle would be available for covered DOE contractor employees to the same extent that they are currently available under Subtitle B.

The Senate amendment would transfer administration of subtitle D of EEOICPA to the Secretary of Labor, and direct the Secretary to work with the Secretary of Energy to transfer all applicable records, files and other data from DOE to DOL.

The Senate amendment would also expand the coverage of individuals employed by atomic weapons employers (AWE) who were exposed to residual radiation after DOE related work at the AWE facility stopped. Additionally, the Director of the National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH) would update the 2000 report on residual contamination of AWE facilities.

The Senate amendment would establish in DOL a new Office of the Ombudsman to assist individuals in making claims under subtitle D of EEOICPA and direct the Secretary of Labor to prescribe regulations necessary to carry out these provisions. The provisions would also set forth a Sense of Congress that the Secretary of Energy should adopt a policy not to oppose any final positive determinations with respect to injured workers at DOE facilities and AWE facilities under a State workers' compensation adjudication system unless such determinations are frivolous. The Senate amendment would also set forth findings that DOL establish a resource center in western New York to provide assistance to energy employees making claims under Subtitle B of EEOICPA, and set forth the sense of the Senate that the Ombudsman should evaluate current assistance and recommend a site for a resource center.

The Senate amendment also included provisions that would designate under specified circumstances certain former nuclear weapons program workers as members of the Special Exposure Cohort (SEC) under section 3621 of EEOICPA. Funding for all programs created, modified or expanded under these provisions would be subject to appropriations.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment.

The conferees agree to repeal subtitle D of EEOICPA, establish a new compensation scheme and direct the Department of Labor (DOL) to administer the program. The new program would be established as subtitle E of EEOICPA.

Under the new subtitle E of EEOICPA, covered DOE contractor employees would be compensated based on any impairment from a covered illness resulting from exposure to a toxic substance at a DOE facility. The employee would receive additional compensation if the impairment resulted in significant wage losses. The primary goal of the conferees was to create a simple, fair and uniform workers compensation system and avoid chronic delays and inefficiencies that workers currently encounter.

Specifically, employees would receive $2,500 for every degree of impairment, resulting from a covered illness contracted by that employee through exposure to a toxic substance at a DOE facility. Additionally, the covered employee would be compensated for annual wage loss, defined as the average salary for the 36 months preceding the month the wage loss began, as follows: (1) $10,000 for each calendar year where the employee's annual wage exceeded 50 percent of the employee's average annual wage at the DOE facility but did not exceed 75 percent of their average annual wage; or $15,000 for each calendar year where the employee's annual wage did not exceed 50 percent of the employee's average annual wage at the DOE facility. The wage losses must result from the covered illness as determined by DOL.

The American Medical Association's Guides to the Evaluation of Permanent Impairment should be used in making these determinations. On the other hand, as the Guides state "Impairment assessment is a necessary first step for determining disability." [Emphasis in original] The new compensation regime that would be established in subtitle E of EEOICPA establishes a two part award—one for impairment and one for work loss as a result of disability. As structured in subtitle E the two part award is a unique way to compensate employees for impairments as well as compensation based upon past and present earnings losses from disability. In some cases, particularly in cases involving illnesses to long exposure to toxic substances, there may be an illness for which the AMA Guides do not provide an impairment rating. As a result, each individual employee should be evaluated individually and the determination of impairment and work disability should be through a combination of the Guides and by physicians suitably trained and qualified. Because of the unique nature of the compensation under subtitle E, the conferees do not intend the use of the Guides in this context to establish a precedent for other federal compensation programs.

The conferees also include a provision that would provide three categories of compensation for survivors of a covered DOE contractor employee. Under category one, the survivor would receive $125,000, if the Secretary of Labor determines that the employee would have been entitled to compensation under part E of EEOICPA and it is at least as likely as not that exposure to a toxic substance at a DOE facility was a significant factor in aggravating, contributing to, or causing death. Under category two, the survivor would receive $150,000, if he or she meets the criteria under category one, and the Secretary of Labor also determines that there was an aggregate period of not less than 10 years, before the employee attained normal retirement age, during which, as a result of any covered illness contracted by the employee through exposure of a toxic substance at a DOE facility, the employee's annual wage did not exceed 50 percent of the average annual wage of the employee. Under category three, the survivor would receive $175,000, if he or she meets the criteria under category one, plus the Secretary of Labor also determines that there was an aggregate period of not less than 20 years, before the employee attained normal retirement age, during which, as a result of any covered illness contracted by the employee through exposure of a toxic substance at a DOE facility, the employee's annual wage did not exceed 50 percent of the average annual wage of the employee. The survivor would be entitled to receive the highest category for which the survivor qualifies. The maximum aggregate benefit available under subtitle E of EEOICPA is $250,000.

Radiation Exposure Compensation Act

The conferees also agree to make compensation under subtitle E applicable to certain uranium employees under section 5 of the Radiation Exposure Compensation Act (RECA) (42 U.S.C. 2210 note). Compensation for these employees would be determined on the same basis as it applies to a DOE contractor employee under section 3675 of subtitle E of EEOICPA.

Office of the Ombudsman

The conferees agree to include a provision similar to the Senate amendment to create an Office of the Ombudsman. The authority for the Office of the Ombudsman would expire three years after enactment. The conferees expect the Ombudsman to work with the Secretary of Labor to ensure the Ombudsman is technically proficient on subtitle E of EEOICPA to the maximum extent practicable before they begin conducting covered DOE contractor employee outreach. The conferees also expect the Ombudsman to make recommendations the Ombudsman considers appropriate for the improvement of the practices of DOL in administering subtitle E of EEOICPA. The conferees urge the Secretary to hire a director of the Office of the Ombudsman within 120 days of enactment.

Administrative Provisions

The conferees have included a series of provisions that deal with administrative and judicial review, physician services, medical benefits, attorneys fees, offsets, subrogation, exclusivity of remedy, treatment of payments, and administrative matters between DOL and DOE concerning records, files and other data.

Compensation under subtitle E would be offset by any benefits an individual receives for the same covered illness through a State workers' compensation system. The aggregate amount of compensation received on behalf of a covered employee under subtitle E, other than medical benefits, shall not exceed $250,000.

The conferees believe the benefits available under subtitle E of EEOICPA are a fair and equitable alternative to the complexities and uncertainties that employees and their survivors may face in State workers' compensation programs. If an election is made to proceed under subtitle E of EEOICPA, the covered DOE contractor employer and survivor will not be able to bring additional actions against the United States or the DOE contractor for covered illnesses. A covered DOE contractor employee or their survivor may choose to forego benefits under subtitle E of EEOICPA and instead seek compensation through a state workers compensation system, litigation or any other available compensation mechanisms.

The benefits paid under subtitle E and the administrative costs of subtitle E will be treated for budget and accounting purposes as mandatory spending.

The Secretary is required to establish a process for administrative appeals. In developing this process, the conferees urge the Secretary to consider other administrative appeals processes for similar programs. Determining whether an illness was caused by exposure to toxic substances can be complex. Therefore, the conferees urge the Secretary to consider an appeal process whereby claimants have an opportunity to have an adverse determination reviewed by an independent physician or physician panel. The conferees note that the Secretary has the authority to hire physician panels, and urge the Secretary to hire physicians with experience and competency in diagnosing illnesses caused by exposure to toxic substances in exercising this authority.

The conferees note that included in the administrative provisions is a provision that would direct the Social Security Administration to make available to the Secretary of Labor earnings information necessary to carry out the requirements of subtitle E. The conferees expect that protections will be in place at DOL that will protect this information from unauthorized disclosure to the same extent the information was protected before being transferred to DOL.

The conferees urge the Secretary, in consultation and coordination with the Secretary of Energy, to notify all applicants of the changes in the management of this program. The conferees recommend that the Secretary, through or in coordination with the Office of the Ombudsman, explain program changes, provide guidance on changes in the processing of claims, and provide a toll free "hotline" which claimants can call for assistance.

Special Exposure Cohort

The conferees are concerned that the administrative process for designating additional special exposure cohorts (SEC) is too slow and should be accelerated. Covered DOE contractor employees from the 1940s, 50s, 60s, and 70s whose occupational illness was caused through exposure to toxic substances while working in DOE contractor facilities should receive compensation under subtitle B of EEOICPA. Unfortunately many of the records or other data has been lost or destroyed. As a result of these delays, the conferees have included several provisions that would make improvements to subtitle B of EEOICPA in an effort to accelerate the process for designating additional SECs. First, the Secretary of Energy is directed to ensure that members and staff of the NIOSH Advisory Board have an opportunity to apply for necessary security clearances. The Secretary of Energy should process these applications within 180 days after receiving a completed application. In addition, the Secretary of Energy is directed, in accordance with law, to provide the Advisory Board access to any information that the Board considers relevant to carry out its responsibilities under EEOICPA, including Restricted Data.

To ensure that applications to be a SEC member are processed promptly, new timelines have been included. Within 180 days of receipt of a petition for designation as members of a SEC, the Director of NIOSH must submit to the Advisory Board a recommendation on that petition, including all supporting documentation. During the 180 period when NIOSH is preparing the petition for review by the Advisory Board, NIOSH should identify all deficiencies in the petition within the first 30 days. When the President receives an affirmative recommendation from the Advisory Board to designate a class to the SEC, the President shall have a period of 30 days in which to accept or reject the recommendation and notify Congress. If the President does not send a determination notice within 30 days, and if there is an affirmative Board recommendation, the class recommended to be a SEC will automatically become a SEC, subject to a 30 day notification period in Congress.

In an effort to prevent further delays for petitions already filed, the Board would be directed to convene an emergency meeting if NIOSH completes the evaluation of a petition more than ten days before a regularly scheduled Board Meeting. This emergency authority shall expire on March 1, 2005. In addition, the President is directed to submit a report to Congress by March 15, 2005 providing a status update on all petitioners who filed by October 1, 2004. The report should include, for each petition, the estimated time to complete consideration of the petition and any anticipated actions or circumstances that could preclude the Board from acting upon that petition before the end of fiscal year 2005. The conferees expect NIOSH to respond promptly throughout the process to ensure the petition and all supporting documentation is filed and processed correctly.

The conferees are concerned that auditors hired to conduct an audit of NIOSH and the Advisory Board are having a difficult time getting information and maintaining an appropriate degree of independence. The conferees expect NIOSH to work to ensure these issues are addressed in future audits.

Pursuant to a recommendation of the Comptroller General, in the September, 2004 Report (GAO-04958), to the extent the Secretary of Labor determines it useful and practicable, the Secretary of Labor shall direct the Director of NIOSH to prepare site profiles for a DOE facility based on records, files and other data provided by the Secretary of Energy.

The conferees urge the Director of NIOSH to consult with DOE contract workers and their representatives in developing these site profiles, and to update site profiles as information becomes available. The conferees have also included a provision that would direct the Secretary of Health and Human Services to submit to Congress a report setting forth the time frames for completing the site profiles.

Residual Radiation Exposure

The conferees include the provisions from the Senate amendment that expand coverage under subtitle B to include workers exposed to residual radiation contamination. In addition, the provision would add a definition of the term radiation dose applicable to employees exposed to residual radiation.

The conferees have also agreed to include a provision that would direct the director of NIOSH to update the 2003 residual radiation report.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Annual report on expenditures for safeguards and security

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3118) that would require the Secretary of Energy to submit an annual report describing the activities and costs of the safeguards and security program at the defense nuclear facilities across the Department of Energy (DOE). The Senate was concerned that the DOE was considering a change in budgeting for safeguards and security that would include these costs as part of the cost of each DOE program. The Senate was concerned that such an approach to budgeting, particularly during the two-year effort to comply with the new design basis threat, would mask the cost of these important requirements.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees are satisfied that the DOE will continue to include sufficient transparency in their budget request for safeguards and security in fiscal year 2006.

Authority to consolidate counterintelligence offices of Department of Energy and National Nuclear Security Administration within the National Nuclear Security Administration

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3119) that would authorize the Secretary of Energy to consolidate the counterintelligence offices of the Department of Energy (DOE) and the National Nuclear Security Administration (NNSA) within NNSA.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees note that the NNSA was originally set up as a semi-autonomous agency, in large part, to ensure that there would be adequate focus and priority placed on counterintelligence activities. The conferees urge the counterintelligence offices at DOE and NNSA to work together to ensure security of both DOE and NNSA programs and facilities.

Transfers and reprogrammings of National Nuclear Security Administration funds

The House bill contains a provision (sec. 3131) that would direct the Administrator of the National Nuclear Security Administration (NNSA) to specifically submit notifications and requests for reprogramming directly to the congressional defense committees, with the only role of the Department of Energy (DOE) being for the Chief Financial Officer (CFO) to certify whether funds covered by the notice or request are available.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees believe that there is a present need for better coordination between the Administrator of the NNSA and the CFO of DOE regarding budgetary actions.

The National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2000 established the National Nuclear Security Administration (50 U.S.C. 2401, otherwise known as the "NNSA Act"). In passing this Act, Congress created the National Nuclear Security Administration as a semi-autonomous agency within the DOE. The mission of the NNSA is to enhance the national security through the military application of nuclear energy, to reduce global danger from weapons of mass destruction, and to promote international nuclear safety. The cornerstone of this Act is to provide significant autonomy to the NNSA.

Among the various functions assigned in the Act, the NNSA Administrator has authority over, and is responsible for, all programs and activities of the NNSA, including budget formulation, guidance and execution, and other financial matters (50 U.S.C. 2402). The NNSA Act also provides for separate treatment of NNSA's budget request in the President's budget (50 U.S.C. 2451) and for the Administrator to establish procedures for planning, programming, budgeting, and financial activities (50 U.S.C. 2452). Congress' intent was to provide autonomy for the NNSA in numerous functions, including all those functions associated with budget formulation and execution.

The conferees are deeply concerned that the overall management of the NNSA budget process may not be carried out in accordance with the full intent of the NNSA Act and that current processes have caused unnecessary delays in budget actions. Accordingly, the Secretary of Energy and the Administrator are directed, within 60 days of enactment of this Act, to develop a process that streamlines all NNSA-related budgetary actions including, but not limited to reprogramming requests to Congress, and that is in full compliance with the NNSA Act. This process should establish realistic deadlines for DOE and NNSA to complete budget-related actions, such as reprogrammings. The Secretary and the Administrator shall submit a report to the congressional defense committees by March 1, 2005 outlining the deadlines for budget-related actions that were established. Commencing on March 1, 2006, and annually thereafter on March 1, the Secretary and the Administrator shall submit a report to the congressional defense committees assessing the Department's and National Nuclear Security Administration's performance in meeting these deadlines, and if applicable, the reasons for failing to meet the established deadlines.

Additional amount for defense site acceleration completion

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3134) that would authorize $50.0 million for defense site acceleration completion.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Improvements to Energy Employees Occupational Illness Compensation Program

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3135) that would amend section 3661 of the Energy Employees Occupational Illness Compensation Program Act of 2000 (42 U.S.C. 785) by requiring the Secretary of Health and Human Services to select individuals to serve as panel members based on experience and competency in diagnosing occupational illness.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 3143) that would amend section 3661 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2001 (Public Law 106-398), part D of the Energy Employees Occupational Illness Program Act (EEOICPA). The provision would eliminate the following three restrictions: (1) the pay cap on physicians serving on part D physicians panels; (2) the requirement that the part D physicians work only on a temporary or intermittent basis; and (3) the requirement for agreements between DOE and States.

The conferees agree not to adopt either provision.

TITLE XXXII—DEFENSE NUCLEAR FACILITIES SAFETY BOARD

Legislative Provisions Adopted

Defense Nuclear Facilities Safety Board (sec. 3201)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3201) that would authorize $21.3 million for the Defense Nuclear Facilities Safety Board for fiscal year 2005, an increase of $1.0 million to fund cost-of-living pay increases for permanent staff and to hire outside consultants as needed for technical oversight of new Department of Energy projects.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 3201).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

TITLE XXXIII—NATIONAL DEFENSE STOCKPILE

Legislative Provisions Adopted

Authorized Uses of National Defense Stockpile Funds (sec. 3301)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3301) that would authorize $59.7 million from the National Defense Stockpile Transaction Fund for the operation and maintenance of the National Defense Stockpile for fiscal year 2005. The provision would also permit the use of additional funds for extraordinary or emergency conditions 45 days after a notification to the Congress.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Revision of earlier authority to dispose of certain materials in National Defense Stockpile (sec. 3302)

The Senate amendment included a provision (sec. 3302) relative to revenue requirements for certain previously authorized disposals from the National Defense Stockpile to establish a new requirement of $870.0 million by the end of fiscal year 2014.

The House bill included a similar provision (sec. 3303) that would set revenue requirements for those same disposals of at least $785.0 million by the end of fiscal year 2005 and $870.0 million by the end of fiscal year 2009.

The Senate recedes.

Disposal of ferromanganese (sec. 3303)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3302) that would amend section 3306 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2002 (Public Law 107-107), to authorize the Secretary of Defense to dispose of 100,000 short tons of high carbon ferromanganese of the highest grade during fiscal year 2005.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 3301) that would authorize the Secretary to dispose of up to 50,000 tons of high carbon ferromanganese during fiscal year 2005. The provision would also authorize the disposal of an additional 50,000 tons of high carbon ferromanganese during fiscal year 2005, at 25,000 ton increments, subject to the Secretary, in consultation with the Secretary of Commerce, providing certifications to the congressional defense committees 30 days before the release of each increment.

The House recedes with an amendment that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to dispose of up to 50,000 tons of high carbon ferromanganese during fiscal year 2005. The provision would also authorize the disposal of an additional 50,000 tons of high carbon ferromanganese during fiscal year 2005, at 25,000 ton increments, subject to the Secretary of Defense certifying to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives not later than 30 days before commencement of disposal of a 25,000 ton increment the following: the disposal of ferromanganese is in the interest of national defense; the disposal of ferromanganese under such paragraph will not cause undue disruption to the usual markets of ferromanganese producers or processors of the United States; and the disposal of ferromanganese is consistent with the requirements of the National Defense Stockpile under the Strategic and Critical Material Stock Piling Act (50 U.S.C. et seq.).

Prohibition on storage of mercury at certain facilities (sec. 3304)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3303) that would prohibit the Secretary of Defense from storing mercury from the National Defense Stockpile at any facility that is not owned or leased by the United States.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would prohibit the Secretary from storing mercury from the National Defense Stockpile at any facility that is not owned or leased by the United States in fiscal year 2005.

TITLE XXXIV—NAVAL PETROLEUM RESERVES

Legislative Provisions Adopted

Authorization of appropriations (sec. 3401)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3401) that would authorize $20.0 million for the operation and maintenance of the Naval Petroleum and Oil Shale Reserves.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

TITLE XXXV—MARITIME ADMINISTRATION

Legislative Provisions Adopted

Authorization of appropriations for Maritime Administration (sec. 3501)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3501) that would authorize funds to be appropriated for the Maritime Administration for expenses necessary for operations and training activities, for administrative activities under the loan guarantee program, and for ship disposal.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Extension of authority to provide war risk insurance for Merchant Marine vessels (sec. 3502)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3502) that would amend Section 1214 of the Merchant Marine Act, 1936 (46 U.S.C. App. 1294) to extend the authority to provide war risk insurance for Merchant Marine vessels from June 30, 2005 to December 31, 2010. The provision would also amend section 1208(a) of the same Act (46 U.S.C. App. 1288), allowing the Secretary of Transportation to request the Secretary of the Treasury to invest such portion of the fund that is not, in the judgement of the Secretary of Transportation, required to meet the current needs of the fund.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1066), which would have extended the authority to provide war risk insurance to December 31, 2008, and would have allowed similar investments of a portion of the fund.

The Senate recedes.

Modification of priority afforded applications for national defense tank vessel construction assistance (sec. 3503)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2901) that would amend section 3542(d)(2) of the Maritime Security Act of 2003 (title XXXV of Public Law 108–136). The amendment would require the Secretary of Transportation to give priority consideration to a proposal for national defense tank vessels if they had been accepted for participation in the Shipboard Technology Evaluation Program (STEP) as outlined in Navigation and Vessel Inspection Circular 01–04, issued by the Commandant of the U.S. Coast Guard on January 2, 2004.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would allow the Secretary of Transportation to give priority to subsidy proposals received after fiscal year 2005 if the vessels, which are to be constructed, have been selected to participate in the STEP.

TITLE XXXVI—ASSISTANCE TO FIREFIGHTERS

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Assistance to Firefighters (secs. 3601–3603)

The Senate amendment contained several provisions (sec. 3501–3513) that would reauthorize the Department of Homeland Security's Assistance to Firefighters Grant Program for fiscal years 2005 through 2010. The provision would also authorize the Secretary of Homeland Security, in consultation with the U.S. Fire Administrator, to administer the grant program; expand eligibility for the Assistance to Firefighters Grant Program to volunteer emergency medical service (EMS) organizations; reduce the matching requirements for jurisdictions with populations less than 20,000; set caps on assistance to jurisdictions based on population; and authorize $900.0 million for the program in fiscal year 2005; $950.0 million for fiscal year 2006; and $1.0 billion for each of fiscal years 2007 through 2010.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would place the Director of the Federal Emergency Management Agency, acting through the U.S. Fire Administrator, in charge of administration of the program. Further, the amendment would create a funding floor for grants to EMS organizations, but set a funding ceiling for EMS organizations that are not affiliated with fire departments. The amendment would include reduced matching requirements for jurisdictions with populations less than 50,000, and modify the caps on assistance to jurisdictions based on population. The amendment would authorize $900.0 million for fiscal year 2005; $950.0 million for fiscal year 2006; and $1.0 billion for each of fiscal years 2007 through 2009.

The conferees are concerned about the number of firefighters suffering fatal heart attacks each year while on duty. The conferees direct the director to work to reduce the number of on-duty firefighter fatalities by promoting life-saving policies, training, and equipment, including Automated External Defibrillator devices. As a part of this effort, the director is encouraged to examine the feasibility of prioritizing life-saving training and equipment in grant evaluation criteria.

CONFERENCE REPORT ON H.R. 1047, MISCELLANEOUS TRADE AND TECHNICAL CORRECTIONS ACT OF 2004

Mr. THOMAS submitted the following conference report and statement on the bill (H.R. 1047) to amend the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States to modify temporarily certain rates of duty, to make other technical amendments to the trade laws, and for other purposes:

CONFERENCE REPORT (H. REPT. 108–771)

[To accompany H.R. 1047]

The committee on conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendment of the Senate to the bill (H.R. 1047), to amend the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States to modify temporarily certain rates of duty, to make other technical amendments to the trade laws, and for other purposes, having met, after full and free conference, have agreed to recommend and do recommend to their respective Houses as follows:

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate and agree to the same with an amendment as follows:

In lieu of the matter proposed to be inserted by the Senate amendment, insert the following:

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE; TABLE OF CONTENTS.

This Act may be cited as the "Miscellaneous Trade and Technical Corrections Act of 2004".

Sec. 1. Short title; table of contents.

Sec. 1121. Reactive orange 132.
Sec. 1122. Mixtures of acid red 337, acid red 266, and acid red 361.
Sec. 1123. Vat red 13.
Sec. 1124. 5-methylpyridine-2,3-dicarboxylic acid.
Sec. 1125. 5-methylpyridine-2,3-dicarboxylic acid diethylester.
Sec. 1126. 5-ethylpyridine dicarboxylic acid.
Sec. 1127. (e)-o(2,5-dimethylphenoxy methyl)-2-methoxy-imino-n-methylphenylacetamide.
Sec. 1128. 2-chloro-n-(4'chlorobiphenyl-2-yl) nicotinamide.
Sec. 1129. Vinclozolin.
Sec. 1130. Dazomet.
Sec. 1131. Pyraclostrobin.
Sec. 1132. 1,3-benzenedicarboxylic acid, 5-sulfo-1,3-dimethyl ester sodium salt.
Sec. 1133. Saccharose.
Sec. 1134. (2-benzothiazolythio) butanedioic acid.
Sec. 1135. 60–70 percent amine salt of 2-benzothiazolythio succinic acid in solvent.
Sec. 1136. 4-methyl-g-oxo-benzenebutanoic acid compounded with 4-ethylmorpholine (2:1).
Sec. 1137. Mixtures of rimsulfuron, nicosulfuron, and application adjuvants.
Sec. 1138. Mixtures of thifensulfuron methyl, tribenuron methyl and application adjuvants.
Sec. 1139. Mixtures of thifensulfuron methyl and application adjuvants.
Sec. 1140. Mixtures of tribenuron methyl and application adjuvants.
Sec. 1141. Mixtures of rimsulfuron, thifensulfuron methyl and application adjuvants.
Sec. 1142. Vat black 25.
Sec. 1143. Cyclohexanepropanoic acid, 2-propenyl ester.
Sec. 1144. Neoheliopan hydro (2-phenylbenzimidazole-5-sulfonic acid).
Sec. 1145. Sodium methylate powder (na methylate powder).
Sec. 1146. Globanone (cyclohexadec-8-en-1-one).
Sec. 1147. Methyl acetophenone-para (melilot).
Sec. 1148. Majantol (2,2-dimethyl-3-(3-methylphenyl)propanol).
Sec. 1149. Neoheliopan MA (menthyl anthranilate).
Sec. 1150. Allyl isosulfocyanate.
Sec. 1151. Frescolat.
Sec. 1152. Thymol (alpha-cymophenol).
Sec. 1153. Benzyl carbazate.

Subtitle A—Temporary Duty Suspensions and Reductions

Chapter 1—New Duty Suspensions and Reductions

SEC. 1111. BITOLYLENE DIISOCYANATE (TODI).

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.01	Bitolylene diisocyanate (TODI) (CAS No. 91–97–4) (provided for in subheading 2929.10.20)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1112. 2-METHYLIMIDAZOLE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.02	2-Methylimidazole (CAS No. 693–98–1) (provided for in subheading 2933.29.90)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1113. HYDROXYLAMINE FREE BASE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.03	Hydroxylamine (CAS No. 7803–49–8) (provided for in subheading 2825.10.00)	0.6%	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1114. PRENOL.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.04	3-Methyl-2-buten-1-ol (CAS No. 556–82–1) (provided for in subheading 2905.29.90)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1115. 1-METHYLIMADAZOLE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.05	1-Methylimidazole (CAS No. 616–47–7) (provided for in subheading 2933.29.90)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1116. FORMAMIDE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.06	Formamide (CAS No. 75–12–7) (provided for in subheading 2924.19.10)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1117. MICHLER'S ETHYL KETONE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.07	4,4′-Bis-(diethylamino)-benzophenone (CAS No. 90–93–7) (provided for in subheading 2922.39.45)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1118. VINYL IMIDAZOLE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.08	1-Ethenyl-1H-imidazole (CAS No. 1072–63–5) (provided for in subheading 2933.29.90)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1119. DISPERSE BLUE 27.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.09	Disperse blue 27 (9,10-anthracenedione, 1,8-dihydroxy-4-[[4-(2-hydroxyethyl)phenyl]amino]-5-nitro-) (CAS No. 15791–78–3) (provided for in subheading 3204.11.50)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1120. ACID BLACK 244.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.10	Acid black 244 (chromate(2-), [3-(hydroxy-.kappa.O)-4-[[2-(hydroxy-.kappa.O)-1-naphthalenyl]azo-.kappa.N2]-1-naphthalenesulfonato(3-)] [1-[[2-(hydroxy-.kappa.O)-5-[4-methoxyphenyl)-azo]phenyl]azo-.kappa.N2]-2-naphthalenesulfonato(2-)-.kappa.O]-, disodium) (CAS No. 30785–74–1) (provided for in subheading 3204.12.45)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1121. REACTIVE ORANGE 132.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.11	Reactive orange 132 (benzenesulfonic acid, 2,2′-[(1-methyl-1,2-ethanediyl)-bis[imino(6-fluoro-1,3,5-triazine-4,2-diyl)imino[2-[(aminocarbonyl)- amino]-4,1-phenylene]azo]]bis[5-[(4-sulfophenyl)azo]-, sodium salt) (CAS No. 149850-31-7) (provided for in subheading 3204.16.30)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1122. MIXTURES OF ACID RED 337, ACID RED 266, AND ACID RED 361.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.12	Mixtures of acid red 337 (2-naphthalenesulfonic acid, 6-amino-5-[[2-[(cyclohexylmethylamino)-sulfonyl]phenyl]azo]-4-hydroxy-, monosodium salt) (CAS No. 32846-21-2), acid red 266 (2-naphthalenesulfonic acid, 6-amino-5-[[4-chloro-2-(trifluoromethyl)phenyl]azo]-4-hydroxy-, monosodium salt) (CAS No. 57741-47-6), and acid red 361 (2-naphthalenesulfonic acid, 6-amino-4-hydroxy-5-[[2-(trifluoromethyl)phenyl]azo]-, monosodium salt) (CAS No. 67786-14-5) (provided for in subheading 3204.12.45)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1123. VAT RED 13.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.13	Vat red 13 ([3,3′-bianthra[1,9-cd]pyrazole]-6,6′(1H,1′H)-dione, 1,1′-diethyl-) (CAS No. 4203-77-4) (provided for in subheading 3204.15.80)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1124. 5-METHYLPYRIDINE-2,3-DICARBOXYLIC ACID.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.14	5-Methylpyridine-2,3-dicarboxylic acid (CAS No. 53636-65-0) (provided for in subheading 2933.39.61)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1125. 5-METHYLPYRIDINE-2,3-DICARBOXYLIC ACID DIETHYLESTER.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.15	5-Methylpyridine-2,3-dicarboxylic acid, diethyl ester (CAS No. 112110-16-4) (provided for in subheading 2933.39.61)	1.8%	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1126. 5-ETHYLPYRIDINE DICARBOXYLIC ACID.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.16	5-Ethylpyridine-2,3-dicarboxylic acid (CAS No. 102268-15-5) (provided for in subheading 2933.39.61)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1127. (E)-O(2,5-DIMETHYLPHENOXY METHYL)-2-METHOXY-IMINO-N-METHYLPHENYLACETAMIDE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.17	(E)-O-(2,5-Dimethylphenoxy- methyl)-2-methoxyimino-N-methylphenylacet-amide (dimoxystrobin) (CAS No. 145451-07-6) (provided for in subheading 2928.00.25)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1128. 2-CHLORO-N-(4′CHLOROBIPHENYL-2-YL) NICOTINAMIDE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.18	2-Chloro-N-(4′-chloro-[1,1′-biphenyl]-2-yl)- nicotinamide (nicobifen) (CAS No. 188425-85-6) (provided for in subheading 2933.39.21)	4.4%	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1129. VINCLOZOLIN.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.19	3-(3,5-Dichlorophenyl)-5-ethenyl-5-methyl-2,4-oxazolidinedione (vinclozolin) (CAS No. 50471-44-8) (provided for in subheading 2934.99.12)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1130. DAZOMET.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.20	Tetrahydro-3,5-dimethyl-2H-1,3,5-thiadiazine-2-thione (CAS No. 533-74-4) (dazomet) (provided for in subheading 2934.99.90)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1131. PYRACLOSTROBIN.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.21	Methyl N-(2-[[1-(4-chlorophenyl)-1H-pyrazol-3-yl]oxymethyl]-phenyl) N-methoxycarbanose (pyra- clostrobin) (CAS No. 175013-18-0) (provided for in subheading 2933.19.23)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1132. 1,3-BENZENEDICARBOXYLIC ACID, 5-SULFO-1,3-DIMETHYL ESTER SODIUM SALT.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.22	1,3-Benzenedicarboxylic acid, 5-sulfo-1,3-dimethyl ester, sodium salt (CAS No. 3965-55-7) (provided for in subheading 2917.39.30)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1133. SACCHAROSE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.23	Saccharose to be used other than in food for human consumption and not for nutritional purposes (provided for in subheading 1701.99.50)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1134. (2-BENZOTHIAZOLYTHIO) BUTANEDIOIC ACID.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:heading:

"	9902.01.25	(Benzothiazol-2-ylthio)succinic acid (CAS No. 95154-01-1) (provided for in subheading 2934.20.40)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1135. 60-70 PERCENT AMINE SALT OF 2-BENZO-THIAZOLYTHIO SUCCINIC ACID IN SOLVENT.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.26	(Benzothiazol-2-ylthio)succinic acid (60-70 percent) in solvent (provided for in subheading 3824.90.28)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1136. 4-METHYL-G-OXO-BENZENEBUTANOIC ACID COMPOUNDED WITH 4-ETHYLMORPHOLINE (2:1).

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.27	4-Methyl-g-oxo-benzenebutanoic acid compounded with 4-ethylmorpholine (2:1) (CAS No. 171054-89-0) (provided for in subheading 2934.99.39)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1137. MIXTURES OF RIMSULFURON, NICOSULFURON, AND APPLICATION ADJUVANTS.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.28	Mixtures of rimsulfuron (N-[[(4,6-dimethoxypyrimidin-2-yl)- amino]carbonyl]-3-(ethylsulfonyl)-2-pyridinesulfonamide (CAS No. 122931-48-0), nicosulfuron (2-((((4,6-dimethoxypyrimidin-2-yl)- amino)carbonyl)-amino)sulfonyl)-N,N-dimethyl-3-pyridinecarboxamide (CAS No. 111991-09-4), and application adjuvants (provided for in subheading 3808.30.15)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1138. MIXTURES OF THIFENSULFURON METHYL, TRIBENURON METHYL AND APPLICATION ADJUVANTS.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.29	Mixtures of thifensulfuron methyl (methyl 3-[[[[(4-methoxy-6-methyl-1,3,5-triazin-2-yl)- amino]carbonyl]- amino]sulfonyl]- 2-thiophenecar- boxylate (CAS No. 79277-27-3), tribenuron methyl (methyl 2-[[[[(4-methoxy-6-methyl-1,3,5-triazin-2-yl)- methylamino]-carbonyl]- amino]sulfonyl]- benzoate) (CAS No. 101200-48-0) and application adjuvants (provided for in subheading 3808.30.15)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1139. MIXTURES OF THIFENSULFURON METHYL AND APPLICATION ADJUVANTS.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.30	Mixtures of thifensulfuron methyl (methyl 3-[[[[(4-methoxy-6-methyl-1,3,5-triazin-2-yl)- amino]carbonyl]- amino]sulfonyl]-2-thiophenecarboxylate) (CAS No. 79277-27-3) and application adjuvants (provided for in subheading 3808.30.15)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1140. MIXTURES OF TRIBENURON METHYL AND APPLICATION ADJUVANTS.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.31	Mixtures of tribenuron methyl (methyl 2-[[[[(4-methoxy-6-methyl-1,3,5-triazin-2-yl)methylamino]- carbonyl]amino]- sulfonyl]-benzoate) (CAS No. 101200-48-0) and application adjuvants (provided for in subheading 3808.30.15)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1141. MIXTURES OF RIMSULFURON, THIFENSULFURON METHYL AND APPLICATION ADJUVANTS.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.32	Mixtures of rimsulfuron (N-[(4,6-dimethoxypyrimidin-2-yl)- aminocarbonyl]-3-(ethylsulfonyl)-2-pyridinesulfonamide) (CAS No. 122931-48-0); thifensulfuron methyl (methyl 3-[[[[(4-methoxy-6-methyl-1,3,5- triazin-2-yl)- amino]carbonyl]-amino]sulfonyl]-2-thiophenecarboxylate) (CAS No. 79277-27-3); and application adjuvants (provided for in subheading 3808.30.15)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1142. VAT BLACK 25.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.33	Anthra[2,1,9-mna]naphth[2,3-h]acridine-5,10,15(16H)-trione, 3-[(9,10-dihydro-9,10-dioxo-1-anthracenyl)- amino]- (Vat black 25) (CAS No. 4395-53-3) (provided for in subheading 3204.15.80)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1143. CYCLOHEXANEPROPANOIC ACID, 2-PROPENYL ESTER.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.34	Cyclohexanepro-panoic acid, 2-propenyl ester (CAS No. 2705-87-5) (provided for in subheading 2916.20.50)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1144. NEOHELIOPAN HYDRO (2-PHENYLBENZIMIDAZOLE-5-SULFONIC ACID).

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.35	2-Phenylbenzimidazole-5-sulfonic acid) (CAS No. 27503-81-7) (provided for in subheading 2933.99.79)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1145. SODIUM METHYLATE POWDER (NA METHYLATE POWDER).

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.36	Methanol, sodium salt (CAS No. 124-41-4) (provided for in subheading 2905.19.00)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1146. GLOBANONE (CYCLOHEXADEC-8-EN-1-ONE).

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.37	Cyclohexadec-8-en-1-one (CAS No. 3100-36-5) (provided for in subheading 2914.29.50)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1147. METHYL ACETOPHENONE-PARA (MELILOT).

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.38	p-Methyl acetophenone (CAS No. 122-00-9) (provided for in subheading 2914.39.90)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1148. MAJANTOL (2,2-DIMETHYL-3-(3-METHYLPHENYL)PROPANOL).

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.39	2,2-Dimethyl-3-(3-methylphenyl)-propanol (CAS No. 103694-68-4) (provided for in subheading 2906.29.20)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1149. NEOHELIOPAN MA (MENTHYL ANTHRANILATE).

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.40	Menthyl anthranilate (CAS No. 134-09-8) (provided for in subheading 2922.49.37)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1150. ALLYL ISOSULFOCYANATE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.41	Allyl isothiocyanate (CAS No. 57-06-7) (provided for in subheading 2930.90.90)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1151. FRESCOLAT.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.42	5-Methyl-2-(1-methylethyl)-cyclohexyl-2-hydroxypropanoate (lactic acid, menthyl ester) (Frescolat) (CAS No. 59259-38-0) (provided for in subheading 2918.11.50)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1152. THYMOL (ALPHA-CYMOPHENOL).

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.43	Thymol (CAS No. 89-83-8) (provided for in subheading 2907.19.40)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1153. BENZYL CARBAZATE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in the numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.44	Benzyl carbazate (Hydrazine- carboxylic acid, phenylmethyl ester (CAS No. 5331-43-1) (provided for in subheading 2928.00.25)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1154. ESFENVALERATE TECHNICAL.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in the numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.45	(S)-Cyano(3-phenoxyphenyl)-methyl (S)-4-chloro-α-(1-methylethyl)- benzeneacetate (Esfenvalerate) (CAS No. 66230-04-4) (provided for in subheading 2926.90.30)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1155. AVAUNT AND STEWARD.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.46	Mixtures of indoxacarb ((S)-methyl 7-chloro-2,5-dihydro-2-[[(methoxycarbonyl)[4-(trifluoromethoxy)-phenyl]amino]car-bonyl]indeno- [1,2-e][1,3,4]- oxadiazine-4a-(3H)carboxylate) (CAS No. 173584-44-6) and application adjuvants (provided for in subheading 3808.10.25)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1156. HELIUM.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.47	Helium (provided for in subheading 2804.29.00)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1157. ETHYL PYRUVATE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.48	Ethyl pyruvate (CAS No. 617-35-6) (provided for in subheading 2918.30.90)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1158. DELTAMETHRIN.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“		(S)-α-Cyano-3-phenoxybenzyl (1R,3R)-3-(2,2-dibromovinyl)-2,2-dimethylcyclopropanecarboxylate (Deltamethrin) (CAS No. 52918-63-5) in bulk or unmixed in forms or packings for retail sale (provided for in subheading 2926.90.30 or 3808.10.25)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1159. ASULAM SODIUM SALT.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.01.50	Mixtures of methyl sulfanilylcarbamate, sodium salt (Asulam sodium salt) (CAS No. 2302-17-2) and application adjuvants (provided for in subheading 3808.30.15)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1160. TRALOMETHRIN.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.01.52	Tralomethrin (1R,3S)3[(1'RS)- (1',2',2',2'-tetrabromoethyl)]-2,2-dimethylcyclopropanecarboxylic acid, (S)-alpha-cyano-3-phenoxybenzyl ester (CAS No. 66841-25-6) in bulk or in forms or packages for retail sale (provided for in subheading 2926.90.30 or 3808.10.25)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1161. N-PHENYL-N'-(1,2,3-THIADIAZOL-5-YL)-UREA.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.01.53	N-Phenyl-N'-1,2,3-thiadiazol-5-ylurea (thidiazuron) in bulk or in forms or packages for retail sale (CAS No. 51707-55-2) (provided for in subheading 2934.99.15 or 3808.30.15)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1162. BENZENEPROPANOIC ACID, ALPHA-2- DICHLORO-5-[4 (DIFLUOROMETHYL)- 4,5-DIHYDRO-3-METHYL-5-OXO-1H-1,2,4-TRIAZOL-1-YL]-4-FLUORO-ETHYL ESTER.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.01.54	alpha-2- Dichloro-5-[4- (difluoromethyl)- 4,5-dihydro-3-methyl-5-oxo-1H-1,2,4-triazol-1-yl]-4-fluorobenzenepropanoic acid, ethyl ester (carfentazone-ethyl) (CAS No. 128639-02-1) (provided for in subheading 2933.99.22)	4.9%	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1163. (Z)-(1RS, 3RS)-3-(2-CHLORO-3,3,3 TRIFLOURO-1-PROPENYL)-2,2-DIMETHYL-CYCLOPROPANE CARBOXYLIC ACID.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.01.55	(Z)-(1RS,3RS)-3-(2-Chloro-3,3,3-trifluro-1-pro- penyl)-2,2-dimethylcyclopropanecarboxylic acid (CAS No. 68127-59-3) (provided for in subheading 2916.20.50)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1164. 2-CHLOROBENZYL CHLORIDE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.01.56	2-Chlorobenzyl chloride (CAS No. 611-19-8) (provided for in subheading 2903.69.70)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1165. (S)-ALPHA-HYDROXY-3-PHENOXYBENZENEACETONITRILE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.01.57	(S)-alpha-Hydroxy-3-phenoxybenzeneacetonitrile (CAS No. 61826-76-4) (provided for in subheading 2926.90.43)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1166. 4-PENTENOIC ACID, 3,3-DIMETHYL-, METHYL ESTER.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.01.58	4-Pentenoic acid, 3,3-dimethyl-, methyl ester (CAS No. 63721-05-1) (provided for in subheading 2916.19.50)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1167. TERRAZOLE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.01.59	Etridiazole [5-ethoxy-3- (trichloromethyl)-1,2,4-thiadiazole] (CAS No. 2593-15-9) (provided for in subheading 2934.99.90) and any mixtures (preparations) containing Etridiazole as the active ingredient (provided for in subheading 3808.20.50)	Free	Free	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1168. 2-MERCAPTOETHANOL.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.01.60	2-Mercaptoethanol (CAS No. 60-24-2) (provided for in subheading 2930.90.90)	Free	Free	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1169. BIFENAZATE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.01.61	Bifenazate (Hydrazinecarb- oxylic acid, 2-(4-methoxy-[1,1- biphenyl]-3-yl)-1-methylethyl ester (CAS No. 149877-41-8) (provided for in subheading 2928.00.25)	Free	Free	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1170. A CERTAIN POLYMER.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.01.62	Fluoropolymers containing 95 percent or more by weight of the monomer units tetrafluoroethylene, hexafluoropropylene, and vinylidene fluoride (provided for in subheading 3901.69.50)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1171. PARA ETHYLPHENOL.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.01.63	p-Ethylphenol (CAS No. 123-07-9) (provided for in subheading 2907.19.20)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1172. EZETIMIBE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.01.64	2-Azetidinone, 1-(4-fluorophenyl)-3-[(3S)-3-(4-fluorophenyl)-3-hydroxypropyl]-4-(4-hydroxyphenyl)-, (3R,4S)-(Ezetimibe) (CAS No. 163222-33-1) (provided for in subheading 2933.79.08)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1173. P-CRESIDINESULFONIC ACID.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.01.65	p-Cresidinesulfonic acid (4-amino-5-methoxy-2-methylbenzene- sulfonic acid) (CAS No. 6471-78-9) (provided for in subheading 2922.29.80)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1174. 2,4 DISULFOBENZALDEHYDE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.01.66	2,4- Disulfobenzaldehyde (CAS No. 88-39-1) (provided for in subheading 2913.00.40)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1175. M-HYDROXYBENZALDEHYDE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.01.67	m-Hydroxybenzaldehyde (CAS No. 100-83-4) (provided for in subheading 2912.49.25)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1176. N-ETHYL-N-(3-SULFOBENZYL)ANILINE, BENZENESULFONIC ACID, 3[(ETHYLPHENYLAMINO)METHYL].

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.01.68	N-Ethyl-N-(3-sulfobenzyl)aniline (benzenesulfonic acid, 3-[(ethyl- phenylamino)-methyl]-) (CAS No. 101-11-1) (provided for in subheading 2921.12.90)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1177. ACRYLIC FIBER TOW.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.01.69	Acrylic fiber tow (polyacrylonitrile tow) consisting of 6 sub-bundles crimped together, each containing 45,000 filaments (plus or minus 0.06) and 2-8 percent water, such acrylic fiber containing by weight a minimum of 92 percent acrylonitrile, not more than 0.1 percent zinc and average filament denier of either 1.48 decitex (plus or minus 0.08) or 1.32 decitex (plus or minus 0.089) (provided for in subheading 5501.30.00)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1178. YTTRIUM OXIDES.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.02.21	Yttrium oxides having a purity of at least 99.9 percent (CAS No. 1314-36-9) (provided for in subheading 2846.90.80)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1179. HEXANEDIOIC ACID, POLYMER WITH 1,3-BENZENEDIMETHANAMINE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.01.71	Hexanedioic acid, polymer with 1,3-benzene-dimethanamine (CAS No. 25718-70-1) (provided for in subheading 3908.10.00)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1180. N1-[(6-CHLORO-3-PYRIDYL)METHYL]-N2-CYANO-N1-METHYLACETAMIDINE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.01.72	(E)-N1-[(6-Chloro-3-pyridyl)methyl]-N2-cyano-N1-methylacetamidine (Acetamiprid) (CAS No. 135410-20-7) whether or not mixed with application adjuvants (provided for in subheading 2933.39.27 or 3808.10.25)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1181. ALUMINUM TRIS (O-ETHYL PHOSPHONATE).

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.01.73	Aluminum tris- (O-ethylphosphonate) (CAS No. 39148-24-8) (provided for in subheading 2920.90.50)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1182. MIXTURE OF DISPERSE BLUE 77 AND DISPERSE BLUE 56.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.74	Mixtures of disperse blue 77 (9,10-anthracenedione, 1,8-dihydroxy-4-nitro-5-(phenylamino)-) (CAS No. 20241-76-3) and disperse blue 56 (9,10-anthracenedione, 1,5-diaminochloro-4,8-dihydroxy-) (CAS No. 12217-79-7) (provided for in subheading 3204.11.35)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1183. ACID BLACK 194.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.75	Acid black 194 (chromate(3-), bis[3-(hydroxy-.kappa.O)-4-[[2-(hydroxy.kappa.O)-1- naphthalenyl]azo- .kappa. N1]-7-nitro-1- naphthalenesulfonato(3-)]-, trisodium) (CAS No. 57693-14-8) (provided for in subheading 3204.12.20)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1184. MIXTURE OF 9,10-ANTHRACENEDIONE, 1,5-DIHYDROXY-4-NITRO-8-(PHENYLAMINO)-AND DISPERSE BLUE 77.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.76	Mixtures of 9,10-anthracenedione, 1,5-dihydroxy-4-nitro-8-(phenylamino)- (CAS No. 3065-87-0) and 9,10-anthracenedione, 1,8-dihydroxy-4-nitro-5-(phenylamino)-(Disperse blue 77) (CAS No. 20241-76-3) (provided for in subheading 3204.11.35)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1185. COPPER PHTHALOCYANINE SUBSTITUTED WITH 15 OR 16 GROUPS WHICH COMPRISE 8-15 THIOARYL AND 1-8 ARYLAMINO GROUPS.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.77	A copper phthalocyanine substituted with 15 or 16 groups which comprise 8-15 thioaryl and 1-8 arylamino groups (provided for in subheading 3204.19.40)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1186. BAGS FOR CERTAIN TOYS.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.78	Bags (provided for in subheading 4202.92.45) for transporting, storing, or protecting goods of headings 9502-9504, inclusive, imported and sold with such articles therein	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1187. CERTAIN CHILDREN'S PRODUCTS.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.79	Image projectors (provided for in subheading 9008.30.00) capable of projecting images from circular mounted sets of stereoscopic photographic transparencies, such mounts measuring approximately 8.99 cm in diameter	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1188. CERTAIN OPTICAL INSTRUMENTS USED IN CHILDREN'S PRODUCTS.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.80	Optical instruments (provided for in subheading 9013.80.90) designed for the viewing of circular mounted sets of stereoscopic photographic transparencies, such mounts measuring approximately 8.99 cm in diameter	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1189. CASES FOR CERTAIN CHILDREN'S PRODUCTS.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.81	Cases or containers (provided for in subheading 4202.92.90) specially shaped or fitted for circular mounts for sets of stereoscopic photographic transparencies, such mounts measuring approximately 8.99 cm in diameter	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1190. 2,4-DICHLOROANILINE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.82	2,4-Dichloroaniline (CAS No. 554-00-7) (provided for in subheading 2921.42.18)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1191. ETHOPROP.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.83	O-Ethyl S,S-dipropyl- phosphorodithioate (Ethoprop) (CAS No. 13194-48-4) (provided for in subheading 2930.90.44)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1192. FORAMSULFURON.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.84	Mixtures of benzamide, 2-[[[[(4,6-dimethoxy-2-pyrimidinyl)- amino]carbonyl]-amino]sulfonyl]-4-(formylamino)- N,N-methyl- (foramsulfuron) (CAS No. 173159-57-4) and application adjuvants (provided for in subheading 3808.30.15)	3%	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1193. CERTAIN EPOXY MOLDING COMPOUNDS.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.85	Epoxy molding compounds, of a kind used for encapsulating integrated circuits (provided for in subheading 3907.30.00)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1194. DIMETHYLDICYANE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.86	Dimethyldicyane (2,2'-dimethyl-4,4'-methylenebis- (cyclohexylamine)) (CAS No. 6864–37–5) (provided for in subheading 2921.30.30)	Free	Free	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1195. TRIACETONE DIAMINE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.87	2,2,6,6-Tetra-methyl-4-pip-eridinamine (Triacetone diamine) (CAS No. 36768–62–4) (provided for in subheading 2933.39.61)	Free	Free	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1196. TRIETHYLENE GLYCOL BIS[3-(3-TERT-BUTYL-4-HYDROXY-5-METHYLPHENYL) PROPIONATE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new subheading:

"	9902.01.88	Triethylene glycol bis[3-(3-tert-butyl-4-hydroxy-5-methylphenyl)propionate] (CAS No. 36443–68–2) (provided for in subheading 2918.90.43)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC CERTAIN POWER WEAVING TEXTILE MACHINERY.

S pter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	1.89	Power weaving machines (looms), shuttle type, for weaving fabrics of a width exceeding 30 cm but not exceeding 4.9 m, entered without off-loom or large loom take-ups, drop wires, heddles, reeds, harness frames, or beams (provided for in subheading 8446.21.50)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 11 RTAIN FILAMENT YARNS.

Subc r II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	990. 90	Synthetic filament yarn (other than sewing thread) not put up for retail sale, single, of decitex sizes of 23 to 850, with between 4 and 68 filaments, with a twist of 100 to 300 turns/m, of nylon or other polyamides, containing 10 percent or more by weight of nylon 12 (provided for in subheading 5402.51.00)	Free	Free	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1199. CERTAIN OTHER FILAMENT YARNS.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.91	Synthetic filament yarn (other than sewing thread) not put up for retail sale, single, of decitex sizes of 23 to 850, with between 4 and 68 filaments, untwisted, of nylon or other polyamides, containing 10 percent or more by weight of nylon 12 (provided for in subheading 5402.41.90)	Free	Free	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1200. CERTAIN INK-JET TEXTILE PRINTING MACHINERY.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.92	Ink-jet textile printing machinery (provided for in subheading 8443.51.10)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1201. CERTAIN OTHER TEXTILE PRINTING MACHINERY.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.93	Textile printing machinery (provided for in subheading 8443.59.10)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1203. D-MANNOSE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following heading:

"	9902.01.94	D-Mannose (CAS No. 3458–28–4) (provided for in subheading 2940.00.60)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1204. BENZAMIDE, N-METHYL-2-[[3-[(1E)-2-(2-PYRIDINYL)-ETHENYL]-1H-INDAZOL-6-YL]THIO]-.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.95	Benzamide, N-methyl-2-[[3-[(1E)-2-(2-pyridinyl)-ethenyl]-1H-indazol-6-yl]thio]-(CAS No. 319460–85–0) (provided for in subheading 2933.99.79)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1205. 1(2H)-QUINOLINECARBOXYLIC ACID, 4-[[[3,5-BIS-(TRIFLUOROMETHYL)PHENYL] METHYL] (METHOXYCARBONYL) AMINO]-2-ETHYL- 3,4-DIHYDRO-6-(TRIFLUOROMETHYL)-, ETHYL ESTER, (2R,4S)-(9CI).

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.96	1(2H)-Quinolinecarboxylic acid, 4-[[[3,5-bis-(trifluoromethyl)- phenyl]methyl]-(methoxycarbonyl)amino]-2-ethyl-3,4-dihydro-6-(trifluoromethyl)- ethyl ester, (2R,4S)- (CAS No. 262352–17–0) (provided for in subheading 2933.49.26)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1206. DISULFIDE,BIS(3,5-DICHLOROPHENYL)(9C1).

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.97	Bis(3,5-dichlorophenyl) disulfide (CAS No. 137897–99–5) (provided for in subheading 2930.90.29)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1207. PYRIDINE, 4-[[4-(1-METHYLETHYL)-2-[(PHENYLMETHOXY)METHYL]-1H- MIDAZOL-1-YL] METHYL]- ETHANEDIOATE (1:2).

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.98	Pyridine, 4-[[4-(1-methylethyl)-2-[(phenylmethoxy)- methyl]-1H-imidazol-1-yl]-methyl]-ethanedioate (1:2) (CAS No. 280129–82–0) (provided for in subheading 2933.39.61)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1208. PACLOBUTRAZOLE TECHNICAL.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.01.99	(RS,3RS)-1-(4-Chlorophenyl)-4,4-dimethyl-2-(1H-1,2,4-triazol-1-yl)pentan-3-ol (paclobutrazol) (CAS No. 76738-62-0) (provided for in subheading 2933.99.22)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1209. PACLOBUTRAZOLE 2SC.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.02.01	Mixtures of (RS,3RS)-1-(4-chlorophenyl)-4,4-dimethyl-2-(1H-1,2,4-triazol-1-yl)pentan-3-ol (paclobutrazol) (CAS No. 76738-62-0) and application adjuvants (provided for in subheading 3808.30.15)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1210. METHIDATHION TECHNICAL.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.02.02	S-[(5-Methoxy-2-oxo-1,3,4-thiadiazol-3(2H)-yl)methyl] O,O-dimethyl phosphorodithioate (CAS No. 950-37-8) (provided for in subheading 2934.99.90)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1211. VANGUARD 75 WDG.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.02.03	Mixtures of 2-pyrimidinamine, 4-cyclopropyl-6-methyl-N-phenyl- (cyprodinil) (CAS No. 121552-61-2) and application adjuvants (provided for in subheading 3808.20.15)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1212. WAKIL XL.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.02.04	Mixtures of (R)-2-[(2,6-dimethylphenyl-methoxyacetyl-amino]propionic acid, methyl ester (mefenoxam) (CAS No. 70630-17-0); 4-(2,2-difluoro-1,3-benzodioxol-4-yl)-1H-pyrrole-3-carbonitrile (fludioxonil) (CAS No. 131341-86-1), and 2-cyano-2-methoxyimino-N-(ethylcarbam-oyl)acetamide (cymoxanil) (CAS No. 57966-95-7) with application adjuvants (the foregoing mixtures provided for in subheading 3808.20.15)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1213. MUCOCHLORIC ACID.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.02.05	2-Butenoic acid, 2,3-dichloro-4-oxo- (mucochloric acid) (CAS No. 87-56-9) (provided for in subheading 2918.30.90)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1214. AZOXYSTROBIN TECHNICAL.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.02.06	Benzeneacetic acid, (E)-2-[[6-(2-cyanophenoxy)-4-pyrimidinyl]oxy]-alpha-(methoxymethyl- ene)-, methyl ester (pyroxystrobin) (CAS No. 131860-33-8) (provided for in subheading 2933.59.15)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1215. FLUMETRALIN TECHNICAL.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.02.07	2-Chloro-N-[2,6-dinitro-4-(tri-fluoromethyl)-phenyl]-N-ethyl-6-fluorobenzene-methanamine (flumetralin) (CAS No. 62924-70-3) (provided for in subheading 2921.49.45)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1216. CYPRODINIL TECHNICAL.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.02.08	2-Pyrimidinamine, 4-cyclopropyl-6-methyl-N-phenyl- (cyprodinil) (CAS No. 121552-61-2) (provided for in subheading 2933.59.15)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1217. MIXTURES OF LAMBDA-CYHALOTHRIN.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.02.09	Mixtures of cyhalothrin (cyclopropanecarboxylic acid, 3-(2-chloro-3,3,3-trifluoro-1-propenyl)-2,2-dimethyl-, cyano(3-phenoxyphenyl)-methyl ester, [1 alpha. (S*),3 alpha. (Z)]-(+-,)-) (CAS No. 91465-08-6) and application adjuvants (provided for in subheading 3808.10.25)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1218. PRIMISULFURON METHYL.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.02.10	Benzoic acid, 2-[[[[[4,6-bis- (difluoromethoxy)-2-pyrimidinyl]- amino]carbonyl]-amino]sulfonyl]-, methyl ester (primisulfuron methyl) (CAS No. 86209-51-0) (provided for in subheading 2935.00.75)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1219. 1,2-CYCLOHEXANEDIONE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.02.11	1,2-Cyclohexanedione (CAS No. 765-87-7) (provided for in subheading 2914.29.50)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006 ".

SEC. 1220. DIFENOCONAZOLE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.02.12	1H-1,2,4-Triazole, 1-[[2-[2-chloro-4-(4-chlorophenoxy)-phenyl]-4-methyl-1,3-dioxolan-2-yl]methyl]- (difenoconazole) (CAS No. 119446-68-3) (provided for in subheading 2934.99.12)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006 ".

SEC. 1221. CERTAIN REFRACTING AND REFLECTING TELESCOPES.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.02.13	Refracting telescopes with 50 mm or smaller lenses and reflecting telescopes with 76 mm or smaller lenses (provided for in subheading 9005.80.40)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006 ".

SEC. 1222. PHENYLISOCYANATE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.02.14	Phenylisocyanate (CAS No. 103-71-9) (provided for in subheading 2929.10.80)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006 ".

SEC. 1223. BAYOWET FT-248.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.02.15	Tetraethylammonium perfluorooctane- sulfonate (CAS No. 56773-42-3) (provided for in subheading 2923.90.00)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006 ".

SEC. 1224. P-PHENYLPHENOL.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.02.16	p-Phenylphenol (CAS No. 92-69-3) (provided for in subheading 2907.19.80)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006 ".

SEC. 1225. CERTAIN RUBBER RIDING BOOTS.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.02.17	Horseback riding boots with soles and uppers of rubber, such boots extending above the ankle and below the knee, specifically designed for horseback riding, and having a spur rest on the heel counter (provided for in subheading 6401.92)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006 ".

SEC. 1226. CHEMICAL RH WATER-BASED.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.02.18	Chemical RH water-based (iron toluene sulfonate) (comprising 75 percent water, 25 percent p-toluenesulfonic acid (CAS No. 6192-52-5) and 5 percent ferric oxide (CAS No. 1309-37-1)) (provided for in subheading 2904.10.10)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006 ".

SEC. 1227. CHEMICAL NR ETHANOL-BASED.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.02.19	Chemical NR ethanol based (iron toluene sulfonate) (comprising 60 percent ethanol (CAS No. 64-17-5), 33 percent p-toluenesulfonic acid (CAS No. 6192-52-5), and 7 percent ferric oxide (CAS No. 1309-37-1)) (provided for in subheading 2912.12.00 or 3824.90.28)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006 ".

SEC. 1228. TANTALUM CAPACITOR INK.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.02.20	Tantalum capacitor ink: graphite ink P7300 of 85 percent butyl acetate, 8 percent graphite, and the remaining balance of non-hazardous resins; and graphite paste P5900 of 92-96 percent water, 1-3 percent graphite (CAS No. 7782-42-5), 0.5-2 percent ammonia (CAS No. 7664-41-7), and less than 1 percent acrylic resin (CAS No. 9003-32-1) (provided for in subheading 3207.30.00)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006 ".

SEC. 1229. CERTAIN SAWING MACHINES.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by striking heading 9902.84.91 and inserting the following:

"	9902.84.91	Sawing machines certified for use in production of radial tires, designed for off-the-highway use, and for use on a rim measuring 63.5 cm or more in diameter (provided for in subheading 4011.20.10, 4011.61.00, 4011.63.00, 4011.69.00, 4011.92.00, 4011.94.40, or 4011.99.45), numerically controlled, or parts thereof (provided for in subheading 8465.91.00 or 8466.92.50)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006 ".

SEC. 1230. CERTAIN SECTOR MOLD PRESS MANUFACTURING EQUIPMENT.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by striking heading 9902.84.89 and inserting the following:

"	9902.84.89	Sector mold press machines to be used in production of radial tires designed for off-the-highway use with a rim measuring 63.5 cm or more in diameter (provided for in subheading 4011.20.10, 4011.61.00, 4011.63.00, 4011.69.00, 4011.92.00, 4011.94.40, or 4011.99.45), numerically controlled, or parts thereof (provided for in subheading 8477.51.00 or 8477.90.85)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006 ".

SEC. 1231. CERTAIN MANUFACTURING EQUIPMENT USED FOR MOLDING.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.84.88	Machinery for molding, or otherwise forming uncured, unvulcanized rubber to be used in production of radial tires designed for off-the-highway use with a rim measuring 63.5 cm or more in diameter (provided for in subheading 4011.20.10, 4011.61.00, 4011.63.00, 4011.69.00, 4011.92.00, 4011.94.40, or 4011.99.45), numerically controlled, or parts thereof (provided for in subheading 8477.51.00 or 8477.90.85)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1232. CERTAIN EXTRUDERS.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by striking heading 9902.84.85 and inserting the following:

"	9902.84.85	Extruders to be used in production of radial tires designed for off-the-highway use with a rim measuring 63.5 cm or more in diameter (provided for in subheading 4011.20.10, 4011.61.00, 4011.63.00, 4011.69.00, 4011.92.00, 4011.94.40, or 4011.99.45), numerically controlled, or parts thereof (provided for in subheading 8477.20.00 or 8477.90.85)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1233. CERTAIN SHEARING MACHINES.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by striking heading 9902.84.81 and inserting the following:

"	9902.84.81	Shearing machines used to cut metallic tissue certified for use in production of radial tires designed for off-the highway use with a rim measuring 63.5 cm or more in diameter (provided for in subheading 4011.20.10, 4011.61.00, 4011.63.00, 4011.69.00, 4011.92.00, 4011.94.40, or 4011.99.45), numerically controlled, or parts thereof (provided for in subheading 8462.31.00 or 8466.94.85)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1234. THERMAL RELEASE PLASTIC FILM.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.02.26	Thermal release plastic film (with a substrate of polyolefin-based PET/conductive acrylic polymer, release liner of polyethylene terephthalate PET/polysiloxane, pressure sensitive adhesive of acrylic ester-based copolymer, and core of acrylonitrile-butadiene-styrene copolymer) (provided for in subheading 3919.10.20)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1235. CERTAIN SILVER PAINTS AND PASTES.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.02.27	Mixtures comprising 42 to 52 percent by weight of silver metal, 7.5 to 15 percent by weight of epoxy resin, and solvent (butyl 2-ethoxyethanol acetate); mixtures comprising 53 percent by weight of silver metal, 7 percent by weight of viton resin, and solvent (isoamyl acetate); and paste adhesive preparations comprising 62 percent by weight of silver metal, 8.4 percent by weight of viton resin, and solvent (composed of 1 part butyl 2-ethoxyethanol acetate and 9 parts isoamyl acetate); (all the foregoing provided for in subheading 7115.90.40)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1236. POLYMER MASKING MATERIAL FOR ALUMINUM CAPACITORS (UPICOAT).

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.02.28	Dispersions (60 percent) of polymide resins in 2,2′-oxydiethanol, dimethyl ether (provided for in subheading 3911.90.35 or 3911.90.90)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1237. OBPA.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.02.29	10, 10′- Oxybisphenoxarsine (CAS No. 58–36–6) (provided for in subheading 2934.99.18)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1238. MACROPOROUS ION-EXCHANGE RESIN.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.02.30	Macroporous ion-exchange resin comprising a copolymer of styrene crosslinked with divinylbenzene, thiol functionalized (CAS No. 113834–91–6) (provided for in subheading 3914.00.60)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1239. COPPER 8-QUINOLINOLATE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.02.31	Copper 8-quinolinolate (oxine-copper) (CAS No. 10380–28–6) (provided for in subheading 2933.49.30)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1240. ION-EXCHANGE RESIN.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.02.32	Ion-exchange resin comprising a copolymer of styrene crosslinked with divinylbenzene, iminodiacetic acid, sodium form (CAS No. 244203–30–3) (provided for in subheading 3914.00.60)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1241. ION-EXCHANGE RESIN CROSSLINKED WITH ETHENYLBENZENE, AMINOPHOSPONIC ACID.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.02.33	Ion-exchange resin comprising a copolymer of styrene crosslinked with ethenylbenzene, aminophosphonic acid, sodium form (CAS No. 125935-42-4) (provided for in subheading 3914.00.60)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1242. ION-EXCHANGE RESIN CROSSLINKED WITH DIVINYLBENZENE, SULPHONIC ACID.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.02.34	Ion-exchange resin comprising a copolymer of styrene crosslinked with divinylbenzene, sulfonic acid, sodium form (CAS No. 63182-08-1) (provided for in subheading 3914.00.60)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1243. 3-[(4 AMINO-3-METHOXYPHENYL) AZO]-BENZENE SULFONIC ACID.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.02.35	3-[(Amino-3-methoxyphenyl)-azo]-benzenesulfonic acid (CAS No. 138-28-3) (provided for in subheading 2927.00.50)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1244. 2-METHYL-5-NITROBENZENESULFONIC ACID.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.02.36	2-Methyl-5-nitrobenzenesulfonic acid (CAS No. 121-03-9) (provided for in subheading 2904.90.20)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1245. 2-AMINO-6-NITRO-PHENOL-4-SULFONIC ACID.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.02.37	2-Amino-6-nitro- phenol-4-sulfonic acid (CAS No. 96-93-5) (provided for in subheading 2922.29.60)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1246. 2-AMINO-5-SULFOBENZOIC ACID.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.02.38	2-Amino-5- sulfobenzoic acid (CAS No. 3577-63-7) (provided for in subheading 2922.49.30)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1247. 2,5 BIS [(1,3 DIOXOBUTYL) AMINO] BENZENE SULFONIC ACID.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.02.39	2,5-Bis[(1,3- dioxobutyl)- amino]benzene- sulfonic acid (CAS No. 70185-87-4) (provided for in subheading 2924.29.71)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1248. P-AMINOAZOBENZENE 4 SULFONIC ACID, MONOSODIUM SALT.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.02.40	4-[(4-Amino- phenyl)azo]- benezenesulfonic acid, monosodium salt (CAS No. 2491-71-6) (provided for in subheading 2927.00.50)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1249. P-AMINOAZOBENZENE 4 SULFONIC ACID.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.02.41	4-[(4-Amino- phenyl)azo]- benzenesulfonic acid (CAS No. 104-23-4) (provided for in subheading 2927.00.50)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1250. 3-[(4 AMINO-3-METHOXYPHENYL) AZO]-BENZENE SULFONIC ACID, MONOSODIUM SALT.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.02.42	3-[(4-Amino-3- methoxyphenyl)- azo]benzenesul- fonic acid, monosodium salt (CAS No. 6300-07-8) (provided for in subheading 2927.00.50)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1251. ET-743 (ECTEINASCIDIN).

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

SEC. 1297. ORTHO-PHTHALALDEHYDE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“9902.02.92	1,2-Benzenedicarboxaldehyde (CAS No. 643-79-8) (provided for in subheading 2912.29.60)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1298. TRANS 1,3-DICHLOROPENTENE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new subheading:

“9902.02.93	Mixed cis and trans isomers of 1,3-dichloro-propene (CAS No. 10061-02-6) (provided for in subheading 2903.29.00)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1299. METHACRYLAMIDE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“9902.02.94	Methacrylamide (CAS No. 79-39-0) (provided for in subheading 2924.19.10)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1300. CATION EXCHANGE RESIN.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.02.95	2-Propenoic acid, polymer with diethenylbenzene (CAS No. 9052-45-3) (provided for in subheading 3914.00.60)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1301. GALLERY.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.02.96	N-[3-(1-Ethyl-1-methylpropyl)-5-isoxazolyl]-2,6-dimethoxybenzamide (isoxaben) (CAS No. 82558-50-7) (provided for in subheading 2934.99.15)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1302. NECKS USED IN CATHODE RAY TUBES.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.02.97	Necks of a kind used in cathode ray tubes (provided for in subheading 7011.20.80)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1303. POLYTETRAMETHYLENE ETHER GLYCOL.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new subheading:

"	9902.02.98	Polytetramethylene ether glycol (tetrahydro-3-methylfuran, polymer with tetrahydrofuran) (CAS No. 38640-26-5) (provided for in subheading 3907.20.00)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1304. LEAF ALCOHOL.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new subheading:

"	9902.02.99	cis-3-Hexen-1-ol (CAS No. 928-96-1) (provided for in subheading 2905.29.90)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1305. COMBED CASHMERE AND CAMEL HAIR YARN.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.03.01	Yarn of combed cashmere or yarn of camel hair (provided for in subheading 5108.20.60)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1306. CERTAIN CARDED CASHMERE YARN.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.03.02	Yarn of carded cashmere of 6 run or finer (equivalent to 19.35 metric yarn system) (provided for in subheading 5108.10.60)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1307. SULFUR BLACK 1.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.03.03	Sulfur black 1 (CAS No. 1326-82-5) (provided for in subheading 3204.19.30)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1308. REDUCED VAT BLUE 43.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.03.04	Reduced vat blue 43 (CAS No. 85737-02-6) (provided for in subheading 3204.15.40)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1309. FLUOROBENZENE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.03.05	Fluorobenzene (CAS No. 462-06-6) (provided for in subheading 2903.69.70)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1310. CERTAIN RAYON FILAMENT YARN.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.03.06	High tenacity multiple (folded) or cabled yarn of viscose rayon (provided for in subheading 5403.10.60)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1311. CERTAIN TIRE CORD FABRIC.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.03.07	Tire cord fabric of high tenacity yarn of viscose rayon (provided for in subheading 5902.90.00)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1312. DIRECT BLACK 184.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.03.08	Direct black 184 (provided for in subheading 3204.14.30)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1313. BLACK 263 STAGE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.03.09	5-[4-(7-Amino-1-hydroxy-3-sulfo-naphthalen-2-ylazo)-2,5-bis(2-hydroxyethoxy)phenylazo]isophthalic acid, lithium salt (provided for in subheading 3204.14.30)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1314. MAGENTA 364.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.03.10	5-[4-(4,5-Dimethyl-2-sulfo-phenylamino)-6-hydroxy-[1,3,5]triazin-2-ylamino]-4-hydroxy-3-(1-sulfonaphthalen-2-ylazo)naph- thalene-2,7-disulfonic acid, sodium salt (provided for in subheading 3204.14.30)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1315. THIAMETHOXAM TECHNICAL.

(a) CALENDAR YEAR 2004.—Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.03.11	Thiamethoxam (3-[(2-chloro-5-thiazolyl)methyl)- tetrahydro-5-methyl-N-nitro-1,3,5-oxadiazin-4-imine) (CAS No. 153719–23–4) (provided for in subheading 2934.10.90)	2.6%	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2004	".

(b) CALENDAR YEAR 2005.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Heading 9902.03.11, as added by subsection (a), is amended—

(A) by striking "2.6%" and inserting "2.54%"; and

(B) by striking "On or before 12/31/2004" and inserting "On or before 12/31/2005".

(2) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by paragraph (1) shall take effect on January 1, 2005.

(c) CALENDAR YEAR 2006.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Heading 9902.03.11, as added by subsection (a) and amended by this section, is further amended—

(A) by striking "2.54%" and inserting "3.2%"; and

(B) by striking "On or before 12/31/2005" and inserting "On or before 12/31/2006".

(2) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by paragraph (1) shall take effect on January 1, 2006.

SEC. 1316. CYAN 485 STAGE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.03.12	2-[(Hydroxyethyl- sulfamoyl)-sulfophthalo- cyaninato] copper (II), mixed isomers (provided for in subheading 3204.14.30)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1317. DIRECT BLUE 307.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.03.14	Direct blue 307 (provided for in subheading 3204.14.30)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1318. DIRECT VIOLET 107.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.03.16	Direct violet 107 (provided for in subheading 3204.14.30)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1319. FAST BLACK 286 STAGE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.03.17	1,3-Benzenedicarboxylic acid, 5-[[4-[(7-amino-1-hydroxy-3-sulfo-2- naphthalenyl)-azo]-6-sulfo-1-naphthalenyl]-azo]-, sodium salt (CAS No. 201932–24–3) (provided for in subheading 3204.14.30) ..	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1320. MIXTURES OF FLUAZINAM.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.03.18	Mixtures of fluazinam (3-chloro-N-(3-chloro-2,6- dinitro-4-(trifluoromethyl)-phenyl-5-(trifluoromethyl)-2-pyridinamine) (CAS No. 79622–59–6) and application adjuvants (provided for in subheading 3808.20.15)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1321. PRODIAMINE TECHNICAL.

(a) CALENDAR YEAR 2004.—Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.03.19	Prodiamine (2,6-dinitro-N1,N1-dipropyl-4-(trifluoromethyl)-1,3-benzene-diamine (CAS No. 29091–21–2) (provided for in subheading 2921.59.80)	0.53%	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2004	".

(b) CALENDAR YEARS 2005 AND 2006.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Heading 9902.03.19, as added by subsection (a), is amended—

(A) by striking "0.53%" and inserting "Free"; and

(B) by striking "On or before 12/31/2004" and inserting "On or before 12/31/2006".

(2) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by paragraph (1) shall take effect on January 1, 2005.

SEC. 1322. CARBON DIOXIDE CARTRIDGES.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.03.20	Carbon dioxide in threaded 12-, 16-, and 25-gram non-refillable cartridges (provided for in subheading 2811.21.00)	Free	Free	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1323. 12-HYDROXYOCTADECANOIC ACID, REACTION PRODUCT WITH N,N-DIMETHYL, 1,3-PROPANEDIAMINE, DIMETHYL SULFATE, QUATERNIZED.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.03.21	12-Hydroxyoctadecanoic acid, reaction product with N,N-dimethyl- 1,3-propanediamine, dimethyl sulfate, quaternized (CAS No. 70879–66–2) (provided for in subheading 3824.90.40)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1324. 40 PERCENT POLYMER ACID SALT/POLYMER AMIDE, 60 PERCENT BUTYL ACETATE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.03.22	2-Oxepanone, polymer with aziridine and tetrahydro-2H-pyran-2-one, dodecanoate ester, 40 percent solution in N-butyl acetate (provided for in subheading 3208.90.00)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1325. 12-HYDROXYOCTADECANOIC ACID, REACTION PRODUCT WITH N,N-DIMETHYL- 1,3-PROPANEDIAMINE, DIMETHYL SULFATE, QUATERNIZED, 60 PERCENT SOLUTION IN TOLUENE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.03.23	12-Hydroxyoctadecanoic acid, reaction product with N,N-dimethyl- 1,3-propanediamine, dimethyl sulfate, quaternized (CAS No. 70879-66-2), 60 percent solution in toluene (provided for in subheading 3824.90.28)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1326. POLYMER ACID SALT/POLYMER AMIDE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.03.24	2-Oxepanone, polymer with aziridine and tetrahydro-2H-pyran-2-one, dodecanoate ester (provided for in subheading 3824.90.91)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1327. 50 PERCENT AMINE NEUTRALIZED PHOSPHATED POLYESTER POLYMER, 50 PERCENT SOLVESSO 100.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.03.25	50 percent amine neutralized phosphated polyester polymer, 50 percent solvesso 100 (CAS Nos. P-99-1218, 64742-95-6, 95-63-6, 108-67-8, 98-82-8, and 1330-20-7) (provided for in subheading 3907.99.00)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1328. 1-OCTADECANAMINIUM, N,N-DI-METHYL-N-OCTADECYL-, (SP-4-2)-[29H,31H-PHTHA- LOCYANINE-2- SULFONATO(3-)-.KAPPA.N29,.KAPPA.N30,.KAPPA.N31,.KAPPA.N32]CUPRATE(1-).

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.03.26	1-Octa- decanaminium, N,N-dimethyl-N-octadecyl-, (Sp-4-2)-[29H,31H-phthalocyanine-2-sulfonato(3-)-.kappa.N29, .kappa.N30, .kappa.N31, .kappa.N32] cuprate(1-) (CAS No. 70750-63-9) (provided for in subheading 3824.90.28)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1329. CHROMATE(1-)-BIS[1-[(5-CHLORO-2-HYDROXYPHENYL)AZO]-2-NAPTHAL ENOLATO(2-)]-,HYDROGEN.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.03.27	Chromate(1-)-bis[1-[(5-chloro-2-hydroxy-phenyl)azo]-2-naphthalenolato- (2-)]-, hydrogen (CAS No. 31714-55-3) (provided for in subheading 2942.00.10)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1330. BRONATE ADVANCED.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.03.29	Mixtures of bromoxynil octanoate (3,5-dibromo-4-hydroxybenzo-nitrile octanoate (CAS No. 1689-99-2) with application adjuvants (provided for in subheading 3808.30.15)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1331. N-CYCLOHEXYLTHIOPHTHALIMIDE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.03.30	N-Cyclohexylthiophthalimide (CAS No. 17796-82-6) (provided for in subheading 2930.90.24)	3%	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1332. CERTAIN HIGH-PERFORMANCE LOUDSPEAKERS.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by striking heading 9902.85.20 and inserting the following:

"	9902.85.20	Loudspeakers not mounted in their enclosures (provided for in subheading 8518.29.80), the foregoing which meet a performance standard of not more than 1.5 dB for the average level of 3 or more octave bands, when such loudspeakers are tested in a reverberant chamber	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1333. BIO-SET INJECTION RCC.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following heading:

"	9902.03.33	Polymeric apparatus, comprising a removable cap, an injection port attached to an air vent filter and a fixed needle of plastics and a base for attaching the whole to a vial with a 13 mm or 20 mm flange, of a kind used for transferring diluent from a prefilled syringe (without needle) to a vial containing a powdered or lyophilized medicament and, after mixing, transferring the medicament back to the syringe for subsequent administration to the patient (provided for in subheading 3923.50.00)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1334. PENTA AMINO ACETO NITRATE COBALT III (COFLAKE 2).

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.03.34	Mixtures of (acetato)pent-ammine cobalt dinitrate (CAS No. 14854-63-8) with a polymeric or paraffinic carrier (provided for in subheading 3815.90.50)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1335. OXASULFURON TECHNICAL.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.03.35	Benzoic acid, 2-[[[[(4,6-dimethyl-2-pyrimidinyl)- amino]carbonyl]-amino]sulfonyl]-, 3-oxetanyl ester (CAS No. 144651-06-9) (provided for in subheading 2935.00.75)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1336. CERTAIN MANUFACTURING EQUIPMENT.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by striking heading 9902.84.83 and inserting the following:

"	9902.84.83	Machine tools for working wire of iron or steel, certified for use in production of radial tires designed for off-the-highway use and for use on a rim measuring 63.5 cm or more in diameter (provided for in subheading 4011.20.10, 4011.61.00, 4011.63.00, 4011.69.00, 4011.92.00, 4011.94.40, or 4011.99.45), numerically controlled, or parts thereof (provided for in subheading 8463.30.00 or 8466.94.85)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1337. 4-AMINOBENZAMIDE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.03.37	4-Aminobenzamide (CAS No. 2835-68-9) (provided for in subheading 2924.29.76)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1338. FOE HYDROXY.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.03.38	N-(4-Fluorophenyl)-2-hydroxy-N-(1-methylethyl)-acetamide (CAS No. 54041-17-7) (provided for in subheading 2924.29.71)	5.2%	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1339. MAGENTA 364 LIQUID FEED.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.03.39	5-[4-(4,5-Dimethyl-2-sulfo- phenylamino)-6-hydroxy-[1,3,5]triazin-2-ylamino]-4-hydroxy-3-(1-sulfonaphthalen-2-ylazo)naph-thalene-2,7-disulfonic acid, sodium ammonium salt (provided for in subheading 3204.14.30)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1340. TETRAKIS.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.03.40	Tetrakis ((2,4-di-tert-butylphenyl)-4,4-biphenylene diphosphonite) (CAS No. 38613-77-3) (provided for in subheading 2835.29.50)	Free	Free	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1341. PALMITIC ACID.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.03.41	Palmitic acid, with a purity of 90 percent or more (CAS No. 57-10-3) (provided for in subheading 2915.70.00)	Free	Free	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1342. PHYTOL.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

SEC. 1355. MIXTURES OF THIOPHANATE-METHYL AND APPLICATION ADJUVANTS.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new subheading:

"9902.03.79	Mixtures of 1,1'-o-Phenylenebis-(3-thioallophanic acid), dimethyl ester (Thiophanate-methyl) (CAS No. 23564-05-8) and application adjuvants (provided for in subheading 3808.20.15)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1356. HYDRATED HYDROXYPROPYL METHYLCELLULOSE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"9902.03.80	2-Hydroxypropyl methyl cellulose (CAS No. 9004-65-3)(provided for in subheading 3912.39.00)	0.4%	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1357. C 12-18 ALKENES, POLYMERS WITH 4-METHYL-1-PENTENE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"9902.03.86	C 12-18 alkenes, polymers with 4-methyl-1-pentene (CAS No. 68413-03-6) (provided for in subheading 3902.90.00)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1358. CERTAIN 12-VOLT BATTERIES.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"9902.03.87	12V Lead-acid storage batteries, of a kind used for the auxiliary source of power for burglar or fire alarms and similar apparatus of subheading 8531.10.00 (provided for in subheading 8507.20.80)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1359. CERTAIN PREPARED OR PRESERVED ARTICHOKES.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"9902.03.89	Artichokes, prepared or preserved otherwise than by vinegar or acetic acid, not frozen (provided for in subheading 2005.90.80)	11.8%	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1360. CERTAIN OTHER PREPARED OR PRESERVED ARTICHOKES.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"9902.03.90	Artichokes, prepared or preserved by vinegar or acetic acid (provided for in subheading 2001.90.25)	7.5%	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1361. ETHYLENE/TETRAFLUOROETHYLENE COPOLYMER (ETFE).

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"9902.03.91	Ethylene-tetra- fluoroethylene copolymers (ETFE) (provided for in subheading 3904.69.50)	4.9%	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1362. ACETAMIPRID.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"9902.03.92	N1-[(6-Chloro-3-pyridyl)methyl]-N2-cyano-N1-methylacetamidine (CAS No. 135410-20-7) (provided for in subheading 2933.39.27)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1363. CERTAIN MANUFACTURING EQUIPMENT.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new headings:

"9902.84.94	Extruders, screw type, suitable for processing polyester thermoplastics in a cast film production line (provided for in subheading 8477.20.00)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006
9902.84.95	Casting machinery suitable for processing polyester thermoplastics into a sheet in a cast film production line (provided for in subheading 8477.80.00)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006
9902.84.96	Transverse direction orientation tenter machinery, suitable for processing polyester film in a cast film production line (provided for in subheading 8477.80.00)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006

SEC. 1369. ETHANEDIAMIDE, N- (2-ETHOXYPHENYL)-N'- (4-ISODECYLPHENYL)-.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.04.05	Preparations based on ethanediamide, N-(2-ethoxyphenyl)-N'-(4-isodecylphenyl)- (CAS No. 82493-14-9) (provided for in subheading 3812.30.60)	Free	Free	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1370. 1-ACETYL-4-(3-DODECYL-2, 5-DIOXO-1-PYRROLIDINYL)-2,2,6,6-TETRAMETHYL-PIPERIDINE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.04.06	1-Acetyl-4-(3-dodecyl-2,5-dioxo-1-pyrrolidinyl)-2,2,6,6-tetramethylpiperidine (CAS No. 106917-31-1) (provided for in subheading 2933.39.61)	Free	Free	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1371. ARYL PHOSPHONITE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.04.07	Reaction products of phosphorus trichloride with 1,1'-biphenyl and 2,4-bis(1,1-dimethylethyl)phenol (CAS No. 119345-01-6) (provided for in subheading 3812.30.60)	Free	Free	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1372. MONO OCTYL MALIONATE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.04.08	mono-2-Ethylhexyl maleate (CAS No. 7423-42-9) (provided for in subheading 2917.19.20)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1373. 3,6,9-TRIOXAUNDECANEDIOIC ACID.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.04.09	3,6,9-Trioxaundecanedioic acid (CAS No. 13887-98-4) (provided for in subheading 2918.90.50)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1374. CROTONIC ACID.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.04.10	(E)-2-Butenoic acid (Crotonic acid) (CAS No. 107-93-7) (provided for in subheading 2916.19.30)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1375. 1,3-BENZENEDICARBOXAMIDE, N, N'-BIS-(2,2,6,6-TETRAMETHYL-4-PIPERIDINYL)-.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.04.11	1,3-Benzenedicarboxamide, N,N'-bis-(2,2,6,6-tetramethyl-4-piperidinyl)- (CAS No. 42774-15-2) (provided for in subheading 2933.39.61)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1376. 3-DODECYL-1-(2,2,6,6-TETRAMETHYL-4-PIPERIDINYL)-2,5-PYRROLIDINEDIONE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.04.12	3-Dodecyl-1-(2,2,6,6-tetramethyl-4-piperidinyl)-2,5-pyrrolidinedione (CAS No. 79720–19–7) (provided for in subheading 2933.39.61)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1377. OXALIC ANILIDE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.04.13	Ethanediamide, N-(2-ethoxyphenyl)-N′-(2-ethylphenyl)- (CAS No. 23949–66–8) (provided for in subheading 2924.29.76)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1378. N-METHYL DIISOPROPANOLAMINE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.04.14	1,1′-(Methylamino)dipropan-2-ol (CAS No. 1402–30–6) (provided for in subheading 2922.19.95)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1379. 50 PERCENT HOMOPOLYMER, 3-(DIMETHYLAMINO) PROPYL AMIDE, DIMETHYL SULFATE-QUATERNIZED 50 PERCENT POLYRICINOLEIC ACID.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.04.15	Mixture (1:1) of polyricinoleic acid homopolymer, 3-(dimethylamino) propylamide, dimethyl sulfate, quaternized and polyricinoleic acid (provided for in subheading 3824.90.40)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1380. BLACK CPW STAGE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.04.16	2,7-Naphthalenedisulfonic acid, 4-amino-3-[[4-[[-4-[(2- or 4-amino-4 or 2-hydroxyphenyl)azo]phenyl]amino]-3-sulfophenyl]azo]-5-hydroxy-6-(phenylazo), trisodium salt) (CAS No. 85631–88–5) (provided for in subheading 3204.14.30)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1381. FAST BLACK 287 NA PASTE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.04.17	1,3-Benzenedicarboxylic acid, 5-[[4-[(7-amino-1-hydroxy-3-sulfo-2-naphthalenyl)azo]-1-naphthalenyl]azo]-, trisodium salt, in paste form (provided for in subheading 3204.14.30)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1382. FAST BLACK 287 NA LIQUID FEED.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.04.18	1,3-Benzenedicarboxylic acid, 5-[[4-[(7-amino-1-hydroxy-3-sulfo-2-naphthalenyl)azo]-1-naphthalenyl]azo]-, trisodium salt, in liquid form (provided for in subheading 3204.14.30)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1383. FAST YELLOW 2 STAGE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.04.19	1,3-Benzenedicarboxylic acid, 5,5′- [[6-(4-morpholinyl)-1,3,5-triazine-2,4-diyl]bis(imino-4,1-phenyleneazo)]bis-, ammonium sodium hydrogen salt (direct yellow 173) (provided for in either subheading 3204.14.30 or 3215.19.00.)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1384. CYAN 1 STAGE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.04.21	Copper [29H,31H-phthalo- cyaninato(2-)-N29,N30,N31,N32]-, aminosulfonylsulfo derivatives, tetramethylammonium salts (provided for in subheading 3204.14.30)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1385. YELLOW 1 STAGE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.04.24	1,5-Naphthalenedisulfonic acid, 3,3′- [[6-[(2-hydroxyethyl)amino]-1,3,5-triazine-2,4-diyl]bis[imino(2-methyl-4,1-phenylene)azo]]bis-, tetrasodium salt (CAS No. 50925–42–3) (provided for in subheading 3204.14.30)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1386. YELLOW 746 STAGE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 of is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.04.26	1,3-Bipyridirium, 3-carboxy-5′-[(2-carboxy-4-sulfophenyl)azo]-1′,2′-dihydro-6′-hydroxy-4′-methyl-2′-oxo-, inner salt, lithium/sodium salt (provided for in subheading 3204.14.30)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1387. BLACK SCR STAGE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.04.27	2,7-Naphthalenedi- sulfonic acid, 4-amino-3-[[4-[[-4-[(2 or 4-amino-4 or 2-hydroxyphenyl)- azo]- phenyl]amino]-3-sulfophenyl]- azo]-5-hydroxy-6-(phenylazo)-, trisodium salt (CAS No. 85631–88–5) (provided for in subheading 3204.14.30)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1388. MAGENTA 3B-OA STAGE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.04.28	2-[[4-Chloro-6-[[8-hydroxy-3,6-disulfonate-7-[(1-sulfo-2-naphthalenyl)azo]-1-naphthalenyl]amino]-1,3,5-triazin-2-yl]amino]-5-sulfobenzoic acid, sodium/lithium salts (CAS No. 12237-00-2) (provided for in subheading 3204.16.30)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	.”.

SEC. 1389. YELLOW 577 STAGE.

(a) Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.04.29	5-[4-[4-[4-(4,8-Disulfonaphthalen-2-ylazo)-phenylamino]-6-(2-sulfoethylamino)-1,3,5-triazin-2-ylamino]- phenylazo-[isophthalic acid, sodium salt (provided for in subheading 3204.14.30)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	.”.

SEC. 1390. CYAN 485/4 STAGE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.04.30	Copper, [29H,31H-phthalo-cyaninato(2-)-xN29,xN30,xN31,xN32]-aminosulfonyl-[(2-hydroxyethyl)amino]-sulfonylsulfo derivatives, sodium salt (provided for in subheading 3204.14.30)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	.”.

SEC. 1391. LOW EXPANSION LABORATORY GLASS.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.04.32	Laboratory, hygienic, or pharmaceutical glassware, whether or not graduated or calibrated, of low expansion borosilicate glass or alumino-borosilicate glass, having a linear coefficient of expansion not exceeding 3.3 x 10^{-7} per Kelvin within a temperature range of 0 to 300°C (provided for in subheadings 7017.20.00 and 7020.00.60).	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	.”.

SEC. 1392. STOPPERS, LIDS, AND OTHER CLOSURES.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.04.33	Stoppers, lids, and other closures of low expansion borosilicate glass or alumino-borosilicate glass, having a linear coefficient of expansion not exceeding 3.3 x 10^{-7} per Kelvin within a temperature range of 0 to 300°C, produced by automatic machine (provided for in subheading 7010.20.20) or produced by hand (provided for in subheading 7010.20.30).	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	.”.

SEC. 1393. TRIFLUSULFURON METHYL FORMULATED PRODUCT.

(a) CALENDAR YEARS 2004 AND 2005.—Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.05.01	Mixtures of methyl 2-[[[[[4-(dimethylamino)- 6-(2,2,2-trifluoroethoxy)-1,3,5-triazin-2-yl]-amino]carbonyl]- amino]sulfonyl]-3-methylbenzoate (CAS No. 126535-15-7) and application adjuvants (provided for in subheading 3808.30.15)	1%	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2005	.”.

(b) CALENDAR YEAR 2006.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Heading 9902.05.01, as added by subsection (a), is amended—

(A) by striking “1%” and inserting “Free”; and

(B) by striking “On or before 12/31/2005” and inserting “On or before 12/31/2007”.

(2) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by paragraph (1) shall take effect on January 1, 2006.

SEC. 1394. AGRUMEX (O-T-BUTYL CYCLOHEXANOL).

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.05.02	o-tert-Butyl-cyclohexanol (CAS No. 13491-79-7) (provided for in subheading 2915.39.45)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	.”.

SEC. 1395. TRIMETHYL CYCLO HEXANOL (1-METHYL-3,3-DIMETHYLCYCLOHEXANOL-5).

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.05.03	3,3,5-Trimethyl-cyclohexan-1-ol (CAS No. 116-02-9) (provided for in subheading 2906.19.50)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	.”.

SEC. 1396. MYCLOBUTANIL.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.02.91	alpha-Butyl-alpha-(4-chlorophenyl)-1H-1,2,4-triazole-1-propanenitrile (myclobutanil) (CAS No. 88671-89-0) (provided for in subheading 2933.99.06)	1.9%	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	.”.

SEC. 1397. METHYL CINNAMATE (METHYL-3-PHENYLPROPENOATE).

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.05.04	Methyl cinnamate (methyl-3-phenylpropenoate) (CAS No. 103-26-4) (provided for in subheading 2916.39.20)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	.”.

SEC. 1398. ACETANISOLE (ANISYL METHYL KETONE).

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.05.05	p-Acetanisole (CAS No. 100-06-1) (provided for in subheading 2914.50.30)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	.”.

SEC. 1399. ALKYLKETONE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.02.53	1-(4-Chlorophenyl)- 4,4-dimethyl-3-pentanone (CAS No. 66346-01-8) (provided for in subheading 2914.70.40)	3.5%	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1400. IPRODIONE 3-(3-5, DICHOLOROPHENYL)-N-(1-METHYLETHYL)-2,4-DIOXO-1-IMIDAZOLIDINECARBOXAMIDE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.01.51	Iprodione (3-(3,5-dicholorophenyl)-N-(1-methylethyl)-2,4-dioxo-1-imidazolidinecarboxamide) (CAS No. 36734-19-7) (provided for in subheading 2933.21.00)	4.1%	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1401. DICHLOROBENZIDINE DIHYDROCHLORIDE.

(a) CALENDAR YEAR 2004.—Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.03.28	3,3'-Dichlorobenzi-dine dihydrochloride (CAS No. 612-83-9) (provided for in subheading 2921.59.80)	6.3% + 0.2 cents/kg	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2004	".

(b) CALENDAR YEARS 2005 AND 2006.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Heading 9902.03.28, as added by subsection (a), is amended—

(A) by striking "6.3% + 0.2 cents/kg" and inserting "5.1%"; and

(B) by striking "On or before 12/31/2004" and inserting "On or before 12/31/2006".

(2) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by paragraph (1) shall take effect on January 1, 2005.

SEC. 1402. KRESOXIM-METHYL.

(a) CALENDAR YEAR 2004.—Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.03.78	Methyl (E)- methoxyimino- [alpha-(o-tolyloxy)-o-tolyl]- acetate (kresoxim methyl) (CAS No. 143390-89-0) (provided for in subheading 2925.20.60)	3.3%	No change	Free	On or before 12/31/2004	".

(b) CALENDAR YEARS 2005 AND 2006.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Heading 9902.03.78, as added by subsection (a), is amended—

(A) by striking "3.3%" and inserting "2.4%"; and

(B) by striking "On or before 12/31/2004" and inserting "On or before 12/31/2006".

(2) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by paragraph (1) shall take effect on January 1, 2005.

SEC. 1403. MKH 6562 ISOCYANATE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.05.06	2-(Trifluoro- methoxy)-benzenesulfonyl isocyanate (CAS No. 99722-81-3) (provided for in subheading 2930.90.29)	0.7%	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1404. CERTAIN RAYON FILAMENT YARN.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.05.07	High tenacity single yarn of viscose rayon (provided for in subheading 5403.10.30) with a decitex equal to or greater than 1,000	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1405. BENZENEPROPANAL, 4-(1,1-DIMETHYLETHYL)-ALPHA-METHYL.

(a) CALENDAR YEAR 2004.—Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.05.08	Benzenepropanal, 4-(1,1-dimethylethyl)-alpha-methyl- (CAS No. 80-54-6) (provided for in subheading 2912.29.60)	2.3%	No change	Free	On or before 12/31/2004	".

(b) CALENDAR YEARS 2005 AND 2006.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Heading 9902.05.08, as added by subsection (a), is amended—

(A) by striking "2.3%" and inserting "1.7%"; and

(B) by striking "On or before 12/31/2004" and inserting "On or before 12/31/2006".

(2) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by paragraph (1) shall take effect on January 1, 2005.

SEC. 1406. 3,7-DICHLORO-8-QUINOLINE CARBOXYLIC ACID.

(a) CALENDAR YEAR 2004.—Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.05.09	3,7-Dichloro-8-quinolinecarb-oxylic acid (quinclorac) (CAS No. 84087-01-4) (provided for in subheading 2933.49.30)	3.9%	No change	Free	On or before 12/31/2004	".

(b) CALENDAR YEARS 2005 AND 2006.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Heading 9902.05.09, as added by subsection (a), is amended—

(A) by striking "3.9%" and inserting "3.3%"; and

(B) by striking "On or before 12/31/2004" and inserting "On or before 12/31/2006".

(2) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by paragraph (1) shall take effect on January 1, 2005.

SEC. 1407. 3-(1-METHYLETHYL)-1H-2,1,3-BENZOTHIADIAZIN-4(3H)-ONE 2,2 DIOXIDE, SODIUM SALT.

(a) CALENDAR YEAR 2004.—Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.05.10	3-(1-Methyl- ethyl)-1H-2,1,3-benzothiadiazin-4(3H)-one-2,2-dioxide, sodium salt (bentazon, sodium salt) (CAS No. 50723-80-3) (provided for in subheading 2934.99.15)	1.8%	No change	Free	On or before 12/31/2004	".

(b) CALENDAR YEARS 2005 AND 2006.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Heading 9902.05.10, as added by subsection (a), is amended—

(A) by striking "1.8%" and inserting "2.6%"; and

(B) by striking "On or before 12/31/2004" and inserting "On or before 12/31/2006".

(2) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by paragraph (1) shall take effect on January 1, 2005.

SEC. 1408. 3,3′,4-4′-BIPHENYLTETRACARBOXYLIC DIANHYDRIDE, ODA, ODPA, PMDA, AND 1,3-BIS(4-AMINOPHENOXY)BENZENE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new headings:

“ 9902.05.11	3,3′,4,4′-Biphenyltetracarboxylic dianhydride (CAS No. 2420-87-3) (provided for in subheading 2917.39.30)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006
“ 9902.05.12	4,4′-Oxydianiline (CAS No. 101-80-4) (provided for in subheading 2922.29.80)	1.5%	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006
“ 9902.05.13	4,4′-Oxydiphthalic anhydride (CAS No. 1823-59-2) (provided for in subheading 2918.90.43)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006
“ 9902.05.14	Pyromellitic dianhydride (CAS No. 89-32-7) (provided for in subheading 2917.39.70)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006
“ 9902.05.15	1,3-Bis(4-aminophenoxy)- benzene (CAS No. 2479-46-1) (provided for in subheading 2922.29.29 or 2922.29.60)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1409. ORYZALIN.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“ 9902.05.16	Oryzalin (benzenesulfonamide, 4-(dipropylamino)-3,5-dinitro-) (CAS No. 19044-88-3) (provided for in subheading 2935.00.95)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1410. TEBUFENOZIDE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“ 9902.05.17	N-tert-Butyl-N′-(4-ethylbenzoyl)-3,5- dimethylbenzoylhydrazide (tebufenozide) (CAS No. 112410-23-8) (provided for in subheading 2928.00.25)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1411. ENDOSULFAN.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“ 9902.05.18	6,7,8,9,10,10-Hexachloro-1,5,5a,6,9,9a-hexahydro-6,9-methano-2,4,3-benzodioxathiepin-3-oxide (thiosulfan) (CAS No. 115-29-7) (provided for in subheading 2920.90.10)	Free	Free	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1412. ETHOFUMESATE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“ 9902.05.19	2-Ethoxy-2,3-dihydro-3,3-di-methyl-5-benzofuranyl-methanesulfonate (ethofumesate) (CAS No. 26225-79-6) in bulk or mixed with application adjuvants (provided for in subheading 2932.99.08 or 3808.30.15)	Free	Free	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1413. NIGHT VISION MONOCULARS.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“ 9902.05.21	Hand-held night vision monoculars, other than those containing a micro-channel plate to amplify electrons or having a photocathode containing gallium arsenide (provided for in subheading 9005.80.60)	Free	Free	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1414. SOLVENT YELLOW 163.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“ 9902.05.27	Solvent yellow 163 (CAS No. 13676-91-0) (provided for in subheading 3204.19.20)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1415. RAILWAY CAR BODY SHELLS FOR EMU'S.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following heading:

“ 9902.86.09	Railway car body shells for electric multiple unit (EMU) commuter coaches of stainless steel, the foregoing which are designed for passenger coaches each having an aggregate passenger seating capacity up to 156 (including flip-up seating and wheelchair spaces) on two levels (provided for in subheading 8607.99.50)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1416. CERTAIN EDUCATIONAL DEVICES.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“ 9902.85.43	Educational devices (provided for in subheading 8543.89.96)	1.67%	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1417. RAILWAY ELECTRIC MULTIPLE UNIT (EMU) GALLERY COMMUTER COACHES OF STAINLESS STEEL.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in the numerical sequence the following new heading:

“ 9902.86.11	Railway electric multiple unit (EMU) commuter coaches of stainless steel, the foregoing consisting of two finished EMU gallery-type coaches manufactured to contract specifications each, having an aggregate seating capacity of up to 156 seats (including flip-up seats and wheelchair spaces) on two levels. (provided for in subheading 8603.10.00)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1418. SNOWBOARD BOOTS.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by striking heading 9902.61.01 and inserting the following:

“	9902.61.01	Snowboard boots with uppers of textile materials (provided for in subheading 6404.11.90)	4%	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1419. HAND-HELD RADIO SCANNERS.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.02.23	Electrical radiobroadcast receivers, intended to be hand-held, valued over $40 each, the foregoing designed to receive and monitor publicly transmitted radio communications (provided for in subheading 8527.19.50)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1420. MOBILE AND BASE RADIO SCANNERS THAT ARE COMBINED WITH A CLOCK.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.02.24	Electrical radiobroadcast receivers designed to receive and monitor publicly transmitted radio communications, valued at over $40 each, that are combined with a clock, and that are either mounted on a base or designed for use in an automobile or boat (provided for in subheading 8527.32.50)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1421. MOBILE AND BASE RADIO SCANNERS THAT ARE NOT COMBINED WITH A CLOCK.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.02.25	Electrical radiobroadcast receivers designed to receive and monitor publicly transmitted radio communications, valued at over $40 each, that are not combined with a clock, and that are either mounted on a base or designed for use in an automobile or boat (provided for in subheading 8527.39.00)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1422. CERTAIN FINE ANIMAL HAIR OF KASHMIR (CASHMERE) GOATS, NOT PROCESSED.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.51.15	Fine animal hair of Kashmir (cashmere) goats; not processed in any manner beyond the degreased or carbonized condition (provided for in subheading 5102.11.10)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1423. CERTAIN FINE ANIMAL HAIR OF KASHMIR (CASHMERE) GOATS.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.51.16	Fine animal hair of Kashmir (cashmere) goats (provided for in subheading 5102.11.90)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1424. CERTAIN R-CORE TRANSFORMERS.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.85.04	120 volt/60 Hz electrical transformers (the foregoing and parts thereof provided for in subheading 8504.31.40 or 8504.90.95), with dimensions not exceeding 88 mm by 88 mm by 72 mm but at least 82 mm by 69 mm by 43 mm and each containing a layered and uncut round core with two balanced bobbins, the foregoing rated as less than 40 VA but greater than 32.2 VA with a rating number of R25	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1425. DECORATIVE PLATES.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.04.99	Decorative plates, whether or not with decorative rim or attached sculpture; decorative sculptures, each with plate or plaque attached; decorative plaques each not over 7.65 cm in thickness; architectural miniatures, whether or not put up in sets; all the foregoing of resin materials and containing agglomerated stone, put up for mail order retail sale, whether for wall or tabletop display and each weighing not over 1.36 kg together with their retail packaging (provided for in subheading 3926.40.00)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1426. BISPYRIBAC SODIUM.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.05.20	Sodium 2,6-bis[(4,6-dimethoxypyrimidin-2-yl)oxy]benzoate (Bispyribac-sodium) (CAS No. 125401–92–5) (provided for in subheading 2933.59.10)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1427. FENPROPATHRIN.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.05.22	α-Cyano-3-phenoxybenzyl 2,2,3,3-tetra- methylcycloprop- anecarboxylate (fenpropathrin) (CAS No. 39515–41–8) (provided for in subheading 2926.90.30)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1428. PYRIPROXYFEN.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

“	9902.05.23	2-[1-Methyl-2-(4-phenoxyphenoxy)ethoxy]pyridine (Pyriproxyfen) (CAS No. 95737–68–1) (provided for in subheading 2933.39.27)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	”.

SEC. 1429. UNICONAZOLE-P.

Subchapter II is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.05.24	(E)-(+)-(S)-1-(4-Chlorophenyl)-4,4-dimethyl-2-(1,2,4-triazol-1-yl)-pent-1-ene-3-ol (Uniconazole) (CAS No. 83657-22-1), mixed with application adjuvants (provided for in subheading 3808.30.15)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1430. FLUMIOXAZIN.

Subchapter II is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.05.25	2-[7-fluoro-3,4-dihydro-3-oxo-4-(2-propynl)-2H-1,4-benzoxazin-6-yl]-4,5,6,7-tetrahydro-1H-isoindole-1,3-(2H)-dione (Flumioxazin) (CAS No. 103361-09-7) (provided for in subheading 2934.99.15)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1431. NIGHT VISION MONOCULARS.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.05.26	Hand-held night vision monoculars, other than those containing a micro-channel plate to amplify electrons or having a photocathode containing gallium arsenide (provided for in subheading 9005.80.40)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1432. 2,4-XYLIDINE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.05.28	2,4-Xylidine (CAS No. 95-68-1) (provided for in subheading 2921.49.10)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1433. R118118 SALT.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.05.29	R118118 Salt - benzoic acid, 3-[2-chloro-4-(trifluoromethyl) phenoxy]-(CAS No. 63734-62-3) (provided in subheading 2918.90.20)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1434. NMSBA.

(a) CALENDAR YEAR 2004.—Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.05.30	4-(Methylsulfonyl)-2-nitrobenzoic acid (CAS No. 110964-79-9) (provided for in subheading 2916.39.45)	0.28%	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2004	".

(b) CALENDAR YEAR 2005.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Heading 9902.29.82, as added by subsection (a), is amended—

(A) by striking "0.28%" and inserting "0.16%"; and

(B) by striking "On or before 12/31/2004" and inserting "On or before 12/31/2005".

(2) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by paragraph (1) shall take effect on January 1, 2005.

(c) CALENDAR YEARS 2006 THROUGH 2008.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Heading 9902.29.82, as added by subsection (a) and amended by subsection (b), is further amended—

(A) by striking "0.16%" and inserting "1.1%"; and

(B) by striking "On or before 12/31/2005" and inserting "On or before 12/31/2008".

(2) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by paragraph (1) shall take effect on January 1, 2006.

SEC. 1435. CERTAIN SATELLITE RADIO BROADCASTING APPARATUS.

(a) CALENDAR YEAR 2004.—Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.04.35	Reception apparatus for satellite radio broadcasting, other than satellite radio broadcast receivers described in subheading 8527.21.40 (provided in subheading 8527.90.95)	5.2%	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2004	".

(b) CALENDAR YEAR 2005.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Heading 9902.04.35, as added by subsection (a), is amended—

(A) by striking "5.2%" and inserting "5.4%"; and

(B) by striking "On or before 12/31/2004" and inserting "On or before 12/31/2005".

(2) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by paragraph (1) shall take effect on January 1, 2005.

(c) CALENDAR YEAR 2006.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Heading 9902.04.35, as added by subsection (a) and amended by this section, is further amended—

(A) by striking "5.4%" and inserting "5.5%"; and

(B) by striking "On or before 12/31/2905" and inserting "On or before 12/31/2006".

(2) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by paragraph (1) shall take effect on January 1, 2006.

SEC. 1436. ACEPHATE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new heading:

"	9902.05.31	O,S-Dimethyl acetylphosphoramidothioate (Acephate) (CAS No. 30560-19-1) (provided for in subheading 2930.90.44)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1437. MAGNESIUM ALUMINUM HYDROXIDE CARBONATE HYDRATE.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new subheading:

"	9902.05.32	Magnesium aluminum hydroxide carbonate hydrate (CAS No. 11097-59-9) (provided for in subheading 2842.90.00); magnesium aluminum hydroxide carbonate hydrate coated with an organic fatty acid (provided for in subheading 3812.30.90)	Free	No change	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

SEC. 1438. CERTAIN FOOTWEAR.

Subchapter II of chapter 99 is amended by inserting in numerical sequence the following new subheading:

"	9902.05.35	Footwear consisting of an outer sole affixed to an incomplete or unfinished upper to which additional upper parts or material must be affixed to permit the footwear to be held to the foot, such footwear having a bottom of vulcanized rubber and produced by the hand-laid assembly process or hand made, the foregoing footwear of a type that is not designed to be worn over other footwear (provided for in subheadings 6401.99.30 and 6401.99.60	Free	Free	No change	On or before 12/31/2006	".

CHAPTER 2—EXISTING DUTY SUSPENSIONS AND REDUCTIONS

SEC. 1451. EXTENSION OF CERTAIN EXISTING DUTY SUSPENSIONS.

(a) EXISTING DUTY SUSPENSIONS.—Each of the following headings is amended by striking out the date in the effective period column and inserting "12/31/2006":

(1) Heading 9902.30.90 (relating to 3-amino-2′-(sulfato-ethyl sulfonyl) ethyl benzamide).
(2) Heading 9902.32.91 (relating to MUB 738 INT).
(3) Heading 9902.30.31 (relating to 5-amino-N-(2-hydroxyethyl)-2,3-xylenesulfonamide).
(4) Heading 9902.29.46 (relating to 2-amino-5-nitrothiazole).
(5) Heading 9902.32.14 (relating to 2-methyl-4,6-bis[(octylthio) methyl]phenol).
(6) Heading 9902.32.30 (relating to 4-[[4,6-bis(octylthio)-1,3,5-triazin-2-yl]amino]-2,6-bis(1,1-dimethylethyl)phenol).
(7) Heading 9902.32.16 (relating to calcium bis[monoethyl(3,5-di-tert-butyl-4-hydroxybenzyl) phosphonate]).
(8) Heading 9902.38.69 (relating to nicosulfuron formulated product ("Accent")).
(9) Heading 9902.33.63 (relating to DPX–E9260).
(10) Heading 9902.33.59 (relating to DPX–E6758).
(11) Heading 9902.33.61 (relating to carbamic acid (U-9069)).
(12) Heading 9902.29.35 (relating to IN–N5297).
(13) Heading 9902.28.19 (relating to an ultraviolet dye).
(14) Heading 9902.32.07 (relating to certain organic pigments and dyes).
(15) Heading 9902.29.07 (relating to 4-hexylresorcinol).
(16) Heading 9902.29.37 (relating to certain sensitizing dyes).
(17) Heading 9902.85.42 (relating to certain cathode-ray tubes).
(18) Heading 9902.30.14 (relating to a fluorinated compound)
(19) Heading 9902.29.55 (relating to a certain light absorbing photo dye).
(20) Heading 9902.32.55 (relating to methyl thioglycolate).
(21) Heading 9902.29.62 (relating to chloro amino toluene).
(22) Headings 9902.28.08, 9902.28.09, and 9902.28.10 (relating to bromine-containing compounds).
(23) Heading 9902.32.62 (relating to filter blue green photo dye).
(24) Heading 9902.32.99 (relating to 5-[(3,5-dichlorophenyl)-thio]-4-(1-methylethyl-1)-(4-pyridin lmethyl)-1H-imidazole-2-methanol carbamate).
(25) Heading 9902.32.97 (relating to (2E,4S)-4-(((2R,5S)-2-((4-fluorophenyl)-methyl)-6-methyl-5-((5-methyl-3-isoxazolyl)-carbonyl y)amino)-1,4-dioroheptyl)-amino)-5-((3S)-2-oxo-3-pyrrolidinyl)-2-pentenoic acid, ethyl ester).
(26) Heading 9902.29.87 (relating to Baytron M).
(27) Heading 9902.39.15 (relating to Baytron P).
(28) Heading 9902.39.30 (relating to certain ion-exchange resins).
(29) Heading 9902.28.01 (relating to thionyl chloride).
(30) Heading 9902.32.12 (relating to DEMT).
(31) Heading 9902.29.03 (relating to p-hydroxybenzoic acid).
(32) Headings 9902.29.83 and 9902.38.10 (relating to iminodisuccinate).
(33) Heading 9902.38.11 (relating to mesamoll).
(34) Heading 9902.38.15 (relating to Baytron C-R).
(35) Heading 9902.29.25 (relating to ortho-phenylphenol (OPP)).
(36) Heading 9902.38.31 (relating to Vulkalent E/C).
(37) Heading 9902.31.14 (relating to desmedipham).
(38) Heading 9902.31.13 (relating to phenmedipham).
(39) Heading 9902.30.16 (relating to diclofop methyl).
(40) Heading 9902.33.40 (relating to R115777).
(41) Heading 9902.29.10 (relating to imazalil).
(42) Heading 9902.29.22 (relating to Norbloc 7966).
(43) Heading 9902.38.09 (relating to Fungaflor 500 EC).
(44) Heading 9902.32.73 (relating to Solvent Blue 124).
(45) Heading 9902.29.73 (relating to 4-amino-2,5-dimethoxy-N-phenylbenzene sulfonamide).
(46) Heading 9902.32.72 (relating to Solvent Blue 104).
(47) Heading 9902.34.01 (relating to sodium petroleum sulfonate).
(48) Heading 9902.29.71 (relating to isobornyl acetate).
(49) Heading 9902.29.70 (relating to certain TAED chemicals).
(50) Heading 9902.29.58 (relating to diethyl phosphorochidothioate).
(51) Heading 9902.29.17 (relating to 2,6-dichloroaniline).
(52) Heading 9902.29.59 (relating to benfluralin).
(53) Heading 9902.29.26 (relating to 1,3-diethyl-2-imidazolidinone).
(54) Heading 9902.29.06 (relating to diphenyl sulfide).
(55) Heading 9902.32.93 (relating to methoxyfenozide).
(56) Heading 9902.32.89 (relating to triazamate).
(57) Heading 9902.29.80 (relating to propiconazole).
(58) Heading 9902.32.92 (relating to β-Bromo-β-nitrostyrene).
(59) Heading 9902.29.61 (relating to quinoline).
(60) Heading 9902.29.25 (relating to 2-phenylphenol).
(61) Heading 9902.29.08 (relating to 3-amino-5-mercapto-1,2,4-triazole).
(62) Heading 9902.29.16 (relating to 4,4-dimethoxy-2-butanone).
(63) Heading 9902.32.87 (relating to fenbuconazole).
(64) Heading 9902.32.90 (relating to diiodomethyl-p-tolylsulfone).
(65) Heading 9902.28.16 (relating to propiophenone).
(66) Heading 9902.28.17 (relating to meta-chlorobenzaldehyde).
(67) Heading 9902.28.15 (relating to 4-bromo-2-fluoroacetanilide).
(68) Heading 9902.32.82 (relating to 2,6, dichlorotoluene).
(69) Heading 9902.80.05 (relating to cobalt boron).
(70) Heading 9902.72.02 (relating to ferroboron).
(71) Heading 9902.32.85 (relating to 4,4′ difluorobenzophenone).
(72) Heading 9902.29.34 (relating to certain light absorbing photo dyes).

(73) Heading 9902.29.38 (relating to certain imaging chemicals).

(74) Heading 9902.28.18 (relating to 3,5-dibromo-4-hydoxybenzonitril).

(75) Heading 9902.29.64 (relating to cyclanilide technical).

(76) Heading 9902.29.98 (relating to fipronil technical).

(77) Heading 9902.38.04 (relating to 3,5-dibromo-4-hydoxybenzonitril ester and inerts).

(78) Heading 9902.29.23 (relating to P-nitro toluene-o-sulfonic acid).

(79) Heading 9902.28.20 (relating to ammonium bifluoride).

(80) Heading 9902.39.01 (relating to poly(vinyl chloride) (PVC) self-adhesive sheets.

(81) Heading 9902.32.49 (relating to 11-aminoundecanoic acid).

(82) Heading 9902.69.01 (relating to certain high-end ceramic cutlery).

(b) OTHER MODIFICATIONS.—

(1) CERTAIN CATHODE-RAY TUBES.—Heading 9902.85.41 is amended—

(A) by striking "1%" and inserting "Free"; and

(B) in the effective period column, by striking the date contained therein and inserting "12/31/2006".

(2) ETHALFLURALIN.—Heading 9902.30.49 is amended—

(A) by striking "3.5%" and inserting "Free"; and

(B) in the effective period column, by striking the date contained therein and inserting "12/31/2006".

(3) DMDS.—Heading 9902.33.92 is amended—

(A) by striking "2933.59.80" and inserting "2933.59.95"; and

(B) in the effective period column, by striking the date contained therein and inserting "12/31/2006".

(4) CERTAIN POLYAMIDES.—Heading 9902.39.08 is amended—

(A) by striking "forms of polyamide-6, polyamide-12, and polyamide-6,12 powders (CAS Nos. 25038-54-4, 25038-74-8, and 25191-04-1) (provided for in subheading 3908.10.00)" and inserting "ORGASOL® polyamide powders (provided for in subheading 3908.10.00 or 3908.90.70)"; and

(B) in the effective period column, by striking the date contained therein and inserting "12/31/2006".

(5) BUTRALIN.—Heading 9902.38.00 is amended by striking "3808.31.15" and inserting "3808.30.15".

(6) PRO-JET CYAN 1 RO FEED; PRO-JET FAST BLACK 287 NA PASTE/LIQUID FEED.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Paragraph (2) in each of sections 1222(c) and 1223(c) of the Tariff Suspension and Trade Act of 2000 are amended by striking "January 1, 2001" and inserting "January 1, 2002".

(B) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by subparagraph (A) shall take effect as if such amendments had been enacted immediately after the enactment of the Tariff Suspension and Trade Act of 2000.

(7) 2-METHYL-4-CHLOROPHENOXYACETIC ACID.—Heading 9902.29.81 is amended—

(A) in the general rate of duty column, by striking "2.6%" and inserting "1.8%"; and

(B) in the effective period column, by striking the date contained therein and inserting "12/31/2006".

(8) STARANE F.—Heading 9902.29.77 is amended—

(A) in the general rate of duty column, by striking "Free" and inserting "1.5%"; and

(B) in the effective period column, by striking the date contained therein and inserting "12/31/2006".

(9) TRIFLURALIN.—Heading 9902.29.02 is amended—

(A) by striking "3.3%" and inserting "Free"; and

(B) in the effective period column, by striking the date contained therein and inserting "12/31/2006".

(10) CERTAIN REDESIGNATIONS.—(A) The second heading 9902.29.02 (as added by section 1144 of the Tariff Suspension and Trade Act of 2000) is amended by redesignating such heading as heading 9902.05.33 and placing such heading in numerical sequence.

(B) The second heading 9902.39.07 (as added by section 1248 of the Tariff Suspension and Trade Act of 2000) by redesignating such heading as heading 9902.05.34 and placing such heading in numerical sequence.

(11) CERTAIN RAILWAY CAR BODY SHELLS.—(A) Heading 9902.86.07 is amended—

(i) in the article description, by striking "138" and inserting "up to 150"; and

(ii) in the effective period column, by striking the date contained therein and inserting "12/31/2006".

(B) Heading 9902.86.08 is amended—

(i) in the article description, by striking "148" and inserting "140"; and

(ii) in the effective period column, by striking the date contained therein and inserting "12/31/2006".

SEC. 1452. PIGMENT YELLOW 154.

Heading 9902.32.18 of the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States is amended by striking "12/31/2002" and inserting "12/31/2006".

SEC. 1453. PIGMENT YELLOW 175.

Heading 9902.32.19 of the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States is amended by striking "12/31/2002" and inserting "12/31/2006".

SEC. 1454. PIGMENT RED 208.

Heading 9902.32.27 of the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States is amended by striking "12/31/2002" and inserting "12/31/2006".

SEC. 1455. PIGMENT RED 187.

Heading 9902.32.22 of the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States is amended by striking "12/31/2002" and inserting "12/31/2006".

SEC. 1456. PIGMENT RED 185.

Heading 9902.32.26 of the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States is amended by striking "12/31/2002" and inserting "12/31/2006".

SEC. 1457. EFFECTIVE DATE.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Except as otherwise provided in this chapter, the amendments made by this chapter apply to goods entered, or withdrawn from warehouse for consumption, on or after January 1, 2004.

(b) RETROACTIVE APPLICATION.—Notwithstanding section 514 of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 1514) or any other provision of law, upon proper request filed with the Bureau of Customs and Border Protection before the 90th day after the date of the enactment of this Act, any entry, or withdrawal from warehouse for consumption, of any good—

(1) that was made on or after January 1, 2004, and before the date of the enactment of this Act, and

(2) with respect to which there would have been no duty or a lower rate of duty if an amendment made by this chapter applied to such entry or withdrawal, shall be liquidated or reliquidated as if such amendment applied to such entry or withdrawal.

Subtitle B—Other Tariff Provisions

CHAPTER 1—LIQUIDATION OR RELIQUIDATION OF CERTAIN ENTRIES

SEC. 1501. CERTAIN TRAMWAY CARS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding section 514 of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 1514) or any other provision of law, upon proper request filed with the United States Customs Service within 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Customs Service shall liquidate or reliquidate the entry described in subsection (c) as free of duty.

(b) REFUND OF AMOUNTS OWED.—Any amounts owed by the United States pursuant to a request for a liquidation or reliquidation of the entry under subsection (a) shall be refunded with interest within 180 days after the date on which request is made.

(c) AFFECTED ENTRY.—The entry referred to in subsection (a) is the entry on July 5, 2002, of 2 tramway cars (provided for in subheading 8603.10.00) manufactured in Plzen, Czech Republic, for the use of the city of Portland, Oregon (Entry number 529-0032191-1).

SEC. 1502. LIBERTY BELL REPLICA.

The Secretary of the Treasury shall admit free of duty a replica of the Liberty Bell imported from the Whitechapel Bell Foundry of London, England, by the Liberty Memorial Association of Green Bay and Brown County, Wisconsin, for use by the city of Green Bay, Wisconsin and Brown County, Wisconsin.

SEC. 1503. CERTAIN ENTRIES OF COTTON GLOVES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding section 514 of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 1514) or any other provision of law, upon proper request filed with the United States Customs Service within 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Customs Service—

(1) shall reliquidate each entry described in subsection (c) containing any merchandise which, at the time of original liquidation, had been classified under subheading 6116.92.64 or subheading 6116.92.74; and

(2) shall reliquidate such merchandise under subheading 6116.92.88 at the rate of duty then applicable under such subheading.

(b) REFUND OF AMOUNTS OWED.—Any amounts owed by the United States pursuant to a request for the reliquidation of an entry under subsection (a) shall be refunded with interest within 180 days after the date on which request is made.

(c) AFFECTED ENTRIES.—The entries referred to in subsection (a) are as follows:

SEC. 1512. CERTAIN POSTERS ENTERED DURING 2000 AND 2001.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding section 514 of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 1514) or any other provision of law and subject to the provisions of subsection (b), the United States Customs Service shall, not later than 90 days after the receipt of the request described in subsection (b), liquidate or reliquidate each entry described in subsection (d) containing any merchandise which, at the time of the original liquidation, was classified under subheading 4911.91.20 of the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States at the rate of duty that would have been applicable to such merchandise if the merchandise had been liquidated or reliquidated under subheading 4911.91.40 of the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States on the date of entry.

(b) REQUESTS.—Reliquidation may be made under subsection (a) with respect to an entry described in subsection (d) only if a request therefor is filed with the Customs Service within 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(c) PAYMENT OF AMOUNTS OWED.—Any amounts owed by the United States pursuant to the liquidation or reliquidation of an entry under subsection (a) shall be paid not later than 90 days after the date of such liquidation or reliquidation.

(d) AFFECTED ENTRIES.—The entries referred to in subsection (a) are as follows:

SEC. 1528. CERTAIN TOMATO SAUCE PREPARATION ENTERED BETWEEN OCTOBER 7, 1991, AND NOVEMBER 24, 1991.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding section 514 of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 1514) or any other provision of law and subject to the provisions of subsection (b), the United States Customs Service shall, not later than 90 days after the receipt of the request described in subsection (b), liquidate or reliquidate each entry described in subsection (d) containing any merchandise which, at the time of the original liquidation, was classified under subheading 2002.10.00 of the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States (relating to tomatoes, prepared or preserved) at the rate of duty that would have been applicable to such merchandise if the merchandise had been liquidated or reliquidated under subheading 2103.90.60 or 2103.90.90 of the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States, whichever is applicable, on the date of entry.

(b) REQUESTS.—Reliquidation may be made under subsection (a) with respect to an entry described in subsection (d) only if a request therefore is filed with the Customs Service within 90 days after the date of enactment of this Act.

(c) PAYMENT OF AMOUNTS OWED.—Any amounts owed by the United States pursuant to the liquidation or reliquidation of an entry under subsection (a) shall be paid not later than 90 days after the date of such liquidation or reliquidation.

"(B) footwear provided for in any of subheadings 6401.10.00, 6401.91.00, 6401.92.90, 6401.99.30, 6401.99.60, 6401.99.90, 6402.30.50, 6402.30.70, 6402.30.80, 6402.91.50, 6402.91.80, 6402.91.90, 6402.99.20, 6402.99.80, 6402.99.90, 6403.59.60, 6403.91.30, 6403.99.60, 6403.99.90, 6404.11.90, and 6404.19.20 of the HTS that was not designated at the time of the effective date of this title as eligible articles for the purpose of the generalized system of preferences under title V of the Trade Act of 1974;".

(2) In paragraph (3)(A)—

(A) in clause (i), by striking "Subject to clause (ii)" and inserting "Subject to clauses (ii) and (iii)"; and

(B) by adding at the end the following:

"(iii) CERTAIN FOOTWEAR.—Notwithstanding paragraph (1)(B) and clause (i) of this subparagraph, footwear provided for in any of subheadings 6403.59.60, 6403.91.30, 6403.99.60, and

6403.99.90 of the HTS shall be eligible for the duty-free treatment provided for under this title if—

"(I) the article of footwear is the growth, product, or manufacture of a CBTPA beneficiary country; and

"(II) the article otherwise meets the requirements of subsection (a), except that in applying such subsection, 'CBTPA beneficiary country' shall be substituted for 'beneficiary country' each place it appears.".

SEC. 1559. DESIGNATION OF SAN ANTONIO INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT FOR CUSTOMS PROCESSING OF CERTAIN PRIVATE AIRCRAFT ARRIVING IN THE UNITED STATES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 1153(a) of the Tariff Suspension and Trade Act of 2000 is amended by striking "2-year period" and inserting "6-year period".

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendment made by subsection (a) shall be effective as of November 9, 2002.

SEC. 1560. AUTHORITY FOR THE ESTABLISHMENT OF INTEGRATED BORDER INSPECTION AREAS AT THE UNITED STATES-CANADA BORDER.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress makes the following findings:

(1) The increased security and safety concerns that developed in the aftermath of the terrorist attacks in the United States on September 11, 2001, need to be addressed.

(2) One concern that has come to light is the vulnerability of the international bridges and tunnels along the United States borders.

(3) It is necessary to ensure that potentially dangerous vehicles are inspected prior to crossing these bridges and tunnels, however, currently these vehicles are not inspected until after they have crossed into the United States.

(4) Establishing Integrated Border Inspection Areas (IBIAs) would address these concerns by inspecting vehicles before they gained access to the infrastructure of international bridges and tunnels joining the United States and Canada.

(b) CREATION OF INTEGRATED BORDER INSPECTION AREAS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Commissioner of the Customs Service, in consultation with the Canadian Customs and Revenue Agency (CCRA), shall seek to establish Integrated Border Inspection Areas (IBIAs), such as areas on either side of the United States-Canada border, in which United States Customs officers can inspect vehicles entering the United States from Canada before they enter the United States, or Canadian Customs officers can inspect vehicles entering Canada from the United States before they enter Canada. Such inspections may include, where appropriate, employment of reverse inspection techniques.

(2) ADDITIONAL REQUIREMENT.—The Commissioner of Customs, in consultation with the Administrator of the General Services Administration when appropriate, shall seek to carry out paragraph (1) in a manner that minimizes adverse impacts on the surrounding community.

(3) ELEMENTS OF THE PROGRAM.—Using the authority granted by this section and under section 629 of the Tariff Act of 1930, the Commissioner of Customs, in consultation with the Canadian Customs and Revenue Agency, shall seek to—

(A) locate Integrated Border Inspection Areas in areas with bridges or tunnels with high traffic volume, significant commercial activity, and that have experienced backups and delays since September 11, 2001;

(B) ensure that United States Customs officers stationed in any such IBIA on the Canadian side of the border are vested with the maximum authority to carry out their duties and enforce United States law;

(C) ensure that United States Customs officers stationed in any such IBIA on the Canadian side of the border shall possess the same immunity that they would possess if they were stationed in the United States; and

(D) encourage appropriate officials of the United States to enter into an agreement with Canada permitting Canadian Customs officers stationed in any such IBIA on the United States side of the border to enjoy such immunities as permitted in Canada.

SEC. 1561. DESIGNATION OF FOREIGN LAW ENFORCEMENT OFFICERS.

(a) MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS.—Section 401(i) of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 1401(i)) is amended by inserting ", including foreign law enforcement officers," after "or other person".

(b) INSPECTIONS AND PRECLEARANCE IN FOREIGN COUNTRIES.—Section 629 of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 1629) is amended—

(1) in subsection (a), by inserting ", or subsequent to their exit from," after "prior to their arrival in";

(2) in subsection (c)—

(A) by inserting "or exportation" after "relating to the importation"; and

(B) by inserting "or exit" after "port of entry";

(3) by amending subsection (e) to read as follows:

"(e) STATIONING OF FOREIGN CUSTOMS AND AGRICULTURE INSPECTION OFFICERS IN THE UNITED STATES.—The Secretary of State, in coordination with the Secretary and the Secretary of Agriculture, may enter into agreements with any foreign country authorizing the stationing in the United States of customs and agriculture inspection officials of that country (if similar privileges are extended by that country to United States officials) for the purpose of insuring that persons and merchandise going directly to that country from the United States, or that have gone directly from that country to the United States, comply with the customs and other laws of that country governing the importation or exportation of merchandise. Any foreign customs or agriculture inspection official stationed in the United States under this subsection may exercise such functions, perform such duties, and enjoy such privileges and immunities as United States officials may be authorized to perform or are afforded in that foreign country by treaty, agreement, or law."; and

(4) by adding at the end the following:

"(g) PRIVILEGES AND IMMUNITIES.—Any person designated to perform the duties of an officer of the Customs Service pursuant to section 401(i) of this Act shall be entitled to the same privileges and immunities as an officer of the Customs Service with respect to any actions taken by the designated person in the performance of such duties.".

(c) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Section 127 of the Treasury Department Appropriations Act, 2003, is hereby repealed.

(d) EFFECTIVE DATE.—This section, and the amendments made by this section, take effect on the date of the enactment of this Act.

SEC. 1562. AMENDMENTS TO UNITED STATES INSULAR POSSESSION PROGRAM.

(a) PRODUCTION CERTIFICATES.—Additional U.S. Note 5(h) to chapter 91 is amended—

(1) by amending subparagraphs (i) and (ii) to read as follows:

"(i) In the case of each of calendar years 2003 through 2015, the Secretaries jointly, shall—

"(A) verify—

"(1) the wages paid by each producer to permanent residents of the insular possessions during the preceding calendar year (including the value of usual and customary health insurance, life insurance, and pension benefits); and

"(2) the total quantity and value of watches and watch movements produced in the insular possessions by that producer and imported free of duty into the customs territory of the United States; and

"(B) issue to each producer (not later than 60 days after the end of the preceding calendar year) a certificate for the applicable amount.

"(ii) For purposes of subparagraph (i), except as provided in subparagraphs (iii) and (iv), the term 'applicable amount' means an amount equal to the sum of—

"(A) 90 percent of the producer's creditable wages (including the value of usual and customary health insurance, life insurance, and pension benefits) on the assembly during the preceding calendar year of the first 300,000 units, plus

"(B) the applicable graduated declining percentage (determined each year by the Secretaries) of the producer's creditable wages (including the value of usual and customary health insurance, life insurance, and pension benefits) on the assembly during the preceding calendar year of units in excess of 300,000 but not in excess of 750,000, plus

"(C) the difference between the duties that would have been due on each producer's watches and watch movements (excluding digital watches and excluding units in excess of the 750,000 limitation of this subparagraph) imported into the customs territory of the United States free of duty during the preceding calendar year if the watches and watch movements had been subject to duty at the rates set forth in column 1 under this chapter that were in effect on January 1, 2001, and the duties that would have been due on the watches and watch movements if the watches and watch movements had been subject to duty at the rates set forth in column 1 under this chapter that were in effect for such preceding calendar year."; and

(2) by amending subparagraph (v) to read as follows:

"(v) Any certificate issued under subparagraph (i) shall entitle the certificate holder to secure a refund of duties equal to the face value of the certificate on any articles that are imported into the customs territory of the United States by the certificate holder. Such refunds shall be made under regulations issued by the Treasury Department. Not more than 5 percent of such refunds may be retained as a reimbursement to the Customs Service for the administrative costs of making the refunds.".

(b) JEWELRY.—Additional U.S. Note 3 to chapter 71 is amended—

(1) by redesignating paragraphs (b), (c), (d), and (e) as paragraphs (c), (d), (e), and (f), respectively;

(2) by inserting after paragraph (a) the following new paragraph:

"(b) Notwithstanding additional U.S. Note 5(h)(ii)(B) to chapter 91, articles of jewelry subject to this note shall be subject to a limitation of 10,000,000 units."; and

(3) by striking paragraph (f), as so redesignated, and inserting the following:

"(f) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, any article of jewelry provided for in heading 7113 that is assembled in the Virgin Islands, Guam, or American Samoa by a jewelry manufacturer or jewelry assembler that commenced jewelry manufacturing or jewelry assembly operations in the Virgin Islands, Guam, or American Samoa after August 9, 2001, shall be treated as a product of the Virgin Islands, Guam, or American Samoa for purposes of this note and General Note 3(a)(iv) of this Schedule if such article is entered no later than 18 months after such jewelry manufacturer or jewelry assembler commenced jewelry manufacturing or jewelry assembly operations in the Virgin Islands, Guam, or American Samoa.".

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply with respect to goods imported into the customs territory of the United States on or after January 1, 2003.

SEC. 1563. MODIFICATION OF PROVISIONS RELATING TO DRAWBACK CLAIMS.

(a) MERCHANDISE NOT CONFORMING TO SAMPLE OR SPECIFICATIONS.—Section 313(c) of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 1313(c)) is amended to read as follows:

"(c) MERCHANDISE NOT CONFORMING TO SAMPLE OR SPECIFICATIONS.—

"(1) CONDITIONS FOR DRAWBACK.—Upon the exportation or destruction under the supervision of the Customs Service of articles or merchandise—

"(A) upon which the duties have been paid,

"(B) which has been entered or withdrawn for consumption,

"(C) which is—

"(i) not conforming to sample or specifications, shipped without the consent of the consignee, or determined to be defective as of the time of importation, or

"(ii) ultimately sold at retail by the importer, or the person who received the merchandise from the importer under a certificate of delivery, and for any reason returned to and accepted by the importer, or the person who received the merchandise from the importer under a certificate of delivery, and

"(D) which, within 3 years after the date of importation or withdrawal, as applicable, has been exported or destroyed under the supervision of the Customs Service, the full amount of the duties paid upon such merchandise, less 1 percent, shall be refunded as drawback.

"(2) DESIGNATION OF IMPORT ENTRIES.—For purposes of paragraph (1)(C)(ii), drawback may be claimed by designating an entry of merchandise that was imported within 1 year before the date of exportation or destruction of the merchandise described in paragraph (1) (A) and (B) under the supervision of the Customs Service. The merchandise designated for drawback must be identified in the import documentation with the same eight digit classification number and specific product identifier (such as part number, SKU, or product code) as the returned merchandise.

"(3) WHEN DRAWBACK CERTIFICATES NOT REQUIRED.—For purposes of this subsection, drawback certificates are not required if the drawback claimant and the importer are the same party, or if the drawback claimant is a drawback successor to the importer as defined in subsection (s)(3).".

(b) TIME LIMITATION ON EXPORTATION OR DESTRUCTION.—Section 313(i) of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 1313(i)), is amended—

(1) by striking "No" and inserting "Unless otherwise provided for in this section, no"; and

(2) by inserting ", or destroyed under the supervision of the Customs Service," after "exported".

(c) USE OF DOMESTIC MERCHANDISE ACQUIRED IN EXCHANGE FOR IMPORTED MERCHANDISE OF SAME KIND AND QUALITY.—Section 313(k) of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 1313(k)), is amended—

(1) by striking "(k)" and inserting "(k)(1)"; and

(2) by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

"(2) For purposes of subsections (a) and (b), the use of any domestic merchandise acquired in exchange for a drawback product of the same kind and quality shall be treated as the use of such drawback product if no certificate of delivery or certificate of manufacture and delivery pertaining to such drawback product is issued, other than that which documents the product's manufacture and delivery. As used in this paragraph, the term 'drawback product' means any domestically produced product, manufactured with imported merchandise or any other merchandise (whether imported or domestic) of the same kind and quality, that is subject to drawback.".

(d) PACKAGING MATERIAL.—Section 313(q) of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 1313(q)), is amended to read as follows:

"(q) PACKAGING MATERIAL.—

"(1) PACKAGING MATERIAL UNDER SUBSECTIONS (c) AND (j).—Packaging material, whether imported and duty paid, and claimed for drawback under either subsection (c) or (j)(1), or imported and duty paid, or substituted, and claimed for drawback under subsection (j)(2), shall be eligible for drawback, upon exportation, of 99 percent of any duty, tax, or fee imposed under Federal law on such imported material.

"(2) PACKAGING MATERIAL UNDER SUBSECTIONS (a) AND (b).—Packaging material that is manufactured or produced under subsection (a) or (b) shall be eligible for drawback, upon exportation, of 99 percent of any duty, tax, or fee imposed under Federal law on the imported or substituted merchandise used to manufacture or produce such material.

"(3) CONTENTS.—Packaging material described in paragraphs (1) and (2) shall be eligible for drawback whether or not they contain articles or merchandise, and whether or not any articles or merchandise they contain are eligible for drawback.

"(4) EMPLOYING PACKAGING MATERIAL FOR ITS INTENDED PURPOSE PRIOR TO EXPORTATION.—The use of any packaging material for its intended purpose prior to exportation shall not be treated as a use of such material prior to exportation for purposes of applying subsection (a), (b), or (c), or paragraph (1)(B) or (2)(C)(i) of subsection (j).".

(e) LIMITATION ON LIQUIDATION.—Section 504 of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 1504) is amended—

(1) by striking subsections (a) and (b) and inserting the following:

"(a) LIQUIDATION.—

"(1) ENTRIES FOR CONSUMPTION.—Unless an entry of merchandise for consumption is extended under subsection (b) of this section or suspended as required by statute or court order, except as provided in section 751(a)(3), an entry of merchandise for consumption not liquidated within 1 year from—

"(A) the date of entry of such merchandise,

"(B) the date of the final withdrawal of all such merchandise covered by a warehouse entry,

"(C) the date of withdrawal from warehouse of such merchandise for consumption if, pursuant to regulations issued under section 505(a), duties may be deposited after the filing of any entry or withdrawal from warehouse, or

"(D) if a reconciliation is filed, or should have been filed, the date of the filing under section 484 or the date the reconciliation should have been filed, shall be deemed liquidated at the rate of duty, value, quantity, and amount of duties asserted at the time of entry by the importer of record. Notwithstanding section 500(e), notice of liquidation need not be given of an entry deemed liquidated.

"(2) ENTRIES OR CLAIMS FOR DRAWBACK.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in subparagraph (B) or (C), unless an entry or claim for drawback is extended under subsection (b) or suspended as required by statute or court order, an entry or claim for drawback not liquidated within 1 year from the date of entry or claim shall be deemed liquidated at the drawback amount asserted by the claimant at the time of entry or claim. Notwithstanding section 500(e), notice of liquidation need not be given of an entry deemed liquidated.

"(B) UNLIQUIDATED IMPORTS.—An entry or claim for drawback whose designated or identified import entries have not been liquidated and become final within the 1-year period described in subparagraph (A), or within the 1-year period described in subparagraph (C), shall be deemed liquidated upon the deposit of estimated duties on the unliquidated imported merchandise, and upon the filing with the Customs Service of a written request for the liquidation of the drawback entry or claim. Such a request must include a waiver of any right to payment or refund under other provisions of law. The Secretary of the Treasury shall prescribe any necessary regulations for the purpose of administering this subparagraph.

"(C) EXCEPTION.—An entry or claim for drawback filed before the date of the enactment of this paragraph, the liquidation of which is not final as of the date of the enactment of this paragraph, shall be deemed liquidated on the date that is 1 year after the date of the enactment of this paragraph at the drawback amount asserted by the claimant at the time of the entry or claim.

"(3) PAYMENTS OR REFUNDS.—Payment or refund of duties owed pursuant to paragraph (1) or (2) shall be made to the importer of record or drawback claimant, as the case may be, not later than 90 days after liquidation.

"(b) EXTENSION.—The Secretary of the Treasury may extend the period in which to liquidate an entry if—

"(1) the information needed for the proper appraisement or classification of the imported or withdrawn merchandise, or for determining the correct drawback amount, or for ensuring compliance with applicable law, is not available to the Customs Service; or

"(2) the importer of record or drawback claimant, as the case may be, requests such extension and shows good cause therefor.

The Secretary shall give notice of an extension under this subsection to the importer of record or drawback claimant, as the case may be, and the surety of such importer of record or drawback claimant. Notice shall be in such form and manner (which may include electronic transmittal) as the Secretary shall by regulation prescribe. Any entry the liquidation of which is extended under this subsection shall be treated as having been liquidated at the rate of duty, value, quantity, and amount of duty asserted at the time of entry by the importer of record, or the drawback amount asserted at the time of entry by the drawback claimant, at the expiration of 4 years from the applicable date specified in subsection (a).";

(2) in subsection (c)—

(A) by inserting "or drawback claimant, as the case may be," after "to the importer of record"; and

(B) by inserting "or drawback claimant" after "of such importer of record"; and

(3) in subsection (d), by striking the period at the end and inserting "or (in the case of a drawback entry or claim) at the drawback amount asserted at the time of entry by the drawback claimant.".

(f) PENALTIES FOR FALSE DRAWBACK CLAIMS.—Section 593A(h) of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 1593a(h)) is amended by striking "subsection (g)" and inserting "subsections (c) and (g)".

(g) EFFECTIVE DATE.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The amendments made by subsections (a), (b), (c), (d), and (f) shall take effect on the date of the enactment of this Act, and shall apply to—

(A) any drawback entry filed on and after such date of enactment; and

(B) any drawback entry filed before such date of enactment if the liquidation of the entry is not final on such date of enactment.

(2) SUBSECTION (e).—The amendments made by subsection (e) shall take effect on the date of the enactment of this Act, and shall apply to—

(A) any entry of merchandise for consumption or entry or claim for drawback filed on and after such date of enactment; and

(B) any entry or claim for drawback filed before such date of enactment if the liquidation of the entry or claim is not final on such date of enactment.

Subtitle C—Effective Date

SEC. 1571. EFFECTIVE DATE.

Except as otherwise provided in this title, the amendments made by this title shall apply with respect to goods entered, or withdrawn from warehouse for consumption, on or after the 15th day after the date of the enactment of this Act.

TITLE II—OTHER TRADE PROVISIONS

Subtitle A—Miscellaneous Provisions

SEC. 2001. TERMINATION OF APPLICATION OF TITLE IV OF THE TRADE ACT OF 1974 TO ARMENIA.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress makes the following findings:

(1) Armenia has been found to be in full compliance with the freedom of emigration requirements under title IV of the Trade Act of 1974.

(2) Armenia acceded to the World Trade Organization on February 5, 2003.

(3) Since declaring its independence from the Soviet Union in 1991, Armenia has made considerable progress in enacting free-market reforms.

(4) Armenia has demonstrated a strong desire to build a friendly and cooperative relationship with the United States and has concluded many bilateral treaties and agreements with the United States.

(5) Total United States-Armenia bilateral trade for 2002 amounted to more than $134,200,000.

(b) PRESIDENTIAL DETERMINATIONS AND EXTENSIONS OF NONDISCRIMINATORY TREATMENT.—Notwithstanding any provision of title IV of the Trade Act of 1974 (19 U.S.C. 2431 et seq.), the President may—

(1) determine that such title should no longer apply to Armenia; and

(2) after making a determination under paragraph (1) with respect to Armenia, proclaim the extension of nondiscriminatory treatment (normal trade relations treatment) to the products of that country.

(c) TERMINATION OF APPLICATION OF TITLE IV.—On and after the effective date of the extension under subsection (b)(2) of nondiscriminatory treatment to the products of Armenia, title IV of the Trade Act of 1974 shall cease to apply to that country.

SEC. 2002. MODIFICATION TO CELLAR TREATMENT OF NATURAL WINE.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subsection (a) of section 5382 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (relating to cellar treatment of natural wine) is amended to read as follows:

"(a) PROPER CELLAR TREATMENT.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Proper cellar treatment of natural wine constitutes—

"(A) subject to paragraph (2), those practices and procedures in the United States, whether historical or newly developed, of using various methods and materials to stabilize the wine, or the fruit juice from which it is made, so as to produce a finished product acceptable in good commercial practice in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Secretary; and

"(B) subject to paragraph (3), in the case of wine produced and imported subject to an international agreement or treaty, those practices and procedures acceptable to the United States under such agreement or treaty.

"(2) RECOGNITION OF CONTINUING TREATMENT.—For purposes of paragraph (1)(A), where a particular treatment has been used in customary commercial practice in the United States, it shall continue to be recognized as a proper cellar treatment in the absence of regulations prescribed by the Secretary finding such treatment not to be proper cellar treatment within the meaning of this subsection.

"(3) CERTIFICATION OF PRACTICES AND PROCEDURES FOR IMPORTED WINE.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—In the case of imported wine produced after December 31, 2004, the Secretary shall accept the practices and procedures used to produce such wine, if, at the time of importation—

"(i) the Secretary has on file or is provided with a certification from the government of the producing country, accompanied by an affirmed laboratory analysis, that the practices and procedures used to produce the wine constitute proper cellar treatment under paragraph (1)(A),

"(ii) the Secretary has on file or is provided with such certification, if any, as may be required by an international agreement or treaty under paragraph (1)(B), or

"(iii) in the case of an importer that owns or controls or that has an affiliate that owns or controls a winery operating under a basic permit issued by the Secretary, the importer certifies that the practices and procedures used to produce the wine constitute proper cellar treatment under paragraph (1)(A).

"(B) AFFILIATE DEFINED.—For purposes of this paragraph, the term 'affiliate' has the meaning given such term by section 117(a)(4) of the Federal Alcohol Administration Act (27 U.S.C. 211(a)(4)) and includes a winery's parent or subsidiary or any other entity in which the winery's parent or subsidiary has an ownership interest.".

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendment made by this section shall take effect on January 1, 2005.

SEC. 2003. ARTICLES ELIGIBLE FOR PREFERENTIAL TREATMENT UNDER THE ANDEAN TRADE PREFERENCE ACT.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding section 514 of the Tariff Act of 1930 or any other provision of law, and subject to subsection (c)—

(1) with respect to any article described in section 204(b)(1)(D) of the Andean Trade Preference Act (as amended by section 3103(a)(2) of the Trade Act of 2002) for which the President proclaims duty free treatment pursuant to section 204(b)(1) of the Andean Trade Preference Act, the entry of any such article on or after August 6, 2002, and before the date on which the President so proclaims duty free treatment for such article shall be subject to the rate of duty applicable on August 5, 2002; and

(2) such entries shall be liquidated or reliquidated as if the reduced duty preferential treatment applied, and the Secretary of the Treasury shall refund any excess duties paid with respect to such entry.

(b) ENTRY.—As used in this subsection, the term "entry" includes a withdrawal from warehouse for consumption.

(c) REQUESTS.—Liquidation or reliquidation may be made under paragraph (1) with respect to an entry only if a request therefor is filed with the Customs Service, within 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, and such request contains sufficient information to enable the Customs Service—

(1) to locate the entry; or

(2) to reconstruct the entry if it cannot be located.

(B) REQUESTS FOR RETROACTIVE APPLICATION.—Section 8(b) of the AGOA Acceleration Act of 2004 shall be applied with respect to the amendment made by paragraph (1) by substituting ''90 days after the date of the enactment of the Miscellaneous Trade and Technical Corrections Act of 2004'' for ''90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act''.

(k) MAURITIUS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 112(b)(3)(B) of the African Growth and Opportunity Act (19 U.S.C. 3721(b)(3)(B)) is amended by adding at the end the following new clause:

''(iv) SEPARATE LIMITATION FOR MAURITIUS.—For the 1-year period beginning October 1, 2004—

''(I) the term 'lesser developed beneficiary sub-Saharan African country' includes Mauritius; and

''(II) the applicable percentage with respect to Mauritius shall be 5 percent of the applicable percentage described in clause (ii)(II).''.

(2) RETROACTIVE APPLICATION.—Notwithstanding section 514 of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 1514) or any other provision of law, upon proper request filed with the Bureau of Customs and Border Protection before the 90th day after the date of the enactment of this Act, any entry, or withdrawal from warehouse for consumption, of any good—

(A) that was made on or after October 1, 2004, and before the date of the enactment of this Act, and

(B) with respect to which there would have been no duty if the amendment made by this subsection applied to such entry or withdrawal, shall be liquidated or reliquidated as if such amendment applied to such entry or withdrawal.

SEC. 2005. EXTENSION OF NORMAL TRADE RELATIONS TO LAOS.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that—

(1) the Lao People's Democratic Republic is pursuing a broad policy of adopting market-based reforms to enhance its economic competitiveness and achieve an attractive climate for investment;

(2) extension of normal trade relations treatment would assist the Lao People's Democratic Republic in developing its economy based on free market principles and becoming competitive in the global marketplace;

(3) establishing normal commercial relations on a reciprocal basis with the Lao People's Democratic Republic will promote United States exports to the rapidly growing southeast Asian region and expand opportunities for United States business and investment in the Lao People's Democratic Republic economy;

(4) United States and Laotian commercial interests would benefit from the bilateral trade agreement between the United States and the Lao People's Democratic Republic, signed in 2003, providing for market access and the protection of intellectual property rights;

(5) the Lao People's Democratic Republic has taken cooperative steps with the United States in the global war on terrorism, combating the trafficking of narcotics, and the accounting for American servicemen and civilians still missing from the Vietnam war; and

(6) expanding bilateral trade relations that include a commercial agreement may promote further progress by the Lao People's Democratic Republic on human rights, religious tolerance, democratic rule, and transparency, and assist that country in adopting regional and world trading rules and principles.

(b) EXTENSION OF NONDISCRIMINATORY TREATMENT TO THE PRODUCTS OF THE LAO PEOPLE'S DEMOCRATIC REPUBLIC.—

(1) Harmonized tariff schedule amendment.—General note 3(b) of the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States is amended by striking ''Laos''.

(2) Effective date.—The amendment made by paragraph (1) applies with respect to goods entered, or withdrawn from warehouse for consumption, on or after the effective date of a notice published in the Federal Register by the United States Trade Representative that a trade agreement obligating reciprocal most-favored-nation treatment between the Lao People's Democratic Republic and the United States has entered into force.

SEC. 2006. REPEAL OF ANTIDUMPING PROVISION OF REVENUE ACT OF 1916.

(a) REPEAL.—Section 801 of the Act entitled ''An Act to increase the revenue, and for other purposes'', approved September 8, 1916 (15 U.S.C. 72), is repealed.

(b) EFFECT OF REPEAL.—The repeal made by subsection (a) shall not affect any action under section 801 of the Act referred to in subsection (a) that was commenced before the date of the enactment of this Act and is pending on such date.

(iii) by striking "year 2003" and all that follows through the end period and inserting the following: "years 2003 and 2004, 5,000,000 square meter equivalents in calendar year 2005 and each calendar year thereafter, allocated as required by section 501(e) of the Trade and Development Act of 2000 for the benefit of persons who cut and sew such clothing in the United States."; and

(C) by adding at the end the following new subdivision:

"(b) For purposes of heading 9902.51.15, all fabrics entered under such heading must be certified by the importer as suitable for use in making men's and boys' suits (as defined in U.S. note 13 to this subchapter), suit-type jackets, or trousers and must be imported for the benefit of persons who cut and sew such clothing in the United States.".

(3) NOTE 17.—The U.S. Notes for subchapter II of chapter 99 of the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States are amended by adding at the end the following new Note:

"17. (a) The aggregate quantity of worsted wool fabric entered under subheading 9902.51.16 shall be limited to 2,000,000 square meter equivalents in calendar year 2005 and each calendar year thereafter, allocated in accordance with section 501(e) of the Trade and Development Act of 2000 for the benefit of persons who weave worsted wool fabric suitable for use in men's and boys' suits.

"(b) For purposes of heading 9902.51.16, all fabrics entered under such heading must be certified by the importer as suitable for use in making men's and boys' suits (as defined in U.S. note 13 to this subchapter), suit-type jackets, or trousers and must be imported for the benefit of persons who weave in the United States worsted wool fabric suitable for use in such clothing.".

(1) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

(A) SUNSET STAGED REDUCTION REQUIREMENT.—Section 501(a)(2) of the Trade and Development Act of 2000 (Public Law 106–200; 114 Stat. 299) is amended by inserting before the period "for goods entered, or withdrawn from warehouse for consumption, before January 1, 2005".

(B) ALLOCATION OF TARIFF-RATE QUOTAS.—Subsection (e) of section 501 of the Trade and Development Act of 2000 (Public Law 106–200; 114 Stat. 200) is amended—

(i) by striking "9902.51.12" and inserting "9902.51.15";

(ii) by inserting "for manufacturers of men's and boys' suits" after "implementing the limitation"; and

(iii) by inserting at the end the following new sentence: "In implementing the limitation for manufacturers of worsted wool fabric with respect to the quantity of worsted wool fabrics under heading 9902.51.16 of the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States, as required by U.S. Note 17 of subchapter II of chapter 99 of such Schedule, the Secretary of Commerce shall prescribe regulations to allocate fairly the quantity of worsted wool fabrics required under U.S. Note 17 of such Schedule to manufacturers who weave worsted wool fabric in the United States.".

(C) SUNSET AUTHORITY TO MODIFY LIMITATION ON QUANTITY.—Section 504(b) of the Trade and Development Act of 2000 (Public Law 106–200; 114 Stat. 301) is repealed, effective January 1, 2005.

(c) EXTENSION OF DUTY REFUNDS AND WOOL RESEARCH TRUST FUND.—

(1) ESTABLISHMENT OF TRUST FUND.—There is hereby established within the Treasury of the United States a trust fund to be known as the Wool Apparel Manufacturers Trust Fund (in this subsection referred to as the "Trust Fund"), consisting of such amounts as may be transferred to the Trust Fund under paragraph (2).

(2) TRANSFER OF AMOUNTS.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of the Treasury shall transfer to the Trust Fund, out of the general fund of the Treasury of the United States, amounts determined by the Secretary of the Treasury to be equivalent to the amounts received in the general fund that are attributable to the duty received on articles classified under chapter 51 of the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States, subject to the limitation in subparagraph (B).

(B) LIMITATION.—In any fiscal year, the Secretary shall not transfer more than the amount determined by the Secretary necessary for the Bureau of Customs and Border Protection to make payments authorized under paragraph (3) and the Secretary of Commerce to make grants under paragraph (6).

(3) AVAILABILITY OF AMOUNTS FROM TRUST FUND.—From amounts in the Trust Fund, the Bureau of Customs and Border Protection shall pay to each manufacturer that receives a payment during calendar year 2005 under section 505 of the Trade and Development Act of 2000 (Public Law 106–200; 114 Stat. 303), as amended by section 5101 of the Trade Act of 2002 (116 Stat. 1041), and that provides an affidavit, no later than March 1 of the year of the payment, that it remains a manufacturer in the United States as of January 1 of the year of the payment, 2 additional payments, each payment equal to the payment received for calendar year 2005 as follows:

(A) The first payment to be made after January 1, 2006, but on or before April 15, 2006.

(B) The second payment to be made after January 1, 2007, but on or before April 15, 2007.

(4) SUCCESSOR-IN-INTEREST.—Any manufacturer that becomes a successor-in-interest to a claimant of a payment under section 505 of the Trade and Development Act of 2000, as amended by section 5101 of the Trade Act of 2002, because of—

(A) an assignment of the claim,

(B) an assignment of the original claimant's right to manufacture under the same trade name, or

(C) a reorganization, or otherwise, shall be eligible to claim the payment as if the successor manufacturer were the original claimant, without regard to section 3727 of title 31, United States Code. Such right to claim payment as a successor shall be effective as if the right were included in section 505 of the Trade and Development Act of 2000.

(5) EXTENSION OF WOOL RESEARCH, DEVELOPMENT, AND PROMOTION TRUST FUND.—Section 506(f) of the Trade and Development Act of 2000 (Public Law 106–200; 114 Stat. 303), as amended by section 5102(c)(2) of the Trade Act of 2002 (116 Stat. 1047), is amended by striking "2006" and inserting "2008".

(6) COMMERCE AUTHORITY TO PROMOTE DOMESTIC EMPLOYMENT.—

(A) GRANTS TO MANUFACTURERS OF WORSTED WOOL FABRICS.—The Secretary of Commerce shall provide to—

(i) persons who were, during calendar years 1999, 2000, and 2001, manufacturers of worsted wool fabric of the kind described in heading 9902.51.12 of the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States (as in effect on the day before the date of the enactment of this Act), and

(ii) persons who were, during such calendar years, manufacturers of worsted wool fabric of the kind described in heading 9902.51.11 of the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States, grants in each of calendar years 2005 through 2007 in the amounts determined under subparagraph (B).

(B) AMOUNTS.—(i) The total amount of grants to manufacturers under subparagraph (A)(i) shall be $2,666,000 each calendar year, allocated among such manufacturers on the basis of the percentage of each manufacturer's production of the fabric described in heading 9902.51.12 of the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States (as in effect on the day before the date of the enactment of this Act) for calendar years 1999, 2000, and 2001, compared to the production of such fabric by all such manufacturers who qualify under subparagraph (A)(i) for such grants.

(ii) The total amount of grants to manufacturers under subparagraph (A)(ii) shall be $2,666,000 each calendar year, allocated among such manufacturers on the basis of the percentage of each manufacturer's production of the fabric described in heading 9902.51.11 of the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States for calendar years 1999, 2000, and 2001, compared to the production of such fabric by all manufacturers who qualify under subparagraph (A)(ii) for such grants.

(iii) Any grant awarded by the Secretary under this paragraph shall be final and not subject to appeal or protest.

(d) EFFECTIVE DATE FOR DUTY REDUCTION.—The amendment made by subsection (a)(1)(B) shall apply to goods entered, or withdrawn from warehouse for consumption, on or after January 1, 2005.

TITLE V—REFERENCE TO CUSTOMS SERVICE

SEC. 5001. REFERENCE TO CUSTOMS SERVICE.

Except as otherwise expressly provided, any reference in this Act to the "United States Customs Service" or the "Customs Service" shall be considered to be a reference to the "Bureau of Customs and Border Protection" of the Department of Homeland Security.

And the Senate agree to the same.

From the Committee on Ways and Means, for consideration of the House bill and the Senate amendment, and modifications committed to conference:

WILLIAM THOMAS,
PHILIP M. CRANE,
E. CLAY SHAW, Jr.,
CHARLES B. RANGEL,
SANDER M. LEVIN,
Managers on the Part of the House.

CHUCK GRASSLEY,
BILL FRIST,
MAX BAUCUS,
Managers on the Part of the Senate.

JOINT EXPLANATORY STATEMENT OF THE COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE

The managers on the part of the House and the Senate at the conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendment of the Senate to the bill (H.R. 1047), to amend the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States to modify temporarily certain rates of duty, to make other technical amendments to the trade laws, and for other purposes, submit the following joint statement to the House and the Senate in explanation of the effect of the action agreed upon by the managers and recommended in the accompanying conference report.

The Senate amendment struck all of the House bill after the enacting clause and inserted a substitute text.

The House recedes from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate with an amendment that is a substitute for the House bill and the Senate amendment. The differences between the House bill, the Senate amendment, and the substitute agreed to in conference are noted below, except for clerical corrections, conforming changes made necessary by agreements reached by the conferees, and minor drafting and clarifying changes.

SECTION 1.—SHORT TITLE; TABLE OF CONTENTS

TITLE I—TARIFF PROVISIONS

SECTION 1101.—REFERENCE; EXPIRED PROVISIONS

Present law

Subchapter II of Chapter 99 of the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States provides rates of duty for certain items.

House bill

The House bill strikes certain subheadings in subchapter II of Chapter 99.

Senate amendment

The Senate amendment is the same as the House bill with minor technical changes.

Conference agreement

The conference agreement follows the House bill and the Senate amendment with minor technical changes.

Subtitle A—Temporary Duty Suspensions and Reductions

CHAPTER 1—NEW DUTY SUSPENSIONS AND REDUCTIONS

SECTIONS 1111 THROUGH 1441

Present law

Imports of the goods described in sections 1111 through 1441 enter under the specified

Harmonized Tariff Schedule subheading with the associated tariff rate.

House bill

The House bill provides for the suspension or reduction of duties of 306 products identified in section 1101 through 1406 of H.R. 1047.

Senate amendment

The Senate amendment struck all House provisions and substituted provisions that in most cases were identical or had only minor technical changes. There are exceptions as follows. The Senate amendment added additional duty suspensions at Sections 1399-1419 of the Senate amendment. The Senate amendment deleted House Section 1124 (Buctril) because of opposition from a domestic maker of the product. The Senate amendment inadvertently did not include House Sections 1176, 1338, 1403, and 1414.

Conference agreement

After consideration of the technical and policy differences between the two bills, Conferees agreed to the following.

The House recedes to the following Senate amendments: Sections 1109, 1111, 1144, 1145, 1148, 1161, 1166, 1205, 1215, 1223, 1124, 1231, 1245, 1290, 1312, 1317, 1322, 1324, 1336, 1340, 1341, 1343, 1363, 1365, 1376, 1381, 1386, 1399-1419. The Senate recedes to the following House provisions: Sections 1101-1108, 1110, 1112-1113, 1125-1144, 1147-1148, 1150-1161, 1163-1166, 1168-1206, 1208-1216, 1218-1224, 1227-1232, 1234-1246, 1248-1291, 1293-1313, 1315-1318, 1320-1323, 1325, 1327-1337, 1338-1342, 1345, 1347-1365, 1367, 1369-1371, 1372-1378, 1380-1383, 1385-1388, 1390-1401, and 1406. The provisions expire on December 31, 2006.

The House further recedes to the Senate in dropping Section 1124 (Buctril) of the House bill. Conferees agree to make technical changes to Section 1420 of the Senate amendment (Bags for certain toys). The Senate recedes to the House with respect to certain footwear with the exception that the duty is reduced to 0. Conferees further agree to include additional duty suspensions.

CHAPTER 2—EXISTING DUTY SUSPENSIONS AND REDUCTIONS

SECTIONS 1451 THROUGH 1456—EXTENSION OF CERTAIN EXISTING DUTY SUSPENSIONS

Present law

Imports of the goods described in section 1451 through 1456 enter under the specified Harmonized Tariff Schedule subheading with the associated tariff rate.

House bill

The House bill extends the existing duty suspensions for products identified in Sections 1451 through 1456 until 12/31/2005.

Senate amendment

The Senate amendment made no changes to the House bill except for extending the existing duty suspensions for the products identified until 12/31/2006.

Conference agreement

The House recedes to the Senate. The conference agreement includes two additional extensions of duty suspensions for polyvinyl chloride and ceramic knives.

SECTION 1457—EFFECTIVE DATE

Present law

No provision.

House bill

Except as otherwise provided, the House bill makes the extension of duty suspensions provided in Sections 1451 through 1456 effective as of January 1, 2003.

Senate amendment

Except as otherwise provided, the Senate amendment makes the extension of duty suspensions provided in Sections 1451 through 1456 effective as of January 1, 2004.

Conference agreement

The House recedes to the Senate.

Subtitle B—Other Tariff Provisions

CHAPTER 1—LIQUIDATION OR RELIQUIDATION OF CERTAIN ENTRIES

Statement of Conferees regarding provisions to reliquidate certain entries. Conferees noted with great concern the large number of requests for reliquidation of imported entries. The standard for including reliquidations is clear government error. In this instance, some of the requests for reliquidation of imported products arose out of the fact that importers of like products were forgiven their debt in prior miscellaneous trade legislation. Conferees concluded that it was only fair to put all importers of like products on an equal footing. For this and other reasons conferees chose to be broadly inclusive in accepting reliquidation provisions in this conference report. In future legislation, however, conferees believe it is important that Congress authorize reliquidation of import entries only when there is clear government error, and sponsors of such legislation should be mindful of whether there is equal treatment for all importers of like products. Conferees intend that the test for "clear government error" for future reliquidations be strictly construed. Conferees further do not view inclusion of any particular reliquidation in this conference report as precedent that similar request should be included in future legislation.

SECTION 1501—CERTAIN TRAMWAY CARS

Present law

Imports of the goods described in section 1501 were liquidated.

House bill

The House bill provides for the liquidation or reliquidation of certain tramway car entries as duty free.

Senate amendment

The Senate amendment is the same as the House bill.

Conference agreement

The conference agreement follows the House bill and the Senate amendment.

SECTION 1502—LIBERTY BELL REPLICA

Present law

Liberty Bell replicas are currently liquidated at a rate of 5.8% ad valorem.

House bill

The House bill provides for the liquidation or reliquidation of a replica of the Liberty Bell, imported from the Whitechapel Bell Foundry of London, England, as duty-free.

Senate amendment

The Senate amendment is the same as the House bill.

Conference agreement

The conference agreement follows the House bill and the Senate amendment.

SECTION 1503—CERTAIN ENTRIES OF COTTON GLOVES

Present law

Certain identified entries of cotton gloves entered during the period from September 8, 1994 to February 2, 2000 were liquidated.

House bill

The House bill provides for the liquidation or reliquidation of certain identified entries of cotton gloves entered during the period from September 8, 1994 to February 2, 2000.

Senate amendment

The Senate amendment is the same as the House bill.

Conference agreement

The conference agreement follows the House bill and the Senate amendment.

SECTION 1504—CERTAIN ENTRIES OF POSTERS

Present law

Certain identified entries of posters entered during the period from June 19, 2000 to May 18, 2001 were liquidated.

House bill

The House bill provides for the liquidation or reliquidation of certain identified entries of posters entered during the period from June 19, 2000 to May 18, 2001.

Senate amendment

The Senate amendment is the same as the House bill.

Conference agreement

The conference agreement follows the House bill and the Senate amendment.

SECTION 1505—CERTAIN ENTRIES OF POSTERS ENTERED IN 1999 AND 2000

Present law

Certain identified entries of posters entered in 1999 and 2001 entered during the period from March 8, 1999 to November 1, 2000, were liquidated.

House bill

The House bill provides for the liquidation or reliquidation of certain identified entries of posters entered during the period from March 8, 1999 to November 1, 2000.

Senate amendment

The Senate amendment is the same as the House bill with additional items.

Conference agreement

The House recedes to the Senate.

SECTION 1506—CERTAIN ENTRIES OF 13-INCH TELEVISIONS

Present law

Certain identified entries of 13-inch televisions entered during the period from April 17, 1999 to May 31, 2000 were liquidated.

House bill

The House bill provides for the liquidation or reliquidation of certain identified entries of 13-inch televisions entered during the period from April 17, 1999 to May 31, 2000.

Senate amendment

The Senate amendment is the same as the House bill.

Conference agreement

The conference agreement follows the House bill and the Senate amendment.

SECTION 1507—NEOPRENE SYNCHRONOUS TIMING BELTS

Present law

Certain identified entries of neoprene synchronous timing belts were liquidated during the period from July 6, 1989 to April 17, 1990.

SECTION 1560—AUTHORITY FOR THE ESTABLISHMENT OF INTEGRATED BORDER INSPECTION AREAS AT THE UNITED STATES–CANADA BORDER

Present law

Section 127 of the Treasury Department Appropriations Act of 2003 (P.L. 108-7) contains this provision.

House bill

The House bill requires the Commissioner of Customs to seek to establish Integrated Border Inspection Areas on either side of the United States-Canada border in which U.S. Customs officers can inspect vehicles entering the United States from Canada before they enter the United States, or Canadian Customs officers can inspect vehicles entering Canada from the United States before they enter Canada.

Senate amendment

No provision.

Conference agreement

The Senate recedes to the House.

SECTION 1561—DESIGNATION OF FOREIGN LAW ENFORCEMENT OFFICERS

Present law

Section 127 of the Treasury Department Appropriations Act of 2003 (P.L. 108-7) contains this provision.

House bill

The House bill amends Section 401(i) of the Tariff Act of 1930 to provide for inspections and pre-clearance in foreign countries and to authorize the Secretary of State to enter into agreements with foreign countries for the stationing of foreign customs and agriculture inspection officers in the United States.

Senate amendment

No provision.

Conference agreement

The Senate recedes to the House.

SECTION 1562—AMENDMENTS TO THE UNITED STATES INSULAR POSSESSION PROGRAM

Present law

Additional U.S. Note 5 to HTS Chapter 91 provides for the duty-free entry of defined quantities of watches and watch movements produced in the U.S. insular possessions. This provision requires the Secretaries of Commerce and the Interior (the 'Secretaries') to allocate such duty exemptions among the insular possessions and issue appropriate licenses for such duty exemptions. Note 5 also requires the Secretaries to issue duty-refund certificates (known as Production Incentive Certificates, or PICs) to each insular possession watch and watch movement producer based on the producer's duty-free shipments and creditable wages during the previous calendar year. Additional U.S. Note 3 to Chapter 71, which was added to the HTS in 1999, provides that a producer of any article of jewelry that is provided for in heading 7113 and that is the product of the insular possessions is also eligible for PIC benefits provided for in Additional U.S. Note 5(h) to Chapter 91. In addition, Additional U.S. Note 3 to Chapter 71 provided that, for a two-year transition period, any article of jewelry provided for in heading 7113 that was assembled in the insular possessions would be treated as a product of the insular possessions for purposes of General Note 3(a)(iv), which provides duty-free treatment for insular possession products.

House bill

The House bill amends Additional U.S. Note 5(h) to HTS Chapter 91 to: (1) remove current restrictions on the use of Production Incentive Certificates by permitting the use of such certificates for refunds of duties on any articles imported into the United States; (2) extend the PIC program through 2015; and (3) increase the value of PICs to correspond to the loss of any comparative duty advantage for insular watches, contingent upon future eliminations or reductions in worldwide watch duties.

The House bill further amends Additional U.S. Note 3 to HTS Chapter 71 of the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States to: (1) add a separate 10,000,000 unit cap for jewelry to account for the fact that jewelry is generally produced at higher volumes than watches; and (2) provide a transition rule under which jewelry assembled by a new insular jewelry producer would receive duty-free treatment for 18 months after the producer's commencement of operations.

Senate amendment

The Senate amendment is the same as the House bill.

Conference agreement

The conference agreement follows the House bill and the Senate amendment.

SECTION 1563. MODIFICATION OF PROVISIONS RELATED TO DRAWBACK CLAIMS

Present law

See description of present law in Senate Report 108-28.

House bill

See description of provisions and reasons for change in Senate Report 108-28.

Senate amendment

The Senate amendment made no changes to the House bill.

Conference agreement

The conference agreement follows the House bill and the Senate amendment.

Subtitle C—Effective Date

SECTION 1571. EFFECTIVE DATE

Present law

No provision.

House bill

The House bill makes the amendments in this title applicable on or after the 15th day after the date of the enactment of the Act.

Senate amendment

The Senate amendment is the same as the House bill.

Conference agreement

The conference agreement follows the House bill and the Senate amendment.

TITLE II—OTHER TRADE PROVISIONS

Subtitle A—Miscellaneous Provisions

SECTION 2001. TERMINATION OF APPLICATION OF TITLE IV OF THE TRADE ACT OF 1974 TO ARMENIA

Present law

Armenia's NTR status is currently governed by Title IV of the Trade Act of 1974, as amended by the Customs and Trade Act of 1990 (title IV). Section 402 of title IV (also known as the Jackson-Vanik amendment) sets forth requirements relating to freedom of emigration, which must be met or waived by the President in order for the President to grant nondiscriminatory normal trade relations (NTR) status to a non-market economy country. Armenia, which was granted NTR in 1992, was found to be in full compliance with the Jackson-Vanik freedom of emigration requirements on June 3, 1997. NTR has continuously been renewed for Armenia, subject to semiannual review by the President. Armenia became a member of the World Trade Organization on February 5, 2003.

House bill

No provision.

Senate Amendment

No provision.

Conference Agreement

The conference agreement grants the President the authority to: (1) determine that Title IV of the Trade Act of 1974 should no longer apply to Armenia; and (2) proclaim the extension of nondiscriminatory treatment (normal trade relations treatment) to the products of Armenia.

SECTION 2002. MODIFICATION TO CELLAR TREATMENT OF NATURAL WINE

Present law

The United States allows the importation of wine produced in other countries without requiring either testing or certification in order to confirm that the wine has been produced in accordance with U.S. regulations. U.S. authorities simply require a certification that the wine has been produced in accordance with the regulations of the country of export, even though such foreign regulations may not be comparable to U.S. law. In contrast, a large number of U.S. trading partners require testing and laboratory analysis of U.S. wines imported for consumption to determine whether the wine conforms to their particular winemaking regulations and practices. Such foreign regulations can constitute a non-tariff trade barrier for U.S. goods.

In an effort to facilitate trade in wine, in December 2001, the United States along with other signatories signed a plurilateral agreement establishing a Mutual Acceptance Agreement on Winemaking Practices (MAA), also known as the Wine Accord. The primary focus of the MAA is to eliminate testing of wine for reasons other than health or safety. It is the first multilateral agreement to embrace the concept of equivalency in the Technical Barriers to Trade Agreement of the WTO.

House bill

The House bill provision conforms to the requirements of the MAA and establishes procedures to assure that countries not party to the MAA meet minimum requirements.

Senate amendment

No provision.

Conference agreement

The Senate recedes to the House.

SECTION 2003. ARTICLES ELIGIBLE FOR PREFERENTIAL TREATMENT UNDER THE ANDEAN TRADE PREFERENCE ACT

Present law

See description of present law in Senate Report 108-28.

House bill

See description of provisions and reasons for change in Senate Report 108-28.

Senate amendment

The Senate amendment made technical corrections to the House bill.

Conference agreement

The House recedes to the Senate.

SECTION 2004. TECHNICAL AMENDMENTS

Present law

No provision.

House bill

The House bill makes technical corrections to the Trade Act of 2002 (P.L. 107-210). The House bill also amends Section 112(b) of the African Growth and Opportunity Act (AGOA) (19 U.S.C. 3721(b)) and Section 213(b) of the Caribbean Basin Economic Recovery Act (CBERA) (19 U.S.C. 2703(b)) to permit the use of U.S. formed fabrics or U.S. formed components, whether cut to shape or knit to shape, using U.S. formed yarns, in garments that are otherwise produced from fabrics formed in the region. The House bill also amends Section 112(b) of the African Growth and Opportunity Act (19 U.S.C. 3721(b)) to ensure that a garment entered under short supply is not disqualified because the fabric is made in sub-Saharan Africa.

Senate amendment

The Senate amendment is the same as the House bill with certain additional provisions, including a limitation on customs user fees, labeling requirements for certain sock products, and a provision to extend industry trade advisory committees.

Conference agreement

The conference agreement follows the Senate amendment except that conferees agreed to remove provisions related to the African Growth and Opportunity Act, which were included in the AGOA Acceleration Act of 2004 and became P.L. 108-274.

SECTION 2004(1). RETROACTIVITY FOR CERTAIN AGOA PROVISIONS

Present Law

Pursuant to subsection 8(d) of the African Growth and Opportunity Acceleration (AGOA) Act of 2004 (Pub. L. 108-274), the entries referred to in subsection 8(a) of the AGOA Act of 2004 are limited to entries of apparel articles that meet the requirements of subsection 112(b) of the Trade and Development Act of 2000 (Pub. L. 106-200) as amended by section 3108 of the Trade Act of 2002 (Pub. L. 107-210) and the AGOA Act of 2004.

House bill

No provision.

Senate Amendment

The Senate amendment clarifies subsection 8(d) of the AGOA Act of 2004 (Public Law 108-274) by adding the articles provided for in subsection 112(d)(3)(A) of the Trade and Development Act of 2000 (Pub. L. 106-200) as amended (collars and cuffs), to the entries referred to in subsection 8(a) of the AGOA Act of 2004. As a result, entries of collars and cuffs made on or after October 1, 2000 shall be liquidated or reliquidated as free of duty and free of any quantitative restriction or limitation, pursuant to subsection 8(a) of the AGOA Act of 2004.

Conference agreement

The House recedes to the Senate.

SECTION 2006. EXTENSION OF NORMAL TRADE RELATIONS TO LAOS

Present law

"Laos" is listed in General note 3(b) of the HTS among the countries whose products are denied Normal Trade Relations (NTR) tariff treatment.

House bill

No provision.

Senate Amendment

No provision.

Conference Agreement

The conference agreement amends General note 3(b) of the HTS by striking "Laos."

SECTION 2006—REPEAL OF ANTIDUMPING PROVISION OF REVENUE ACT OF 1916

Present law

See House Report 108-415 for an explanation of present law and need for repeal.

House bill

No provision.

Senate amendment

No provision.

Conference agreement

Conferees agreed to include a provision to repeal the antidumping provision of the Revenue Act of 1916. The basis for the legislative language is H.R. 1073 from the 108th Congress. This legislation is necessary in order to bring the United States into compliance with its World Trade Organization obligations.

Subtitle B—Technical Amendments Relating to Entry and Protest

SECTIONS 2101 THROUGH 2108

Present Law

In the past, importers paid duties on each entry as the entry was processed. Under the recently implemented periodic payment system, CBP allows participating importers to pay off duties on a monthly basis.

House bill

No provision.

Senate amendment

The Senate amendment includes technical amendments dealing with reconfigured entries. The reconfigured entry process would allow importers to separate individual shipments from a larger entry if there are disputes about the individual shipments.

Conference agreement

The House recedes to the Senate with minor technical modifications.

Subtitle C—Protection of Intellectual Property Rights

SECTION 2201—USTR DETERMINATIONS IN TRIPS AGREEMENT INVESTIGATIONS

Present law

Under current law, Section 301 of the Trade Act of 1974 (19 U.S.C. 2414), as amended, requires, when a country is designated a "Priority Foreign Country" under the Special 301 provisions of Section 182 of the Trade Act of 1974 (19 U.S.C. 2414) for its failure to provide adequate and effective protection to U.S. Intellectual property rights, and if the failure in question also violated a provision of the Trade-Related Aspects of Intellectual Property Rights (TRIPS) agreement in the World Trade Organization (WTO), the United States Trade Representative (USTR) to initiate a Section 301 investigation within 30 days of such designation. Under Section 304, the USTR is required to conclude the Section 301 investigation no later than 18 months after the investigation is initiated. Section 303(a)(2) requires the USTR to request consultations with the Priority Foreign Country and, if the issue is not resolved, to initiate WTO dispute settlement proceedings against the Priority Foreign Country within 150 days after consultations are commenced. Under this timetable, the USTR is required to make a Section 301 determination prior to the conclusion of the WTO dispute settlement process.

House bill

No provision.

Senate amendment

The Senate amendment conforms the timetable in Section 304 to the WTO dispute settlement timetable. It requires the USTR to make its Section 301 determination not later than 30 days after the WTO dispute settlement proceeding is concluded.

Conference agreement

The House recedes to the Senate.

TITLE III—IRAQI CULTURAL ANTIQUITIES

Present Law

No provision.

House bill

No provision.

Senate amendment

The Senate amendment provides that the President may exercise the authority of the President under section 304 of the Convention on Cultural Property Implementation Act (CCPIA) (19 U.S.C. 2603) until September 30, 2009, with respect to any archeological or ethnological material of Iraq and without regard to whether Iraq is a State Party under the CCPIA. In exercising such authority, subsection 304(c) of the CCPIA shall not apply.

Conference agreement

The House recedes to the Senate with certain technical changes.

TITLE IV—WOOL TRUST FUND

Present Law

Section 5101 of the Trade Act of 2002 (Pub. L. No. 107-210) sets out three special refund pools for importers of wool fabric, wool yarn, and wool fiber and top, and identifies all persons eligible for the refunds. This law simplifies the process for refunding to these eligible parties first established by section 505 of the Trade and Development Act of 2000. Section 5102 of the Trade Act of 2002 extends temporary duty reductions, first established by the Trade and Development Act of 2000, on fabrics of worsted wool from 2003 to 2005. Section 5101 also increases the limitation on the quantity of imports of eligible worsted wool fabrics. Section 5102 also extends the payments made to manufacturers, first established by the Trade and Development Act of 2000, and extends the Wool Research Trust Fund through 2006.

House amendment

No provision.

Senate amendment

The Senate proposal would extend current programs, including the payments to manufacturers and the Wool Research Trust Fund by five years, while making further temporary reductions to duties on eligible products. The Senate proposal would also make grants to eligible manufacturers of worsted wool fabric. The programs are based on the funding structure established by the Trade and Development Act of 2000.

Conference agreement

The House recedes to the Senate proposal with changes so that all programs are extended by two years beyond the current date of expiration of the current programs.

TITLE V—REFERENCE TO CUSTOMS SERVICE

Present law

On November 25, 2002, the President signed into law legislation (P.L. 107-296) creating a new Department of Homeland Security (DHS). This law transferred the U.S. Customs Service to the Department of Homeland Security under the authority of the Under Secretary for Border and Transportation Security.

House bill

No provision.

Senate amendment

No provision.

Conference agreement

The conference agreement provides that any reference in this Act to the "United States Customs Service" or the "Customs Service" shall be considered to be a reference to the "Bureau of Customs and Border Protection" of the Department of Homeland Security.

From the Committee on Ways and Means, for consideration of the House bill and the Senate amendment, and modifications committed to conference:

REQUESTING THE SENATE TO RETURN TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES S. 1301

Mr. HUNTER. Mr. Speaker, I offer a privileged resolution (H. Res. 842) requesting return of official papers on S. 1301, and ask for its immediate consideration.

The Clerk read the resolution, as follows:

H. RES. 842

Resolved, That the Clerk of the House of Representatives request the Senate to return to the House the bill (S. 1301), an Act to amend title 18, United States Code, to prohibit video voyeurism in the special maritime and territorial jurisdiction of the United States, and for other purposes.

The resolution was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

9/11 RECOMMENDATIONS IMPLEMENTATION ACT

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to House Resolution 827 and rule XVIII, the Chair declares the House in the Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union for the further consideration of the bill, H.R. 10.

□ 1222

IN THE COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE

Accordingly, the House resolved itself into the Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union for the further consideration of the bill (H.R. 10) to provide for reform of the intelligence community, terrorism prevention and prosecution, border security, and international cooperation and coordination, and for other purposes, with Mr. ADERHOLT (Chairman pro tempore) in the chair.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. When the Committee of the Whole rose earlier today, the amendment numbered 12 printed in House Report 108-751 by the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. GREEN) had been disposed of.

It is now in order to consider amendment No. 14 printed in House Report 108-751.

AMENDMENT NO. 14 OFFERED BY MR. SMITH OF NEW JERSEY

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Amendment No. 14 offered by Mr. SMITH of New Jersey:

Strike section 3006 (page 242, line 18 through page 244, line 9) and redesignate provisions and conform the table of contents accordingly.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Pursuant to House Resolution 827, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SMITH) and the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. SENSENBRENNER) each will control 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SMITH).

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself 2 minutes.

Mr. Chairman, section 3006 would make one of the most sweeping, unfair changes in immigration policy in the last decade and, if enacted, would pose life-threatening consequences for asylum seekers, trafficking victims, men, women and children. Section 3006 would radically alter existing law with respect to expedited removal, and it would mandate that any noncitizen found in the U.S. be summarily deported if an immigration officer determined that the person had not been inspected upon entry to the country and could not prove to the immigration officer that he or she had been living in the U.S. for more than 5 years.

This mandate, Mr. Chairman, effectively transforms what was a discretionary program managed by Homeland Security and requires them to impose this procedure anywhere, including in the interior of the U.S.

Section 3006 would be especially harmful for women and children who are escaping a range of gender-related persecutions such as rape, sexual slavery, trafficking and honor killings since persons scarred by such trauma often require time before they can step forward to express their claims.

Mr. Chairman, section 3006 would provide for a super-expedited process of removing these people from the United States, with virtually no right of review, thus eviscerating protections that Congress has provided over the last several years for such victims in the Victims of Trafficking and Violence Protection Act which I was the prime sponsor of and is the law of the land.

Mr. Chairman, I want all of my colleagues to know that President Bush, in his SAP which came out yesterday, made it very clear that he is against this provision. The Bush administration wants this out. I call on Members on both sides of the aisle, Democrats and Republicans, to vote for my amendment which would strip it. Also, there are some 40 organizations, the U.S. Catholic Conference of Bishops; National Association of Evangelicals; Refugees International; and Human Rights First—a whole array from the left, right, middle, and everywhere else, who say this is an unwarranted change, an unfair change in our immigration policy. It does not belong in here. The 9/11 Commission did not ask for it.

Mr. SENSENBRENNER. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, this is not an issue of humanitarian application of our immigration refugee laws. It is an issue of securing our borders. None of the people the gentleman from New Jersey described would be subject to this if they have come to the United States and entered legally with a claim of persecution under the Refugee Act or a claim of asylum because of what is going on in their home country.

Simply stated, the amendment of the gentleman from New Jersey would strike the expedited removal provisions of this bill. The expedited removal provisions say that the provision of existing law shall be used when the INS picks up somebody who is illegally in this country and who has not been here for 5 years or more.

What is going on is that there are a lot of non-Mexicans that are coming across the southern border. Many of these people come from the Middle East. Without having the expedited removal procedures that are contained in this law, we are stuck with these people. This is a tremendous security threat to the United States. And what the provision that the gentleman from New Jersey seeks to strike is a provision that says that you do not have to jump through all kinds of legal hoops to get these people who have illegally entered the United States out of our country or who have entered legally and have overstayed their visas. It is as simple as that. This is a question of border security. It is not a question of persecuting all of the list of people that the gentleman from New Jersey talked about.

If you want secure borders in this country, the only vote on the Smith amendment is "no."

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to my good friend and colleague, the gentleman from California (Mr. BERMAN).

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Chairman, my friend, the chairman of the Committee on the Judiciary, says this is a matter of security. The Bush administration and George Bush say this is a massively overbroad expedited removal expansion. The President of the United States in January of this year gave a speech where he said the vast majority of these people "bring to America the values of faith in God, love of family, hard work and self-reliance."

If this amendment does not pass, this bill, because a group of people in the majority party in a caucus led by the gentleman from Colorado (Mr. TANCREDO) wants to glom their anti-immigration ideas onto a terrorism and intelligence reform bill, that these people will be deported, up to a million, without due process, without an administrative hearing, without a balancing process that deals with earned adjustment or with guest workers or with anything else. It is the forcing of an anti-immigration agenda onto an intelligence and homeland security reform bill.

We are talking here about victims of trafficking, Cubans fleeing Castro, battered women eligible for VAWA protection. We are talking about people who are classic refugees who will be picked up in this process; they will never have a chance to assert their asylum claims, people who will be subject to torture. You can say you adhere to every convention in the world on refugees and on torture, but if you summarily allow low-level enforcement officers in the Immigration and Customs Enforcement agency or in the Border Patrol to pick people up, take them out of the country, not let them tell their families they are being deported, insisting that they prove their credentials by the documents they have on their body at that time, that means either legal citizenship or legal residents or being here more than 5 years, you are subject to deportation, immediately, summarily, without any chance for judicial review and administrative hearing, any process whatsoever.

Please support the Smith amendment. It is very important.

□ 1230

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. Mr. Chairman, I yield the balance of my time to the distinguished gentleman from Florida (Mr. LINCOLN DIAZ-BALART).

Mr. LINCOLN DIAZ-BALART of Florida. Mr. Chairman, it is really unfortunate that this provision is in the base bill. It lumps the base bill, as written, all immigrants who may be accused of being undocumented who have been here for 5 years or less, with terrorists.

The current law says, if they are a terrorist, there is no limitation on time. They are picked up, and if they are not arrested, they are thrown out without a hearing. It also says, if they are an undocumented immigrant, within 2 years they can be picked up and sent out without a hearing. That is current.

This expands it to 5 years even though the 2 years of current law is not being used.

There is a border initiative that has been announced. Many other initiatives can be announced under current law. But, no, we want to expand it to 5 years and say that folks who are working in restaurants or folks that are cutting the grass or folks that are doing something that is very honorable and has nothing to do with terrorism are now going to be lumped together to say, even if they have a claim to stay in this country, they do not even have a hearing. They cannot even have a hearing and they are going to be thrown out.

And, by the way, it is not even "may." It is "shall." That is what we are talking about. And it is most unfortunate that in the context of a terrorism bill we have this language.

Vote for the Smith amendment.

Mr. SENSENBRENNER. Mr. Chairman, parliamentary inquiry. Has the time of the gentleman from New Jersey expired?

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore (Mr. ADERHOLT). The gentleman from New Jersey's (Mr. SMITH) time has expired.

Mr. SENSENBRENNER. Mr. Chairman, I yield the balance of my time to the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. HOSTETTLER), chairman of the Immigration, Border Security, and Claims Subcommittee.

Mr. HOSTETTLER. Mr. Chairman, I thank the chairman of the full committee for yielding me this time.

I join the gentleman from Wisconsin (Chairman SENSENBRENNER) in opposing this amendment, which would take a vital tool out of the hands of our Border Patrol in keeping foreign terrorists out of the United States.

As it is distressingly easy for aliens to illegally cross our borders, it would also be relatively easy for terrorists to enter. The Border Patrol recently released data that in just the period from last October through this June, over 44,000 non-Mexican aliens were caught trying to cross the northern or southern borders, including eight from Afghanistan, six from Algeria, 13 from Egypt, 20 from Indonesia, 10 from Iran, 55 from Israel, 122 from Pakistan, six from Saudi Arabia, six from Syria, 22 from Turkey, and two from Yemen. A South African woman alleged to be a terrorist on the terrorist watch list recently indicated that she had crossed the border illegally from Mexico.

What happens to these aliens when they are intercepted? They go through a "revolving door" when we release them because of a lack of detention space. Then we hold out some desperate hope that they will appear for their immigration court hearings months afterward. However, the Department of Justice's Office of the Inspector General found that the INS was not able to remove 87 percent of aliens with final orders of removal who were not detained. And, worse yet, 94 percent of nondetained aliens from state sponsors of terrorism who had final removal orders could not be located for their deportation. In an age of terrorism, this is just unacceptable.

There is no good reason not to subject illegal aliens who have crossed the border illegally to immediate deportation. These aliens, if they have been in the U.S. less than 10 years, have no right to seek cancellation of removal unless they are making a claim of asylum. Once again, unless they are making a claim of asylum and can show a credible fear of persecution, there is no reason not to subject them to expedited removal.

And, in fact, the amendment that just recently passed in the House, previously, removes the 1-year limitation in the base bill for convention against torture and asylum relief. So those who seek relief from convention against torture and for asylum will not be harmed by the bill.

So the amendment must be rejected so that we can allow for the expedited removal of individuals who would do us harm. I urge my colleagues to vote against the amendment.

Ms. JACKSON LEE of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I rise in favor of Mr. SMITH's amendment. This amendment would eliminate section 3006, which contains the expedited removal provisions of H.R. 10. Expedited removal proceedings are conducted by immigration officers who are not even attorneys. There is no hearing before an immigration judge, no right to counsel, and no appeal. Nevertheless, despite this complete absence of due process, someone removed from the United States in expedited removal proceedings is barred for 5 years from returning.

In fact, section 3006 would make expedited removal proceedings even harsher than they already are. When aliens are placed in expedited removal proceedings now, they have been in the United States for less than a year and can apply for asylum if they are able to establish a credible fear of persecution. Section 3006 would place undocumented aliens in expedited removal proceedings who have been in the United States for up to 5 years, and it would deprive them of the right to apply for asylum if they have been here for more than a year and have not filed an asylum application yet, even if they can establish a credible fear of persecution.

It is true that aliens in full due process removal proceedings before an Immigration Judge also are barred from applying for asylum if they have been in the United States for a year and have not already filed an asylum application, but it is not an absolute bar. The alien may still apply for asylum if he can demonstrate the existence of changed circumstances which materially affect his eligibility for asylum, or he can show extraordinary circumstances relating to the delay in filing the application within the one-year period. If people who have been in the United States for more than a year are going to be subjected to expedited removal proceedings, the same exceptions should be available to them for filing an asylum application after the 1-year period.

The fact that section 3006 would apply the 1-year time limit without the exception that was enacted with it is a clear indication of the intention of that section, which is to move people out of the country as quickly as possible without regard to the consequences. It is a certainty that this will result in sending people to countries where they will be persecuted.

I urge you to vote for this amendment to remove section 3006 from H.R. 10.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore (Mr. LINDER). The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SMITH).

The question was taken; and the Chairman pro tempore announced that the ayes appeared to have it.

Mr. SENSENBRENNER. Mr. Chairman, I demand a recorded vote.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 6 of rule XVIII, further proceedings on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. SENSENBRENNER) will be postponed.

It is now in order to consider amendment No. 15 printed in House report 108–751.

AMENDMENT NO. 15 OFFERED BY MR. SMITH OF NEW JERSEY

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Amendment No. 15 offered by Mr. SMITH of New Jersey:

Strike section 3007 (page 244, line 10 through page 247, line 18) and redesignate provisions and conform the table of contents accordingly.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Pursuant to House Resolution 827, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SMITH) and the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. SENSENBRENNER) each will control 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SMITH).

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself 2 minutes.

Mr. Chairman, section 3007 would make sweeping changes, again, to our asylum law that the drafters erroneously contend would stop terrorists from being granted asylum. I think Members should remember that under the Immigration and Nationality Act, terrorists are ineligible for asylum. Worse than being unnecessary, Mr. Chairman, this section would erect a number of brand-new barriers to winning asylum claims that are likely to prevent bona fide refugees from receiving the protection of asylum in the United States, and they will result in bona fide refugees being returned to their persecutors. This stacks the deck against refugees.

Let me just point out to my colleagues that in section 3007, asylum officers and immigration judges would be encouraged to deny an asylum claim simply because the applicant was unable to recall or recount information later in the process that she did not mention when she initially encountered an immigration officer. Asylum applicants, particularly survivors of torture, rape, forced abortion or sterilization may not be comfortable telling this information to a uniformed male inspection officer at an airport. Asylum applicants in that setting may not be provided with appropriate interpreters and may be understandably fearful of discussing their problems about their home countries in detail. They are frightened people, especially trafficking victims.

In section 3007 there is also, amazingly, a demeanor standard which flies in the face of our American standards. If somebody looks down during the asylum interview and does not somehow convey honesty, when one has been tortured, when they have been a victim of trafficking, when they have been hurt emotionally, psychologically, and physically, they could be denied asylum. Sometimes, talking to somebody who is a uniformed member of our service, they may be intimidated.

Also, and this is the central problem with this language, Mr. Chairman, it changes what is in the Refugee convention. There are five reasons why people can get asylum: race, nationality, religion, the Members know what they are. This changes it so that the applicant must prove it is the central reason. Asking asylum seekers to read the minds of their persecutors is absurd on its face. This will mean many people who are true asylum seekers, that should get it, will not get it.

Mr. SENSENBRENNER. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, I want to quote from the 9/11 Commission staff report entitled 9/11 and Terrorist Travel. The staff found that a number of terrorists have abused the asylum system and that once terrorists have entered the United States, their next challenge was to find a way to remain here. The primary method was immigration fraud, concocting bogus political asylum stories when they arrive.

This amendment strikes a good-faith effort to try to prevent these people from gaming the system.

The 9th Circuit Court of Appeals, which deals with the border States of Arizona and California, has made it difficult for immigration judges to deny fraudulent asylum application by terrorists and simply by scam artists. In their recent decisions, the 9th Circuit has failed to give deference to the adverse credibility determination of immigration judges in asylum cases, and as a result, many fraudulent applications have been approved.

The role of an appeals court is not to make a judgment on the credibility of the witnesses. That is done by the trial court. And here the immigration judges have determined that some of these applicants have no credibility, and yet the 9th Circuit says their determination really does not mean anything.

Even worse, the 9th Circuit has created a disturbing precedent that has made it easier for suspected terrorists to receive asylum. The Circuit has held that punishment inflicted on account of perceived membership in a terrorist group may constitute persecution on account of the political opinion of that terrorist group. Aliens who have been arrested in the United States on suspicion of being members of terrorist organizations have received asylum because of alleged fear of persecution if returned because of an affiliation with these groups. Talk about circular reasoning.

A member of the Board of Immigration Appeals complains that if a terrorist organization arose in this country aimed at the violent overthrow of the Federal Government through a program of murder of government and law enforcement officials and federal judges, it would appear that government suppression of this organization would be an act of persecution in the 9th Circuit. Being a guerilla is not a form of political opinion. Being a guerrilla means being engaged in acts of violence and illegality.

All the bill does is overturn the precedent of the 9th Circuit and provide a list of factors that an immigration judge can consider in assessing the credibility of the applicant, such as the demeanor, candor, and consistency of the witness.

What the gentleman from New Jersey is proposing to do is to say that if the witness has bad demeanor, no candor, and no consistency, they have got to grant the petition for asylum. And that is wrong and the amendment should be defeated.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. Lincoln Diaz-Balart).

Mr. LINCOLN DIAZ-BALART of Florida. Mr. Chairman, with all due respect to the chairman of the Committee on the Judiciary, whom I have great respect for, that is not what the effect of the Smith amendment would be.

There is a long tradition, based on international and domestic law and jurisprudence, that establishes the right to seek political asylum when there is a well-founded fear of persecution. In addition, our laws are clear that membership in any terrorist organization or activity in a terrorist organization automatically bars them even if they have a well-founded fear of persecution.

So what this legislation, the base bill, does is go much farther than what the opponents of the Smith amendment have portrayed up to now. And the reality of the matter is that when the law is as clear with regard to terrorism, and certainly as it has been in recent years, it is unfortunate to diminish the rights of people who are legitimately fearing for their lives and seeking political asylum.

That is why the Smith amendment is so necessary. So I would ask my colleagues to support it.

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. Mr. Chairman, I yield 30 seconds to the distinguished gentleman from Hawaii (Mr. Abercrombie).

Mr. ABERCROMBIE. Mr. Chairman, I only have 30 seconds here, and this is all I ask of all the Members: Let us not confuse trafficking with terrorism. I understand how they can be concerned about that and why they are trying to do their best. Nobody gainsays them that. But in the process, we are destroying the opportunity or standing the chance of destroying the opportunity to make the necessary differentiations, especially where trafficking is concerned.

There are over 50,000, by the State Department's estimation, people who are essentially made slaves today in the United States, who are trafficked, and they could display exactly the same sense of demeanor and the other characteristics that the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. Smith) has been discussing, and the other persons who are opposed to it.

Please give the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. Smith) an opportunity with this amendment so we can make certain that we do not make that confusion.

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. Mr. Chairman, because I have so many requests for time and will not get to all of them, I ask unanimous consent to extend this debate by 5 minutes equally divided between the proponent and opponent.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New Jersey?

Mr. SENSENBRENNER. I object, Mr. Chairman.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Objection is heard.

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. Mr. Chairman, I yield 45 seconds to the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. Cardin), who is the vice chairman of the Helsinki Commission, on which I serve as well.

Mr. CARDIN. Mr. Chairman, first, I thank the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. Smith) for bringing forth this amendment.

Mr. Chairman, let me point out that the adoption of this amendment is very much consistent with the 9/11 Commission's report. They talk about the United States winning the battle of ideas. The United States has stood against persecution of individuals because of race, nationality, or religion. If we do not adopt this amendment, the underlying bill will make it much more difficult for people who are legitimately being persecuted to be able to claim asylum in the United States.

☐ 1245

That is not what this Nation is about. Our Nation is about helping people and individuals who are being persecuted. This amendment is very important. I urge my colleagues to support it.

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. Mr. Chairman, I yield the balance of my time to the gentleman from California (Mr. BERMAN).

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore (Mr. LINDER). The gentleman from California is recognized for 45 seconds.

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Chairman, it is already law that terrorists cannot assert asylum. That is the law. A balanced and sensible proposal to fix our broken immigration system involves better border security, it involves the U.S. Visit Program, it involves sensible reforms in the procedures, it involves combining watch lists. It does not require the gaming of the asylum hearing process in a way that would cause us to depart from the fundamental precepts this country has always had, that we are a refuge for true refugees fleeing persecution in other countries.

The "fixes" in this process, in this bill, that the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SMITH) seeks to strike, games the system against people who are true refugees. Please pass the Smith amendment.

Mr. SENSENBRENNER. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself 30 seconds.

Mr. Chairman, what this amendment does is it allows liars to get asylum, because under the Smith amendment, somebody that an immigration judge determines is lying through his teeth and has no candor cannot take into consideration in determining the decision the fact that the judge has determined that the applicant has lied.

That is wrong. An "aye" vote protects liars. A "no" vote allows the judge to make a determination on candor.

Mr. Chairman, I yield the balance of the time to the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. HOSTETTLER).

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The gentleman from Indiana is recognized for 1½ minutes.

Mr. HOSTETTLER. Mr. Chairman, I join the gentleman from Wisconsin (Chairman SENSENBRENNER) in opposing this amendment. We must remember that terrorists continually try to abuse our asylum system. For example, in 1993, Mir Aimal Kansi murdered two CIA employees at CIA headquarters and Ramzi Yousef masterminded the first World Trade Center attack after they were free after applying for asylum. Just weeks ago, Shahawar Matin Siraj was arrested in New York City for plotting to bomb a subway station. Siraj was freed after applying for asylum.

As the gentleman from Wisconsin (Chairman SENSENBRENNER) stated, the Ninth Circuit has adopted a body of circuit law that is essentially preventing immigration judges from finding that asylum applicants are lying by severely limiting the factors, such as their inconsistencies and demeanor, that the immigration judge can consider in finding aliens untruthful.

Given that government attorneys are not allowed to ask the foreign government about the facts regarding the asylum claimants, about the only evidence available to the government on which to deny an asylum application is the perceived truthfulness of the applicant's testimony.

If a criminal jury can sentence a United States citizen who is a criminal defendant to life imprisonment or execution based on their not believing the American citizen's defendant's story, certainly an immigration judge can deny an alien asylum on the same basis.

The bill would overturn this ridiculous precedent used by the Ninth Circuit. The bill provides a list of factors that an immigration judge can consider in determining truthfulness.

Oppose the Smith amendment.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I rise in favor of Mr. SMITH's amendment. Mr. SMITH's amendment would eliminate section 3007. Section 3007 would create a special eligibility standard for asylum applicants who claim persecution on account of an accusation of involvement with a guerilla, militant, or terrorist organization; or on account of an accusation of engaging in or supporting guerilla, militant, or terrorist activities. They must establish that race, religion, nationality, membership in a particular social group, or political opinion was or will be the central motive for their persecution.

Frankly, this puzzles me. The burden of proof in the Immigration and Nationality Act now provides that the person must establish that he has been persecuted or has a well-founded fear of persecution on account of race, religion, nationality, membership in a particular social group, or political opinion. It seems to me that if the persecution is on account of one of those enumerated grounds, it necessarily would be the central motive for the persecution.

Section 3007 also would require Immigration Judges to deny applicants asylum because they fail to provide corroborating evidence if it is reasonable to expect corroborating evidence. This is not necessary either. My immigration counsel, Nolan Rappaport, wrote decisions for the Board of Immigration Appeals before he left the Justice Department. In 1989, he wrote Matter of Dass, 20 I&N Dec. 120 (BIA 1989), in which the Board held that corroborating evidence should be presented in asylum cases if it is available. That was 15 years ago, and it is still the rule that immigration judges follow in asylum proceedings. The thing that is new is the provision in section 3007 which states that, "No court shall reverse a determination made by an adjudicator with respect to the availability of corroborating evidence . . . unless the court finds that a reasonable adjudicator is compelled to conclude that such corroborating evidence is unavailable." That is punitive and unnecessary. Immigration Judges do not need statutory guidance in making credibility determinations, and Federal circuit court judges should not be so severely restricted in their review of credibility determinations.

I urge you to vote for Mr. SMITH's amendment to eliminate section 3007.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Chairman, I have a parliamentary inquiry.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Chairman, what is the procedure by which one can point out that none of the gentlemen from Indiana received asylum?

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The gentleman has not stated a proper parliamentary inquiry.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SMITH).

The question was taken; and the Chairman pro tempore announced that the ayes appeared to have it.

Mr. SENSENBRENNER. Mr. Chairman, I demand a recorded vote.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 6 of rule XVIII, further proceedings on the amendment offered by the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SMITH) will be postponed.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. It is now in order to consider amendment No. 17 printed in House Report 108-751.

AMENDMENT NO. 17 OFFERED BY MR. OSE

Mr. OSE. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Amendment No. 17 offered by Mr. OSE:

At the end of title III of the bill, insert the following:

Subtitle F—Security Barriers

SEC. 3121. EXPEDITED COMPLETION OF SECURITY BARRIERS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—In order to construct the physical barriers and roads described in section 102 of the Omnibus Consolidated Appropriations Act, 1997 (Public Law 104-208, div. C), the tracts of land described in subsection (b) shall be exempt from the requirements of the provisions listed in subsection (c).

(b) LEGAL DESCRIPTION.—The tracts of land referred to in subsection (a) are as follows:

(1) ZONE WEST.—A tract of land situated within Section 2, 3, 4, 5, 7, 8, 9, 10, and 11, Township 19 South, Range 2 West of the San Bernadino Meridian, within the County of San Diego, State of California, more particularly described as follows: Beginning at the Southwest corner of Fractional Section 7, T19S, R2W; said Point-of-Beginning being on the United States/Mexico International Boundary Line and also being a point of mean sea level of the Pacific Ocean (at Borderfield State Park); thence, N 02°31′00″ W, a distance of approximately 800.00 feet to a point. Thence, N 84°44′08″ E, a distance of approximately 1,845.12 feet to a point. Said point being on the Section line common to Section 7 and 8, T19S, R2W. Thence, S 01°05′10″ W, along said Section line, a distance of approximately 270.62 feet to a point. Thence, S 89°49′43″ E, a distance of approximately 1,356.50 feet to a point. Thence, N 45°34′58″ E, a distance of approximately 1,901.75 feet to a point. Said point being on the Section line common to Sections 5 and 8, T19S, R2W. Thence, N 00°00′00″ E, a distance of approximately 300.00 feet to a point. Thence, S 89°54′53″ E, a distance of approximately 1,322.05 feet to a point. Thence, S 00°25′27″ W, a distance of approximately 300.00 feet to a point. Said point being on the Section line common to Sections 5 and 8, T19S, R2W. Thence, S 89°37′09″ E, along the Section line common to Section 4, 5, 8, and 9, T19S, R2W, a distance of approximately 5,361.32 feet to a point. Thence, N 00°12′59″ E, a distance of approximately 400.00 feet to a point. Thence, N 90°00′00″ E, a distance of approximately 1,349.81 feet to a point. Said point being on the Section line common to Sections 3 and 4, T19S, R2W. Thence, S 00°30′02″ W, a distance of approximately 410.37 feet to a point. Said point being the Section corner common to Sections 3, 4, 9, and 10, T19S, R2W. Thence, S 89°36′11″ E, along the Section line common to Sections 2, 3, 10, and 11, T19S, R2W, a distance of approximately 6,129.36 feet to a point. Thence, along the arc of a curve to the left, having a radius of 518.88 feet, and a distance of 204.96 feet to a point. Thence, S 89°59′41″ E, a distance of approximately 258.66 feet to a point. Thence, S 00°00′00″ E, a distance of approximately 111.74 feet to a point. Said point being within the NW ¼ of fractional section 11, T19S, R2W, on the United States/Mexico International Boundary. Thence, S 84°41′20″ W, along said United States/Mexico International Boundary, a distance of approximately 19,210.48 feet to the Point-of-Beginning. Said tract of land containing an area of 396.61 acre, more or less.

(2) ZONE EAST.—A tract of land situated within Section 32 and 33, Township 18 South, Range 1 East of the San Bernadino Meridian, County of San Diego, State of California, and being described as follows: Beginning at the ¼ Section line of Section 32, T18S, R1E. Said Point-of-Beginning being on the United States/Mexico International Boundary Line and having a coordinate value of X = 6360877.25 Y = 1781730.88. Thence, N 00°32′02″ W, a distance of approximately 163.56 feet to a point. Thence, N 78°33′17″ E, a distance of approximately 1,388.23 feet to a point. Thence, N 81°37′31″ E, a distance of approximately 1,340.20 feet to a point. Thence, N 75°00′00″ E, a distance of approximately 1,000.00 feet to a point. Thence, S 88°06′07″ E, a distance of approximately 1,806.81 feet to a point. Thence, N 80°00′00″ E, a distance of approximately 1,050.00 feet to a point. Thence, N 87°00′00″ E, a distance of approximately 1,100.00 feet to a point. Thence, S 00°00′00″ W, a distance of approximately 300.00 feet to a point. Said point being on the United States/Mexico International boundary. Thence, S 84°44′09″ W, along said boundary, a distance of approximately 7,629.63 to the Point-of-Beginning. Said tract of land having an area of approximately 56.60 acres more or less.

(c) EXEMPTION FROM CERTAIN REQUIREMENTS.—The provisions referred to in subsection (a) areas as follows:

(1) Noise Control Act of 1972 (42 U.S.C. 4901 et seq.), as amended by Quiet Communities of 1978 (P.L. 95-609).

(2) Clean Air Act and amendments of 1990 (42 U.S.C. 7401-7671q).

(3) Clean Water Act of 1977 (33 U.S.C. 1342).

(4) Executive Order 11988 (Floodplain Management), as amended by Executive Order 12608.

(5) Executive Order 11990 (Protection of Wetlands), as amended by Executive Order 12608.

(6) Coastal Zone Management Act of 1972 (16 U.S.C. 1456(c)).

(7) Resource Conservation and Recovery Act of 1976 (42 U.S.C. 6901-6992k) as amended by Hazardous and Solid Waste Amendments of 1984 (P.L. 98-616; 98 Stat. 3221).

(8) Comprehensive, Environmental Response, Compensation, Liability Act of 1980 (42 U.S.C. 9601-9675), as amended by Emergency Planning and Community Right-To-Know-Act of 1986 (42 U.S.C. 11001 et seq.).

(9) Farmland Protection Policy Act of 1981 (7 U.S.C. 4201 et seq.).

(10) Endangered Species Act of 1973, as amended (16 U.S.C. 1531-1544).

(12) Bald and Golden Eagle Act of 1940, as amended (16 U.S.C. 688-688d).

(13) National Historic Preservation Act of 1966 (16 U.S.C. 470 et seq.), as amended Executive Order 13007—Sacred Sites Presidential Memorandum regarding government to Government Relations (April 29, 1994).

(14) Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act (43 CFR Part 10).

(15) Archeological Resources Protection Act of 1979 (16 U.S.C. 470aa-470ii).

(16) Executive Order 12898 (Federal Actions to Address Environmental Justice in Minority Populations and Low-Income Populations) of 1994.

REQUEST FOR MODIFICATION TO AMENDMENT NO. 17 OFFERED BY MR. OSE

Mr. OSE. Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent that my amendment be modified in the form at the desk.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The Clerk will report the modification.

The Clerk read as follows:

Modification to amendment No. 17 offered by Mr. OSE:

On page 5, line 4, strike "areas as" and insert "are as".

Add at the end of subsection (c) the following new paragraph:

"(17) Any other laws or requirements that delay construction of the barriers and roads described in this section.".

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. FARR. Mr. Chairman, I have a parliamentary inquiry.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. FARR. Mr. Chairman, on the definition of "any other laws or requirements," does that broaden it to every law in America?

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. That is not a proper parliamentary inquiry. That is a matter for debate on the amendment.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Is there objection to the modification?

Mr. FARR. Mr. Chairman, I reserve the right to object.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The gentleman is recognized under his reservation.

Mr. OSE. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. FARR. I yield to the gentleman from California.

Mr. OSE. Perhaps I can elucidate. The point of adding that particular provision is that, given the crush of time, I am a little bit concerned that we did not cover everything. There is no purpose here to include Davis-Bacon or employment or employee things. This is strictly an effort to remove impediments to the construction of this security fence.

Mr. FARR. Mr. Chairman, reclaiming my time, it will not go to legislative intent. It will go to what you have stated in words here, and it says "any other laws or requirements." Any.

Mr. OSE. If the gentleman will yield further, as they relate to the fence, that is my intention.

Mr. FARR. Mr. Chairman, reclaiming my time, that delay the construction of barriers, there could be all kinds of other reasons that are unrelated to just your waiving the environmental requirements.

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. FARR. I yield to the gentleman from California.

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Chairman, I thank my friend for yielding. Let me state, I know the intent of our colleague, the gentleman from California (Mr. OSE), is to ensure that there may not be other environmental regulations which in any way impinge on the construction of this fence. I think one of the things that could take place is at least there would be clear legislative intent established through this debate process indicating that it would not move into other areas about which my friend has mentioned as areas of concern for him.

Mr. FARR. Mr. Chairman, reclaiming my time, I think the intent here is to waive a lot of laws so you can get this done in an expeditious manner. I think you are opening up a Pandora's Box. It is going to give you so many lawsuits that you are never going to get the project done.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Does the gentleman from California (Mr. FARR) object to the modification?

Mr. FARR. I object.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Objection is heard.

Pursuant to House Resolution 827, the gentleman from California (Mr. OSE) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California (Mr. OSE).

Mr. OSE. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, the purpose of this amendment is to secure our southern border immediately south of San Diego by completing the security fence that this Congress authorized and that President Clinton signed back in September of 1996. The rationale for this is very straightforward. Construction of this fence reduces illegal immigration. The Border Patrol has told us that the construction of the fence to date has reduced illegal immigration in that area by 80 percent.

The gentleman from California (Mr. BERMAN) just 5 minutes ago talked about an integrated border security system that accomplishes just that, and this fence is part of that. Construction of the fence serves to protect our country from potential terrorist activity.

I have a letter from the Secretary of the Navy here to our good friend, the gentleman from California (Mr. HUNTER), that I will enter into the RECORD that highlights exactly that point relative to the naval base 4 miles north of the site in question.

Construction of this fence is part of an integrated border security system identified in the 9/11 Commission report as a priority. I am not making this stuff up. This is part of an integrated border security system that this country has previously authorized that has been bogged down for 8 years in getting completed.

I regret, I truly do regret, the impact this may have on environmental or cultural resources, but we need to make a choice. The votes we post will be clear: Are we for protecting this country by completing this fence, or are we not?

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Who seeks time in opposition?

Mr. FARR. Mr. Chairman, I claim the time in opposition to this amendment.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The gentleman from California (Mr. FARR) is recognized for 5 minutes in opposition to the amendment.

Mr. FARR. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself 1 minute.

Mr. Chairman, there is no problem that is broken that needs to be fixed. There is nobody opposed to the process of getting this fence built. The problem with this amendment is you create a whole ability to have more lawsuits filed and you give a message that the environmental laws are not necessary.

The process is working. In 2 weeks, the Homeland Security Office is meeting with the California Coastal Commission where they have laid out all of the road map for how to get it done. The fact of the letter that was just submitted for the RECORD, the Navy never asked that any of these environmental laws be waived. We built a fence around the Naval Postgraduate School in Monterey by abiding by all the laws, including the Coastal Commission laws.

So this is a made-up issue to try to get a recorded vote to show that, if you support the environment, you are for terrorism. Nothing in the 9/11 Commission report recommended this amendment. It is totally unnecessary.

I would just tell you that the process is working and what you see in this amendment is trying to subvert it.

Mr. OSE. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, before I yield to my good friend from San Diego, I want to make a point that the exemptions offered in section C of my amendment shall also incorporate section 102(c) of title I, subtitle A of the 1997 Omnibus Appropriations Act, that is Public Law 104-208, in its entirety.

I will say there is a meeting that is going to take place in 2 weeks. It will be the sixteenth meeting this year alone trying to move this project forward. I think the meetings now take place so they can schedule more meetings. We need to get this finished.

Mr. Chairman, I yield 90 seconds to my friend, the gentleman from San Diego, California (Mr. HUNTER).

Mr. HUNTER. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding.

Mr. Chairman, this is the last piece of the border fence. We have 14 miles of the most extensive smugglers' corridor in the United States. That is where more smugglers move cocaine, undocumented workers and potentially terrorists through this corridor that lies between San Diego and Tijuana.

In a bill signed by President Clinton, in fact giving the Attorney General the right to waive the Endangered Species Act, it was considered to be so important. We have built now of this 14-mile stretch, 11 miles. Only 3 miles remain. The Secretary of the Navy has sent us a letter saying that there are security reasons to have that last piece of the border fence constructed.

Let me just tell you what is happening in the 6 years that these slow-roll negotiations have gone on and on and on, and the California Coastal Commission and other agencies never go along with this thing. While that has happened, we have had North Koreans coming in the smugglers' corridor, as documented by the Border Patrol. We have had Iraqis coming in through that corridor. We have had Iranians coming in through that corridor.

If you want to come in as a terrorist into the United States, do not come in through LAX. Come in on the land border between Mexico and the U.S. If you come through the gap in the fence that we are talking about, you are right there at one of the most sophisticated American naval bases in the world.

We need to build this fence. It is in line with national security, in line with President Clinton's law. Let us get it done.

Mr. FARR. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. KILDEE).

Mr. KILDEE. Mr. Chairman, I strongly urge my colleagues to oppose the Ose amendment which will exempt the construction of the proposed security barrier in the San Diego area from most Federal environmental laws, regulations and executive orders, including four that specifically and directly impact Indian tribes.

The Ose amendment would waive the requirements of the National Historic Preservation Act of 1966, the Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act of 1990, the 1996 Executive Order 13007 on sacred sites and the Archeological Resources Protection Act of 1979.

☐ 1300

These Federal requirements were enacted by Congress and implemented by Democratic and Republican administrations to fulfill promises we made to native Americans that their places of worship, resting places for the deceased, and religious freedom will not be disturbed or intruded upon again and, instead, will be protected and preserved.

This amendment undermines those laws by precluding tribal consultations on Native American burial grounds, religious shrines, and cultural and historical sites located in the construction area.

I urge my colleagues to vote "no" on the Ose amendment.

Mr. Chairman, I include for the RECORD the following letter:

NATIONAL CONGRESS OF AMERICAN INDIANS,
Washington, DC, October 7, 2004.

Hon. CHAIRMAN SENSENBRENNER,
House Judiciary Chairman.

HONORABLE JAMES SENSENBRENNER: We have become aware that a proposed amendment to H.R. 10, "The 9/11 Recommendations Implementation Act", would undermine two federal statutes designed to preserve and protect Native American cultural heritage.

NCAI is extremely sensitive to the issues of protecting our homeland. Tribes play a vital role in protecting our borders with over 200 miles of United States border located on tribal lands and with 38 tribes on or near international borders. Additionally, significant numbers of tribes are located near critical infrastructure, including missile silos, chemical depots, dams and nuclear power plants.

Native peoples have proven their unwavering commitment to protecting this country. Currently, 19,761 American Indians and Alaskan Natives are serving in the military, and as noted by many members of Congress, Native Americans serve in the United States military at higher rates than any other ethnic group.

The Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act of 1990 (NAGPRA), P.L. 101-601, 24 U.S.C. 3002), was enacted to protect fragile tribal cultures from exploitation. It was designed to address the flagrant violation of the "civil rights of America's first citizens" 136 C.R. § 17174.

Furthermore, Congress has expressly stated in statue that it viewed NAGPRA as part part of its trust responsibility to Indian tribes and people, specifically stating that it "reflects the unique relationship between the Federal Government and Indian tribes" 25 U.S.C.A. §3010.

The destruction of culturally sensitive sites is irreversible and unconscionable. The proposed amendment of Representative Ose would undermine the very foundation of NAGPRA and the National Historic Preservation Act of 1966 (16 U.S.C. 470 et seq.). At the very least we would expect that a consultation process be considered in any legislation that would affect cultural sites. We urge you oppose any amendments that would undermine our rights to protect and preserve our cultural heritage.

Sincerely,

TEX G. HALL.

Mr. OSE. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself 10 seconds.

The original authorization to build this fence gave the Attorney General the opportunity to waive all of these things the previous speaker voted for. You cannot have it both ways. You are either for protecting this country or you are not.

Mr. FARR. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentlewoman from California (Ms. SOLIS).

Ms. SOLIS. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to the Ose amendment to H.R. 10, and I refuse to play environmental politics with our national security.

This amendment is nothing more than an extreme and unnecessary attempt to circumvent the ongoing approval and construction process and exempt construction of the fence from 16 public health, cultural heritage, and environmental regulations.

The U.S. Bureau of Customs and Border Protection and the California Coastal Commission are currently in negotiations now over the completion of this security barrier. In fact, they are scheduled to meet again October 26 of this year.

According to the California Coastal Commission: "Feasible alternatives are available that would significantly lessen adverse impacts to coastal zone resources and still will enable the California Border Patrol to meet its border patrol needs."

Supporters of this amendment have shown no evidence to prove that each of the 16 cultural heritage, public health, and environmental regulations it seeks to undermine is blocking completion of the security barrier.

How is the executive order on environmental justice blocking completion of this security barrier?

Mr. FARR. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. BLUMENAUER).

Mr. BLUMENAUER. Mr. Chairman, there are all sorts of problems along the United States-Mexican border, but to take a sensitive area that, as my friend, the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. KILDEE), has pointed out, where there are serious issues relating to native Americans. We are working on areas here, in terms of the massive amount of fill that would be involved, twice the size of the Hoover Dam, is something that people need to take a pause, a deep breath, and take a careful look. There is a lot of environmental damage that can be done.

We cannot keep people, illegal aliens, from crossing the border. It is porous, we know it. To move forward with this massive project now, suspending environmental regulations, extends a precedent that I think is chilling.

Our Capitol is a monument to our inability to get things right in terms of things that all of us know are not going to retard terrorists but make our Capitol into sort of a fortress. We are spending money, trying to make people feel good. Suspending environmental regulations in a way that is not going to have any long-term impact. I urge its rejection.

Mr. FARR. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself the remaining time.

Look, you have been able to build almost this entire fence without the waiving of any environmental laws. The record that the gentleman showed there just a moment ago gave the Attorney General the authority to waive NEPA and ESEA. You are now going into a whole complicated series of laws, including the protection of Bald Eagles, Indian rights and things like that, Superfund issues.

I have been involved with these issues for a long, long time, living on the coast. And I will tell the gentleman that what he is opening up is a can of worms for lawsuits and complaints and so on.

This is not the wise way to go with this amendment, and I object to the amendment and will ask for a recorded vote on it.

Mr. OSE. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Two speakers go, we had someone on that side talking about negotiations, that there are negotiations pending. The fact of the matter is negotiations have been going on for 6 years, and we are no closer to a solution. We had a speaker just previous from Oregon stand up and make an argument for doing nothing. I am sorry, I do not understand that.

Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent to extend the debate time on each side for 1 minute.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore (Mr. LINDER). Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from California?

There was no objection.

Mr. OSE. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from San Diego, California (Mr. CUNNINGHAM).

Mr. CUNNINGHAM. Mr. Chairman, the gentleman from California (Mr. HUNTER) and I have been fighting this for the last 20 years. Many of the same people that tried to stop us from putting up the fence when there were rapes and murders, there was a single line of barbed wire and people were coming right and left into the United States with truck loads of marijuana and cocaine. I resent saying this is a made-up issue.

I have operated out of that Navy base. Gordon England, Secretary of the Navy, states that it is imperative, that it is dangerous to leave that hole open. Bald Eagles in a 4-mile stretch? Give me a break.

We are at war. I sit on the Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence, and I cannot go into specifics, but do my colleagues know where these guys are coming up? In Mexico. And do my colleagues know what? We are vulnerable. We have a base that has nuclear ships right next door that could blow up the whole waterfront.

It is wrong to oppose this. We need to close the hole in the dike.

Mr. FARR. Mr. Chairman, I yield 50 seconds to the gentleman from Washington (Mr. INSLEE).

Mr. INSLEE. Mr. Chairman, well, I have some bad news. After this 3 miles is done, there is about another 4,000 miles unfortunately that remains at risk.

I would just ask Members to consider what we just did on this floor. We just extended the time a little bit to get this debate right, and I appreciate the gentleman's courtesy in doing that.

Do we know why Americans have accepted the Endangered Species Act? Because they recognize you can take just a bit more time and do it right.

On October 26, when they have this meeting to get this resolved, we hope that is going to happen. We have built bridges, we have built highways, we built the most powerful military machine in world history with the Endangered Species Act. This is not endangering us. We should not go back to the days of ignoring this problem. Defeat this amendment.

Mr. FARR. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself the remaining time.

Let me say it straight. Nobody is against building this fence. It is just, why waive all of these rules? We have built 14 miles of this fence without having to waive any rules. I do not think it is necessary. I think it is a guise and a political maneuver.

Mr. OSE. Mr. Chairman, I yield the remainder of my time to the gentleman from California (Mr. DREIER), the chairman of the Committee on Rules and the champion in California on immigration issues and protecting our country.

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Chairman, we have heard the eloquence of my friends, the gentleman from San Diego, California (Mr. CUNNINGHAM) and the gentleman from California (Mr. HUNTER) and the gentleman from California (Mr. OSE), obviously, focusing on the national security, the homeland security, the drug interdiction aspect of this, which is very important.

Let us talk about the environmental side of not constructing this fence. The Tijuana Estuary happens to be a very environmentally sensitive area. The fact that this fence is not being constructed is jeopardizing the environmental quality in the San Diego sector right now with the trash and the other disposal that is taking place, really exacerbating a serious problem.

The pro-environment vote and pro-national security and homeland security vote is to vote "yes" for the Ose amendment.

Mrs. DAVIS of California. Mr. Chairman, I must regretfully rise in opposition to the Ose amendment, which has been sprung on us this afternoon without any notice or prior opportunity to discuss the issues.

As a member of the Armed Services Committee, I have spent hundreds of hours devoted to the issues surrounding Homeland Security. Situated as my district is in San Diego, I am concerned to secure not only our border but also our busy port and ship-building facilities located on San Diego Bay, which is crossed by a dramatic bridge, our international airport, and our numerous military installations which are the home bases for nuclear carriers and nuclear submarine. We have much to be proud of—and much to protect.

It is challenging to us all to prioritize actions that we can take with our Homeland Security dollars to provide increased security against past and likely focal points for terrorists. It is important that we assure that scarce resources are devoted to the kinds of actions that will in fact keep our borders safe from known entry points for terrorists.

The measure before us to expedite the long-proposed triple border fence overturns years of effort on the part of the local communities along the border, civic groups, and elected representatives to come to consensus with the Border Patrol about appropriate means to enhance and strengthen the existing fence.

Fortunately, during the past ten years since the inauguration of Operation Gatekeeper, the numbers of illegal border crossers in the area under consideration has dropped 80 percent.

Nonetheless, I agree that the present quality of the single fence needs updating at least to the highest quality of fence construction proposed and already implemented along adjacent border areas. Moreover, I have been assured by local high tech companies which provide sophisticated technology for other homeland security needs that much more could be done with electronic surveillance and detection.

Similar views have been officially expressed by the California Coastal Commission, which has jurisdiction in this area, and by the California Coastal Conservancy which has a $6 million road and access improvement project in this area.

In the past, the California Border Patrol has been unwilling to pursue any alternative proposals other than the one which has been so thoroughly rejected by state and local interest groups. Their view has been "my way, and it's a highway."

However, since its February vote to object to the proposal, the California Coastal Commission has been working with the Department of Homeland Security's office of Homeland Security, Customs and Border Protection in charge of construction to resolve this issue. I understand the parties met in April to discuss their views and that both parties expected and have planned to continue this effort at a meeting on October 26, 2004, to continue the ongoing negotiations. Perhaps the author was unaware of this plan. I believe we must support this effort.

It is no surprise that the Ose amendment waives all powers of the Clean Air Act; the Clean Water Act, the Protection of Wetlands; the Floodplain Management; the Coastal Zone Management Act; the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act, the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, Liability Act as amended by Emergency Planning and Community Right-To-Know Act; the Farmland Protection Policy Act; the Endangered Species Act; the Migratory Bird Treaty Act; the National Historic Preservation Act, the Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act, and the Archeological Resources Protection Act.

That is because this proposal is so overwhelmingly threatening to the sensitive lands that would be destroyed as to offend all of these acts.

Above all, this wholesale destruction is unnecessary. I would welcome continued work with the affected parties, most particularly with the Immigration and Naturalization Service, to find a solution to their staffing needs that does not destroy millions of dollars of prior investment by California in these sensitive areas. We must use our scarce Homeland Security dollars in projects that are focused on major areas where there are large numbers of border crossers who might become a threat from terrorists.

San Diego deserves to be protected, but we have many areas in need of new programs and technology that will address likely targets.

I urge your defeat of this proposal at this time and your willingness to work together toward a reasoned proposal.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. All time having expired, the question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from California (Mr. OSE).

The question was taken; and the Chairman pro tempore announced that the ayes appeared to have it.

Mr. FARR. Mr. Chairman, I demand a recorded vote.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 6 of rule XVIII, further proceedings on the amendment offered by the gentleman from California (Mr. OSE) will be postponed.

It is now in order to consider amendment No. 19 printed in House Report 108-751.

AMENDMENT NO. 19 OFFERED BY MR. WELDON OF PENNSYLVANIA

Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Amendment No. 19 offered by Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania:

At the end of chapter 2 of subtitle H of title V (page 602, after line 16), add the following:

SEC. ____. EMERGENCY PREPAREDNESS COMPACTS.

Section 611(h) of the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act (42 U.S.C. 5196(h)) is amended—

(1) by redesignating paragraphs (1), (2), and (3) as paragraphs (2), (3), and (4), respectively;

(2) by indenting paragraph (2) (as so redesignated); and

(3) by striking the subsection designation and heading and inserting the following:

"(h) EMERGENCY PREPAREDNESS COMPACTS.—(1) The Director shall establish a program supporting the development of emergency preparedness compacts for acts of terrorism, disasters, and emergencies throughout the Nation, by—

"(A) identifying and cataloging existing emergency preparedness compacts for acts of terrorism, disasters, and emergencies at the State and local levels of government;

"(B) disseminating to State and local governments examples of best practices in the development of emergency preparedness compacts and models of existing emergency preparedness compacts, including agreements involving interstate jurisdictions; and

"(C) completing an inventory of Federal response capabilities for acts of terrorism, disasters, and emergencies, making such inventory available to appropriate Federal, State, and local government officials, and ensuring that such inventory is as current and accurate as practicable.".

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Pursuant to House Resolution 827, the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. WELDON) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. WELDON.)

Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I thank my good friend from New Jersey (Mr. ANDREWS) for cosponsoring this amendment. The gentleman has been a leader on homeland security and emergency response issues long before 9/11. In fact, we first met when he was the solicitor for the Camden County Firefighters Association and I was county commissioner across the river. We have worked together on first responder issues since then.

This amendment is critically important, Mr. Chairman, because it requires the Federal Government to establish what should have been established years ago, and that is a process of identifying emergency preparedness compacts. Many of our regions like the Washington area region have already established multistate, multicounty jurisdictional plans to respond to natural and manmade disasters; but that is not the case around the country.

This bill requires us to inventory those plans that are in place and do work to encourage and establish models that other jurisdictions can use. But it goes beyond that, Mr. Chairman, because this bill also requires an inventory of assets and resources that local emergency responders can call upon if and when a disaster occurs.

I can recall, Mr. Chairman, during the tenure of my time in Congress, I have been on site at most disasters personally. I was walking the freeways of the San Francisco and Oakland area after the earthquake 10 years ago with the chiefs of the San Francisco and Oakland Fire Departments, and they were looking for people who were allegedly still trapped in vehicles sandwiched in-between those two levels of the freeway that had come down on top of each other. I said to the chiefs, why are you not using thermal imagers, and they said to me, what are thermal imagers? They had no idea that the Defense Department had developed that technology 10 years earlier. They could have used that to very quickly identify people who were still alive.

This bill requires a computerized inventory of those kinds of assets that are available that are not easily identified.

I think Chief Morris in Oklahoma City, another good friend of mine, who responded to the terrorist attack on the Federal Building in Oklahoma City, when the chief arrived he needed structural engineers. He had children at day care that were trapped. He needed specialized advice on how to deal with the potential of chemical and biological agents. He had none of that available to him.

Through this amendment, not only will we do the regional preplanning and require these compacts to be established, but we will also have an inventory of the available technologies that first responders can use that chief officers on the scenes of situations like Oklahoma City or the World Trade Center or any other incident in America can make available to them from the Federal or State governments.

It is a good amendment. I think it makes common sense, and I hope all of our colleagues will support it.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. There being no Member claiming the time in opposition to the amendment, without objection, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. ANDREWS) is recognized for 5 minutes.

There was no objection.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I thank the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. WELDON) for offering this amendment. His wealth of experience on the front lines in the first responder community shows, once again; and I am honored to join with him in this amendment.

□ 1315

I thank the gentleman for his years of dedication to first responders in this country, long before Members talked about them on this floor.

The gentleman from Pennsylvania and I share a geographic area. Our districts are separated only by a river. If, God forbid, there were a terrorist attack, a mass crime, a natural disaster, his constituents and mine would be responsible for responding to it. We are proud of the fact that locally in our area there is cooperation. But the fact of the matter is cooperation now happens by accident, not by design; and our amendment is to change that. It requires that the director of FEMA do three things: first, that the director of FEMA catalog examples of cooperative agreements and compacts around the country.

Second, it requires that the FEMA director issue guidance on best practices, what is working. We are going to hear from the gentlewoman from the District of Columbia (Ms. NORTON) talk about the capital area plan that is working very, very well.

Thirdly, it requires an up-to-date accessible inventory of Federal resources that would be available. In the golden hour that takes place after such an attack or disaster, we do not have weeks or months to study a problem. The chiefs on the ground have to decide right there and then what to do. By making this resource available to them, I think we will save lives and minimize disaster. I thank the gentleman for offering this amendment, and I hope Members on both sides of the aisle will vote a resounding "yes."

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself the balance of my time.

In closing, I thank the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. ANDREWS). This is a bipartisan amendment. I would just say to Members I am going to ask for a recorded vote here because I introduced legislation almost a dozen years ago to require our FEMA agency to establish a computerized inventory. Twelve years later, it is still not done. As a reinforcement of this part of the bill, I am going to ask for a show of support from my colleagues.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Chairman, I yield such time as she may consume to the gentlewoman from the District of Columbia (Ms. NORTON), whose capital area response plan has set the model for how to go about this regional planning and serves as an example to others.

Ms. NORTON. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time, and I thank the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. ANDREWS) and the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. WELDON) for this amendment.

I have an amendment pending in a package we have not gotten to. My pending amendment would in fact have relevant regions across the United States, whether within the same State or not, engage functionally in what I think this amendment would do. I would have a coordinator and the coordinator could be chosen by whoever were the various officials, whether across State lines or within a State.

Yes, it is true that the national capital region is the model for how it should be done. Here we have three States: Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia. The portions of those States closest to where the security is of greatest need and where the Federal presence is, because the Federal presence is as much in Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia, and in some cases more so, witness the Pentagon. This region has a long history of cooperating.

But after 9/11, even that long history of cooperation was not enough. Because of the uniqueness of the national capital region, Congress has said there has to be a paid coordinator for this region. Other regions, of course, would almost surely not have the Federal Government paying for the coordinator. The reason that the coordinator is paid for here is because virtually the entire Federal presence is located here.

But I have worried that what a coordinator would do is not being done in these regions. I appreciate what these Members have done. They have leaped over the title and essentially said do it, or at least do some of it, such as information-sharing. Other areas of their amendment make it clear that what Congress wants is coordination across State lines if necessary and certainly across regional lines.

I think minimally what this amendment wants is what the country needs, and I hope because this is a bipartisan amendment that it will pass; it will pave the way for the next step which would be of course coordinators for the various regions. Again, I thank the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. WELDON) and the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. ANDREWS) for their amendment.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself the balance of my time.

Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. WELDON) for his efforts. I also thank Mr. Dozor from the gentleman's staff, and Mr. Knotts from mine for their great effort.

Mr. COX. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong support of the Weldon-Andrews amendment on emergency preparedness compacts.

The terrorist attacks of September 2001 stretched the response capabilities of our local, State, and Federal emergency agencies to the breaking point. The attacks caused an unprecedented number of deaths, unprecedented physical destruction, and, at times, utter chaos. The attacks also presented planning, operational, and logistical problems of new and different dimensions.

Both the Bush administration and 9/11 Commission have recognized that no one community can cope with such an unparalleled catastrophe by itself. Indeed, the President's Homeland Security Directive 5 and the 9/11 Commission's report both stressed the vital importance of ensuring that all levels of government across the Nation have the capability to work together efficiently and effectively.

This is precisely why emergency preparedness compacts are so important. They enable emergency managers from different jurisdictions and agencies to provide personnel and equipment in the event of acts of terrorism, disasters, and emergencies. They ensure that no community is overwhelmed.

And this is also precisely why I urge you to support the Weldon-Andrews amendment.

Their amendment would require the Director of the Federal Emergency Management Agency, FEMA, to establish a program supporting the development of emergency preparedness compacts across the Nation.

This program will identify and catalog all existing emergency preparedness compacts.

This program also will encourage jurisdictions without compacts to enter into them by disseminating the best examples of such compacts.

Finally, this program will create, and update as necessary, an inventory of Federal response capabilities and make it available to State and local government officials.

I commend Representatives WELDON and ANDREWS for their bipartisan leadership and vision in offering this important amendment.

As chairman of the Select Committee on Homeland Security, I strongly encourage my colleagues to support this amendment.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore (Mr. LINDER). The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. WELDON).

The question was taken; and the Chairman pro tempore announced that the ayes appeared to have it.

Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I demand a recorded vote.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 6 of rule XVIII, further proceedings on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. WELDON) will be postponed.

It is now in order to consider amendment No. 21 printed in House Report 108-751.

AMENDMENT NO. 21 OFFERED BY MR. BARTLETT OF MARYLAND

Mr. BARTLETT of Maryland. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Amendment No. 21 offered by Mr. BARTLETT of Maryland:

Page 478, insert after line 15 the following:

SECTION 5010. STUDY OF EXPANSION OF AREA OF JURISDICTION OF OFFICE OF NATIONAL CAPITAL REGION COORDINATION.

(a) STUDY.—The Secretary of Homeland Security, acting through the Director of the Office of National Capital Region Coordination, shall conduct a study of the feasibility and desirability of modifying the definition of "National Capital Region" applicable under section 882 of the Homeland Security Act of 2002 to expand the geographic area under the jurisdiction of the Office of National Capital Region Coordination.

(b) FACTORS.—In conducting the study under subsection (a), the Secretary shall analyze whether expanding the geographic area under the jurisdiction of the Office of National Region Coordination will—

(1) promote coordination among State and local governments within the Region, including regional governing bodies, and coordination of the efforts of first responders; and

(2) enhance the ability of such State and local governments and the Federal Government to prevent and respond to a terrorist attack within the Region.

(c) REPORT.—Not later than 6 months after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall submit a report to Congress on the study conducted under subsection (a), and shall include in the report such recommendations (including recommendations for legislation to amend section 882 of the Homeland Security Act of 2002) as the Secretary considers appropriate.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Pursuant to House Resolution 827, the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. BARTLETT) and the gentlewoman from the District of Columbia (Ms. NORTON) each will control 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. BARTLETT).

Mr. BARTLETT of Maryland. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself 2 minutes.

This amendment, which is the text of H.R. 3583, will establish a study to provide an objective analysis of whether the current capabilities of the infrastructure in the region around our Nation's capital are adequate in the event of a mass casualty disaster.

I have worked closely with the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. CARDIN), the gentlewoman from Virginia (Mrs. JO ANN DAVIS), and I have worked closely on this legislation; and we are very pleased by the wide bipartisan support of our colleagues in Maryland, Washington, and Virginia.

This amendment calls upon the Secretary of Homeland Security to create a commission to report to Congress its findings. In particular, I have looked forward to working with the gentlewoman from the District of Columbia (Ms. NORTON) to address her concerns concerning the implementation of this amendment. I will commit to the gentlewoman to ensure that the GSA will have major input into the study, that it will not predispose an alteration of the definition of the national capital region, and that it will assess existing emergency response capabilities among the public and private sectors in the District of Columbia, Maryland and Virginia, what capabilities would be necessary in the event of a mass casualty incident and recommendations to correct any shortfalls.

This commission will specifically study the major Federal interstate highways out of America's capital. Normal rush hour traffic around our Nation's capital can last as long as 4 hours. In the event of a terrorist attack or other emergency in Washington, D.C., millions of people would be unable to evacuate and get home to their families.

In June 2003, the Metropolitan Washington Council of Governments Board urged Congress to analyze whether the current definition of the national capital region meets current needs. I am pleased that they support this amendment.

I would also like to recognize an important local health care provider, Adventist HealthCare. Adventist HealthCare has two hospitals, Washington Adventist Hospital in Takoma Park and Shady Grove Adventist in Rockville, along two of the designated evacuation routes developed by the D.C. Division of Transportation. Adventist HealthCare has independently committed to invest over $360 million to develop and begin implementing a comprehensive plan to ensure that they are prepared for the potential of a mass casualty event.

Cooperation and coordination between relevant Federal Government agencies, such as the Department of Homeland Security, Health and Human Services, and private sectors, are very important.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. NORTON. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, I oppose this amendment with regret. I believe every Member of the national capital region and everyone who cares about the security of the national capital region should oppose this amendment as well.

Normally, I would have absolutely no problem with a study. This study and this amendment, both the original bill and the amendment are called study of an expansion of area of jurisdiction of Office of National Capital Region Coordination. That is the special coordinator I just spoke about in the last amendment.

The amendment itself suggests the conclusion: expansion. This is not the time to even think about diluting the area defined by law as the national capital region. It has not happened haphazardly. I did offer to work with my colleagues from the greater region. I think an objective study that was done by the region, the agencies that have the expertise, and the gentleman has indicated that he knows that the GSA has it, yes homeland security might be useful. I am a member of both committees. The last thing I want to do is give the Committee on Homeland Security, which has existing mandates to report back to Congress, something else to do, something which I think is absolutely unnecessary.

The expertise exists within the government, and this is something that does not require legislation at all. The resources that protect the national capital region we need to expand, not think about diluting. When we talk about this region, understand what we are talking about. We are talking about the Pentagon, the CIA, NIH, Arlington Cemetery, Andrews, Fort Belvoir, the FBI Academy, Goddard Space Center, the FDA. We are not talking about the District of Columbia. It goes without saying that is going to be protected. The greater Federal presence is found in nearby Maryland, Northern Virginia, and Montgomery and Prince George's counties.

What expense we have to go through just to protect this region I do not want to even talk about, but it includes the flyover, the guards we have to send out. We have to send them out if there were an agency somewhere out in the region.

The GSA and the National Capital Planning Commission have consistently been against sprawl of government agencies. It is already 6,000 square miles. We are talking way out into Maryland and Virginia, Loudoun, Prince William, Fairfax. They have opposed it because of security, commuting, taxpayer cost-saving reasons. They have consistently said we have to keep as many agencies as possible within this region. It is much harder to protect Federal facilities; and therefore they say, whether you are talking about embassies or Federal agencies, they ought to be within this region.

When there is an alert, they have to send them wherever the facility is. For economies of scale, we want to in fact keep agencies concentrated. If Members want a study, I am willing to study; but they do not need to come before this Congress and ask for an expensive study to be done, distracting the Department of Homeland Security from what it has already on its plate.

I am willing to work with the gentleman, but I think we do not need a new study at taxpayers' expense beyond what we already have the ability to do. The agencies that are within the national capital area, the coordination that we do now needs far greater focus and far greater resources. It is clear what the gentleman wants. I oppose this amendment.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BARTLETT of Maryland. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. CARDIN).

Mr. CARDIN. Mr. Chairman, the national capital region was established in 1952 during the 82nd Congress. It includes not only the District of Columbia; it includes in Maryland, Prince George's and Montgomery counties. In Virginia, it is Arlington, Fairfax, Loudoun, and Prince William counties.

□ 1330

In the south, Mr. Chairman, the region goes about 30 miles. In the north, it goes about 10 miles. If it went 30 miles to the north, it would include Baltimore, where I happen to live.

When we adopted the Homeland Security Act in 2002, we made reference to the national capital region. What we are asking, and I applaud my friend from Maryland (Mr. BARTLETT) is to let the Department of Homeland Security study the security issues of this region.

If we have a problem in the Nation's capital and people try to leave this region, they are going to want to be able to get to Crofton and Annapolis and to Frederick, and there is going to be gridlock if we do not have a plan that includes beyond that short distance in Maryland. All this does is ask for a study. It does not diminish resources at all. In fact, it will allow us to provide a more reasonable plan for the Nation's capital.

Mr. BARTLETT of Maryland. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentlewoman from Virginia (Mrs. JO ANN DAVIS).

Mrs. JO ANN DAVIS of Virginia. Mr. Chairman, I am glad my colleague from D.C. talked about protecting the FBI Academy in the national capital region because that, in fact, is located in what the gentlewoman calls "way out there in Virginia" which is my area.

I rise today in strong support of the Bartlett amendment, which directs the Department of Homeland Security to conduct a study to see if there is a need to expand the national capital region.

The terrorist attacks of 2001 demonstrated firsthand the need for the national capital region to be expanded. The I 95 corridor, which includes the Fredericksburg/Stafford area that I represent, served as one of the major evacuation routes for D.C. Anybody who drove down that 95 corridor on September 11, 2001, would agree that, as one of the main evacuation routes, it is necessary to secure sufficient infrastructure along I 95 to handle any mass evacuation.

The current definition of the national capital region should be expanded as a result of the new threats to homeland security. I urge all of my colleagues to support the Bartlett amendment. I urge my colleague from D.C. to look at where those areas that she says need to be protected, where they are located.

Ms. NORTON. Mr. Chairman, how much time do I have remaining?

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore (Mr. LINDER). The gentlewoman from the District of Columbia (Ms. NORTON) has 30 seconds remaining.

Ms. NORTON. Mr. Chairman, I yield 30 seconds to the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. MORAN).

Mr. MORAN of Virginia. Mr. Chairman, I could take much longer than 30 seconds just to list the highest priority targets that are within the national capital region.

The reality of what this is going to lead to is that you are going to have to substantially expand the amount of money available for homeland security or draw from other parts of the country to adequately protect the Capitol, the White House, the CIA, the Pentagon and the immediate suburbs of Northern Virginia, Maryland and, particularly, the District of Columbia; you have got to provide adequate resources. This is where the terrorists are going to target. This is ground zero. This is where the money needs to be concentrated.

If we had enough money, we would love to go beyond that area. I do not think we can afford to.

Mr. BARTLETT of Maryland. Mr. Chairman, I yield 30 seconds to the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. HOEKSTRA), the chairman of the Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence.

Mr. HOEKSTRA. Mr. Chairman, I think this is a good amendment. I support the amendment. This is an amendment we would like to have in the en bloc amendment. But having this study available for the national capital region is helpful. I think it is the right thing to do, but it is also helpful in determining and developing a case study which could be used in other areas.

I support the amendment.

Mr. BARTLETT of Maryland. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, on 9/11, our world changed. What used to be adequate for the greater metropolitan area of Washington, which is defined by the national capital region, generally, what was adequate then may not be adequate now.

This is a very simple amendment. It simply asks for a commission to study; we need to look at what the national capital area represents, and is the infrastructure here adequate to meet the kind of a terrorist attack that we might anticipate in the future? It is a very simple amendment, sir.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. BARTLETT).

The amendment was agreed to.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. It is now in order to consider amendment No. 23 printed in House Report 108 751.

AMENDMENT NO. 23 OFFERED BY MR. PORTER

Mr. PORTER. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Amendment No. 23 offered by Mr. PORTER:

At the end of subtitle C of title V (page 493, after the item after line 21) add the following:

SEC. ___. UNDER SECRETARY FOR THE PRIVATE SECTOR AND TOURISM.

(a) ESTABLISHMENT OF UNDER SECRETARY FOR THE PRIVATE SECTOR AND TOURISM.—Section 103(a) of the Homeland Security Act of 2002 (6 U.S.C. 113(a)) is further amended by redesignating paragraphs (2) through (10) in order as paragraphs (3) through (11), and by inserting after paragraph (1) the following:

"(2) An Under Secretary for the Private Sector and Tourism.".

(b) FUNCTIONS.—Section 102(f) of such Act (6 U.S.C. 112(f)) is further amended—

(1) by striking so much as precedes paragraph (1) and inserting the following:

"(f) UNDER SECRETARY FOR THE PRIVATE SECTOR AND TOURISM.—The Undersecretary for the Private Sector and Tourism shall be responsible for—"; and

(2) by striking "and" after the semicolon at the end of paragraph (7), by striking the period at the end of paragraph (8) and inserting a semicolon, and by adding at the end the following:

"(9) employing an analytic and economic staff who shall report directly to the Under Secretary on the commercial and economic impact of Department polices;

"(10) coordinating with the Office of State and Local Government on all matters of concern to the private sector, including the tourism industry; and

"(11) coordinating with the Assistant Secretary for Trade Development of the Department of Commerce on means of promoting tourism and travel to the United States.".

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Pursuant to House Resolution 827, the gentleman from Nevada (Mr. PORTER) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Nevada (Mr. PORTER).

Mr. PORTER. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment to H.R. 10 that will recognize the importance of the private sector and the tourism industry in particular in our Nation's homeland security.

I, like many Members here today in this great body, have read the 9/11 report and am anxious to act on its findings.

I would like to quote from that report: "The mandate of the Homeland Security Department does not end with the government. The Department is also responsible for working with the private sector to ensure preparedness."

It also says, the "private sector preparedness is not a luxury. It is a cost of doing business in the post 9/11 world."

Mr. Chairman, we currently have a Special Assistant to the Secretary for the Private Sector, before the report was published, and unfortunately, the report says we still are not helping the private sector enough.

As an example, the Las Vegas community in the great State of Nevada, we had applied for the Urban Area Security Initiatives Grants and determined that, initially, we did not qualify because we are a small State of approximately 2 million people. With further research, they realized that we have 38 million tourists that visit the great State of Nevada annually. That is an example where there are some challenges with the current law.

We need to promote this position to give it the weight, to make sure private industry is helped and encouraged in its effort to enhance homeland security while staying in business, protecting their employees and their customers.

Again, as I read the 9/11 report, it mentioned how easily the terrorists mingled with the 500 million people who travel across our borders every year and with the hundreds of millions more who travel internally in this country. As I said, Nevada has close to 38 million visitors a year.

The report has some excellent ideas on how to improve transportation and border security, and I look forward to passing those suggestions. But the travel and tourism industry is the number one, number two and number three industry in every State of the union. It is the common element of the private sector in every community. Domestic travellers spend close to $500 billion annually in this country. Foreign tourism contributes $80 billion to our economy. Tourism generates close to $95 billion in taxes, and tourism in our country supports 7.2 million jobs, generating $158 billion in payroll.

As a matter of fact, Las Vegas is the bellwether for an ever-changing and improving economy, creating close to 40,000 new jobs alone in the last year.

Mr. Chairman, my amendment ensures that the DHS has a senior official that recognizes the importance of this industry and all industry and provides liaison with other Federal agencies active on this very important issues.

Our small businesses, their employees, their customers deserve to have their needs count when homeland security decisions are made.

It is important to note that this amendment does not cost the Federal Government in additional dollars or disrupt the operation of any agencies. Mr. Chairman, I urge the House to pass my amendment.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. TURNER of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I claim the time in opposition to the amendment.

Mr. Chairman, the gentleman from Nevada (Mr. PORTER) offers an amendment that points to the very important relationships between our homeland security and what goes on in our private sector.

The 9/11 Commission recognized the critical role that the private sector plays in protecting our citizens from harm. The commission did not make the recommendations contained in the gentleman's amendment, but rather, one of the core recommendations of the 9/11 Commission did deal with the subject matter of the gentleman's amendment; and that is the recommendation to enhance preparedness for all disasters and emergencies, including acts of terrorism in the private sector.

They specifically recommended that the Department of Homeland Security promote the adoption of private sector preparedness standards that have been developed by the American National Standards Institute.

Once again, like many of the other recommendations of the 9/11 Commission, H.R. 10 includes no provisions to deal with the need for standards for private sector preparedness. In the aftermath of the 9/11 attacks, the commission found that many of the tenants of the World Trade Center were unprepared for the catastrophic events that occurred. Many businesses did not regularly practice evacuation drills. Few had alternative communication systems, and many firms lacked the ability to identify who was working on that particular day.

The Democratic substitute offered by the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. MENENDEZ), like the Private Sector Preparedness Act which I introduced back in July, establishes a program to ensure the safety and security of citizens while they are at work. It would provide businesses with the guidance they need to develop evacuation plans to account for all of their employees and to get back in business as soon as possible following a disaster.

We understand that 85 percent of all critical infrastructure in our country is owned and operated by the private sector. It is, therefore, clear that a national standard is necessary to guarantee the safety of the American people. Yet, despite this very apparent and critical need, H.R. 10 fails to adopt in this 9/11 Commission's recommendations and, therefore, leaves a glaring gap in our Nation's security.

I commend the gentleman for his amendment. I think that it is one that the department could, under existing law in the Homeland Security Act, carry out, but the effect of the amendment will be to urge the department to recognize the critical role of the private sector in our preparedness for terrorist instances. And it will also, I think, point out to the department that we must make an even greater effort to ensure that, as we impose security, we do not jeopardize the movement of commerce, the movement of trade; we do not jeopardize tourism, which is so vitally important to this country, particularly to the district and the State represented by the gentleman who offered the amendment.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. PORTER. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, I appreciate the comments from my colleague. I will conclude by stating the importance of this is for the safety first of those visiting and traveling to our communities, providing the expertise from those individuals that deal with, on a daily basis, the handling of millions and millions of visitors to our great State and to our country and to the businesses that do the same.

Mr. Chairman, I yield the balance of my time to the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. HASTERT).

Mr. HASTERT. Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of the 9/11 Recommendations Implementation Act. I urge all of my colleagues on both sides of the aisle to support it. I want to thank those who brought good ideas to the process to make this country safer.

I want to thank the 9/11 Commission for their recommendations and the stellar work of both the chairman and the vice chairman of that committee over a long period of time to take the interest of this Nation at heart, to try to craft recommendations that make this country safer against terrorists.

I want to thank the chairmen and ranking members of the committees of jurisdiction in this House of Representatives. They have done an incredible job. They have come together. They have worked hard and, by and large, on a bipartisan basis to find good answers to tough problems. They have worked hard to provide us with their best ideas on how to implement these recommendations.

Some of my colleagues on the other side of the aisle complained about the process, and I must admit that I am baffled by those complaints. We had countless hearings during the August recess in every committee of jurisdiction. We had 20-some hearings on this issue in the last couple of months. We have had an open amendment process at the committee level, and we carefully considered the ideas of the commission and of the committees' chairmen, and we came up with a response that will make this country safer.

Some have complained that we are going too slow. Some have complained that we are going too fast. Some said our bill was too strong. Others said this bill is too weak. Some have complained because it is simply their nature to complain. Despite the complaints, I am proud of this work product.

This legislation will make this country safer. It will make our families safer. It will ensure the safety of our children and our parents. It is comprehensive. It reforms the government to make it more effective in battling terrorists that want to do harm to this country. It creates a National Intelligence Director. The new position will have full budget authority. It creates the National Counterterrorism Center and a Joint Intelligence Community Council. It improves terrorism prevention and prosecution so that we can get the terrorists and those who help them before they get us.

☐ 1345

It improves border security. It makes it harder for terrorists to travel to America.

One provision that has drawn quite a bit of attention deals with the convention against torture. We do not condone torture in this country or any other country, but we do not want known terrorists and criminals living among us either.

The courts have said criminal aliens and terrorists cannot be held indefinitely in the United States, but the convention against torture says we cannot deport some people back to their own country if they ask for political asylum because of torture.

In 500 cases, the Justice Department has been forced to release alien terrorists and other international criminals whom they cannot detain and they cannot deport. I do not think that makes any sense. If you find a rattlesnake in your backyard, you should not be forced to release it in your front yard.

We have reached a common sense solution to this problem by giving the Justice Department the power to continue to hold those terrorists and those alien criminals.

These are the kinds of solutions that my colleagues will find in our bill. They will not find it in the minority's alternative.

Why is this type of provision so controversial? To me, it just makes sense.

Yes, we disagree with the other body when it comes to making our intelligence budget public. We believe that telling our enemies how much we spend on certain intelligence programs diminishes our national security. Why should we give those who want to do us harm any information that might help them?

Yesterday, I met with three women who lost loved ones in the 9/11 attacks. I can only imagine the pain that they feel every day, and I know the passion that they bring to this debate today. We share their sense of loss. We share their commitment to making this country, this Nation, safer.

I have a simple message for them. We will get this job done. The process will work. We will pass a bill today that implements the 9/11 Commission recommendations. We will appoint conferees that will hammer out a good conference report that will be signed by the President of the United States.

Yes, at the end of the day, we will enact a law that will make our country safer, this America, the United States of America, and the people that live in it proud.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore (Mr. LINDER). All time for the majority side has expired.

Mr. TURNER of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

The distinguished Speaker said he is baffled by some of the complaints that were heard by those of us who supported the Menendez substitute. I think our complaints are easy to understand.

We feel very strongly that the 9/11 Commission presented us with a package of 41 recommendations that the Commission and their cochairs all said are important. H.R. 10 only fully implements 11 of those recommendations. The Republican bill only implements 15 of them partially, and the Republican bill ignores or only mentions in passing the other 15 recommendations.

The substitute that we offered on this floor implements all of the recommendations. It does it in an effective way, and it makes the kind of commitment that Democrats have argued for the last 2 years must be made to make America safe.

We are investing today $20 billion more on homeland security than we did prior to 9/11, but in the last fiscal year, when we were investing that additional $20 billion, we were investing four times that in tax cuts for American families who make over $1 million a year. That is the wrong choice, it is the wrong priority, and our bill moves faster, it moves stronger in protecting the homeland than H.R. 10 offered by the Republican leadership.

For that reason, we believe that the Senate bill, which passed yesterday, which reflects the contents of the Menendez substitute that was on this floor yesterday, is the superior alternative to helping America stay safe; and we hope that when this bill goes to conference that the provisions of the Senate bill that are absent in H.R. 10 will be added to the final product and come back to this floor with a conference committee report that clearly reflects the wisdom and the intent of the bipartisan 9/11 Commission and the work that they did so well.

Ms. BORDALLO. Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of the Porter amendment.

Throughout this important debate, emphasis has been placed on the need to ensure information is shared within the intelligence community. As we conclude this debate, we now have before us an amendment that would ensure information on the private sector is also made a part of the process and taken into consideration in the formulation of homeland security policy.

The facts speak for themselves. The travel and tourism industry has a considerable impact on the U.S. economy—adding nearly 5 percent to the GDP, generating more than half a billion dollars in revenues, supporting more than 17 million jobs, and providing a $14 million trade surplus for our country. Mr. Chairman, an overwhelming number of the businesses in travel and tourism are small- to medium-sized enterprises. Therefore, I believe DHS should be especially cognizant of its policy and regulatory impact on the travel and tourism industry.

Whether it is our aviation industry, the aircraft designers or the airline employees on the flight line, the hotel industry, or our amusement parks, we need homeland security policy that will effectively provide for the safety of our citizens and the economic vitality of our most important industries. We should not put ourselves in a position where in an effort to protect our infrastructure, we shut down the very use of transportation services we are trying to protect.

In my district, Guam, like Nevada, tourism is a leading industry in the private sector. Post-September 11 policies have already shown a major impact on businesses in my district. What this amendment does, is ensure this impact is assessed and considered inside DHS when developing policy.

If you believe economic security ultimately underpins our national security, then you should vote for the Porter amendment.

The vitality and sustainability of the travel and tourism industry is a national economic necessity. Consumer confidence in travel and in the economy is needed. Safety and security in travel is key to this consumer confidence.

By elevating the Special Assistant to an Under Secretary and by encouraging coordination with local governments and the Commerce Department, the Porter amendment gives DHS the authority it needs to craft and execute policy to achieve these goals.

I thank the gentleman from Nevada (Mr. PORTER) for his leadership, I urge adoption of his amendment, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Nevada (Mr. PORTER).

The amendment was agreed to.

SEQUENTIAL VOTES POSTPONED IN COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 6 of rule XVIII, proceedings will now resume on those amendments on which further proceedings were postponed in the following order: amendment No. 14 offered by Mr. SMITH of New Jersey, amendment No. 15 offered by Mr. SMITH of New Jersey, amendment No. 17 offered by Mr. OSE of California, amendment No. 19 offered by Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania.

The Chair will reduce to 5 minutes the time for any electronic vote after the first vote in this series.

AMENDMENT NO. 14 OFFERED BY MR. SMITH OF NEW JERSEY

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The pending business is the demand for a recorded vote on the amendment offered by the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SMITH) on which further proceedings were postponed and on which the ayes prevailed by voice vote.

The Clerk will redesignate the amendment.

The Clerk redesignated the amendment.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE CHAIRMAN PRO TEMPORE

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore (Mr. LINDER) (during the vote). There are 2 minutes remaining in this vote.

□ 1416

Messrs. GARRETT of New Jersey, WAMP, PICKERING, DEFAZIO, MARSHALL, and COLE changed their vote from "aye" to "no."

Messrs. KIRK, VAN HOLLEN, and LUCAS of Kentucky changed their vote from "no" to "aye."

So the amendment was agreed to.

The result of the vote was announced as above recorded.

Stated for:

Mr. FILNER. Mr. Chairman, on rollcall No. 517, I was in my Congressional District on official business. Had I been present, I would have voted "aye."

Stated against:

Ms. NORTHUP. Mr. Chairman, on rollcall No. 517, I inadvertently voted incorrectly. I had every intention of voting "no" on the amendment but mistakenly pushed the green button. I did not realize my mistake until the vote was closed.

AMENDMENT NO. 15 OFFERED BY MR. SMITH OF NEW JERSEY

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The pending business is the demand for a recorded vote on the amendment offered by the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SMITH) on which further proceedings were postponed and on which the ayes prevailed by voice vote.

The Clerk will redesignate the amendment.

The Clerk redesignated the amendment.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE CHAIRMAN PRO TEMPORE

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore (Mr. LINDER) (during the vote). Members are advised there are 2 minutes remaining in this vote.

☐ 1441

So the amendment was agreed to.

The result of the vote was announced as above recorded.

Stated for:

Mr. FILNER. Mr. Speaker, on rollcall No. 520, I was in my Congressional District on official business. Had I been present, I would have voted "aye."

Ms. MCCARTHY of Missouri. Mr. Chairman, the 9/11 Commission in July presented its report to the Congress and to the American people. The five Republicans and five Democrats on the panel put aside their partisan differences and made 41 recommendations, which if made law, would make this country safer. The Senate on Wednesday embraced these recommendations with the 96–2 passage of the Collins/Lieberman National Intelligence Reform Act.

I encourage the House to act in the same bipartisan manner as the Senate. H.R. 10, the 9/11 Recommendations Implementation Act, was written behind closed doors and fails to fully implement 30 of the 41 Commission recommendations.

The job of Congress is to work with the Executive Branch to keep America safe, and work with our allies to make the world safe. H.R. 10 fails to do this, and places the House on a collision course with the Senate.

Upon passage of the Senate bill, 9/11 Commission Chairman Thomas Kean and Vice Chairman Lee Hamilton praised the outstanding leadership of Senators SUSAN COLLINS and JOSEPH LIEBERMAN for their progress in implementing the Commission's recommendations. They, along with families of 9/11 victims, expressed their desire for the House to pass a counterpart measure.

It is disappointing that the House failed to do its job today. I urge the Conferees to adopt the 9/11 Commission recommendations. We owe it to the American people and the families of victims of 9/11.

Mr. HEFLEY. Mr. Chairman, I rise today in support of H.R. 10, the 9/11 Recommendations Implementation Act. This legislation is vitally important to overhaul the nation's intelligence system, which has been in place since World War II.

There are five majors areas of reform in this legislation that will dramatically alter the way our country approaches national security.

First, this bill establishes a National Director of Intelligence who will have full budget authority over the nation's intelligence agencies. For the first time in our Nation's history, we will have one person whose sole job is to coordinate the activities and information from all of our Nation's intelligence services.

Second, this bill restructures terrorism prevention and prosecution. It gives law enforcement agencies and the Department of Justice new tools to prevent and prosecute potential terrorists and acts of terrorism. Whether it is strengthening our money laundering laws to combat terrorists' financial networks or adding additional security measures to our printed currency, this legislation will make it more difficult for terrorists to have access to financing and make it more difficult for those who want to finance terrorist activities.

Third, this legislation dramatically strengthens the security of our Nation's borders and restricts the ability of terrorists to travel. I think we can all agree the best way to keep our country safe is keep the terrorists out of our country. If terrorists do manage to get into the country, this legislation gives law enforcement officers the tools they need to make it easier to deport them. also, this legislation makes sure that our federal air marshals have anonymity on all flights, both domestic and foreign. We will add more federal air marshals to foreign flights coming into this country on both U.S. and foreign carriers. We will add a second layer of protection in cockpits, and require the use of biometrically-protected crew badges for airline employees.

Fourth, this bill reaches out to other nations to join us in combating terrorism. We will require machine-readable passports for tourists entering our country and also require that all names on passports be translated and printed in Roman alphabet for international travel documents and placed into watchlist systems. Also, this bill makes it a federal crime to give a false claim of citizenship or nationality.

Finally, this legislation restructures the government in many important ways. It provides the authorization for the intelligence community reorganization plans, it restructures the Department of Homeland Security for faster and smarter funding for first responders, and it modifies the homeland security advisory system.

Mr. Chairman, this legislation contains many important and necessary changes to our Nation's laws. I would like to thank all the members who have worked so hard on a bi-partisan basis to produce such a comprehensive piece of legislation. This is a positive step in improving the nation's intelligence system and our national security.

Mr. RYUN of Kansas. Mr. Chairman, Benjamin Franklin once said: The way to be safe is never to be secure. We must never be content in the ways things have always been, but consistently look for new ways to achieve security in our homeland. For this, I am pleased to support H.R. 10, the 9/11 Recommendations Implementation Act. I believe this legislation will provide for the much needed reorganization and new tools to help our Nation prepare and defend against further terrorist attacks.

After the horrific attacks of September 11th, it was evident that our Government needed to be transformed to meet the new challenges of this dangerous world. Soon after 9/11, and under the leadership of President Bush, various agencies with homeland security roles throughout the government were brought under the control and vision of a single Department, with the creation of the Department of Homeland Security. The hope was to break down the existing barriers and create more cooperation and communication in this critical field.

Congress is continuing this effort to improve our homeland security with the passage of H.R. 10. This legislation clearly recognizes that the United States can no longer afford to think of defending the homeland as being the responsibility of just one Department—be it Homeland Security, Justice or Defense. Many aspects of our government and society, from the FBI, to DOD's Northern Command, the Intelligence Community, the Treasury Department, Immigration, local law enforcement, our corporate partners, and the academic community all have important roles to play. All of these players must work together, in concert, to achieve the real results worthy of this great nation.

The 9/11 Commission, which is the basis of this legislation, found that government institutions failed to adapt to the threat of terrorism for more than a decade, enabling the terrorists failed to exploit deep institutional failings within our government. These failures, in part, stemmed from a strict stove-piped structure.

Our enemy is asymmetrical and unconcerned about such things as the internal structural uneasiness of sharing information inside the Intelligence Community and between other organizations. However, our enemies will certainly do everything they can to benefit from this ingrained culture—to the detriment of our society.

The 9/11 Commission concluded that: "the September 11th attacks fell into the void between the foreign and domestic threats."

The Report continues: "Information was not shared, sometimes inadvertently or because of legal misunderstandings. Analysis was not pooled. Effective operations were not launched. Often the handoffs of information were lost across the divide separating the foreign and domestic agencies of the government. . . . Action officers should have drawn on all available knowledge in the government. This management should have ensured that information was shared and duties were clearly assigned across agencies, and across the foreign-domestic divide."

Although people have levied fault on the CIA and FBI, I believe we must not single out individual agencies. Instead, we should use our energies to focus on the culture and structure of our government. As the 9/11 Commission report continues:

> The problem is nearly intractable because of the way the government is currently structured. Lines of operational authority run to the expanding executive departments, and they are guarded for understandable reasons: the DCI commands the CIA's personnel overseas; the secretary of defense will not yield to others in conveying commands to military forces; the Justice Department will not give up the responsibility of deciding whether to seek arrest warrants. But the result is that each agency or department needs its own intelligence apparatus to support the performance of its duties. It is hard to break down stovepipes when there are so many stoves that are legally and political entitled to have cast-iron pipes of their own.

The problem is clear: stove-piping of resources and responsibilities, along with not sharing the information or analysis collected is hindering our Nation's ability to remain secure. Instead of stove-piping, we must increase the flow of information inside and between government agencies while still protecting vital sources. If we are going to achieve a greater level of security in this nation, we need to break down the barriers to homeland security. We must not be bogged down in a need-to-know mentality, but most rise to a need-to-share focus.

The 9/11 Commission Recommendations bears out this solution. Repeatedly, the Commission calls for unity and the unifying of efforts across the government. It calls for unifying strategic intelligence and operational planning against Islamist terrorists across the foreign-domestic divide with a new National Counterterrorism Center. Unifying the intelligence community with a new National Intelligence Director. And, unifying the many participants in the counterterrorism efforts.

The old ways of thinking about and organizing our government have failed us. We have been confined by a vision of the past. Of local vs. federal, of domestic vs. foreign intelligence, of national security vs. law enforcement.

We instead need to focus on unity of purpose and on communication, collaboration and coordination that transcends our old structure. Only by working together, as a single unit, can we be secure. And I believe that H.R. 10 is the right step forward in doing just that.

Ms. KILPATRICK. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to H.R. 10, the 9/11 Recommendations Implementation Act. I do so not because I disagree on the urgent need to reform our intelligence infrastructure. On the contrary, the 9/11 Commission clearly, articulately and convincingly makes a compelling case that the U.S. intelligence network is in great need of overhauling.

My reasons for voting against the measure deal less with the concept of intelligence reform and more with the substance of the bill we are considering today. The measure before us today is improperly titled. The "9/11 Recommendations Implementation Act" should really be re-titled as the "Immigration Reform Act of 2004."

I am particularly sensitive to issues of homeland security and intelligence capabilities. My district encompasses the majority of the City of Detroit, which borders our northern neighbor—Canada. Detroit is the Motor City capital of the world, and as such, we are economically dependent on the cross-border auto trade transported through the Port of Detroit. Securing the critical infrastructure such as the Ambassador Bridge, the Detroit-Windsor Tunnel, and the Port of Detroit is vital to the economic wellbeing of our city, region, state, and nation. Protecting the rights of way of these thoroughfares is critical to the health of the American automobile industry, the largest industry in the manufacturing sector. Protecting these assets against terrorist attack is so important that the City of Detroit is one of the few major cities in the United States that has created an Office of Homeland Security. Matters of homeland security and enhanced intelligence capabilities are urgent concerns to my district and they should not be trivialized. The Republican Leadership in this chamber had the opportunity to stitch together a bill that would strengthen the nation's intelligence apparatus, but frankly it has "pooched" the job. The Leadership has confused the 9/11 Commission's urging to enhance America's security apparatus with its predilection to crack-down on the nation's immigrants.
